ITALIAN SLAIN BY ASSASSINS IN PARK

Charles Casamento, 34, Killed in Carondelet Park When Driving With Mrs. Alice Greiner.

SHE IS HELD WITHOUT BOND FOR CORONER

Declares That Shots Came From Passing Auto—Police Do Not Link Killing With Other Like Crimes.

Charles Casamento, 34 years old, of 724 Bayard avenue, was shot to death in his closed automobile in Carondelet Park at 4 p. m. yesterday, by men who had followed him in a touring car. The men escaped and police inquiry thus far has failed to link the crime with recent killings of other Italians.

The murder terminated a drive on which Mrs. Alice Greiner, 40, of 5319 Theodosia avenue, had accompanied Casamento. She is the mother-in-law of his brother, John Casamento, proprietor of a bar at 1902 Olive street.

Mrs. Greiner, who is held without bond for the Coroner, told a Post-Dispatch reporter her story of the affair at Carondelet police station last night. She said she and Casamento had been riding about the city for about 45 minutes, that she did not notice anyone following them and that Casamento did not seem nervous or alarmed.

Mrs. Greiner's Story.

"I have known the Casamento brothers, John and Charles, about three years," Mrs. Greiner said. "Charles used to have a saloon on Morgan street. I don't know what business he has been in lately John married my daughter, Helen, about two years ago. Charles used to come to my house sometimes, to see me and my husband." The husband is George Greiner, a paper hanger.

"At noon today I called Charles up and told him a young man who was rooming at my house wanted to get a job, and asked if he knew of any place. He asked me what I was going to do, and I said I was going downtown about 3. It was then arranged that I should meet him at Delmar and Union boulevards about that time. He said he would be there unless something prevented. I intended, if I didn't see him, to go on downtown on a street car. Because of this uncertainty, I suppose, I didn't tell my husband of my plan to meet him. I was not especially trying to conceal it.

"When I stepped off a Union car shortly after 3, Charles blew his horn, and I got in his car (a Studebaker cabriolet). I asked him if he knew of any job for my roomer, and he said he didn't know of any place open. He asked me if I wanted to go for a ride, and we rode over a number of streets until we came to Carondelet Park. He did not seem worried about anything and I did not observe anything out of the way.

Heard Only Two Shots.

"We were in the southeast part of the park, on the main roadway (Grand drive), running at moderate speed, when I heard a shot. Then I saw a curtained touring car to our left, and a hand sticking out of it, holding a revolver.

"The first shot did not strike our car, so far as I know, but I was frightened, and opened the door to get out. As I jumped out on the roadway, I heard another shot, and heard Casamento groan. I heard only the two shots.

"The touring car went on—I hadn't seen anyone get out of it—and I saw a closed car a short distance behind and saw a small man, wearing a cap and a bright-colored jacket or sweater, close up around his neck, walk toward Casamento's car. I called to him, 'Don't shoot me!' He came on over to Casamento's car, and looked in. I ran and stood behind a tree for several minutes, then I walked to the park keeper's house and told a woman there what had happened. I did not see what became of the man with the bright jacket."

Casamento was wounded in the left side, in or near the heart, and physicians who viewed the body believed death had come immediately. The bullet pierced the left front window of his car, which had been closed.

A loaded revolver, supposed to have been drawn by Casamento after he heard the first shot, was lying on the floor of his car. In

RUMANIA PLANS TO BE AS "DRY AS UNITED STATES"

Bill Drafted Designed to Bring About Prohibition Within 12 Years.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 12.—Progressive prohibition which in 12 years it is hoped, "will make Rumania as dry as the United States," is called for in a bill which will be introduced in Parliament shortly on behalf of the Bratiano Government.

If, as seems most likely, the bill becomes law, only one saloon will be allowed to every thousand of population with a gradual reduction in the number of saloons until at the end of 12 years all will disappear.

The bill makes available as food and industrial products all ingrents which heretofore have entered into the composition of spiritous drinks.

LINDBERGH FLIES 600 MILES IN 3 HOURS AND 20 MINUTES

Tail Winds Help Him to Set Speed Record From Detroit to Field in New York.

By the Associated Press.

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., Nov 12.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hung up another record today by establishing the phenomenal time of 3 hours and 20 minutes in flying the 600-mile direct airline distance from Selfridge Field, Detroit, to Mitchel Field.

Lindberg made a brief stop at Teterboro, N. J., en route, to inquire about the condition of his trans-Atlantic monoplane, "The Spirt of St. Louis." The flying time from Detroit to Teterboro, 2 hours and 44 minutes, also was a record for that course, Mitchel Field officers said.

Operations officers explained that favorable tail winds, blowing at from 40 to 60 miles an hour 3000 feet aloft, had helped Lindbergh to set the new mark for the Selfridge-Mitchel run. He flew an army pursuit plane, standard United States fighting airplane, which has a cruising speed of 130 miles an hour but which army officers say can attain 175 miles an hour.

WAR OFFICE ACCEPTS SMITH

Illinoisan Recognized as Senator in Cadet Appointments.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Senators may be worrying about the status of Senator-elect (or Senator) Smith of Illinois, but not the War Department. The department announced today the designation by Senator Smith of Deloss Herbert Miller of Bloomington, Ill., to take the entrance examinations for West Point Military Academy next March. Smith also named two alternates for Miller, Charles Hardin Anderson of Peoria, and Clifford Lemoyne Phillips of Bloomington.

It was explained that the War Department's position is that as soon as a Senator receives a certificate of election from the Governor of his State, he may exercise the privilege of designating cadets. Should the Senator subsequently fail to obtain a seat in the Senate it would have no effect on the cadet's status at the Military Academy.

EARTHQUAKE LASTS AN HOUR

Washington Seismograph Records Shock 4700 Miles Distant.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. — A sharp earthquake, estimated to have occurred about 4700 miles from Washington, direction unknown, was registered early tonight on the seismograph of Georgetown University.

Director Tondorf said the tremors began at 5:18 p. m., and lasted more than an hour.

BASRA, Asiatic Turkey, Nov. 12. —Several earth tremors were felt here and in neighboring sections about 6 o'clock this evening. The shocks were not strong and no damage has thus far been reported.

JAMES NELSON HUSTON DIES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—James Nelson Huston, 78 years old, United States Treasurer during Harrison's administration, died here today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Howard M. Gordon, after an illness of five weeks.

Mr. Huston was born at Greencastle, Pa., but moved to Indiana when a young boy. He engaged in politics there, and after leading the Republican State Committee in the year Harrison was elected, was appointed United States Treasurer, a post which he resigned in 1892 to enter business. For the last 12 years he had engaged in the real estate business in New York and Washington. Funeral services will be conducted here Monday.

Fast Mail Train Derailed; 2 Dead.

KALISPELL, Mont., Nov. 12. — Two trainmen were killed today when two cars and the locomotive of a Great Northern westbound fast mail train turned over after leaving the track in the mountains near Red Eagle, Mont. The train carried no passengers. F. W. Plank, engineer and James Joy, fireman, were buried in the wreckage.

BONDS, BONDS, WHO'S GOT THE BONDS, $2,770,000 WORTH OF THEM?

$230,500 of Investment of Fake Continental Company Went to Albert B. Fall.

DID THEY GO TO PAY CAMPAIGN DEFICIT?

Attorney General Could Trace 'Em But Declines to Talk; Corruption and Other Theories.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Who got those bonds?

What bonds?

The bonds the Continental Trading Co. had left over after Albert B. Fall was "paid off."

How many did it have left over?

It had about $2,770,000 worth, and who got them is a mystery.

The Continental invested more than $3,000,000 in Liberty bonds, of which $230,500 went to Fall as part of the bargain by which he leased Teapot Dome oil reserve to Harry Sinclair.

The question is: Who got the others?

When a fake corporation, created for some illegitimate purpose, secretly accumulates a fund of $3,000,000, and when part of that fund is used to corrupt a member of the President's Cabinet, what does a sensible man conclude about the remainder? He concludes that the remainder probably was used for some corrupt purpose, also. But what purpose? Who was corrupted?

That is what Senator Walsh, the original investigator of the oil leases, would like to know. And it is what a lot of other people would like to know. In fact, this is just about the biggest mystery remaining unsolved in the oil cases.

Up to Justice Department.

Whose business is it to solve it? It is the business of the Department of Justice to run down and prosecute frauds against the Government. Some of these bonds were used to commit a fraud against the Government, hence it seems reasonable to suppose that the others were similarly used. Therefore, it seems up to the Department of Justice to discover how the remainder was used so that, if a fraud was committed against the Government, the perpetrators can be found and prosecuted.

What has the Department of Justice done about it?

Nothing, so far as can be learned. Attorney-General Sargent, when asked about it, at first said that the "Department had not done anything in the oil cases," and later modified his answer to say: "I must decline to discuss the matter." Later we shall see why he modified it.

Too Much Oil on Hand.

For the present, let us see how the Continental accumulated the $3,000,000 fund. The story is short but passing strange. A. [illegible] Humphreys, a "wild-catter," had struck it rich in Texas, and had so much oil he didn't know what to do. But he knew what he wanted to do; he wanted to sell some of it. So he went to New York to meet Harry M. Blackmer, who was head of the Midwest Refining Co., a branch of the Standard of Indiana.

There he met, in addition to Blackmer, three other oil magnates, namely, Harry Sinclair, Robert Stewart, head of the Standard of Indiana, and James E. O'Neill, head of the Prairie Oil and Gas Co. All these companies interlocked, and it is absurd to suppose that all four men did not understand one another.

What apparently happened was that they bought 33,333,333 barrels of Humphrey's oil, and then sold it to their own companies at a profit of 25 cents a barrel.

Sinclair and Stewart deny this, but the evidence is convincing. Blackmer and O'Neill are hiding out in Europe. This is how the little scheme was worked:

Deal of Dummy Concern.

A dummy concern, the Continental Trading Co. of Canada, was formed. It bought the oil from Humphreys at $1.50 a barrel, and immediately resold it to companies controlled by Sinclair, Stewart and O'Neill at $1.75 a barrel. Thus a total profit of more than $8,000,000 was assured. Sinclair and Stewart deny that they were in the Continental. They claim they merely bought oil from it. The fact is, however, that they guar-

COOLIDGE TO RECEIVE HONORS NOT GIVEN OTHER PRESIDENTS

Union League to Confer Both Medal and Membership, in Philadelphia Thursday.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Honorary membership in the Union League and its gold medal for exceptional public services, honors conferred on no other President, will be accepted by President Coolidge Thursday when he goes to Philadelphia to speak before that organization.

The gold medal was bestowed on President Lincoln and President Johnson and honorary memberships were extended to Presidents Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft. Both honors, however, never have been conferred on the same individual.

The President, with Mrs. Coolidge, will leave Washington in a special train late in the afternoon. The return to the capital is scheduled immediately after Mr. Coolidge has completed his address.

SCHWAB POINTS A SERMON IN HIS OLD 1912 OVERCOAT

He Hasn't Worked for Gold or Raiment, but for Esteem of Fellow-Citizens.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate, returned to Chicago today wearing his 1912 overcoat.

"What have I worked for all these 50 years?" he asked himself and his audience at a banquet. "Is it money? No. I get all my dinners free; I still wear a 1912 coat.

"It's the satisfaction of living a life that will make you stand well in the opinion of your fellow-citizens, of having their good wishes and their love and respect."

Last time Schwab came to Chicago he forgot the old garment and there was a great stir until it had been returned to him.

COMMUNISTS EXPEL TROTZKY AND 80 OTHERS FROM PARTY

Zinovieff, Kameneff and Radek Among Leaders Dropped by Committee.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—The Central Communist Committee tonight expelled Leon Trotzky and 80 other members, including Gregory Zinovieff, Leo Kameneff, Karl Radek, Smilga and Preobrashensky from the communist party.

It was the original intention of the Central Committee to lay the question of expulsion before the Communist Congress, but oppositionists precipitated matters by organizing counter demonstrations as well as illegal meetings and taking possession of the meeting halls by force.

COOLIDGE REVIEWS TROOPS

Canadian Regiments Drawn Up on White House Lawn.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. — The Royal Canadian and Twenty-second Regiments of Canada's standing army were reviewed by President Coolidge today.

The red-coated troopers were aligned in two ranks on the south lawn of the White House, and the President, accompanied by his staff and Vincent Massey, the Canadian Minister, walked along the line. As Mr. Coolidge appeared the kilted Canadian Highland Band played the "Star Spangled Banner." Later the President posed with the troopers for pictures. Earlier in the day he received at the White House a group of Canadian officers who came here to attend the unveiling of Canada's war memorial in Arlington Cemetery.

BURNS MAN SWEARS HE WAS FORCED TO MAKE FALSE AFFIDAVIT CHARGING U. S. TAMPERED WITH SINCLAIR JURY

ESCROW FUND IS UNCOVERED BY WOMAN'S QUERY

Mrs. August Voigt Wanted to Know Who Was to Get $3000 Sought to Quash Zoning Rules.

ALDERMANIC INQUIRY TO BE REQUESTED

John Neu Jr., a Member, and Real Estate Dealer Are Chief Figures Named in Disclosures.

An investigation, prompted by an inquisitive woman who wanted to know who was to receive $1,000 demanded of her in connection with the passage of an ordinance purporting to lift zoning restrictions of a block on Victor street, resulted yesterday in disclosure by the Post-Dispatch of the third recent escrow deposit of funds for payment contingent upon official action by public officials.

Alderman Ralph Eilers, after questioning the woman, Mrs. August Voight, 3520 Victor street, wife of a letter carrier, announced that he would offer a resolution at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen next Friday for an aldermanic investigation, which would include inquiry into the connection of Alderman John Neu Jr., of the Thirteenth Ward with a zoning amendment bill passed June 21.

Neu and C. E. Grueninger, a real estate dealer, residing at 3500 Victor street, and having an office at 3458 South Grand boulevard, were the chief figures in Mrs. Voight's story of the latest ordinance to come under close scrutiny of the influences behind its passage.

Grueninger Went to Neu.

Grueninger, it developed through his own statement, and that of Neu, caused Neu to have prepared an ordinance which it was thought would permit residents of property in the 3500 block on Victor street to maintain rooming and boarding houses, although the zoning law and property deeds restrict the block to one-family residences. Previously, according to Mrs. Voight and other property owners, Grueninger had solicited $3,000 for his services, and after the ordinance was passed called to collect.

A cashiers check for $1000, issued by the Cherokee National Bank, and deposited with Ben M. Philipson, an attorney, for delivery to Grueninger when the restrictions were removed, exists as documentary evidence for production in Eilers' investigation, with two letters written by Philipson explaining the terms under which it was to be surrendered. The check has not been paid, and is in Philipson's possession.

Neu denied knowledge that any money had been solicited, or that a cashier's check had been posted. He figured in testimony in the aldermatic investigation in progress as a result of disclosures that $300 had been deposited toward a $1200 escrow fund to be paid out on the passage of a bill desired by service car drivers, for whom he at one time was attorney.

Grueninger, insisting that it was all "his own personal business," refused to discuss it, though he said Alderman Neu prepared the zoning amendment at his instance.

Mrs. Voigt Visits Officials.

Mrs. Voigt was inquisitive when Grueninger called to collect $1000 for his services. The ordinance had been passed, but she wanted to be certain all restrictions were cleared and wanted to know who was to receive the money. Not receiving a reply satisfactory to her, she called at the office of the City Plan Commission and made inquiries of Frank Lawrence, the secretary. When Lawrence heard her story, he took her to Mayor Miller's office, where she told it again to the Mayor's secretary, Nicholas N. Meston. Nothing was done about it there, and in a few days the information reached Eilers and the Post-Dispatch.

A Post-Dispatch reporter accompanied Eilers to Mrs. Voigt's home and there learned that the move to amend the zoning laws resulted from a suit filed in the Circuit Court several months ago by Emil

BORAH DEMANDS SHOWDOWN ON PROHIBITION ISSUE

Declares Supreme Political Problem Is Obedience to Law — Says G. O. P. Should Back Amendment

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Senator Borah of Idaho tonight called for a showdown in the next presidential campaign on the prohibition question and law enforcement.

Explaining that he would not assume to advise the Democrats, he directed his demand chiefly at the Republicans, who, he declared, shoul take a stand for rigid enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment.

"It is my contention," the Idaho Republican declared before the New York Women's Law Enforcement Committee, "that the supreme political problem in the United States today is obedience to law—the integrity of the constitutional government.

"I contend that the highest duty resting upon a political party at this time is to recognize that fact, meet it openly and courageously, call its voters and supporters to the contest and fight it through to the end. In the clear sunlight of this issue, mere political expediency is both discreditable and futile.

People Robbed of Inheritance

"We know from the decisions of the Supreme Court that we are passing through a period in which corruption has reached to the very doors of the White House, dominated Cabinets and robbed the people of their inheritance.

"We know that our daily press day by day records a series of crimes, both in number and in horror, which have no precedent or parallel.

"We know, if we but stop to reflect, that this spirit of lawlessness has come to be the most stupendous problem of our national life.

"We know, too, that this spirit of lawlessness has now taken the form of an utter disregard and defiance of our charter of government itself."

Only Two Courses Open.

Contending that there are only two courses open, enforcement or repeal, the Senator added:

"The only safe course—and certainly it is the only honorable course—is to meet the issue and throw the tremendous power of the party behind the law and the Constitution."

Enforcement of the law, Boran said, requires election of a President and officials who believe in the prohibition law and "who will be as vigilant and active to enforce it as its opponents are to violate it."

Not only is the Constitution defied, the Senator said, "but its enforcement and maintenance in many respects has become a mere formality. And yet we are told

7 PERSONS DIE IN HOTEL FIRE IN INDIANAPOLIS

Others Reported to Have Been Injured in Jumping From Windows of Downtown Hostelry.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 13 (Sunday) — Seven persons were killed early today in a fire in the Graystone Hotel in the downtown district. Smoke began pouring from the building shortly before midnight and several women were said to have jumped from second-story windows.

The bodies of three women, two men and two children were taken to the City Morgue.

The fire, of undetermined origin, gained headway so rapidly that many persons were thought to have been trapped in their apartments.

'L-36' TELLS GRAND JURY CHIEF KNEW OF THE FRAUD

W. J. McMullin Says He Became Disgusted With Work He Had to Do and Notified Gov. Pinchot.

CONTINUED THEN AS GOVERNMENT AGENT

Employers Kept in Dark Until Federal Case Against Them Had Been Worked Out.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Testimony that the Burns Detective Agency fabricated reports for use in case the defense in the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy case should decide that a mistrial was necessary, was presented today to the grand jury investigating the surveillance of the trial jurors.

It was furnished by one of Burns' own operatives, who, since Oct. 24, had been assisting the Government in weaving a net about William J. Burns, his son, W. Sherman Burns and the more than a dozen detectives sent here at the direction of Henry Mason Day, one of Harry F. Sinclair's confidential associates.

This operative is William J. McMullin of Philadelphia, a World War veteran, and known to Burns and his men as William V. Long, with the code designation of L-36. He swore that those directing the jury shadowing operations required him to swear to a false affidavit on which William J. Burns based his charge of jury tampering by Government agents and which was presented to the oil trial judge, Justice Frederick L. Siddons, by counsel for Burns.

Says Burns Knew of Fraud.

McMullin declared that at the time the affidavit was presented, the elder Burns, founder of the detective agency, knew that it was false. This affidavit had to do with the alleged activities of Harris R. Lamb, a special assistant to the Attorney-General, whom McMullin declares was never shadowed for even a moment.

Some of the high lights in McMullin's story were made public by District Attorney Gordon after former Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania had related to the grand jury that McMullin had voluntarily come to him, Oct. 24, seven days after the Teapot Dome trial started, and explained what the Burns men were undertaking to do.

Pinchot reported immediately to Owen J. Roberts, of special Government oil counsel, and plans then were laid to trap the private operatives. Under orders of the Government McMullin continued to serve with the Burns Agency and outwitted the Burns men.

Gordon told the story in the presence of Pinchot and McMullin. McMullin, who formerly was an insurance adjuster, was employed by the Burns Agency Oct. 13 and sent here Oct. 18, after the oil trial jury had been sworn in, Gordon said.

Notified Gov. Pinchot.

"McMullin became so disgusted within a few days that he went to Gov. Pinchot," Gordon said. "He had read in the newspapers that Pinchot was in town and sought him out because, as he expressed it, he knew the Governor was on the level."

Roberts could scarcely believe the story at the outset, but had McMullin continue with the Burns men and report to the prosecutors. McMullin, he said, became disgusted because Charles G. Ruddy, in charge of the Burns' operatives, required him to sign reports which both knew had not the slightest foundation in fact. McMullin told the District Attorney that these reports, bearing on the alleged movements of Lamb, were to be used if the defense found it necessary to move for a mistrial.

It was on the basis of McMullin's reports that Government counsel finally went before Justice

ALLEGED PLOTTER SAYS KING WANTED CAROL TO RETURN

Rumania Ex-Official, on Trial, Quotes Ferdinand on Deathbed as Begging for Son.

MANOILESCU TELLS COURT OF DEFICIT

In Five-Hour Address, Former Under-Secretary Charges Shortage of $21,000,000 Is Secret.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 12.—M. Manoilescu, former Undersecretary of Finance, who is on trial for complicity in a plan for the restoration of State rights to former Crown Prince Carol, continued speaking in his own defense today. He made an impassioned five-hour address, pronounced even by his adversaries a magnificent effort of oratory. He disclosed many heretofore hidden facts concerning the late King Ferdinand's attitude toward Carol, and Carol's difficulties with Premier Bratiano.

The text of a letter from King Ferdinand to the President of the Council a few days before the King's death, as disclosed by M. Manoilescu, begged the President to bring Carol back to his rightful place on the throne.

While quoting this letter from memory and offering to divulge its whereabouts, Manoilescu brought tears to the eyes of many by its touching appeal, and the court proceedings were halted momentarily until composure was regained.

Later in the trial, appeal was made to M. Popovici, who was Finance Minister in the Stirbey Cabinet, to confirm that Ferdinand desired Carol's return and his succession insured before he died. Popovici said he had gathered from audiences with King Ferdinand that the sovereign regarded renunciation and the regency as only transitional measures until Carol should mend his ways.

M. Manoilescu startled the Court by declaring of his own knowledge as former Assistant Minister of Finance that there was an enormous deficit in Rumanian finances, amounting to 3,500,000,000 lei (approximately $21,000,000) "of which nobody speaks." He charged that other great deficits existed in the public debt and that proper equilibrium could be restored only by a strong authoritative ruler.

Says He Was Offered Post.

There were gasps of surprise when Manoilescu revealed that the Government had tried to win him over to its side by offering him the post of Minister at Rome or Berlin.

"Thinking I was dissatisfied with the price," he went on, "the Government then offered me the ministership at London. I declined, and out of one prison I may enter another. I have chosen not the way to honors, but the way to honor."

He charged the Government with being afraid to allow its members to testify before the Court. The apparent sincerity and frankness of Manoiluescu in his five-hour effort greatly impressed his auditors.

Denying that Carol's matrimonial difficulties were responsible for his renunciation, M. Manoilescu declared there was a document written in Carol's hand to King Ferdinand, containing the real reasons for his renunciation and showing it was the outcome of political intrigues. Manoilescu accused Premier Bratiano and his administration with being tactless and blundering in their efforts to induce Carol to return.

Asserts He Is Patriotic.

Asserting his innocence of any revolutionary intention, the witness explained the employment of a code was essential because the censor always stopped telegrams or eliminated the names of opposition leaders, and he was ready to prove that the postoffice had opened his letters.

Throughout, he emphasized that his deep attachment for the fatherland was the sole inspiration of all his acts, and he concluded with these words: "Whether the Court's verdict is guilty or innocent, I shall never cease to cry, 'Long live Rumania! Long live the army.'"

With these words he sank into a chair, exhausted.

The Government has refused permission to the National Peasants' party to hold its congress at Alba Julia Nov. 20. The congress would be permitted if held in any other city, a Government spokesman said, and the discussions restricted to subjects having no connection with the dynastic situation.

Escapes Fire to Die by Auto.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 12.—Mrs. Fannie Spino, 92 years old, escaped death in a fire today only to lose her life in an automobile accident. Mrs. Spino fled from her home when it caught fire. As she started across the street she was fatally injured by an automobile.

ITALIAN MURDERED BY TWO ASSASSINS IN CARONDELET PARK

the side pocket was a bottle of alcohol. Another bottle found in the car was empty. Casamento was neatly dressed, wore silk underwear, and was powdered and perfumed.

A chance witness in the park, William J. Huether of 4856 Milentz avenue, told policemen that he saw the touring car pass alongside Casamento's cabriolet, and saw two men get out. He said he heard shots, and saw the men get back into the touring car and speed away, going north.

Mrs. Greiner was treated at City Hospital for an injury to her left ankle, caused by jumping from the car.

John Casamento and Mike Intravia, the latter a brother-in-law of the Casamento brothers, at whose home on Bayard avenue Charles lived, were taken to Police Headquarters for questioning. They said Charles Casamento had been employed in a spaghetti factory but had been out of work for some time. How he acquired the Studebaker, the second car of that make he had owned, they professed not to know.

A young woman living near Park and Cardinal avenues, who was named by Mrs. Greiner as having kept company with Charles Casamento, said she formerly went out with Casamento occasionally, but had not seen him for several months.

Casamento was arrested a year ago today, policemen having become suspicious of him when they saw him getting on a Wellston car. He got off the car at Semple avenue and a loaded revolver was found in one of the car seats after he had left. An application for a warrant against him, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, was refused. The only other arrest recorded against him was for speeding.

$10,000 IN FREIGHT STOLEN; FOUR SUSPECTS ARRESTED

Prisoners, Three Ex-Convicts, Captured in East St. Louis Get Hearing in U. S. Court.

Four men, arrested by railroad special agents in East St. Louis, were taken to Springfield yesterday for hearings before the United States Commissioner on a charge of theft of $10,000 worth of merchandise from interstate shipments.

They were Otis Edwards, 21 years old; John H. Carr, 33; Armin Ellebrake, 32, and Edward Barker, 20, all of Venice. The latter three are ex-convicts. Carr and Ellebrake served terms in the Missouri Penitentiary for assault growing out of the shooting, in 1919, of Martin O'Brien, then Chief of Police of St. Louis, when he cornered them after they had robbed a jewelry store.

Their method in robbing freight cars, it is charged, was to put one of their number on a moving train with a rope ladder that he used to swing himself over the side of a car to the door, which he then opened and threw out merchandise to a truck that ran along with the train.

COWGIRL FREED OF MURDER CHARGE BY OREGON JURY

By the Associated Press.

LAKEVIEW, Ore., Nov. 12.—Lorena Trickey, rodeo cowgirl, was found not guilty today by a jury which tried her on a charge of killing J. P. (Smiling Sam) Harris, rodeo star. Miss Trickey, who said she was the common law wife of Harris, pleaded self defense, saying she stabbed him when he attacked her.

The jury was out 20 minutes. A wild demonstration followed announcement of the verdict. Eager for the outcome, a crowd of "Wild West" types, with sombrerors, bandanas, chaps and spurs was in the courtroom.

Both Miss Trickey and Harris performed with a rodeo group that toured the Far West.

BORAH DEMANDS SHOWDOWN ON PROHIBITION ISSUE

that this is not a matter with which political parties may deal or about which they should be concerned."

What Is a Candidate's Position?

In this stronghold of the wets and home of Gov. Smith, Senator Borah, himself mentioned as possible presidential candidate, insisted that the people generally were interested today in what is the position of a presidential candidate on the eighteenth amendment.

Modification of the Volstead act is not involved in the prohibition question, he argued, contending that repeal or enforcement of the eighteenth amendment is the heart and life of the wet and dry issue.

Referenda on the prohibition question were characterized by Borah as "insincere and ineffective." Modification of the Volstead act, he declared, "can not give that which the Constitution prohibits, to-wit, intoxicating liquor."

Rallying the women to the issue, the Idahoian insisted they alone "can bring the political parties to the support of this Constitutional amendment."

Organize, He Advises Women.

"Organize," he shouted, "demonstrate your power, sit on the floor of the convention and not in the galleries, sit as delegates and not in the galleries as ornaments. Write platforms and not essays."

"There is only one way by which this law can be enforced," he declared referring to the prohibition act, "only one way by which the Constitution can be maintained, and that is by placing the control of the machinery of Government, the instrumentalities of enforcement in the hands of those who believe in the law and who will be as vigilant and active to enforce it as its opponents are to violate it.

"This is a presidential election. The chief duty of the President is to see that the Constitution and the laws made in pursuance thereof are enforced. Upon the Chief Executive rests that stupendous task.

"The people have seen fit to adopt this amendment. It is now a part of the law of the land. The Congress has legislated, laws have been passed designed to carry into effect the Constitution. The courts have been called upon to pass upon the constitutional amendment and to construe the statutes passed in pursuance of that amendment.

"The Constitution is there. The statutes are there. The decisions are there. The only thing left is to enforce the law and to maintain the Constitution so long as they remain unrevoked or unrepealed. Under these circumstances the people must necessarily be interested in the views of their candidates for the presidency."

Predicting that everybody "except the deaf and the dumb and the candidates" will be discussing the wet and dry issue in the coming campaign, Borah declared that "a political party which is unwilling to declare its purpose to enforce the eighteenth amendment will not enforce the eighteenth amendment."

"There is no reason in the world," he added, "why, if a party intends to enforce the eighteenth amendment, it should not say so.

$100,000 LIQUOR SHIP SEIZED

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 12.—Offering no testimony except that they were not trying to smuggle liquor, the master and crew of the British schooner, Charles and Edward, were held here today for the Federal grand jury by a magistrate acting in the absence of the U. S. Commissioner.

Customs officials said that liquor, in cases and barrels, to the value of about $100,000 was found on the scooner under bags of coal. The master and one seaman were held under $10,000 bail each and six other members of the crew under $2000 bail each. The schooner was loaded at St. Pierre, Canada, and was overhauled Thursday night off Lewis, Del.

MELLON'S SHIFTY TESTIMONY AIDS ESTATE TAX FOES

Ambiguity by Secretary at Hearing Makes Inheritance Revenue Appear Unduly Low.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Opponents of the repeal of the Federal estates tax have revealed that when Secretary Mellon appeared before the House Ways and Means Committee to advocate the abolition of this tax, he was guilty of some of the shiftiest testimony ever offered a Congressional committee.

In speaking for repeal of the tax, the Treasury head used the following words:

"The loss in revenue will be insignificant. Owing to the 80 per cent credit on taxes paid the States, it is estimated that in five years the Federal estate tax will not produce more than $20,000,000. Should it be repealed, the loss in revenue in the fiscal year 1929 will not exceed $7,000,000."

When the statement was made, some members of the committee and others who had studied prefious revenue bills were astonished that the estimated receipts should be so low. They recalled that last year, the tax, after due credits had been made the States produced $100,000,000 to the Federal treasury; that the estimate for this year was $81,500,000 and for 1929 was $63,000,000.

Conveys False Impression.

The testimony given this week before the committee disclosed, however, that while Secretary Mellon was telling the approximate truth, he was creating a false impression.

By cross-examining the Treasury witnesses, the committee learned that Secretary Mellon did not mean the tax would produce a total of only $20,000,000 in five years, but that AFTER five years it would not produce more than $20,000,000 annually, after due credit had been given the State payments.

In other words, the Secretary meant that if the States should continue to impose the inheritance tax, whcih some of them would not do if the Federal tax were repealed, the downward curve of the Federal receipts would reach $20,000,000 annually after five years.

A large majority of those who listened to and read Mellon's testimony received the impression that the present law would not bring in more than $20,000,000 during the next five years.

Assumed Figure Was Correct

This impression was heightened by his statement that if the present law were repealed, it would make a difference of only $7,000,000 in the 1929 revenues from this source. Knowing the downward curve of the Federal receipts, they took for granted that the $7,000,000 had something to do with the five-year estimate of $20,000,000.

Secretary Mellon did not challenge the $63,000,000 estimate for 1929. What he meant was that if the law were repealed, the 1929 estimates would be only $7,000,000 less.

Federal estate taxes are payable in five yearly installments. The $7,000,000 the Secretary mentioned was, for the most part, the first installment on an estimate of $35,000,000.

These figures did not include the possibility of large estates becoming subject to the tax in the year 1929. For example, the Secretary himself is worth approximately $300,000,000, according to some estimates. Should his estate become liable to the tax under the present law, his heirs would have to pay taxes somewhere in the neighborhood of $50,000,000. Only part of this amount would b payable to the Federal Treasury in one year. The total payment would be spread over a five-year-period.

CORONER'S VERDICT DELAYED IN CASE OF MRS. BOOGHER

Hillsboro, (Ill.) Inquest Continued Pending Arrival of Parents of Former St. Louisan's Wife.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HILLSBORO, Ill., Nov. 12.—Testimony was heard this afternoon by a Coroner's jury at the inquest into the death of Mrs. Florence Boogher, mother of a three week's old baby and wife of Lane Boogher, former St. Louisan, but the Coroner's jury withheld its verdict to await arrival of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Pohlmann, from California.

Boogher, who fled to Detroit after his wife's death Wednesday, returned to Hillsboro today with his father, Howard Boogher, Sr., Detroit attorney, and was the chief witness at the inquest. He explained his flight to Detroit by saying he was upset by his wife's act and fled to his father for comfort.

Boogher said his wife was given to spells of despondency. Mrs. Albert H. Dorsey, a neighbor, testified that Mrs. Boogher two hours before her death, complained she was nerve racked trying to train a new maid. Physicians testified bruises found on Mrs. Boogher's body might have been caused by falling when she took poison in the greenhouse offices. Boogher's mother, Mrs. Howard Boogher of the Buckingham Hotel, St. Louis, was here. Boogher first met his wife when visiting here in 1923 and married her after a week's courtship.

Burns Man Made False Affidavit, He Says

Siddons to present the reports of the activities of the Burns men and to suggest a mistrial in which defense counsel joined. This was on Oct. 31.

Burns Agents in Ignorance

Still the Burns people were in ignorance as to how the Government got its information. McMullin never came under suspicion and two days after the mistrial was ordered he was asked to make an affidavit based upon the false reports he said he had signed concerning the activities of Lamb, "the Government agent," to whom Burns referred in making his charge of jury tampering by the Government.

As the story was related by Gordon, McMullin declined to do so until he could see the report dealing with Lamb. He was sparring for time until he could see Roberts. He was told to return to Philadelphia, which he did after reporting to Roberts. The original report had been sent to New York and a Burns agent was ordered to take it to Washington so McMullin could see it.

Meantime Roberts had told McMullin to make the affidavit as requested. Frank J. O'Reilly, another of the Burns men, made another affidavit, which was presented to Justice Siddons along with that of McMullin. Government counsel were kept constantly informed of every move by the Burns men and naturally learned that the affidavits had been prepared.

McMullin was kept around the Courthouse from the beginning of the grand jury investigation and in order to camouflage the real purpose for which he was wanted, District Attorney Gordon summoned all of the private operatives to Washington.

Time and time again the operatives were taken into the grand jury room singly and asked a few questions, then excused. Gordon said his information was that they reported to William J. Burns as to what they had told the jurors and were told that they had done well in not telling the grand jury anything.

On the day that Burns was announcing the filing of the affidavits directed against Lamb, McMullin was in the office of Neil Burkinshaw, Assistant District Attorney, in charge of the investigation, preparing an affidavit of six or seven pages, embodying the knowledge he had gained from his contact with the operatives.

Keeping Burns in the Dark.

Gordon and Burkinshaw took elaborate precautions to deceive Burns and his own men as to what was going on behind the scenes scarcely a dozen feet away. The Burns men were hustled in and out of the grand jury room while McMullin was dictating to a stenographer.

When the dictation was over, a notary was sent for and taken quietly into another room. McMullin was escorted to the grand jury room and sworn under the name of Long. Then as Burkinshaw himself puts it, he was asked several meaningless questions. When word went in that the transcribing of the affidavit had been completed, Long was hustled into still another room, where he read, swore to and signed the affidavit while again a procession of Burns men was passed in review before the grand jury.

Burkinshaw explained that he decided to work right under the eyes of Burns and his men because if he met McMullin away from the courthouse their suspecions would be aroused. He was apprehensive that his plan might go awry, but apparently it was entirely successful.

McMullin finally told his whole story to the grand jury today for the first time after Pinchoft had testified. Monday W. J. Burns and his two sons, W. Sherman and Raymond, and their operatives will be recalled and given an opportunity to amplify their previous testimony. Most of them have been before the jury at least twice and some even oftener.

Knew They Had Been "Sold Out."

From the time of the mistrial the Burns men knew, as they put it, that they had been "sold out," but they professed complete ignorance as to the identity of the person from whom the Government got its information. They even questioned newspaper men on that point.

And during the 12 days they were in doubt, McMullin mingled with them freely, attending what Gordon described as their "pep" meetings, at which the grand jury investigation was discussed seriously and facetiously, and promptly reporting to District Attorney Gordon or to Burkinshaw by telephone. Sometimes his reports went in while the "pep" meetings were in progress and Gordon said he had difficulty in understanding because of the "hilarity" of the other operatives in a nearby room.

These meetings continued until the early hours of the morning and Gordon and Burkinshaw said they were awakened as late as 2 a. m., to receive reports from McMullin. This operative told Gordon that he had been directed by his superiors to stick to the story of his reports when he testified before the grand jury.

Burns Praised McMullin.

Far from suspecting McMullin, William J. Burns, according to the operative, frequently praised him and patted him on the back when he reported he had told the grand jury nothing, and even had him drive his employes around Washington in his car which he had brought from Philadelphia at Burns' request.

Beside the report as to Lamb, McMullin told the prosecutor that he had been required to make other false reports, including one that he had been in near by Maryland. He said he had never been out of Washington while on the case except to go back to Philadelphia occasionally and that the report that he shadowed Juror Norman J. Glascock to Potomac flying field near here was a "sheer fabrication."

This was known to the Burns men, he asserted, adding that after he had sworn to the affidavit that he had seen Lamb and Glasscock at that field, his superiors took him there so that he would know the "lay of the land" if the grand jury questioned him about that particular report.

While previously informed by McMullin that this report was fabricated, Gordon explained that he summoned Lamb and Glasscock before the grand jury for questioning about it so as to further mislead Burns and his operatives as to the extent of the Government's information.

Running Around in Circles.

While this phase of the inquiry was going forward, Gordon said he was informed that Burns had told his men that they had the Government prosecutors "running around in cicles" and that they had nothing to worry about.

"It now seems appropriate," Gordon remarked with a smile, "that we should ask, 'Who's running around in circles now?'"

After Gordon had concluded his statement to the correspondents, Pinchot, who had remained at the courthouse for more than an hour, declared that McMullin had come to him "freely and out of patriotic loyalty to the Government, asked no promise of reward, though he was likely to lose his job and perhaps his life."

"It is unusual," he added, "that this is done in this sort of a case without the persons asking for something."

McMullin was under strict injunction from Gordon not to talk and the District Attorney himself said there would be "no objection to the disclosure of McMullin's activities and connections in this matter in more detail, except that the public interest requires that no disclosure be made this time as to all of his testimony touching the activities of his superior officers and fellow operatives."

Gordon would not amplify this statement nor would he say whether McMullin had directly connected Harry F. Sinclair with operations of the Burns men. He also refused to answer questions as to whether actual contacts had been made with the jurors.

McMullin, who is a short, stocky man with wavy brown hair, served as a Second Lieutenant in the Second Aerial Squadron at Kelly Field, Tex., during the war. He first enlisted in New York and then was transferred to a primary flying school at Columbus, O., before he was sent to Texas.

After the war he returned to Philadelphia and worked as an insurance adjuster. When he sought employment with the Burns agency he used the name of a friend with that friend's consent, although he had his own automobile license in his own name throughout the time he was with the Burns agency.

McMullin told the prosecutors that he was not asked to produce his license as a detective when he applied for the job. It was explained that there was a "good reason' for McMullin's enrolling under an assumed name, but that this reason could not be disclosed at this time.

The operative's whole story is in the affidavit which was made at the court house and which Burkinshaw said he wanted made against the contingency that some accident might befall the star witness in the case.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—William J. Burns, founder of the detective agency bearing his name, tonight branded as a "tissue of lies" the charges of one of the Burns operatives that the latter was forced to make false affidavits in the jury tampering investigation to befuddle the government's case. "The whole story is a tissue of lies from start to finish," he said in a statement.

WIFE HID HER PAST, SAYS 76-YEAR-OLD COLLEGE OFFICER

James Stuart Dales of Nebraska U. States He Left Home in Fear of Being Killed.

FINDS HE IS HER FIFTH HUSBAND

Mrs. Dales, 47, Asserts She Told Him Before Marriage She Had Divorced 2 Men and Killed Third.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 12.—If James Stuart Dales, 76 years old, for 50 years executive secretary of the Board of Regents of University of Nebraska, had known that Mrs. Henrietta Ellis, 47, whom he married in Lincoln in September, had killed her second husband and served a sentence in the State Penitentiary for the crime, had sent her third husband to the penitentiary as the prosecuting witness in the case, and had been before the Police Court in Lincoln, he wouldn't have married her, he states in a petition for divorce filed this week. He also tells the Court his wife threatened to kill him and that was "why he had to leave home at midnight and go to a hotel where he is now living, a nervous wreck."

Dales was a member of the first class graduated from the University of Nebraska. On graduation he entered the service of the university and has remained more than 50 years. The family has been prominent in Lincoln society all those years. The first Mrs. Dales died eight years ago. There are three children, all of whom live in the East. The children, the present Mrs. Dales says, made trouble between herself and Dales.

Friends Surprised by Marriage

Dales' marriage came as a surprise to his friends. He had known Mrs. Ellis only a few weeks when the marriage was announced. She is a red-haired native of Texas, where her first husband died. Shortly thereafter she came to Nebraska as a result of a mail romance and married John Barrackman, a rancher of Prentice, Neb. Neither had seen the other until the day of the ceremony. Mrs. Barrackman brought her to Nebraska her two daughters by her first husband.

"I didn't know she killed Barrackman until two months after we were married," Dales told his friends.

Barrackman was shot and killed by his wife several months after their marriage. She pleaded self-defense at the trial and testified Barrackman had attacked her and her two children with a piece of iron pipe. The jury found her guilty of manslaughter and sent her to prison for from one to 10 years. The prison record shows Mrs. Barrackman spent one year in the State penitentiary and was then released on a parole.

Had Husband Sent to Prison.

After Barrackman's death, Mrs. Barrackman married George Ayles of Lincoln, Neb., who already had a penitentiary record. They lived together only a short time. Mrs. Ayles appeared as the prosecuting witness against Ayles in an automobile theft charge and had her husband sent to prison for a year. These facts, also borne out by the records, are told in Dales' divorce petition.

Then there are two records in the Lincoln Police Court, one of which says the present Mrs. Dales was fined $10 and costs for assault and the use of profane language, the other involving a "badger game," as described in the record.

The husband declares he knew nothing of these criminal records until after he had been married two months. Mrs. Dales declares, in answer, that Dales knew all about the records before their marriage and that she herself had told him about them.

"I love you and only you; I must have you." Mrs. Dales says Dales replied when she told him of her criminal record. "Nothing else means anything to me. We will live in the future and not in the past."

Says He Feared Wife.

After the marriage Dales says his wife began demanding that he deed his home to her and make a marriage settlement of cash. This he refused. Affairs went from bad to worse until about midnight Wednesday, Dales said, he became so frightened at her threats to kill him that he left, although she had told him she would kill him if he tried to get away.

Going to a hotel for the balance of the night, Dales saw his attorney early Thursday and the divorce petition was filed.

In an answer filed today, Mrs. Dales denied each allegation of her husband.

Under the Nebraska law a divorce case cannot be tried until six months after the proceedings have been filed. Since Dales' petition also asked for annulment, it is pointed out, the case could be brought to trial immediately.

Going to a hotel for the balance of the night, Dales saw his attorney early Thursday and the divorce petition was filed.

In an answer filed today, Mrs. Dales denied each allegation of her husband.

Under the Nebraska law a divorce case cannot be tried until six months after the proceedings have been filed. Since Dales' petition also asked for annulment, it is pointed out, the case could be brought to trial immediately.

New Escrow Fund Bared By a Woman's Curiosity

Tolkacz, former Director of Public Welfare, to enforce the building restrictions in the block, of which he is a resident. The suit was against Wilbur E. Bent, 3501 Victor street, next door to the Tolkacz home. The Bents had been renting rooms.

Others in the neighborhood had been doing the same thing and there was a meeting at the Bent home of those interested in having the restrictions removed. The Bents, Mrs. Voigt, and Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Parks of 3500 Victor street met Philipson, attorney for the Bents, at their home to discuss the defense. Grueninger, a roomer in the Parks home, was a silent listener.

Woman's Story of Meeting.

Mrs. Voigt's account of the meeting and subsequent events:

"We discussed the injunction suit and Philipson said that if he handled the case he would expect a fee of $300 from each of us, and that if he won it he would expect $1000 from each, or $3000 in all. I was willing to pay $300 but said I did not feel I could pay $1000.

"Several days afterward Mr. Grueninger called at my home and told me he knew some parties who could take care of the matter, and could see that the restrictions were removed, and that it would cost us $1000 each, or $3000.

"In August or September, after the ordinance was passed, Mr. Grueninger again came to me, Mr. Parks being with him. They said the restrictions had been removed and that they called to get my $1000. I told them that was a lot of money and that I did not believe I could get it from the bank.

"I asked them who would get my money. I told them that I was economical and that if I went down town and spent $25, I sat down at night and figured out just where it went.

"Mr. Grueninger said it would have to be divided among 10 people. I told them I was entitled to know who they were, that it was my money. Mr. Grueninger grew angry and told me it was 'none of your business.'

"Mr. Parks then said he had paid the $3000 himself to Mr. Grueninger and that he could show me the check. He said he was only trying to get my part of what he had paid out. I asked to see the check but he did not show it to me."

Corroborates This Account.

Mrs. Bent, wife of a Pullman conductor, corroborated Mrs. Voigt's statement in general.

"My husband agreed to put up $1000," she said, "conditioned upon the dismissal of the suit and everything being cleared up. That's in black and white. There is a cashier's check in Ben Philipson's hands. When my husband told Mr. Philipson about it, Mr. Philipson was very angry but agreed to hold the check. That is the only way we would put up the money."

"About the time these things were being arranged, a small man, of dark complexion and wearing a derby hat, called at my house. He said his name was Neu. He talked about buying the place for a girls' boarding school, but I told him of the restrictions. He said he had a relative who was an Alderman and that he could get the restrictions taken off."

Parks, the third property owner at the meeting, and at whose home Grueninger resides, refused to tell details of his transactions with Grueninger and the other property owners, at first professing no knowledge of the ordinance. "I haven't anything to say," he replied to questions, "but it was worth $3000 to get the restrictions lifted."

"Personal Matter," Says Grueninger

Grueninger evaded answering questions by the statement that he would not discuss his "personal business." He said he asked Neu to have the ordinance introduced. "Any citizen has a right to go to an Alderman," he said, "but I can't discuss this until that case in court is ended.

"I have a group of lawyers looking after it, and they'll win the case. I am not a lawyer, but people bring their troubles to real estate men, and we get lawyers for them. It's my personal business who these lawyers are who are handling this matter for me, and I will not give their names."

Philipson said his interest in the case arose through employment by Bent to defend the Tolkacz injunction suit, and that as an attorney he discussed the case and the fee he was to receive with the Bents and their neighbors who were interested.

"Parks would not go in with the others," Philipson said, "and said he would take care of it in another way. Grueninger said he would look after it and he would raise a point which would settle it. He said: 'They'll come in and show it and the whole thing will be over.' I thought he was in touch with some lawyer who perhaps had found some Supreme Court decision I could not find.

Advised Against Grueninger.

"My client, Bent, was red hot to go along with Grueninger, though I advised against having anything to do with him. He insisted, however, and I agreed to hold the check to be delivered to Grueninger when the whole matter was cleared up. I knew nothing about anything except the court proceeding."

Philipson exhibited to the reporter a copy of his letter to Bent acknowledging receipt of the $1000 cashier's check and setting out the terms of the understanding, and the original of a similar letter to Grueninger, which, after writing, he decided not to send. The text of these letters is published elsewhere in this edition.

Records of the Board of Aldermen show that the repeal ordinance was introduced by Alderman Kraleman of the Twenty-second Ward, chairman of the Public Safety Committee of the board. Kraleman said he knew nothing about it except that he received it for introduction from the office of the Director of Public Safety. It is the custom for Kraleman to introduce ordinances desired by the Public Safety Director.

Director Brod of that department said that Alderman Neu had asked that the ordinance be prepared and introduced and that his request had been complied with.

Alderman Neu does not represent the ward in which the Victor street property owners reside. He recalled going to Brod about the ordinance, and said Grueninger had asked him to look after it. When Neu was informed of the statements of the property owners, he exhibited indignation, exclaiming:

"Trying to shake somebody down, eh? A man's reputation is not safe at all. I am going to be careful in the future. I am not going to introduce anything until after I make a careful investigation.

"I didn't know anything about demands for money. I have known Grueninger a long time. He used to have an office in the Navarre Building, where I had my office about 14 years ago. He used to try to sell me Florida lots."

No Public Hearing Held.

In connection with his inquiry into the case, Eilers examined the enabling act passed by the Legislature, giving the city power to enact a zoning law, and found that no amendments could be effective unless the Board of Aldermen granted a public hearing after a published notice of the hearing for 15 days. No hearing was granted and there was no publication of the intention to pass the Victor street amendment, or any of the others which have changed the classification of districts under the zoning law.

Eilers expressed the opinion, and Philipson concurred, that the Victor street ordinance was illegal on this ground, and also on the additional ground that the Victor street restrictions are in the deeds to the property.

Eilers said a zoning law could place additional restrictions on property but could not remove restrictions placed in the deeds.

In addition to demanding an investigation of the escrow fund, Eilers said he would introduce ordinances repealing all of the zoning amendment ordinances which had been passed, and re-enacting them. He said he believed this course to be necessary to make the ordinances legal.

The Board of Aldermen virtually has completed its inquiry into the service car drivers' escrow agreement, under which $300 was deposited as part of a fund which was expected to but did not reach $1200, and which was to have been paid to Mort Rosenblatt, a son-in-law of Alderman Herman C. Waldman of the Twenty-eighth ward "for certain services in obtaining certain legislation." A report of its findings will be made soon.

The first escrow fund, also disclosed in the Post-Dispatch, was the deposit of $10,000 two years ago by the Jacob Katz slot machine interests, $2000 of the amount to go to Edgar V. Maher, an attorney, when Circuit Judge Anthony Ittner decided a slot machine injunction suit in favor of the owners of the slot machines, as Judge Ittner subsequently did. Attorney Maher collected his $2000, and the remaining $8000 was returned to Jacob Katz, but what he did with it never has been disclosed.

HARVEY DUNGY RECAPTURED AT THOMASSON HOME

Birger Gangster, Who Escaped From Jail at Marion, Ill., Overpowered by Sheriff.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, Ill., Nov. 12.—Harvey Dungy, Birger gangster awaiting trial for murder, who escaped Wednesday night from the Williamson County jail here by sawing the bars of his cell, was captured today at West Frankfort and returned to jail. He said he had no outside aid in his escape and was concealed at Herrin until Friday night, when he went to West Frankfort. James Watson, held on a robbery charge, who escaped with Dungy, is still at large. Dungy said he and Watson parted company immediately after getting out of jail.

Sheriff Coleman of Williamson County had traced Dungy to Herrin, where Dungy said he went on foot from Marion the night of his escape, and from Herrin Sheriff Coleman traced him to Ray Thomasson's home in West Frankfort.

Sheriff Pritchard of Franklin County and some of his deputies went to Sheriff Coleman's aid and surrounded the house after midnight Friday. They watched it until noon yesterday hoping t oget a glimpse of Dungey and when he did not appear, rushed the place, Deputy Sheriff Harry Weaver of Franklin County, leading the attack.

Being one of the "bad" men of Birger's gang, Dungey was expected to make a fight, but instead he attempted to run out the back door. There he found Sheriff Pritchard, who overpowered him. He was not armed.

Dungy was serving a sentence of 10 years to life for robbery in the Southern Illinois Penitentiary at Menard when he was brought to Marion more than a month ago to stand trial for the murder of Lyle Worsham, enemy of Birger, whose body was burned in a barn after he had been slain.

Fred Thomasson, brother of Ray, in whose home Dungy was captured, is also under indictment for the murder. Harry Thomasson, another brother, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, was the State's star witness in the conviction of Birger and other gangsters for complicity in that crime.

SWINDLER POSES AS DU PONT MAN IN $1,000,000 DEAL

Detroit Banker Exposes Promoter Occupying Office in General Motors Building as Ex-Convict.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 12.—Charles B. Knightley, 55 years old, confidence man, was arrested here today after it was learned he had launched projects entailing investments of more than $1,000,000 while posing as a personal representative of the Du Pont interests and the General Motors Corporation.

Knightley, according to police, came here in February, posing as a representative of Eugene du Pont, the Walters-du Pont estate and the American Home Foundation of New York.

He is said to have obtained financial backing from local bankers for purchase of hundreds of acres of land near the Yellow Coach Co. plant at Pontiac, ostensibly to build workers' homes. The plans called for construction of the homes in uniform groups of about 600. An elaborate advertising campaign was carried on.

When the project was still in a tentative stage Knightley went to Canada, hired architects and announced plans for building an elaborate American club there. Stock in the club was sold throughout the United States. He approached Julius Haas, a Detroit banker, in regard to purchase of some property adjacent to the proposed club site, on which Haas had an option. Unable to find the man's rating in Dun's, Haas turned the matter over to the Better Business Bureau here, that organization obtaining the service of a private detective agency to assist in the investigation.

Knightley was found to have been convicted of swindling several times and to have served terms in the New York State prison at Auburn, Portsmouth, Canadian penitentiary and the Boston jail. He is said to be wanted in New York for swindling a dentist out of $14,000.

Knightley was arrested on a fugitive warrant from New York and announced he would waive extradition.

Private operatives tonight declared that if projects put under way in this district by Knightley had materialized he would have realized more than $5,000,000. He maintained an elaborate suite of offices in the General Motors Building here and published a paper known as the "Vertical City News," which was described as a house organ of the General Motors Corporation.

General Motors executives disclaimed knowledge of the publication.

Text of Lawyer's Letters Acknowledging $1000 Check

TWO letters were written by Attorney Ben M. Philipson concerning the $1000 cashier's check placed in his custody, contingent upon C. E. Grueninger's success in obtaining official action that would remove restrictions on boarding houses in the 3500 block of Victor street.

The first, dated June 1 last and addressed to his client, Wilbur Bent, 3501 Victor street, follows:

"This letter will acknowledge receipt of cashier's check, No. 7213, Cherokee National Bank, indorsed to my order, $1000 in amount, which is to be held by me for the sole purpose of removing the restrictions now against your property, prohibiting you from using the same as a boarding or rooming house as to multiple of tenants

"It is understood by me that this check is to be turned over to C. E. Grueninger or to whomsoever he may designate as such time there is a final decree rendered in your favor in a case now pending in the Circuit Court, the same being No. 107,-443, Division No. 14, Circuit Court St. Louis, Mo., entitled Emil Tolkacz and Katherine Tolkacz, his wife, plaintiffs, vs. Wilbur Bent and Mamie E. Bent, his wife, defendants.

"It is our distinct understanding that this money is to be retained by me as before stated until there is a final decree rendered in your favor. This for your information."

On the same day Philipson wrote the following letter to Grueninger, but afterward decided not to mail it:

"This letter is written to you for the purpose of advising you that there has been deposited in my hands a cashier's check, $1000 in amount, by Mr. W. E. Bent, which said check I am to turn over to you upon condition that you aid in every way possible, legal or otherwise, in removing the restrictions now against the property of Wilbur and Mamie Bent, 3501 Victor street (here a legal description of the property is given).

"The said restrictions are to be removed absolutely and especially as to multiples of tenants as to the use of the same as a boarding or rooming house, the purpose for which Mr. Bent purchased the same, and that the said restrictions are to be legally removed by a final decree of the Circuit Court, or such other court to which the same may be appealed, and not otherwise.

"I am to aid as attorney for Mr. Bent any parties or attorneys whom you might designate in the accomplishment of this purpose. This for your information."

When Grueninger failed to receive the letter from Philipson, acknowledging possession of the $1000 check, he informed Bent he had to have some assurance that the money would be paid. Bent says Grueninger, explaining he had to have something to show his friends, brought a typewritten memorandum for Bent's signature. It read:

Mr. C. E. Grueninger,
3500 Victor St.,
St. Louis, Mo.
Dear Mr. Grueninger:

On June 1st, 1927, I placed in trust with Mr. Ben Philipson, an attorney, a cashier's check in the amount of $1000 to be paid to you when the restrictions on block 1440 and 1444 are removed, so that I may rent my property, known as 3501 Victor St., to one or more tenants, a multiple tenancy, rooming house, etc.

Yours very truly,

Not satisfied, Bent says he had Grueninger add, in ink, the following, in which Grueninger erroneously referred to "your" favor:

This check is to be turned over to C. E. Grueninger or to whomsoever he may designate at such time that there is a final decree rendered in your favor in a case now pending in court, St. Louis, Mo., entitled Emil Tolkacz and Katherine Tolkacz, his wife, plaintiffs, vs. Wilbur E. Bent and Mamie A. Bent, his wife, defendants. Case No. 107403.

HOLDUP MEN OBTAIN $1257 IN 2 ROBBERIES

Force Two in Candy Factory to Lie on Floor; Brick Plant Manager Waylaid in County.

Four men obtained $907 in a holdup at the Singerman Candy Co., 520 Clark avenue, at 6 o'clock last night, after compelling the proprietor, Morris B. Singerman, and Jake Stern, an employe, to lie on the floor of the rear room.

Singerman had locked the office for the day and admitted three of the robbers when he heard a knock on the door. The three men drew revolvers and pushed Singerman and Stern to a rear room closing the door. From the safe, which was open, they took $699 in cash, and from Singerman's pockets, $208.

The fourth man waited on the sidewalk and started the robber's automobile as his companions started out. The last man to go seized three boxes of candy from a counter, shouting, "We'll take some candy for the girls."

Robbers held up Fred Eaves, manager of a commissary at the Evens & Howard Fire Brick plant at Gregg Station, St. Louis County, yesterday for the second time within six months, escaping with $350 of the company's money.

Eaves alighted from a Kirkwood-Ferguson street car after drawing the money at a bank to cash pay checks and was walking toward the plant when he was approached by two armed men. The leader commanded Eaves to hand over a satchel containing the money and the men then ran to a waiting automobile in which a third man remained at the wheel. The robbers escaped in the car, which Eaves described as a new sedan. The other holdup occurred June 16, when Eaves was robbed of $900 within sight of the plant.

Tiny Nation Gets Red Cross Aid.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Liechtenstein, a little country of 11,000 inhabitants on the Swiss border, and one of the world's smallest principalities, is to receive another contribution from the American Red Cross to be used for relief work as a result of the severe floods in September. A donation of $3000 was announced today. Soon after the disaster the Red Cross sent $5000 to the stricken country, which has been an independent sovereign state since the time of Napoleon I, and is the only remaining monarchy in the German-speaking world.

The DUO-ART
REPRODUCING PIANO

Provides the most delightful entertainment

Music for every occasion played by the world's greatest artists

Compare any musical entertainment for the home with the Duo-Art and you will agree that nothing else is like it. It is this very individuality that distinguishes this remarkable instrument among all other Pianos. To the many thousands who have listened to the Duo-Art concerts broadcast by the Aeolian Company, its performance has been a distinct revelation, attesting the fact that the artist and his Duo-Art recordings remain associated . . . in playing, indistinguishable, one from the other.

As there is manifestly nothing at once so inspiriting as superb music, perfectly played, the Duo-Art Reproducing Piano should be given thoughtful consideration by everyone. In presenting the classic masterpieces interpreted by the great artists, the value of the Duo-Art, from an educational standpoint, is beyond computation.

Though acknowledged the finest of all Reproducing Pianos, the Duo-Art, like all things of genuine worth is within the reach of every music lover—a very attractive style—the Stroud—is priced at $695 and available on easy terms.

Duo-Art Prices are from

MANY VERMONT FLOOD SUFFERERS WITHOUT FOOD

Winter Supplies Stored in Cellars Swept Away—Some Lack Money to Buy More.

By the Associated Press.

WATERBURY, Vt., Nov. 12.—In this and other villages of the Winooski Valley, the heart of the Vermont flood district, the water systems have been repaired, largely removing the threat of typhoid. Water, drawn from the streams that ravaged the villages last week is being used to remove traces of the damage the flood had done.

In front of many farm homes along the valley household goods still crowded the porches and lined the road, but they were gradually being cleaned and dried to some degree and moved back to their accustomed positions.

There was heat in most of the houses and cooking was being accomplished somehow, though this was hampered by the fact that the kitchen stove was about the first thing to be saved when the flood threatened. A journey along the Winooski discloses scores of heavy kitchen stoves perched high on hillsides or rocky promontories above the homes from which they were removed. There they are still perched today, nine days after the flood, and housewives are doing their cooking on parlor drum stoves and improvised gypsy camp fires in the yards.

The food they had was almost entirely such as had been carried in to them over the reconstructed roads this week. The flood swept away or ruined the winter's supply of food with which every cellar had been stocked. So the farm folk are facing the winter without food and many of them without money to buy it.

But they are a proud people and one of the difficulties relief workers encounter i sthis stiff backed self-reliance that scorns charity in any form.

"We are getting on all right," they reply to questions, and the investigation reveals they have four potatoes and a few cans of very doubtful preserves.

"Sho," they insist, "you don't have to worry about us. There's lots worse off than us."

This stubborn pride has been some hindrance to relief parties desiring to ascertain true conditions, but also, they feel, it is the hope of the district.

"The strength of Vermont," one Red Cross worker said, "is in the pride of the people, for on that pride, that will not admit defeat, the State will climb back into its own and carry on where others less assured might sink into the despair that would mean complete ruin."

$48,000,000 AUTO TUNNEL UNDER HUDSON RIVER OPEN

New York and Jersey City Celebrate Completion of 7-Year Project Providing 9250-Foot Submarine Roadway.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The new $48,000,000 Holland tunnel—a submarine boulevard for automobiles and motor trucks, linking New York and Jersey City under the Hudson—was formally opened today. Its construction required seven years. The tunnel was opened to commercial traffic tonight.

At a telegraphed signal from President Coolidge, flags draped across the tube openings at either end were dropped. Thousands who had gathered for the ceremonies in Jersey City trooped through the big tubes, preceded by the widows of two engineers who died before their work on the tunnel was completed. Its designer, Clifford N. Holland, died in 1923.

Gov. Smith of New York, Gov. Moore of New Jersey, several Congressmen and 130 Mayors took part in the program at the Jersey City terminus. Mayor Walker and officials of the Tunnel Commission conducted ceremonies on the New York side.

A note of reverence marked the speeches for Holland. Milton H. Freeman, his successor, who died four months after taking over the work, and for 13 workmen killed while the tubes were under construction.

New York's representatives passed through the tunnel to Jersey City. At the half-way mark a silken cord marking the interstate boundary was cut by Anna Boyle Egner, granddaughter of John F. Boyle, a member of the New Jersey Tunnel Commission, who also also officially dedicated the Camden-Philadelphia bridge across the Delaware.

Provided with 20-foot roadways, the twin tubes, 9250 feet long, have an estimated capacity of 3800 vehicles hourly and 15,000,000 vehicles a year. A toll system which charges rates ranging from 25 cents for a motorcycle to $2 for a heavy motor truck, is expected to provide revenue that will pay costs of construction in 10 years, although the estimated period was 20 years.

WOULD REMOVE BANK BUREAU FROM POLITICS

State Commissioner Favors Permanent Staff for Finance Department.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 12.—Removal of the State Finance Department from politics, provision for a permanent staff of department heads and bank examiners to eliminate periodical "house-cleanings' 'due to changes in the State administration, and creation of direct clearing house associations throughout the State are urged by State Finance Commissioner S. L. Cantley to improve the State banking supervision in Missouri.

These views were expressed today by Commissioner Cantley in reply to inquiries from bankers in Northeast Missouri concerning the proposed organization of a local clearing house association for banks in one or two of the counties.

"I have felt for some time that the present system of bank examination and bank supervision, inscfar as the State was concerned, was vitally defective," Cantley said, "is not accomplishing what the Legislature inteded the Finance Department shoul accomplish when the department was created, is not functioning according to the expectations of bankers and the public, and never will be able to do so unless drastic changes are f-effected."

Favors State Clearing Houses.

Cantley said he did not believe the organization of district clearing house associations in scattered sections would be so beneficial as the organization of such associations throughout the State, subject to the direction of the deparmen.

He suggested each such association should maintain a clearnig house organization, with an examiner or manager in charge, to function in the same manner as the city clearing house associations. Credit files should be maintained, to be available to all banks within the district, and reciprocal relations established between districts. He suggested the examiner or manager should be accountable to an executive committee in the district and the commitee be accountable to the Finance Department. Legislation would be necessary to put this plan into effect.

"The department should be placed on a more permanent basis," Cantley said, "that is, be taken out of politics, in so far as it is possible, and not be permitted to be the political football politicians now attempt to make of it."

For Permanence in Office.

"The Commissioner of Finance, if worth while, should have assurance of continuance in office, so as actually to work out and put into execution corrective and preventive measures calculated to establish safety and permanency in banking. As the department now is organized, with frequent changes in office and a like frequency in policies of administration, bankers continually are at a loss as to what to expect next, and nothing of lasting benefit can be accomplished under vacillating policies.

"Politics and frequent changes in the field and in the office keep the Department and its force of examiners in disrepute and also keep the bankers in a state of expectancy bordering on despair."

Cantley said the examiners should have some assurance of being retained permanently if they made good, and the salaries paid should be such as to provide an incentive to remain in the Department instead of making the work a stepping stone to something else.

"When this policy is inaugurated, and not until then, do I believe a State Finance Department can ever reach and maintain that degree of efficiency credited to the National supervisory force," he said.

Bonds, Bonds, Who's Got Bonds, $2,770,000 Worth?

[illegible] the Continental to Humphreys. If they merely wanted to buy oil, why didn't they buy it direct from Humphreys at $1.50 a barrel, instead of guaranteeing a mushroom concern, and allowing it to make a profit of 25 cents a barrel off of their companies?

The oil went direct from Humphreys to the companies controlled by Sinclair, Stewart and O'Neill. The Continental never saw it. The Continental existed merely in the office of Henry S. Osler, a Toronto lawyer, who had organized it for the real owners. Every month Osler got a check from Sinclair, Stewart and O'Neill for the oil which had been delivered, at [illegible].75 a barrel, and sent a check to Humphreys for it, at $1.50 a barrel. The balance he deposited in the Dominion Bank of Canada.

Periodically, as the profits piled up, they were invested in Liberty bonds, purchased in New York by an agent of the Dominion Bank.

Lease of Teapot Dome.

Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall secretly leased the vast Teapot Dome naval reserve, a government property, to Harry Sinclair, on April 7, 1922. In the following month, the Continental Trading Co., using the profits from its deal, purchased $300,000 worth of Liberty bonds in New York. Osler appeared at the Dominion Bank's New York office, and took the bonds away, wrapped in brown paper.

Two weeks later, M. T. Everhart, Fall's son-in-law, went to New York and returned to Pueblo, Col., with $230,500 in Liberty bonds. With these bonds he paid off the debts of himself and Fall, which totaled $108,500, deposited $70,000 to Fall's bank account, and the remainder to the account of a ranching company which he and Fall owned.

Those bonds came out of the $300,000 worth which the Continental had bought in New York, and which Osler had taken away in the brown paper package.

Profits of Deal Piled Up.

However, the Continental's profits continued to pile up, and they continued to be invested in Liberty bonds, until, by May, 1923, more than $3,000,000 worth of bonds had been purchased. Then, with the Continental still assured of an additional profit of more than $5,000,000, it suddenly surrendered the Humphreys contract to Sinclair, Stewart and O'Neill for a paltry $400,000, burned its books, and went out of business.

It was the Superior Court of Ontario which later called the Continental "a fake corporation." It was the Supreme Court of the United States which declared that it "was created for some illegitimate purpose."

The first purpose, obviously, was to accumulate a fund of at least $3,000,000, if not $8,000,000. And a part of the fund was used to corrupt Secretary of the Interior Albert Fall. How was the rest of it used?

As the bonds collected in New York, Osler came and took them away, as he had taken away the first consignment of $300,000. What he did with them remains a mystery. Osler didn't keep them. He was acting for somebody else.

Some Interesting Theories.

Some very interesting theories have been advanced. The most interesting is the theory that a large part of the remaining bonds were used to pay off the deficit incurred in the Republican national campaign of 1920. That was the campaign in which Harding and Coolidge were elected. It was managed by Will H. Hays, who later became "czar" of the movie industry.

Money flowed like water in that campaign and when the shouting was over the Republican National Committee had a handsome deficit to meet. The actual amount probably never will be known, but common report has placed it in the neighborhood of $1,800,000. The job of raising it was undertaken by Hays and Fred Upham, treasurer of the National Committee. It was raised.

The New York Times, in March, 1924, published a story that Hays had received $75,000 worth of Sinclair stock to apply on the deficit. He was summoned before the Walsh committee and denounced the story as untrue. He said Sinclair might have contributed a total of $75,000 over a period of three years, but that not a share of stock had been received from him.

What Hays Didn't Say.

Hays did not say whether any Liberty bonds had been received, for the very simple reason that nobody asked him. The mysterious doings of the Continental were not yet known; the fact that Fall had received Liberty bonds had not then been discovered. So Hays was not asked whether there had been contributions of Liberty bonds.

That was a Republican deficit, and this is a Republican administration. The man who was elected Vice President in that campaign is President now. Men who entered the Cabinet in consequence of that election are in it now, including its most powerful member, Mr. Mellon. These facts may, or may not, account for the curious indifference which the present administration manifests toward the disposal of those bonds.

If that indifference continues much longer, their fate will be of no interest, from the standpoint of criminal prosecutions. Time and the statute of limitations wait for no administration, and it will soon be six years since Osler took away the bonds. Six years is the limit for conspiracy prosecutions. It will be six years next April 7 since the Teapot lease was signed.

Among those who are aware of this fact is Senator Thomas J. Walsh, who opened the investigation of the oil leases, and exposed the corruption in them. He is curious to know what became of the bonds, and curious to know what the Department of Justice is doing to find out. He said:

"I have the keenest kind of interest in the purpose for which this fund was accumulated. Obviously, a fund of more than $8,000,000 was originally contemplated, and more than $3,000,000 was actually realized. Especially keen is my curiosity to know what became of the bonds over and above those which were given to Fall. Some interesting theories have been advanced; practically all speculative.

"Part of the loot having been used in perpetrating a fraud upon the Government, it is reasonable to suppose that the Department of Justice has made a searching inquiry to determine whether the remainder was devoted to some similar purpose. No other agency is so well equipped to Ferret out the truth. Whether any such inquiry has been prosecuted, I am unable to say."

What Sargent Has to Say.

For the answer to this question, the writer applied to John Garibaldi Sargent, Attorney-General of the United States. Before being elevated to that high office by President Coolidge, Mr. Sargent was a leading lawyer of Ludlow, Vt., which has a population of nearly 2000.

Attorney-General Sargent is an extremely large man, of kindly manner, and somewhat slow and uncertain in his speech. He was asked what efforts, if any, the Department of Justice had made to trace the $2,770,000 of Liberty bonds which remained to the Continental after Fall was "paid off."

"Why, everything in connection with the oil leases has been in the hands of the Government's special prosecutors," he said. "The Department of Justice has left it entirely with them."

The special prosecutors, Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, were appointed to conduct civil and criminal actions growing out of the oil leases, and nothing else. When they discovered that $230,500 in Liberty bonds had been mysteriously received by Fall, they traced those bonds back to their source, and learned that they came from the Continental Trading Co. They unearthed Sinclair's connection with the Continental, and then proceeded against Fall and Sinclair. It was no business of theirs to learn what became of the rest of the bonds, or whether other frauds had been committed with them.

Roberts had already emphasized this to the writer, and the writer explained it to Attorney-General Sargent.

"Why do you think the Department of Justice would be interested in learning what became of the other bonds?" he asked.

"For these reasons," he was told. "The Supreme Court has declared that this company was created for some illegitimate purpose. It accumulated $3,000,000 in bonds, and part of them were used in perpetrating a fraud against the Government. It seems that the Department of Justice might be interested in discovering whether the others were used in perpetrating frauds against the Government, in view of the fact that it is the department's duty to detect and punish frauds against the Government."

"Well, now, I think I must refuse to discuss the matter at all," said Attorney-General Sargent, retreating into his shell completely.

"From what you have said about leaving it entirely to Roberts and Pomerene, can it be concluded that you have not taken any action thus far?" he was asked.

"Don't conclude anything," was the hasty reply. "Just say that I must respectfully decline to discuss it." And thus ended that inquiry.

How to Trace the Bonds.

Tracing the bonds would not be easy, but Roberts and Pomerene have shown not only that it can be done, but how to do it. In their work, they knew the recipient of the bonds, Fall, and had to trace them to their source. In this case, the source if known, and the job would be to find the recipients, and here is the way to do it:

Every Liberty bond has a serial number all its own. When the Dominion Bank bought the bonds for the Continental, it kept a record of their serial numbers. Those numbers are available. When the owner of a bond cashes an interest coupon, the bank at which it is cashed forwards the coupon to the Treasury Department here.

The dates on which Osler carried the bonds away are known. The first coupons cashed after that date very probably were cashed by the persons to whom Osler gave the bonds. Those coupons are in the files of the Treasury Department. The procedure would be to look them up, find the names of the banks at which they were cashed, and ascertain from those banks who cashed them.

It is extremely likely that the bonds were distributed in very large lumps, and that as the coupons fell due and were cashed by the banks the proceeds were deposited to the accounts of the persons who owned them. That would make the identification of those persons easier.

Why Was Fund Accumulated?

There are two theories about why the Continental was organized, and why the $3,000,000 fund was accumulated. One is the obvious theory that it was organized to accumulate a huge corruption fund, part to be used in bribing Fall for the Teapot Dome lease, and the remainder to be used for other corrupt purposes. The second theory is that Sinclair, Stewart, Blackmer and O'Neill rigged up a private deal to divide an $8,000,000 profit among themselves that Sinclair used a part of his share to bribe Fall, and that the others kept their shares.

Then, of course, there is the Sinclair-Fall defense theory, which is that Blackmer was the Continental; that Blackmer got to Humphreys first, cornered the oil which the other three needed, and held them up for a profit of 25 cents a barrel for himself.

There are several serious flaws in this theory. The first is, that Blackmer was head of a company which Stewart's company owned, and it seems very unlikely that Stewart would have stood for being gouged by his own subordinate. Blackmer was never fired. The second flaw is that Stewart, Sinclair and O'Neill facilitated the purchase of the oil by the Continental, by guaranteeing that the Continental would perform its contract. It seems unlikely they would have guaranteed a purchaser which was about to hold them up.

Third and last, this theory entirely fails to explain why Fall got the $230,500. Why would Blackmer give Fall $230,500? Blackmer didn't get Teapot Dome—Sinclair got it.

Stockholders in the Case.

It has long been a matter of wonder to persons who have followed the case, that no stockholder of the Sinclair or Prairie companies has ever sued for an accounting, as a result of the exposure of this transaction. Whatever theory is accepted concerning the Continental, the fact remains that the companies which bought the oil from the Continental were compelled, through the action of their own officials, to pay $3,000,000 more for it than they should have paid. If such a suit is ever filed, some interesting disclosures may follow.

When Roberts got on the trail of the Continental, and haled Osler into a Canadian court, Osler refused to testify, and when he was held in contempt, fled to Africa. If he ever returns, he will doubtless receive a taste of the well-known British justice. Blackmer fled to France, evaded a subpena for two years, and when finally summoned defied the Government, and refused to return. O'Neill escaped to Europe, and never was found. He was last reported in Czecho-Slovakia. Sinclair is a defendant in a criminal prosecution, and cannot be compelled to testify. Stewart, the remaining witness available from the four, was to have been the next witness to take the stand, when jury-tampering charges caused a mistrial.

Meantime, there remains that insistent, accusing, unanswered question:

Who got the bonds?

WAR DISCOVERS GREAT SINGER

Chloroformed Soldier Sings and Nurses Recognize His Ability.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Chloroform is responsible for the discovery of the beautiful voice of John Collinson, the British tenor.

Collinson didn't know he could sing until he was wounded during the great war and sang so wonderfully under the influence of chloroform, after undergoing a serious operation, that the nurses insisted he had a beautiful voice and must cultivate it. One of the sisters in the hospital taught the invalid several songs and forced him to take part in a hospital concert.

He was such a success that he began studying under Sir Henry Wood. Later he went to Italy to study with Mandolini.

HANKOW SET AFIRE BY FLEEING ARMY, TROOPS LOOT CITY

Gen. Tang Seng-Chi Evacuates Yangtze Port, Leaving His Men Virtually Leaderless.

SEVEN U. S. SHIPS NOW IN HARBOR

Natives and Foreign Inhabitants Reported Panic-Stricken as Disorganized Forces Pillage.

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW, China, Nov. 12.—The evacuating troops of Gen. Tang Seng-chi set fire to the native city of Hankow tonight. Thousands of troops and civilians are roaming the city, looting. Panic reigns.

Gen. Tang, military dictator of Hankow, fled today before the steady advance of the Nanking Nationalists. His departure left his troops almost leaderless, free to loot the city.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 12.—Reports from Hankow, former capital of the Nationalist regime say that Japanese marines have landed; that the foreign concessions have been barricaded and that the Chinese inhabitants of the city are moving into the foreign sections for protection.

Nationalists Nearing Hankow.

Meanwhile, the Nanking Nationalists, seeking to consolidate their position in the Yangtze Valley again, are rushing on Hankow and the head of their column is within 15 miles of the city, according to reports received here.

Gen. Tang Seng-chi has played a prominent part in the military situation in China for the past year and has been in control of Hankow for some months.

Would Consolidate Positions.

If the Nanking nationalists should succeed in capturing Hankow, it would consolidate the position in the Yangtze Valley. While a Nanking victory at the former capital of the nationalist regime would greatly enhance the prestige of the Nanking Government, the City of Canton is still to be taken into consideration, since one of the former Hankow leaders have begun activities in Canton to set up an independent nationalist government there.

Although Hankow has been the scene of much unrest in recent months, no actual fighting has taken place there since late in 1926, when the Cantonese, as the nationalists then were generally called, captured it.

The vernacular newspapers are informed that thousands of the defeated and disorganized Hankow forces have arrived at Wuhan and the population of Wuhan and Hankow is described as panic-stricken. A body of 10,000 Hankow troops has crossed the Yangtze to Wuchang and is proceeding southward, and the area through which the retreat is being made now fears wholesale disorder.

The foreign naval commanders are known to be keeping in extremely close touch with the situation, the wireless being constantly in use between the flagships at Shanghai and the patrol boats at Hankow and other ports on the Yantze. A check up of the patrol on the river of the various Powers shows that there are 54 ships between Chinkiang and Chungking, with a heavy concentration at Hankow, made within recent days as a result of the tension existing within the Wuhan city.

7 U. S. Vessels at Scene.

American vessels total seven for Hankow, with others at Chinkiang, Wuhu and Kiukiang; Great Britain, 25 ships; France, four, two of which are at Hankow, and Italy three, two of which are at Hankow.

MRS. MANTON DAVIS DIES

Mrs. Manton Davis, formerly of St. Louis, died after a long illness Friday in Albuquerque, N. M., where she went for her health several months ago. Mrs. Davis is survived by two daughters, and her husband, Manton Davis of New York, who was formerly a partner in the law firm of Curlee and Davis here.

The body is being sent to Louisville, Ky., Mrs. Davis' birthplace, where funeral services will be held Tuesday.

Agricultural Exposition at Coliseum

The Mississippi Valley Poultry and Small Stock Association will hold a mid-winter agricultural exposition at the Coliseum, Dec. 29 to Jan. 2. There will be exhibits of poultry, pigeons, rabbits, cats, cavies, and other small stock, as well as demonstrations of fruit-growing, bee-keeping and other small-farm activities. Four large poultry organizations will hold their annual conventions at the Coliseum during the exposition. Chas. Key Cullom, 411 Washington avenue, secretary of the Mississippi Valley Association, is in charge of arrangements.

INQUEST FAILS TO SOLVE MURDER OF MERCHANT

Police Following New Lines of Investigation of Shooting of Palmisano in Doorway of Store.

New lines of investigation are being followed by police in an effort to solve the murder of Charles Palmisano, wealthy fruit merchant, who was shot down in the doorway of his wholesale establishment at Third street and Franklin avenue, Thursday, by two men, who escaped in an automobile driven by a third man.

At yesterday's inquest, which resulted in a Coroner's verdict of homicide at the hands of two unidentified men, Police Capt. Nally identified police reports, already made public, and testified he had other information which he preferred to keep secret for the present. After the inquest he and four other witnesses went to the Circuit Attorney's office and were given subpenas to appear later before the grand jury.

Palmisano's nephew, Joe Caponi, 4714 Ashland avenue, employed at the M. Longo Fruit Co., of which Palmisano was president, testified he was sewing cabbage sacks about 15 feet away from Palmisano when the assassins appeared.

A few minutes before their appearance, Palmisano had engaged in a conversation with another nephew, a professional bondsman, who sat in his automobile at the curb. This nephew had just driven away when Caponi heard shots and hid behind a post. Seeing a man run east in Franklin avenue, Caponi came out from his hiding place and perceived the bullet-riddled body of his uncle on the sidewalk. At that moment the second assassin ran past Caponi to join the first.

Asked if the two men who ran to a waiting automobile in which they escaped were Italians, Caponi hesitated, and said: "One was very white—he had murder in his eye." Caponi said he did not know if Palmisano and the professional bondsman ever quarreled, as Palmisano considered him (Caponi) "too young" to confide in him.

Police theories are that Palmisano was slain because he resisted extortionists or refused to sign bail bonds for five men now in jail, under indictment for the murder of Alphonse Palazzolo, Sept. 9.

On the night of Palmisano's murder, Robert and Frank Aiello, brothers, of Springfield, Ill., and St. Louis, were assassinated in a Springfield cafe by a masked gunman. Police profess to see a connection between the assassinations in the two cities.

As far back as 1924, other Aiellos and Palazzolos figured in unsolved murders. When the bodies of Peter Aiello and a woman friend were found on a roadside near Edwardsville in that year, a St. Louis man named Palazzolo was questioned as to the ownership of an automobile used in that double murder. A few months later the suspect's brother, Sam P. Palazzolo, was found strangled to death on a public dump at Columbia and Sulphur avenues. Earlier in the year, another Sam Palazzolo was found shot to death near Lake, St. Louis County.

What relationship Peter and the two Sam Palazzolos to the two Aiellos and the Al Palazzolo assassinated not been determined. ships often are disclaimed in inal cases, and police are such names as Palazzolo common among Italians as or Brown among other peoples.

DO YOUR KIDNEYS PURIFY YOUR BLOOD?

The function of the kidneys is to filter and purify the blood. If you are troubled by bladder weakness, sleepless nights, backache, headaches, tired, worn-out feeling, your kidneys may need stimulating and a diuretic such as the Cystex 48 hour test.

Just step into any drug store and ask for Cystex. Put it to a 48 hour test. If you soon feel like new, full of pep, able to sleep soundly, with pains alleviated, it will cost you only 60c, otherwise nothing.

Don't give up. Don't wait. Feel better tomorrow. Learn the joy of healthful living. No need to risk a penny on unproved things because you are the sole judge of your satisfaction under the Cystex legal, binding, money-back guarantee.

WOMAN AND MAN GET 18 YEARS AS 'REDS' IN ITALY

Pair Tried Under Defense of the State Act in Special Court.

Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (The New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

ROME, Nov. 12.—Before a special court, Giorgina Rossetti, 23 years old, and her sweetheart, Marino Graziano, 22, were condemned to 18 years' imprisonment, to be followed by three years of police supervision, after three witnesses had testified against thme today.

They were charged with still belonging to the communist party, deemed an illegal association since the new act for the defense of the state was passed in January. They also were charged with distributing seditious literature and with trying to collect armed rebels to bring about a civil war.

A relative of the woman, charged with similar offenses, was found not guilty and released.

Storms Damage Spanish Towns.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Nov. 12—Storms during the last few days have caused considerable damage in the vicinity of Santander, Alicante, Malaga and San Fernando. A loss of a half million pesetas ($85,000) is estimated to have occurred at Coruna. Thousands of trees were uprooted in the region and telephone and telegraph wires blown down. The fishing industry of the small coast villages is at a standstill.

FALL FEARFUL HIS NEXT TRIAL MAY BE THE LAST

Only 50-50 Chance, He Thinks, of Returning Home After Next Court Appearance, Jan. 16.

DEPARTS FOR HIS NEW MEXICO RANCH

Won't Stand on Constitutional Rights or Seek Immunity, He Declares in Interview.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Albert B. Fall, accompanied by members of his family, left here tonight for New Mexico where he will attempt to regain his health at his ranch at Three Rivers. Fall, wearing his usual long black coat and chewing a cigar, refused a wheel chair and walked to the train supported by his wife. He appeared very weak and retired immediately.

A few hours before train time, the 66-year-old former Secretary of the Interior received a reporter in the hotel room where he has been ill for the last week. He said his intention was to go to his New Mexico ranch, so that he might build himself up to be able to return here Jan. 16, the day set for a new trial of the Teapot Dome case in which he and Harry F. Sinclair are defendants.

"I would like to feel that there is more than an even chance for my ever returning home after that," Fall continued, "but I think there is only a 50-50 chance. I shall come, if it is possible, because I want to have the opportunity, so far as possible, to clear my name."

Fall sat low in an easy chair, his stooped shoulders shrouded in a blue velvet bathrobe. The paleness of his cheeks showed how illness had sapped his vitality, but his eyes were bright and his voice strong as he referred to the grand jury investigation growing out of the recent mistrial of the Teapot Dome case.

Denies Knowing of Shadowing.

"I had not the slightest idea that any detectives had been hired to investigate jurors," he said. "This whole affair was absolutely new to me, and at no time was the matter mentioned in my presence. Sinclair never intimated to my knowledge of such activities, if he even knew. During the trial, I visited his room only one afternoon and he was in my room only a few times."

Fall disclosed that on the day of the mistrial he sought to ask Justice Siddons to have the case go on immediately.

"My plea was interrupted by an objection by Pomerene of Government counsel," he said. "I was willing to have the case go on with that jury or to start again the next day with another jury.

"It took me 12 months to build up for the trial, and even longer than that to build up for the Doheny trial. Now I intend to rest and walk in New Mexico, where the warm climte and altitude agree with me. Unless doctors forbid me to return to Washington in January, I will come. But I must consider my family, and, although I am old, perhaps I can remain with them a little longer before going across the Great Divide."

The Washington climate has never suited his health, Fall said.

"In ten years as Senator, and two as a member of the Cabinet, I spent only one Christmas here," he went on.

Won't Seek Immunity.

"It was always my custom never to say what I was going to do, but to do things. That is why I told nobody about the Teapot Dome leases. I was Harding's representative. And I will not now seek to try my case in the newspapers. What I will say, though, is that no person connected with my side of the case will stand on his constitutional rights of immunity."

Fall declined to amplify the statement, in response to an inquiry whether it meant that he intended to take the stand in his own defense when the new trial is called. At that moment, Mrs. Fall entered the room bearing the last nourishment to be taken by her husband before train time.

"It remains to be seen what he will do," she said.

Fall nodded his head, flicked out a cigarette he had been smoking, and turned to eat.

President at Envoy's Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—President and Mrs. Coolidge today attended funeral services for the late Guatemalan Minister, Don Francisco Sanchez Latour, at the Washington Cathedral. The services were held in the chapel where Woodrow Wilson is buried and were attended also by Secretary Kellogg, other officials of the Government and members of the diplomatic corps.

Fascist Emblem in Italian Flag.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 12.—The Fascist emblem, the lictor's rods bound around an ax, will henceforth adorn the Italian flag, Premier Mussolini has decreed. Only old shot-torn battle flags of historic regiments will be exempted from this addition.

FOREMEN AND MILK WAGON DRIVERS GET WAGE INCREASE

Under Graduated Scale Rise Will Mean $3.75 a Week at End of Three Years.

A graduated wage increase, which will amount to $3.75 a week at the end of three years, has been granted 1,200 union milk wagon drivers and route foremen, officials of local dairies announced yesterday.

Under an agreement extending over the next four years the drivers and their foremn gt increases of $1.25 a week for the ensuing year, an addition of $1 a week for the second and third years and a further increase of $1.50 a week for the fourth year. The increase is retroactive to Nov. 1. Working conditions, which include one day a week off and an annual 10-day vacation with pay, remain the same.

Under an agreement signed three years ago foremen receivd a flat salary of $47.50 a week and drivers $35.75 plus a commission on sales. The commission, which ranges from $20 to $60 a month, depending on the route, remains in effect for drivers, foremen being compensated on a strictly salary basis as under the previous agreement.

Negotiations for the increase have been conducted for several months, the last agreement terminating in September. Dairy officials said th increase will have no effect on the present price of milk.

Mrs. R. C. Vanderbilt Not to Wed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—"I wish to deny reports of any engagements whatsoever," is the cable message sent by Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt to the Associated Press. Recent Paris dispatches, not carried by the Associated Press, asserted Mrs. Vanderbilt, who was Gloria Morgan, had admitted her engagement to Prince Hohenlohe Langebourge, nephew of Queen Marie of Rumania.

Pilot Killed in Airplane Crash.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 12.—Al Proctor, 28 years old, an aviator, was killed, and Alvin Baker, 23, whom he was instructing to be a pilot, was probably fatally injured today when their airplane crashed near here.

ASSESSMENT FOR TAXES IN ST. LOUIS $1,341,689,152

Total Valuation of All Property in City Shows Gain of $49,331,767 Over Last Year's.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 12.—The assessed valuation of all property in St. Louis for taxes is $1,341,689,152, the State Tax Commission announced today, upon completion of the allotment of assessments of public utilities and railroads to the 114 counties and city of St. Louis under the distributable property law. This is a gain of $49,331,767 over the total St. Louis assessment last year.

Assessments upon which St. Louis will pay 1927 taxes include $83,579,541 for that part of the assessment of public utility and railroad property in St. Louis that is allocated to the city, $126,591,400 assessed valuation of merchants and manufacturers, $962,434,890 assessed valuation of real estate and $169,083,321 assessed valuation of personal property.

This assessment for St. Louis is 27.3 per cent of the estimated total of $4,900,000,000 for all taxable property in the State. The commission has not determined the final total for the State as three of the smaller counties have not forwarded their abstracts of the assessment of merchants and manufacturers.

Basis of Apportionment.

The $83,579,541 assessment of public utilities and railroads distributed to St. Louis does not represent the total assessment placed on such property in the city. Under the law the assessments of such property made by the State Board of Equalization are apportioned to the counties in which they operate, on the basis of the mileage of track or wire. Under this law the cities, where many of the utilities have the largest proportion of their property, lose and the rural counties gain.

The distributable property law applies to the street railways, railroads, bridge companies, telephone, electric, telegraph and oil pipe line companies.

Under the distributable property law the City of St. Louis is given $38,809,854 of the $48,123,443 assessment of the United Railways Co., and its subsidiary, the Missouri Electric Railroad Co. The remainder is allocated to St. Louis County on a mile of track basis.

The city gets $3,511,531 of the $24,236,434 assessment of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. In rate hearings before the Public Service Commission the Southwestern Bell Co. has stated approximately one-half of its property is in the St. Louis exchange. St. Louis County receives $1,740,517 of the Bell assessment, and the remainder goes to other counties.

The commission allocated to the city $13,251,184 of the $22,295,912 assessment of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. The city received all of the $300,000 assessment of the Cupples Station Light, Heat & Power Co., of St. Louis, a Union Electric subsidiary. The city received all of the $1,898,390 assessment for the Missouri end of the Eads Bridge and $13,827,640 of the $14,398,884 assessment of the St. Louis Terminal Railroad Co.

The merchants and manufacturers' assessment in St. Louis totaled $136,591,400 for this year, a decrease of $15,501,700 from last year. The assessment of merchants' and manufacturers' for the entire State usually totals about $250,000,000, and varies but little from year to year.

The total assessed valuation of all property in St. Louis County for 1927 taxes totals $206,634,016, an increase of $12,218,841 over last year. The total includes $175,886,770 for real estate and personal property, $25,489,316 of the assessments of public utilities and railroads, and $5,257,930 assessed valuation of merchants and manufacturers.

GOV. SMALL FAVORS ILLINOIS PRIMARIES IN THE FALL

Will Advocate Change From April Date to Special Legislature if Supreme Court Kills Present Law.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Should the State Supreme Court uphold Judge Harry M. Fisher's ruling that the State primary laws are unconstitutional, Gov. Small said last night that Illinois may hold its primaries in the fall, instead of the spring.

Several reasons were given by Gov. Small to support the fall primaries idea. One was the brief time between the possible date of the Supreme Court decision and that of the April primaries. Another was the difficulty of passing a new primary with an emergency clause putting it into effect at once, which would require a two-thirds majority. Gov. Small announced he would call a special session of the Legislature if the Supreme Court kills the law.

The Governor has not intimated yet whether he will be a candidate for a third term or not, although both Attorney-General Oscar Carlstrom and Secretary of State Louis Emmerson have announced their candidacies.

It's New!
SPINS away the water instead of wringing!
ABC SPINNER

It's so easy, simple, quick to launder clothes the SPINNER way. In place of a wringer this new revolving SPINNER whirls the water out of a whole tubful of clothes, getting every piece ready for the line in a minute's time.

SPINNING is the new way. Raise the clothes, soaking wet, from washer or rinse tub—drop them, all together, in this magic cylinder—almost instantly the water flows back to machine or tub—leaving every piece fluffy, creaseless, and with each button and hook in its proper place.

But this work-saving feature isn't all you get in the SPINNER. There is also the ABC AGITATOR—fastest, most thorough, gentlest washing action. PORCELAIN ENAMEL—always lustrous, sanitary, easy to clean as a china cup.

Only the ABC SPINNER has all three—SPINNER Drying, AGITATOR Washing—everlasting PORCELAIN. These three features, with a dozen others, make this the ideal washer for you. Easy to buy. Economical to own. Latest and greatest achievement of Altorfer Bros. Company (Est. 1909), Peoria, Illinois, one of America's oldest and largest washing machine manufacturers.

Try it FREE in your own home

Just PHONE and we'll do your own washing FREE in your own home. See for yourself the amazing SPINNER. Watch how it SPINS away WORK for you, and then decide.

Rupture

Cured by the Lewin Non-Surgical Method

It is impossible for any physician to be equally proficient in treating all diseases. By specializing on a single disease and giving exclusive attention to the perfection of treatment for it, a skillful physician will always have greater success.

Dr. Lewin has made the cure of Rupture his exclusive specialty the past 35 years, here in St. Louis. His treatment, better known as the "Lewin Method," is founded on scientific principles; he does not use the knife or draw blood. This treatment will not confine the patient to his room. It brings relief with the first treatment and the patient grows stronger with each succeeding treatment. Within a comparatively short time one is entirely cured of this dreadful affliction.

There is no secret about Dr. Lewin's treatment. He explains it fully to each patient. If you wish you may bring your family physician to his office and let him be present while you are being treated. Men, women and children treated.

Hours: 10-12, 2-4. Saturday 10-12, and by Appointment.

FARIS QUESTIONS RIGHT TO PUBLISH NEWS OF TRIALS

Judge Thinks English Rule Forbidding It During Progress of Case Should Apply in U. S.

Federal Judge Faris, in granting new trials yesterday in two Volstead law cases, raised the question of the right of newspapers to publish facts about cases on trial in the Federal Courts, while such trials are in progress. He expressed the view that the English rule, which he said would forbid such publication, should apply in this country. Accordingly, he said, he would ask the District Attorney to examine into the question raised by the two liquor cases.

The point of news interest in the cases, which was told in Wednesday's newspapers, was that one of the defendants, Joseph M. Hobbs, a drug clerk, was placed on trial before a second jury while a previous jury was still deliberating on another and similar charge against him.

The news articles setting forth this fact appeared in time to have been read by members of the two juries. In the first case, a verdict of conviction was returned at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday, and in the second case a like verdict was returned at 11 a. m. Thursday.

No evidence was presented that the verdicts had been affected by the publication, but Hobbs' lawyer raised the point in his motion for new trials and Judge Faris sustained the motion. The Judge pointed out that the second jury, Wednesday evening, had reported inability to agree, but that the next morning agreed on a conviction.

Objects to Publication.

Judge Faris, discussing this point, said he doubted whether he could presume that jurors did read the newspaper articles, or whether he could question the jurors on that point. He continued:

"These things ought not to be, however, gentlemen. Considering the beneficent attitude of the great newspapers of this country toward law enforcement; considering that they are continually speaking out in favor of it, they ought not to perform acts which, in England, would be in contempt of court; which acts stand in the way of a fair and honest, just and upright trial. The facts in this case, as they are known to the Court, point toward the further fact that the juries in thees cases must have got some additional light on the situation, which caused them to change their announced positions. The Court had been informed, once in open court, by the foreman; once through the bailiff, coming direct from the foreman, of the statement that they wanted to be discharged, because they were unable to agree; that they could not agree in this case. Yet, over night, for some reason, they changed their opinions and came in with verdicts of guilty.

As English Courts View It.

"I think the situation demands some action, gentlemen, and I shall therefore sustain the motion as to Hobbs. There exists, as I have forecast, a difference between the English rule and the American rule. Led away by considerations—perhaps of politics—we have got far away from the English rule as to things of this sort. That rule was laid down in the Crippen case. It is bottomed upon a simple principle, which prevails throughout every country, except America, where the common law is in existence. That principle is that it is a duty, which the newspapers owe to society and to decency, as well as to the law, to take their hands off a case the minute the court puts its hands on the case, and for the newspapers not to put their hands back on the case until the court has removed its hands. That is the English rule.

"I take it that the matter is one that the court cannot redress in this case by any summary action. If the action of the newspapers, or their reporters and officers, constituted contempt of this court, it was not a contempt so far within the courthouse, courtroom or court building, as to permit the court to act.

Suggests Contempt Prosecution.

"I think the situation is one, however, wherein I shall ask the District Attorney to examine into the matter, with a view of filing a prosecution for contempt against those who are guilty. Whether the American authorities will permit it or not, I give no opinion. The rule has not been changed by any statute: perhaps it has not been changed by the Constitution. I do not think it has. The English rule comes from the same law from which we draw our law. The rule ought to be the same, except for such laxity in enforcement as has been brought about by perhaps political considerations."

The Crippen case, mentioned by Judge Faris, was that of an English wife murderer, who fled from England and was captured in Canada. When on his way back to England, three English newspapers printed the statement that he had confessed to the crime. This was not true, and the publication embarrassed the prosecution in its later handling of the case. The three newspapers were fined, one £1000, the others £500 each. Crippen was convicted and executed.

The Two Cases in Point.

In the first of the two cases before Judge Faris, Hobbs, clerk of the St. Charles Drug Co., 900 St. Charles street, was charged with selling a pint of whisky to a prohibition agent. The second case was based on a raid made on the store a few days later, in which both Hobbs and his employer, John Jackson, were arrested, and Jackson was co-defendant in the second case.

In behalf of Jackson, it was pleaded that he had been entrapped into the sale by a special plea of the agent, who named supposed mutual friends. The Court upheld this objection, and ruled in effect that officers of the law may make purchases in an ordinary way and without special pleas, since otherwise the enforcement of the prohibition and narcotic laws would be very difficult; but that special and individual appeals savored of entrapment. Judge Faris held that he had erred in overruling a demurrer filed for Jackson during the trial. As he granted a new trial, this affords the presumption that Jackson's case may be dismissed, since a demurrer would be sustained in another trial.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

STATE TEACHERS ADJOURN; SPEAKER DEFENDS FASCISM

Dr. Roselli of Vassar Declares Mussolini's Rule Suits Italians Better Than Liberty.

BEHAVIORISM RAKED BY DR. WILL DURANT

Association Adopts Resolution for Dispassionate Statement of Historical Facts.

The three-day session of the Missouri State Teachers' Association in the Coliseum closed yesterday with a morning program of speeches by Dr. Will Durant, author of "The Story of Philosophy;" Dr. Bruno Roselli, professor of Italian at Vassar, and Miss Cornelia Adair of Richmond, Va., president of the National Educational Association.

Durant engaged in a pedagogical, controversial discourse upon the materialistic theory of philosophy, known as "behaviorism," as enunciated by Dr. John B. Watson. Dr. Roselli proved to be an ardent defender of Fascism and Mussolini, whom he declared to be the greatest statesman in the world." Miss Adair told of growing recognition of teaching as a profession, calling for professional pride, training and application.

The association adopted a resolution advancing theories of history writing—that facts should be related dispassionately, that prejudiced and controversial texts which supported a theory or a belief should be shunned, and studiously refraining from any reference to the situation that prompted the resolution, the William Hale Thompson anti-British ballyhoo in Chicago.

Dr. Roselli talked from the premise that Italy had no apologies for her destruction of individual liberty because, the racial emotionalism of Italians made the majority of them unfit for the sober enjoyment of liberty. He laid great stress upon the material progress of Italy under Facism, from a country threatened by bolshevism to a country able to meet with regularity payment of its war debt to the United States.

The national debt has been reduced under Facism, he said, from 15,000,000,000 to 500,000,000 lira. Hydro-electro development has increased tenfold. There are no strikes. There is less unemployment in the whole of the country than in London. Italy's maritime commerce is the greatest in the nation's history. The Mafia has been put down. Hotel porters take no tips, neither do waiters nor anyone else. The State railroads are returning a profit instead of deficits as previously. Rome has a good telephone system for the first time. True, the speaker said, these have been accomplished by autocracy, but, true also, the time had come for a teaching, even to United States school children, less of liberty and more of reverence.

Dr. Durant, in general, believed that philosophy in the future would become less and less of a physical science and more of a science of life and thought. He regretted the love of the American people for exaggeration and emphatic statements savoring of the startling and thought that the materialistic philosophy of Dr. Watson, which explains human action in physical terms, had caught on because of that fact.

REED AND HOOVER TO OUTLINE RIVER PLANS IN ST. LOUIS

Important Addresses by Two Leaders to Be Made at Meeting of Group Here This Week.

SECRETARY DAVIS ALSO ON PROGRAM

Mississippi Valley Association, Which Opens Sessions Tomorrow, to Hear Gen. Pershing.

Plans for flood control and waterway development to receive the unified support of the Mississippi Valley in this session of Congress will be worked out in the convention of the Mississippi Valley Association tomorrow and Tuesday at Hotel Statler.

Several hundred delegates, representing an impressive proportion of the productive wealth of the country, are to attend. The Association is the mouthpiece, so far as waterways are concerned, of 400 organizations in 26 states, and each year it meets and formulates the policy to be supported for the next 12 months. Rarely, in recent years, has it failed of its aims.

Some idea of the gravity of its purposes may be gathered from the fact that they can unite—to the extent of speaking to the same end at the same meeting, at least—two such political enemies as Secretary Hoover and Senator Reed. It has been considered a possibility that the two men may be opposing candidates for President in the next election. Friends of both say they are impressed with the potentialities of their addresses here and are preparing a major effort.

Senator Reed who is to open the meeting tomorrow, has been called "the greatest friend of the waterways in either House of Congress." Secretary Hoover's completed plan to tame and utilize the rivers has been awaited, and he is expected to announce it in full at the annual dinner Monday night.

Other speakers at the dinner will be Gen. Pershing, former Senator Shields of Tennessee and Congressman E. E. Denison of Illinois, author of several important pieces of waterway legislation.

James E. Smith of St. Louis, who retired from business in 1911 and since then has devoted his entire time to waterways, without remuneration and at personal expense of several thousand dollars a year, is to deliver his annual report tomorrow afternoon. It was Smith who, with Senator Reed and Cleveland A. Newton of St. Louis, then Congressman, organized the forces in Congress which several years ago boosted the annual rivers and harbors appropriation from about $10,000,000 to $50,000,000 a year and have kept it there ever since.

Secretary of War Davis is to deliver the first address of the afternoon, followed by Senator Robinson of Arkansas and former Gov. John M. Parker of Louisiana. Secretary Davis has supervision over all inland waterways. Under him the chief of army engineers conducts flood control and channel improvements, and the Inland Waterways Corporation, which operates the Government barge lines on the upper and lower Mississippi and Warrior Rivers, also is under his control.

The "Missouri Plan" for flood control is to be explained by its author, Senator Harry B. Hawes of St. Louis, Tuesday morning. Major-General Edgar Jadwin and Congressman William E. Hull will speak.

Elections, a general open discussion, and resolutions will take up the afternoon. This is expected to be an outstanding session, for the resolutions formulated here are taken up each year as "the gospel of the waterways." All interested persons who register may take part, provided they confine themselves to the general purposes of the association.

Admiral Magruder Awaits Call To Interpret His Article on Waste and Inefficiency in Navy

Is Ready to Back Statements Before Naval Affairs Committee—Says His Charges Are Not Personal.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, who got himself into the very bad graces of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and President Coolidge by a recent magazine article attacking the administration of the Navy as wasteful and inefficient, is cooling his irons here. His official status is that of "waiting." He hasn't, he says, the least idea what these orders will be, and he has nothing whatever to do except to wait.

The Navy Department does not admit that the Admiral is being disciplined, but that is what his separation from the command of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, which he had held for 17 months, amounts to. Short of hanging him from a yard arm, the Secretary of the Navy could hardly have inflicted a more severe punishment on the virile Admiral than to bring him down to Washington and set him to doing nothing, the same thing Admiral Magruder says too many of the desk officers at the Capital are doing.

Will Back His Statements.

The punishment has not caused the Admiral to change his views. He may have made a few mistakes in his figures about the Navy, he says, but his conclusions are sound. He is prepared to defend them up to the hilt when he is summoned, as he expects to be, before the Naval Affairs committees of the forthcoming Congress. Nor does the Admiral concede that he violated any rule or regulation of the service. The requirement, he says, is not that an article written by a naval officer about the Navy shall be submitted in advance for censoring, but only that a copy of it shall be furnished for the Navy files after its publication. This requirement he fulfilled.

With his ruddy countenance and sandy hair, the Admiral looks younger than his 60 years. One gets the impression from his manner as well as from what he has said and written, that he is not likely to dodge a fight. Some of his brother officers resent what they assert to be his "half-truths" about the state of the Navy, but there is general agreement that he is a first-class seaman.

Outline of Career.

Here are a few of the high spots in a long and distinguished career—a career, it must seem to the layman, that entitles him to be heard seriously when he talks about the Navy.

Graduated from the Naval Academy, to which he was appointed from his native Mississippi; served on the Nashville in the Spanish-American War and was advanced five numbers for gallantry; in charge of the Division of Naval Affairs of the Navy Department at Washington, 1916-17; commander of a squadron of the Atlantic fleet, 1917; commander of the Nevada, 1919; naval attache of the United States Embassy at Paris, 1920-21; commandant of the naval station at New Orleans, 1921.1924; commander of the light cruisers on the visit of the American fleet to Australia, 1925; commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Advocates Efficient Spending.

The quarrel of Admiral Magruder is not with the amount of money spent on the Navy, but with the way it is spent. He believes that the taxpayers are not getting their money's worth of Navy. In one of his speeches he was quoted as having said that for the expenditure of $300,000,000, they were receiving only about $200,000,000 of actual value. Talking with the writer, Admiral Magruder explained that he had not put the case quite so definitely as the report implied; he was using round figures, he said, to illustrate his point. This point was that the Navy was spending a lot of money uselessly—money that ought to be spent in increasing its efficiency as a fighting machine.

"The greatest squandering of money," he said, "is on the maintenance of unnecessary Navy yards. We have seven Navy yards today on the east coast of the United States. Three—at New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk—would be ample. We have, for example, a navy yard at Charleston, S. C., whose only excuse for being is a single tug kept there under repairs. In charge of this work is an organization consisting of a manger, inside and outside divisions and 18 officers.

"Build Ships By Contract."

"There is another yard at Portsmouth, N. H., where the Government builds submarines. I contend that the Navy should build its ships by contract in private yards. This plan would be as cheap or cheaper, and it would give a much needed stimulus to shipbuilding in this country. The ship building industry is in a bad way; only recently the great Cramp's yards at Philadelphia went out of business because of inability to get profitable contracts. We should encourage shipbuilding, both in order to build up our merchant marine and to have yards available for use in time of war.

"If we didn't build submarines at Portsmouth, we would'nt need that yard. We could do away with the Boston yard by distributing the ships there among other yards.

"I realize, of course, the tremendous political pressure that is used to obtain yards for favored localities. When the Democrats were in power, they established yards and stations in the South. Under Republican control, the yards at Boston and Portsmouth have been expanded. I maintain that the men in charge of the Navy should take a firm stand against unnecessary establishments. They should show the country that the Charleston yard is needless by withdrawing the tug they have sent there for repairs. When a superfluous yard is proposed, they should say, 'we don't need that yard,' and I believe that the country, when the facts were known, would support them.

"I don't say that we should spend less money on the navy. We are spending only $16,000,000 a year for repairs when more could often be spent to good advantage. My whole contention is that we should not waste money on what we don't need.

Navy Over-Organized.

"I have never said that the navy was over-officered. What I did say was that it was over-organized, which is quite a different thing. It is over-organized both afloat and ashore. You will see what I mean if you will walk through the Navy Building and observe all the bureaus and divisions, with their separate staffs, or study the organization as it is shown in the navy directory. There are separate bureaus doing overlapping work—for example, two bureaus that deal with materials. They should be consolidated. More than three times as many officers are now on duty in Washington as there were in 1916."

Following the suggestion of the Admiral, the writer loked into the latest navy directory, issued last October 1, and made a note of the intricate organization of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. A Rear Admiral is in charge, with a captain as assistant. The bureau has a commissioned personnel division, an enlisted personnel division, an inspection division, a medical and health record division, a preventive medicine division, a publication division, a war plans division, a division of aviation medicine, a Red Cross, Veterans' Bureau and morale division, a dental division and a financial division, the last-named being manned by three chief pharmacists.

Origin of Red Tape.

Other bureaus are similarly broken up into numerous units. To what extent this method is justified, the writer is not prepared to say. It is admiral Magruder's contention that it makes for a large superfluity of clerks and stenographers and for an excessive amount of red tape.

He said in the article which brought down on him the wrath of his superiors:

"Briefly, over-organization deflects officers and men from manning ships that are out of commission and adds largely to the overhead. Naturally, there is a great increase in the number of reports required. Instructions are given in minute detail, and, to paraphrase an old saying, 'the typewriter is mightier than the sword.'

"Here is one example: The aircraft Saratoga is nearing completion. In the allowance list for this ship occurs the item 'sixty-two typewriters.' It may readily be presumed that these machines will need yeomen to man them and that these men will be kept reasonably busy. Also, that this battery of typewriters and typists is needed to meet the requirements of red tape. Think of the output and the overhead."

200 Destroyers Rotting.

Recalling the Admiral's remark that the Navy was not over-officered, the writer asked him what he would do with the officers who would be thrown out of their present assignments by a cutting down and consolidation of bureaus. He replied there would be plenty of room for them in more useful work. Some of them, he said, he would put under instruction. He would expand the training work now being done in universities.

"And," he continued, "I would put into commission the 200 modern destroyers, built during and after the war at a cost of $1,500,000 each, that are now deteriorating at Philadelphia and San Diego. This would take care of 20,000 officers and men—100 to the ship—and would keep the vessels in readiness for an emergency. At present, while these good ships lie idle, we are maintaining in commission a special service squadron of obsolete vessels that would be useless in war. No naval officer can justify that practice. It might cost a little more to put the destroyers into commission, but the money would be well spent.

Centralization of Authority.

"Accompanying the over-organization of the navy," continued Admiral Magruder, "there has been a gradual centralization of authority at Washington. We have come to the point where officers in charge of sea and shore stations have little or no authority other than disciplinary, over the activities they command. Officers should be given wider latitude, especially in the direction of working out economies."

The Admiral summed up the major defects of the present system, as he sees them, as follows: (1) Over-organization. (2) Maintenance of unnecessary yards. (3) Keeping of ships in commission, and (4) great centralization of at Washington.

Attacking a System.

"Please understand," he "that I am not attacking vidual. My criticisms against a system. The constructive. I have tried to attention in a dignified way tain abuses that have grown and to show how money could saved. Most of the suggestions that I have made could be put effect without congressional tion. Simply by administrative der. MOB IN TENNESSEE LYNCHES NEGRO AT COURT HOUSE

Doors of Columbia Jail Battered Down With Sledge Hammers by 150 Men.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Tenn., Nov. 12.—Henry Choate, 19-year-old Negro, was lynched yesterday a few hours after his alleged criminal attack on a white girl. The lynching occurred at the courthouse.

Several hours after officers had taken the Negro in custody at a farm house where a blood-stained pistol was found, a band of 150 men stormed the jail, battered the door with sledge hammers and captured Choate.

At the courthouse, where large crowds had gathered, Choate was said to have confessed beating the girl over the head with a pistol. The Rev. J. R. Parsons, one among a group of citizens who endeavored to have the law take its course, said he heard the confession.

A noose was placed about the neck of the Negro and he was hanged from a second-story window of the courthouse.

Sheriff L. C. Wiley said he unlocked Choate's cell door after the mob had rushed into the jail, threatening to unloose all prisoners. He said the main door was battered down. The Rev. Mr. Parsons declared the door was unlocked from the inside.

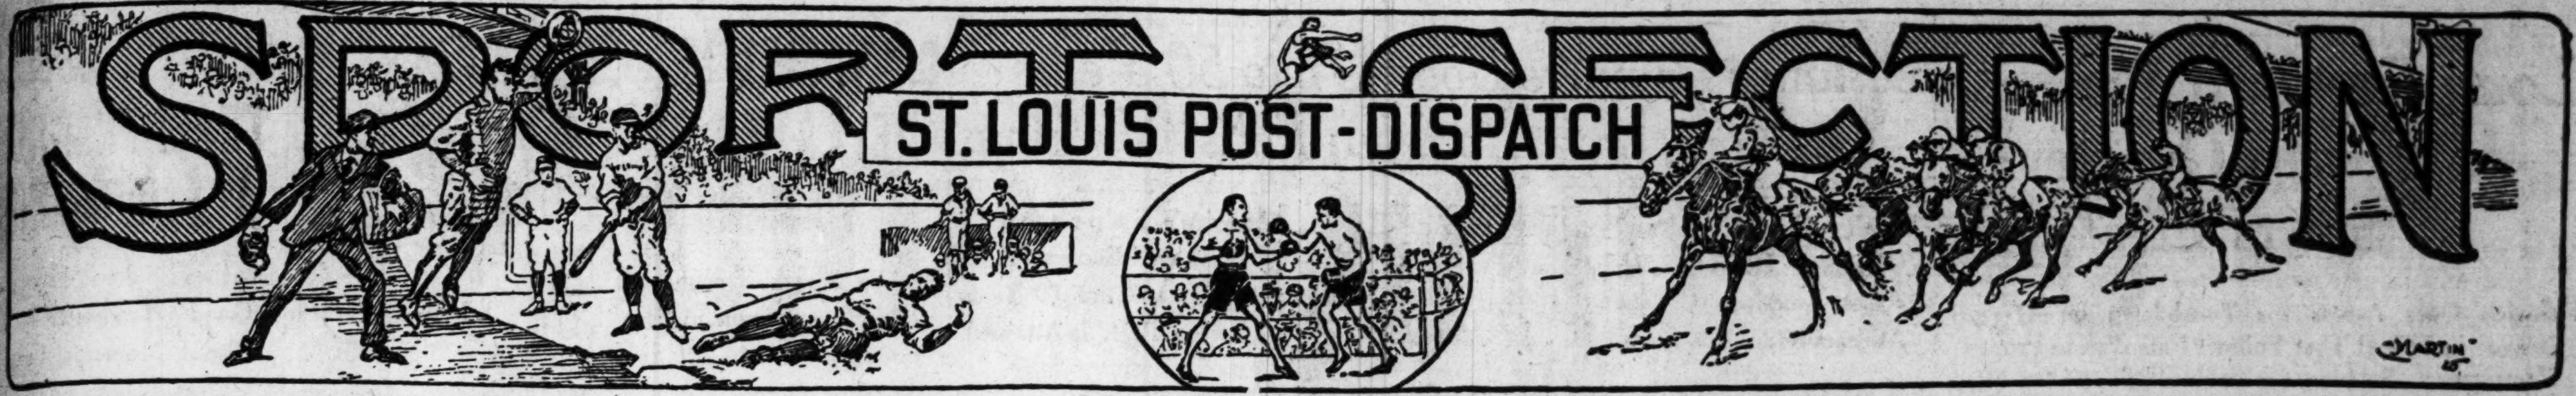
YALE DEFEATS PRINCETON IN UPHILL BATTLE, 14-6 (PAGE 2S.)



PART THREE. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 13, 1927. 1—6S

WASHINGTON SHOWS FINE ATTACK, BEATING GRINNELL 18-7

Display, Favorite, Home First in 2 1-4 Mile Pimlico Cup Race

SPRINTS IN FINAL SIX FURLONGS TO WIN $8825

Handy Mandy Second by a Length.—Edith Cavell Sets Pace but Finishes a Bad Third.

By the Associated Press.

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 12.—The Maryland Jockey Club's fall meeting came to a close here this afternoon with the running of a fine program, featured by the Pimlico Cup race, contested over the two-mile-and-a-quarter route. It was won by Walter J. Salmon's Display, a 4 to 5 favorite, under a perfect ride by Jockey Maiben.

Maiben allowed his mount to rate along and when ready Display came with a rush and won. The Three D's Stable's Handy Mandy, holder of the mile and a half record was second, with W. M. Jeffords' Edith Cavell third and C. Fleischman's Bay Sarl fourth and last.

The two miles and a quarter were run in 3:46 1-5 and the race carried a net value of $8825. which included a gold cup valued at $500.

There were only four starters, with Display always the favorite despite the fact that he was carrying top weight of 117 pounds.

Edith Cavell Sets Pace.

As usual, Edith Cavell attempted to make a runaway race of it, the same as she did last year when she galloped home a winner, but today she was not equal to the task. She led as far as she could go out and stopped. At the end of the first mile she led by fully 15 lengths and appeared to be going very easy while Maiben had Display under wraps, perfectly content to rate along. At the end of the mile and a half Edith Cavell still led but her margin was very small. In the last six furlongs Maiben called on Display and the colt responded gamely at the far turn three furlongs from the finish. He finished a length ahead of Han'y Mandy with Edith Cavell third, eight lengths back.

Mrs. S. Marberry's Eloise, favorite in the betting and ridden by Leonard, had no difficulty in annexing the first race, a mile and 70 yard gallop, for 3-year-olds. Eloise ran into the lead at the end of the first half mile, then drew out to win galloping. Aromatic, who had been trailing the pace came with a rush in the stretch and easily took the place from Aster.

Kanduit Tires In Stretch.

W. R. Fitzpatrick's King O'Neill II, showing improvement, won the second event by a head over the well played good thing, Kanduit, which carried H. G. Bedwell's colors. Mr. Martin was third. Kanduit, displaying good speed, ran into the lead early and drew out on the turn but tired suddenly in the stretch and King O'Neill II, closing with a rush, won by a head. Kanduit beat Mr. Martin three lengths for the place.

In a close finish, in which the placing judges were slow in announcing the official result, Charles H. was awarded the purse in the third race by a nose over the favorite Reigh Olga, with Memoria third. Reigh Olga jumped away to a fast lead and led the field a merry clip for the entire trip but in the last stride Charles H was up to win. Reigh Olga was second by four lengths.

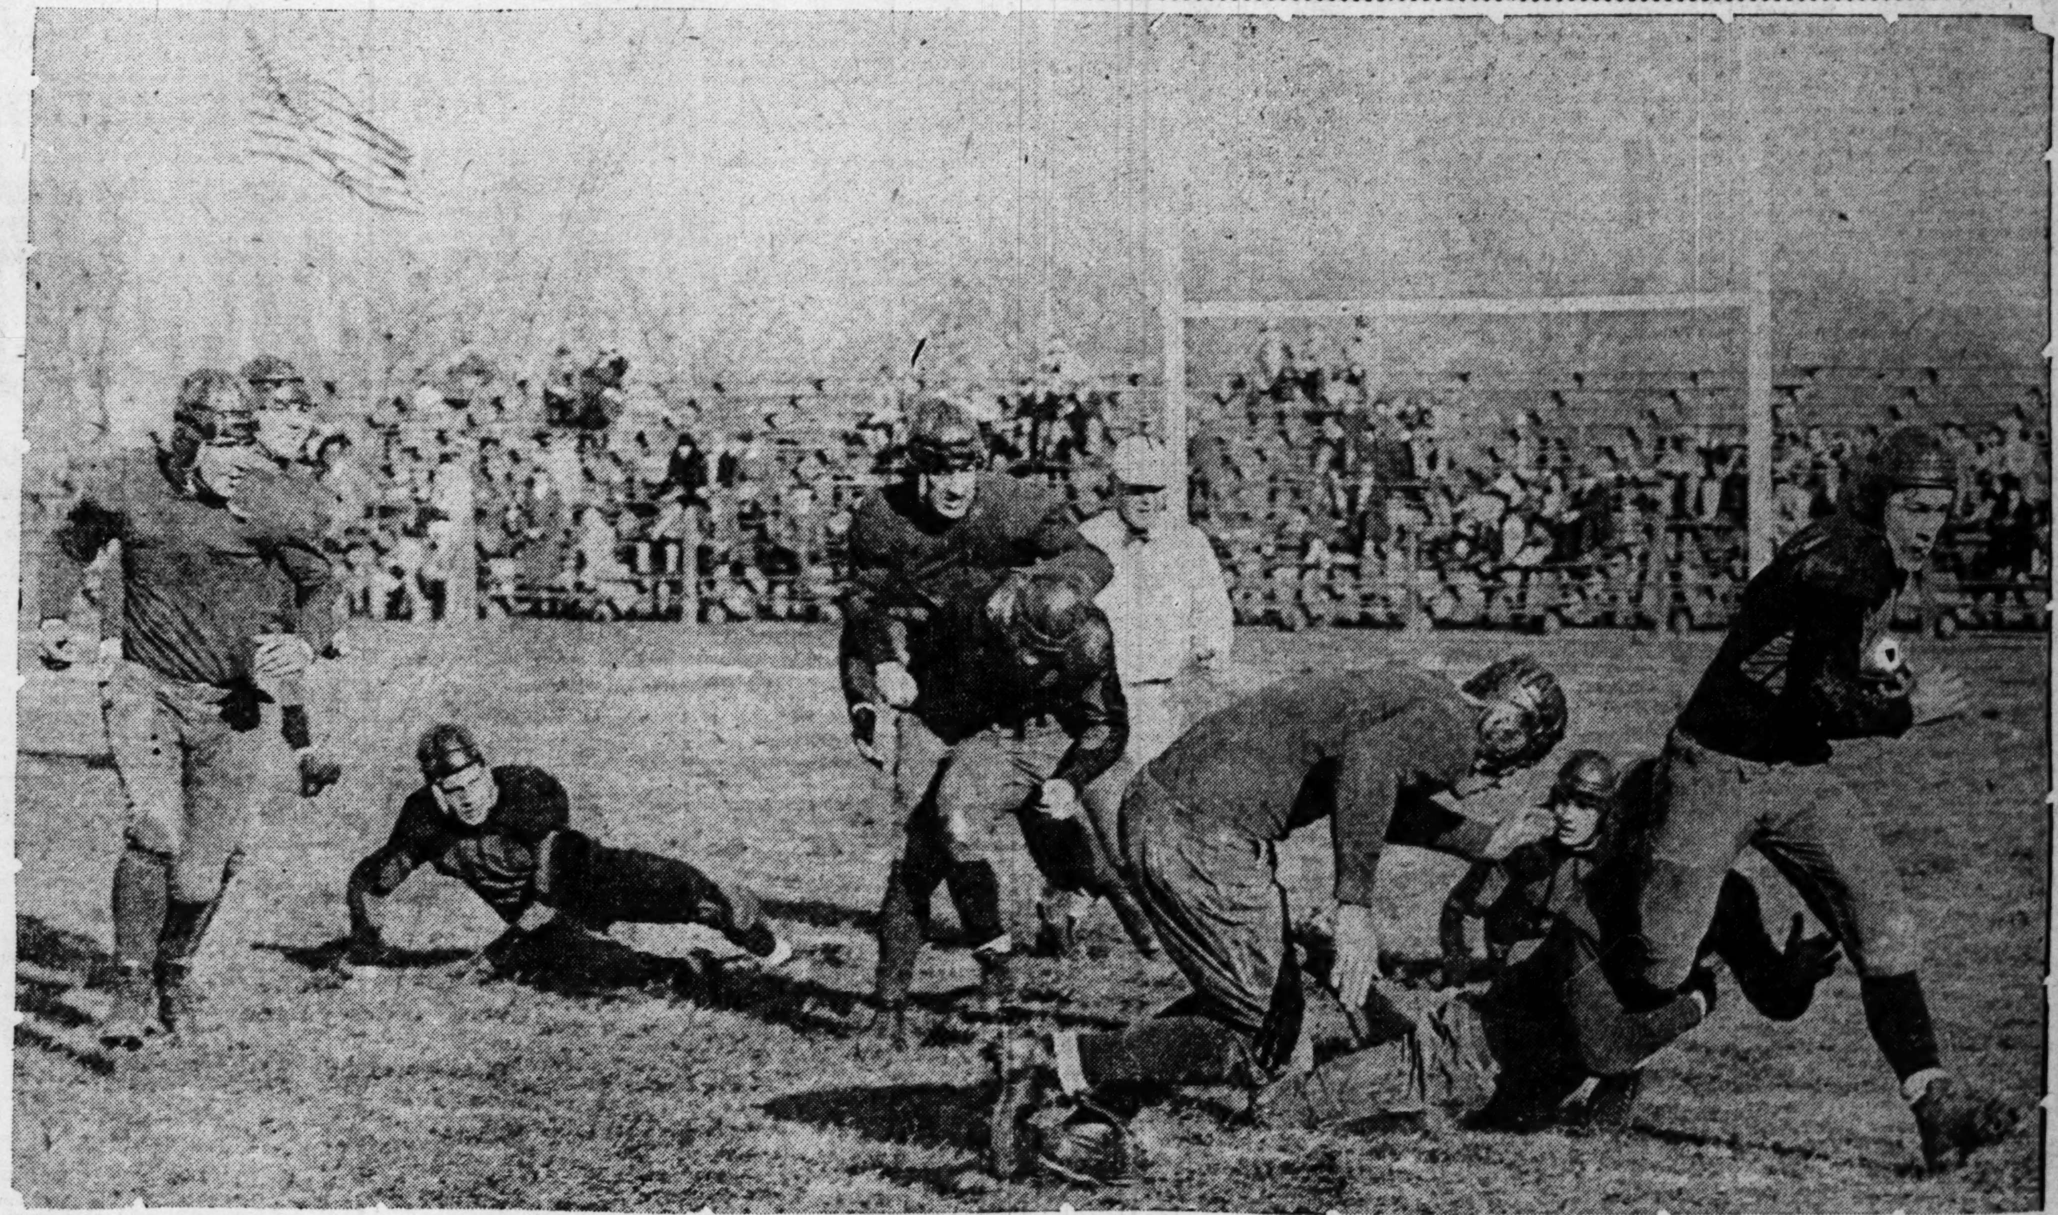
Ohio State Wins, 61-6.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—Except for one brilliant air attack, advancing the ball 62 yards to a touchdown, Denison could not stem the Ohio State drive today and lost, 61 to 6.

The game, witnessed by 16,610 fans—one of the smallest crowds ever to attend a contest in Ohio Stadium—was devoid of any concerted attack save that one long Denison flight to the goal.

Here's How Washington U. Stopped Grinnell's Attack



Evahn, Grinnell halfback, didn't have much luck when he tried to skirt Washington's right end in the second quarter. He was smeared by the Washington players before he could even get close to Tike Collins, the Bears' right wing.

WINGARD AND BENNETT SOLD TO MILWAUKEE

Brownie Pitcher and Outfielder Go to Brewers in Straight Cash Deal—No Other Players Involved.

Ernie Wingard, southpaw pitcher, and Herschel Bennett, reserve outfielder, have been sold to the Milwaukee club of the American Association, it was announced by Bill Friel, business manager of the St. Louis Americans yesterday afternoon. The two players go to the association team for cash, no other players figuring in the deal.

Wingard Had Poor Season.

Wingard came to the Browns from the University of Alabama in 1924, without any previous minor league experience. For a time it looked as though he would develop into one of the star left-handers of the game, but he never developed and in the past two campaigns his work has been nothing to crow about. The 1927 season was a disastrous one for the left-hander. He gained but two decisions, while he was charged with a total of 13 defeats.

Bennett, as a member of the Brownies, was never able to break in as a regular. He showed up well when used occasionally in the meadows, but when he was in the game regularly, he was never able to keep up his fast pace. He batted .269 in 1927.

Although the announcement of the deal stated that no players were involved, it is probable that some sort of an agreement whereby the Browns will get first call on the Milwaukee players will be made.

More Alert Army Eleven Beats Notre Dame, 18 to 0; Cadet Backs in Fine Form

Wilson Runs 40 Yards for Touchdown and Nave Sprints 55 Yards; Latter, West Point Quarterback, Praised by Rockne for Intelligent Generalship.

By Knute Rockne
Coach at Notre Dame.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—An inspired Army team came down from the plains today and decisively lambasted Notre Dame 18 to 0. The Army team is easily the best team Notre Dame has played this year, but even so the game was closer and more fiercely fought than the score indicates.

The game hadn't been going on for more than several minutes, when the Army punted on fourth down. One of the Notre Dame players, however, in rushing the kicker, brushed him and the Army was given the ball again with first down.

Wilson Sprints 40 Yards.

It was the first break of the game for the Army, because on the next play, Harry Wilson, on a beautiful run for 40 yards, scored the first touchdown. Fearful that this break had upset my shock troops, I immediately sent in the regulars. The game see-sawed back and forth until Cagel, Murrill and Wilson, on a combination of plunged passes and off-tackle plays carried the ball to the Notre Dame ten-yard line. The Irish defense stiffened and an Army pass was incompleted behind the goal line.

Jones then made several substitutions in his line and backfield. Immediately the whole Notre Dame power put in force and the team marched down the field 74 yards to the four-yard line.

On fourth down, Prelli went into the flat zone all by himself, but the passer, having poor grip on the ball, was able to throw it only part way. The half ended a few seconds later.

Notre Dame, choosing to receive the second kick-off, carried the ball back to midfield. On third down, Riley essayed a pass to Dahman, but the ball slipped off his hand away to one side and Nave, alert Army back, picked it

PITTSBURG IS VICTOR OVER NEBRASKA, 21-13

Gibby Welch Runs 94 and 71 Yards to Score Touchdowns for the Undefeated Panthers.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 12.—Led by the redoubtable Gibby Welch, backfield flash, the Pitt Panthers today crushed the football stalwarts of the University of Nebraska, 21 to 13, in one of the most important intersectional struggles of the year.

By their convincing triumph, the Panthers strengthened their position as one of the leading contenders for the Eastern championship A scoreless tie with Washington and Jefferson; also unbeaten, is the only blot on the Pitt record.

The game, a wide-open affair of the most sensational character, developed several individual heroes, but none to rival the brilliant Welch.

Runs 94 Yards to Score.

The game had no more than begun before Welch taking the opening kickoff, raced 94 yards for a touchdown. Again in the second period, Welch, on the receiving end of a long forward pass, dodged, twisted and squirmed his way 71 yards down the field for another score. Just before this amazing play, Jimmy Hagan, Pitt halfback broke loose around the Cornhuskers' left end and ran 63 yards for another touchdown. "Bullet" Booth, fullback, scored all three extra points.

This was all the scoring Pitt could accomplish but it was enough. After the second period.

Inter-City Game With Chicago Is Almost Assured

A TELEGRAM received yesterday by Manager B. B. Gould of the public high school football league from E. C. Delaporte, director of physical education in Chicago, appears to assure the proposed intercity game in St. Louis on Saturday, Nov. 26.

The telegram follows:

B. B. Gould,
Manager, St. Louis High School League.

Acting Superintendent of Schools and board approve intercity game at St. Louis, Nov. 26. Wire terms, number in party. Letter follows.

E. C. DELAPORTE.

The Board of Education permits the local champion in each sport to schedule one game with a school outside of St. Louis. Prior to last December the schools were limited to games within a 25-mile radius.

LEARY AND GEBERT HELP MARQUETTE TO BEAT HOLY CROSS, 12-6

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 12.—The West turned back an Eastern invasion today when Marquette University downed Holy Cross of Worcester, Mass, 12 to 6.

Tied at the half by virtue of both teams scoring touchdowns in the first period, Marquette gained the advantage through a brilliant passing attack, led by Gebert, that swept from the Holy Cross 38-yard mark across the visitor's goal line.

Marquette was the first to score in the opening period, an intercepted pass by Radick on the Holy Cross 23-yard line being converted into a touchdown, through a 10-yard pass to Corbett and the off-tackle smashes of Captain Leary and Gebert, with the latter scoring. Anderson missed a place-kick.

SARAZEN AND FARRELL PLAY HERE TODAY

Star Professionals Will Oppose Johnny Manion and Sutherland in Exhibition at Westwood.

Gene Sarazen, former national open golf champion, and Johnny Farrell, winner of eight open titles during the year, will play an exhibition over the Westwood course this afternoon, starting at 1:20 o'clock. They will be opposed by Johnny Manion, professional at Sunset, and Dave Sutherland, Westwood pro, in an 18-hole best ball match.

Sarazen and Farrell are on their way East, following their partici-

Washington University has had a football squad all season, but yesterday afternoon the squad was a team, a smoothly working gridiron machine, with a versatile and well-directed attack and a stubborn defense. Well conceived plays, the same plays that were futile against Missouri and against Oklahoma, were executed with precision, and as a result Coach Bob Higgins' Bear eleven crushed the Grinnell Pioneers, 18 to 7.

Ted Whittler, Bud Harnett and Tike Collins were outstanding figures in the performance of the Washington eleven, but it was more a team victory than a triumph for individuals. Harnett and Whittler smashed the Grinnell line for substantial gains. They dashed off tackle and crashed into the center of the line and circled the ends. They flipped passes and they caught others. Collins played a smashing game at end and snared a long pass from Whittler to score one of the three Washington touchdowns.

Team Shows Co-ordination.

But it was the co-ordinated attack, with every man doing his part and doing it well, that made it possible for Whittler and Harnett to do their stuff. It was a hard playing eleven, a well coached team, and to make it invincible the young men showed the spirit that makes for success on the gridiron.

Grinnell's lighter eleven was unable to cope with the battering attack of Harnett and Whittler and Bickel and was on the defensive throughout most of the game. The Pioneers made a determined thrust at the start of the battle, after receiving the Washington kick-off, but after carrying the ball to the Bears' 30-yard line they were repulsed, forced to kick and Washington, after an exchange of punts, marched 80 yards down the field to a touchdown and the upper hand.

A touchdown each period put

TIGERS BEATEN BY BULLDOGS, AFTER LEADING IN THIRD QUARTE

Long Forward Pass In Fourth Quarter Starts Eli's Rally

Fishwick Goes Across for Touchdown on 47-Yard Heave and Goal That Follows Puts Blue in Front—Hammersley, Subbing for Caldwell, Scores the Final Touchdown for New Haven.

By Alan J. Gould

Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—Yale snatched victory from Princeton today, 14 to 6, with a sensational last-period rally that turned the tide with dramatic swiftness just when it seemed that the big Blue football machine was stalled and powerless to score without the aid of its ineligible cog, Bruce Caldwell.

With as thrilling a finish as these ancient rivals have ever put on, the Elis came from behind with a sudden display of aerial fireworks, scoring both their touchdowns with not much more than five minutes to go and with Princeton seemingly putting up a stonewall barrier to keep the six-point margin gained in the second quarter when Eddie Wittmer dashed over for a touchdown.

Caldwell's Substitute Scores.

With an electrical suddenness that sent most of the vast crowd of 76,000 in the Yale Bowl into a delirious frenzy, Johnny Hoben, standing on Princeton's 47-yard line, hurled a long pass to Dwight Fishwick, giant end, who raced 25 yards for the first Blue touchdown. Duncan Cox, big fullback, booted the goal that put Yale into the lead and clinched the game, but the Elis, now rampant, rushed over another touchdown as Charlesworth recovered a fumble on the Tiger 20-yard mark and Bill Hammersley, in Caldwell's post, reeled off the remaining distance to the goal line in a series of short thrusts.

Within the playing space of not more than two or three minutes, Yale had broken down barriers that had seemed insurmountable, turned impending defeat into startling victory over a previously unbeaten Tiger team and lifted the Blue to a place at the top of the Eastern heap, all in spite of the tragic banishment of the Eli ace, Caldwell, and the loss of his all-around skill.

Barred Star on Bench.

For more than three-quarters of the game, however, it appeared that the absence of Caldwell and the scoring punch he had exhibited in most of the previous Eli games would cost Yale a keenly desired triumph over her ancient foe. In civilian clothes, tense and immovable, Caldwell himself sat on the Blue bench as he saw his teammates batter and lunge at the great Tiger line without scoring.

On two occasions, in the second period after Wittmer had plunged across the Eli goal as the climax of a 75-yard Tiger march, Caldwell watched his understudy, Johnny Garvey, fail to penetrate the Orange and Black wall with only three yards to go.

Princeton Stops Garvey.

On the first drive, with Yale making a first down on the Tiger three-yard stripe, Garvey hurled himself four straight times at the Princeton line, but on the fourth he was tossed back in the swirling mass, only six inches from the last chalk mark. Soon afterward, Yale again penetrated to the three-yard line as Garvey twisted his way forward in brilliant fashion, but again the Tiger barrier held. Garvey not only was unable to gain in two thrusts but was thrown for a two-yard loss on the last dash.

The huge and colorful crowd cheered Garvey's heroic efforts to the Echo was in the back of their minds was the thought: "What would Yale have done with Caldwell in there?" Caldwell himself might also have found the Tiger line impenetrable, but there would have been less sting for the Elis had "Galloping Bruce" been at his customary post, leading the charge.

CALDWELL CHEERS FROM BENCH AS YALE TEAM WINS

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.

FROM his seat on the Yale bench, Bruce Caldwell leaped to his feet with an unrestrained yell of joy this afternon as Fishwick broke clear of the Princeton protective screen and flashed over the Tiger line for the tying score.

Up to Tuesday night, Caldwell had been justified in modestly picturing himself in Fishwick's role, but any regret he may have felt that the eleventh-hour imposition of the ineligibility rule had benched him was completely submerged in pulling for his team.

Cox kicked the point which broke the tie and again Caldwell joined most of the 80,000 spectators in unmelodious but appreciative acclaim, which billowed and surged above the bowl again as Hammersley marched to the second touchdown. After the game, Caldwell refused numerous offers to write a description of the game as viewed from the bench. He also refused all attempts at interviews.

Hoben-to-Fishwick Forward Pass Scores Eli Touchdown

Then the Storm Broke.

It was a gloomy figure that huddled on the Yale bench and a gloom-riddled Eli cheering section that, having sen the Blue warriors try and fail, was suddenly whipped into the most excited outburst when "out of a clear sky" Fishwish grabbed Hoben's pass and raced for the tying touchdown. It was fourth down and seven yards to go when this play was completed—fourth down, the Elis had just been set back by penalties and the ball was on the Tiger 47-yard line when the big shot exploded.

Eli enthusiasts broke loose in as wild a demonstration as the big bowl has seen in years. The score was tied, but Yale needed the extra point to go ahead and there was a sudden hush as Duncan Cox carefully sighted the uprights for the decisive try for goal. Cox's toe landed true and the pigskin sailed up through the posts to the accompaniment of another echoing roar.

Another Touchdown.

This kick decided the game, but Yale continued on. Garvey, battered and bruised, had spent himself in Caldwell's post in the first half, but another understudy, Bill Hammersley, was ready with the final scoring punch.

The opportunity came when Dud Charlesworth, alert Eli center and defensive star of the game, pounced on a fumble by Wittmer on the Tiger 20-yard mark. It took only four thrusts by Hammersley to cover this distance and give the Elis their final touchdown, to which Cox added another point with his unerring toe.

In the closing moments of the game Princeton threatened to score as Scarlett, subbing for Wittmer, led a 57-yard advance to Yale's 23-yard line, but here four long passes were blocked and the last Tiger hope was extinguished.

pation in the professional championship event at Dallas, Tex., won for the fourth successive time by Walter Hagen. Both Sarazen and Farrell were eliminated in one of the early rounds.

Sarazen has been rated as one of the leading "pros" in the country for several years, while Farrell has come into prominence within the last two years. Earlier in the year Farrell was going at such a pace that he averaged victory in an open tournament almost every two weeks. Both players have participated in all the major events of the year.

Manion has been playing better golf this season than ever and is the holder of the St. Louis professional championship.

Distance Runners Good Up to 50 Years Or More, Jack Moakley Tells "Y" Boys

Cornell Coach, Former Olympic Trainer, Declares American College Athletes Retire Too Soon.

America's Supremacy Weakened Because U. S. Athletes Retire 10 Years Before 'Peak' Is Attained.

By Jack Alexander.

JACK MOAKLEY.

American supremacy in the track and field events at the Olympic games is not seriously threatened at present, was the opinion given yesterday in an interview by Jack Moakley, track coach at Cornell and trainer of Olympic candidates.

"If there is a threat anywhere, it is developing in Germany," he continued. "The other nations give little evidence of overthrowing us in this line. Germany was coming along at a great clip in track and field events when the war upset things.

"But the Germans are buckling down again and going about developing athletes in a serious way and in the course of a number of years they will have something to show for it."

Moakley explained that the preeminence of the United States was due chiefly to the fact that we outnumber other nations so far in population and athletic participation that the law of averages guarantees us the strongest teams.

Number of U. S. Athletes Increases.

"The men who survive the Olympic tests and make our team have to be top-notch athletes," said Moakley. "We have plenty of good track athletes in this country and their number is increasing. More coaches and more general instruction-coaching schools and the like—are doing a lot to strengthen us."

Coach Moakley, who was here attending the convention of Cornell alumni, spoke to about 200 high school athletes at the Y. M. C. A., Friday, and explained to them the advantage of continuing their track work after leaving school. Failure of American athletes to do this, he said, has caused us to lose ground in distance running.

"The great distance runners today," he said, "are men who are 10 years, or more, older than our college athletes. Paavo Nurmi, for instance. And Dr. Pelzar, the German. A distance runner reaches his highest developments at this stage of his career. A good feature of it is that a man can continue actively in this kind of work up to the age of 50 or 55, or even more."

Emphasizing the importance of proper timing of stride, Coach Moakley laid down a few brief pointers on the question of training, which follow:

Don't eat or drink between meals. The stomach comes first. If it is off, the athlete is not at his best. At Cornell meals before competition consist of lamb, beef or chicken (cold, roasted or broiled and toast and tea. Steak may be substituted.

If you have a sickening feeling, don't eat before competition. Many fine athletes compete without having eaten for 8 or 10 hours. Be your own judge of this.

Don't worry if you are nervous before competition. Many athletes are thus affected without their ability suffering. If inclined to be nervous, don't eat steak before competing; stick to the diet outlined.

When in training, don't drink milk, except in the morning or evening. Tea i much better—or plain ater.

Oil and massage the feet after workouts. A mixture of one part wintergreen with five parts sweet oil is a good mixture. This is a point frequently overlooked. Bruises from running spikes and sharp objects make this step advisable.

Keep bowels in good shape or you- effectiveness will be badly cut down.

For any kind of stomach disorder, try first a cup of hot water. If that doesn't work, see a doctor.

Breathe through both nose and mouth when working out. You can't inhale enough air through the nose alone. However, in cold weather breathe through nose only until the throat becomes warmed up.

Showers after a workout should be of body temperature—never cold. If you feel exhausted, make your shower a warm one.

A point on cross-country running—run fairly flatfooted, that is, land on the ball of the foot. Always run at right angles to the ground. If going uphill, throw your head back; if downhill, run loosely.

Warming up is an important thing. Always wear plenty of clothing, even if it feels heavy.

The feat of Dan O'Leary and West in winning a six-day walk in England gave track its first impetus in this country, Coach Moakley said. O'Leary is still going at the age of 86.

There were only professional athletes, at first, but the amateurs began to develop and there was much interest in the matter of training.

Ideas on this subject have changed considerably since then. Coach Moakley told of one training rule which was taught him as a boy. It was to carry a lemon in one pocket and an egg in the other while working out. Then it was considered a good thing to "sweat the athlete to a shadow." This idea has also passed out.

In concluding Coach Moakley advocated a return to gymnastic exercises as a foundation for track work. He contends that the mere games which are now used for development are insufficient.

Illinois Beats Chicago for Fourth Big Ten Victory Before 50,000 Crowd, 15-6

Zuppke's Team Must Now Defeat Ohio State to Clinch Conference Championship, Winners Play Hard, Smart Brand of Football to Trim Maroons.

By Charles W. Dunkley

Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 12.—Illinois, bounding along the highway that leads to the Western Conference gridiron championship, knocked Chicago over, 15 to 6, before upwards of 50,000 spectators, and began licking its chops over the prospects of walloping Ohio State in the climax of the race a week hence.

The "fighting Illini," to come into undisputed possession of the title must conquer the Buckeyes, as they conquered Michigan, Northwestern, Iowa and Chicago.

Illini Plays Smarter Game.

Illinois, faster, harder-running and playing smarter football than the battered and bruised Maroons, smashed over with two touchdowns and was on the verge of scoring a third when the bark of the gun ended the game. The Maroons, crippled through the loss of their captain, Kenneth Rouse, rated as one of the best centers in the Big Ten, if not in the West, offered only feeble resistance. Their only score came when an Illinois fumble was recovered 10 yards from the Illini goal line and they pulled the lateral pass play out of the bag.

With Capt. Rouse out of the proceedings, Chicago's defense was seriously weakened, and its offensive failed utterly except for a spurt at the beginning of the second half. Chicago made only one first down compared with 19 for the Illini. The Maroon attempts to gain through the line were futile. Capt. Bob Reitsch, the Illini center, and the other Illinois forwards checking the Chicago ball carriers with little or no gain.

Illini Gains Early Lead.

The Illinois warriors played a smart, tricky game, following the ball alertly with Walker, Timm, Humbert and d'Ambrosio leading the attack that constantly advanced the ball deep into Chicago's territory. Walker, substituting for Douglas Mills, regular left halfback, came through in glorious fashion. He carried the ball 19 times for a total gain of 103 yards, punted beautifully and scored both of the Illinois touchdowns. He was rushed into the game when Mills was called home because of the death of his father.

Before the game was a few seconds old, Illinois was presented with two points when Anderson, Chicago left halfback, registered a safety. Anderson, punting from his 11-yard line, booted the ball low and hard and it was blocked by Nowack. Before Anderson know what had happened, the oval came bounding back across Chicago's goal line. He dove on it and was tackled by a trio of Illinois linemen before he could scramble to his feet.

Illinois' first touchdown, scored in the second period, was the result of sensational running by Timm and Walker. Timm got away on a beautiful 35-yard dash to Chicago's 13-yard line, stepping out around left end. Walker, on the next play, circled around right end, behind perfect interference, for a touchdown. Nowack added the extra point with a goal from placement.

Score Twice in Fourth.

Alternating with D'Ambrosio and piercing Chicago's line, Walker chalked up the second marker in the fourth period, ploughing over from the two-yard line after the Chicago defense had stiffened. Walker was barely able to get the ball across after he and D'Ambrosio made four attempts to break through. Nowack failed to kick goal for the extra point.

After Illinois had scored its second marker the Maroons employed a lateral pass to score after recovering a fumble on Illinois' 10-yard line. Humbert, Illinois' big fullback, messed up a pass from center, with Greenebaum recovering for Chicago. Libby cracked a yard through tackle and on the next play grabbed a lateral pass from Burgess and ducked around Chicago's right end for nine yards and across Illinois' goal for a touchdown Libby barely snared the ball, making a one-handed catch, but he quickly showed his heels to the Illinois pursuers after getting his arms firmly around the oval. Mendenhall's try for the point after touchdown was blocked.

Joe Dundee's Suit Against Wisconsin Commission Fails

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12.

FEDERAL JUDGE F. A. DEIGER dismissed the suit of Joe Dundee of Baltimore, welterweight champion, against the Wisconsin Boxing Commission here today.

Dundee sought collection of $10,000 guaranteed him for his bout here Sept. 11 with Pinky Mitchell of Milwaukee, which was stopped in the fifth round because the referee claimed the boxers were stalling.

Indiana Defeats Northwestern, 18-7.

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 12. — A fighting, alert Indiana team swept the Northwestern Wildcats to a decisive 18 to 7 defeat before 37,000 persons in a homecoming football game at Dyche Stadium this afternoon. The defeat was the fourth in a row for Northwestern, several of whose stars today were forced to watch the game from the sidelines because of injuries.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 12.—Minnesota got away to a flying first half start and piled up enough points to coast through to an easy 27 to 6 victory over Drake here today.

Iowa Spoils Badger Homecoming, 16-0.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 12.—Flashing a brilliant attack backed by a defense that proved virtually impenetrable, Iowa spoiled Wisconsin's home-coming celebration today by downing the Badgers 16 to 0.

Purdue Runs Wild Over Franklin, 46-0.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 12. — Purdue's second string backfield, performing behind a capable reserve forward wall, scored seven touchdowns with little effort to defeat Franklin, 46 to 0, here today.

CALIFORNIA IS DEFEATED BY WASHINGTON

Huskies Smash Through to Lone Touchdown in Second Quarter—40,000 See Thrilling Game.

By the Associated Press.

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 12. — A Washington juggernaut today crushed the University of California Golden Bear, 6 to 0, in a thrilling battle that kept 40,000 spectators in doubt until the final whistle.

Struggling on a muddy field, the two powerful elevens see-sawed up and down the field in a game as fiercely fought as any ever witnessed here.

Backed by the efforts of two brawny halfbacks, Louis Tesreau and Chuck Carroll, the team from the North drove down the field with powerful lunges to threaten California's goal three times in the first period. Each time they lost the ball but another thrust, just after the second quarter opened, brought the only touchdown of the game. Carroll crashed over but Wilson's try for point was unsuccessful.

BILLIKEN FRESHMEN BEAT BARRACKS, 12-0

The St. Louis University freshmen defeated the Jefferson Barracks army post eleven yesterday at St. Louis U. field, 12 to 0.

"Snake" Gazelle and "Firpo" Joseph did most of the ground gaining for the yearlings. Maxwell, freshman halfback, scored the first touchdown, diving across from the five-yard mark.

An 18-yard gain through line by Drees put the ball in position for the second touchdown. Plunges by Joseph and Gazelle pushed the ball across, the latter scoring the touchdown.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Reason for Severity.

THE public generally is sympathetic with Earl Sande, who has been deprived of his livelihood as a jockey by the Maryland Racing Commission. Sande, the commission ruled, committed a wilful foul in shutting off Reigh Count in the Pimlico Futurity. Besides endangering the life of Jockey Lang by his tactics, Sande utterly uined all hope of Reigh Count's winning $53,000.

Reigh Count Friday defeated the horses that were placed one, two, three in front of him in the Futurity race. The net result of Sande's foul, therefore, was to deprive Reigh Count's stable of more than $50,000.

There is no way in which the commission could compensate the owners of Reigh Count for the loss of the winner's share. But in handing Sande the severest penalty possible, and in attracting world-wide attention to the case, the commission will have effectively warned other jockeys not to attempt similar tricks.

The Sande penalty was deserved if only because Sande actually jeopardized the lives of one or more riders. A few more hard-boiled rulings of the sort will take all the rough out of our rough riders.

Look Who's Here!

ED LEWIS and Joe Stecher no longer monopolize title-claiming laurels in the mat world. Meet Herr Hans Steinke of Deutchland. Hans is not ueber alles, but he would like to be, as witness a $5000 forfeit deposited with the Illinois Athletic Commission, which Hans and his backers are prepared to forfeit if Lewis or Stecher can throw him twice in three falls. Furthermore, Hans has on deposit, so dispatches relate, $5000 with the Los Angeles Commission, $1000 in Omaha and $2500 each in Pennsylvania and New York. As yet Hans hasn't picked on Missouri.

Hans is a big boy brought over about three years ago. He has not made much headway. As with all wrestlers, Hans advances the claim that he could not get matches unless he agreed to lie horizontal while his "trust" opponents gained the credit. His record as it stands is not particularly formidable, but records, in the mat game, mean about as much as chariot races in a circus.

Hans may or may not be the goods. The fact remains that he is willing to risk his or somebody's money for a chance at the two best advertised title claimers.

Think of Missouri.

EVERY election day in Kentucky sees the fight against racing in that State brought back to momentary life, then killed.

Just why anyone in Kentucky should object to racing as conducted in that State is not clear. Kentucky represents the peak of high-class racing, an historic institution that is entitled to a permanent niche. In addition, it annually sponsors the most interesting event in turf affairs of the country, the Derby.

What causes the greatest wonderment of all is that the State is so heavily involved in the breeding industry that the abolition of racing would strike heavily at one of the most important activities in the Commonwealth.

Racing in Kentucky is under State supervision and the public is protected both by law and by excellently managed racing associations.

In Mizzou.

IF the conscientious objectors of Kentucky could see conditions in Missouri, for example, they would appreciate their racing advantages.

In Missouri under a Supreme Court ruling, racing can be held without State supervision, without regulation of the betting, without license fees or other revenue to the State and without any protection for the public.

St. Louis has just witnessed a comic opera effort to run off a race meeting at Creve Coeur Lake. Only those who attended this farcical meeting can appreciate the ludicrousness of the enterprise. It is said that the Kansas City meeting was not much better.

Missouri needs what Kentucky has—a racing commission, with legalized pari-mutuel betting, a limited takeout and a $2000 a day fee to the State for major tracks.

That would mean high-class racing, protection for the public and revenue for the State—big revenue.

Sprague again missed goal, making the score 12 to 0. The Army offense again swung into play, [illegible] ly in the fourth quarter.

Notre Dame held on the 2 [illegible] line and took the ball away [illegible] downs. Niemiec punted safely [illegible] of danger and it was Army's ball at the [illegible] in midfield. Several running [illegible] failed, but on the third down, [illegible] threw a beautiful pass to [illegible] who had slipped past a [illegible] man covering him and this [illegible] footed star cinched the victory [illegible] the Army. The Army missed [illegible] third goal, though it made no difference.

With five minutes to play [illegible] Jones withdrew Wilson, [illegible] and Cagel and Notre Dame [illegible] diately began its last rally. [illegible] from her own 20-yard line, [illegible] Dame marched the ball to [illegible] yard line. It looked like a [illegible] touchdown, but time was called [illegible] just this moment.

The Army team played a [illegible] game. The team is [illegible] stronger than it has been this [illegible] being strengthened particularly [illegible] the addition of Nave, quarte[illegible] Nave ran his team very intel[illegible] ly and used Murrill, Cagel and Wilson, as fine a trio as [illegible] found in the country, [illegible] judgment.

The Army line, according to [illegible] Jones, played a lot better than [illegible] has any time this year. The [illegible] ends and tackles were superb. [illegible] is true that Army got most of the breaks, but this was due to the fact that they were more alert, more intent and seemed to be full of dash and resiliency, every [illegible] ond.

Always a Hard Game.

The Notre Dame team looked a little tired, but perhaps the Army's furious play contributed to this appearance. There is no game where two teams fight harder than when Notre Dame plays the Army. [illegible] ever, it was an extremely [illegible] game and the boys on each [illegible] were picking each other up [illegible] seemed to be playing the game [illegible] though they enjoyed it.

The tackling of the Notre Dame team in the first half was terrible and I couldn't for a while believe it was a Notre Dame team. They were also not alert. The Army were a lot of hawks on the ball and their tackling was deadly. If there were any stars on the Notre Dame team, they were Smith at guard and Miller at tackle. In fact the whole Notre Dame [illegible] played pretty fair ball. The [illegible] field played in spurts.

It was an Army day and I [illegible] gratulate Biff Jones and his assistants on their fine football [illegible] They deserved to win though [illegible] not such a large score. We [illegible] next year it will be another [illegible] and that is what we at Notre Dame are looking forward to with [illegible]

OLYMPIC SOCCER TEAM PRACTICE AT FAIRGROUNDS

Coaches Find an Absence of Good Forwards — To 'Scout' Municipal League Games Today.

The first organized effort to develop a soccer team to represent St. Louis in the national trials for the Olympic games was launched yesterday afternoon at Fairground Park when 30 players of the Municipal League displayed their talents before the critical eyes of five veteran coaches.

At the conclusion of the workout, all the players were ordered to report again next Saturday at the same place. No definite selections or rejections will be made until after at least three weeks of training, a spokesman for the coaching staff said. Billy Klostermann, Paul McSweeney, Dick Jarrett, John Amman and John Finnegan, members of the coaching staff, directed yesterday's practice. Today, this committee, as well as Richard Brannigan, another member of the staff, will view the Municipal League games in the public parks and will make further selections of players.

"In the main, there appears to be an absence of good forwards," said a member of the coaching staff last night. "Of the 30 players we watched this afternoon, there was scarcely one good forward. One encouraging feature of the task which confronts us is that the boys are apt pupils and seem eager to learn. We hope to be able to accomplish a lot of good as we receive the co-operation of the team managers."

out of the air and ran 55 yards for their second touchdown.

Irish Hold on 2-Yard Line.

Sprague again missed goal, making the score 12 to 0. The Army offense again swung into play, early in the fourth quarter.

Notre Dame held on the 2 yard line and took the ball away on downs. Niemiec punted safely out of danger and it was Army's ball in midfield. Several running plays failed, but on the third down, Nave threw a beautiful pass to Cagle, who had slipped past a secondary man covering him and this fleet-footed star cinched the victory for the Army. The Army missed the third goal, though it made no difference.

With five minutes to play Biff Jones withdrew Wilson, Murrill and Cagel and Notre Dame immediately began its last rally. Starting from her own 20-yard line, Notre Dame marched the ball to the 3-yard line. It looked like a sure touchdown, but time was called at just this moment.

The Army team played a great game. The team is probably stronger than it has been this year, being strengthened particularly by the addition of Nave, quarterback. Nave ran his team very intelligently and used Murrill, Cagel and Wilson, as fine a trio as can be found in the country, with rare judgment.

The Army line according to Biff Jones, played a lot better than it has any time this year. The two ends and tackles were superb. It is true that Army got most of the breaks, but this was due to the fact that they were more alert, more intent and seemed to be full of dash and resiliency, every second.

Always a Hard Game.

The Notre Dame team looked a little tired, but perhaps the Army's furious play contributed to this appearance. There is no game where two teams fight harder than when Notre Dame plays the Army. However, it was an extremely clean game and the boys on each side were picking each other up and seemed to be playing the game as though they enjoyed it.

The tackling of the Notre Dame team in the first half was terrible and I couldn't for a while believe it was a Notre Dame team. They were also not alert. The Army were a lot of hawks on the ball and their tackling was deadly. If there were any stars on the Notre Dame team, they were Smith, at guard and Miller at tackle. In fact the whole Notre Dame line played pretty fair ball. The backfield played in spurts.

It was an Army day and I congratulate Biff Jones and his assistants on their fine football team. They deserved to win though by not such a large score. We hope next year it will be another story and that is what we at Notre Dame are looking forward to with zest.

CHESS TITLE PLAYERS DRAW 22D TIME

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 12.—The twenty-eighth game for the world's chess championship, which was adjourned Thursday, today was declared a draw after the forty-third move. In the resumed game, only three moves were necessary.

In the present series Alekhine has won four games, Capablanca two. Twenty-two games have been drawn. The twenty-ninth game will be played Monday.

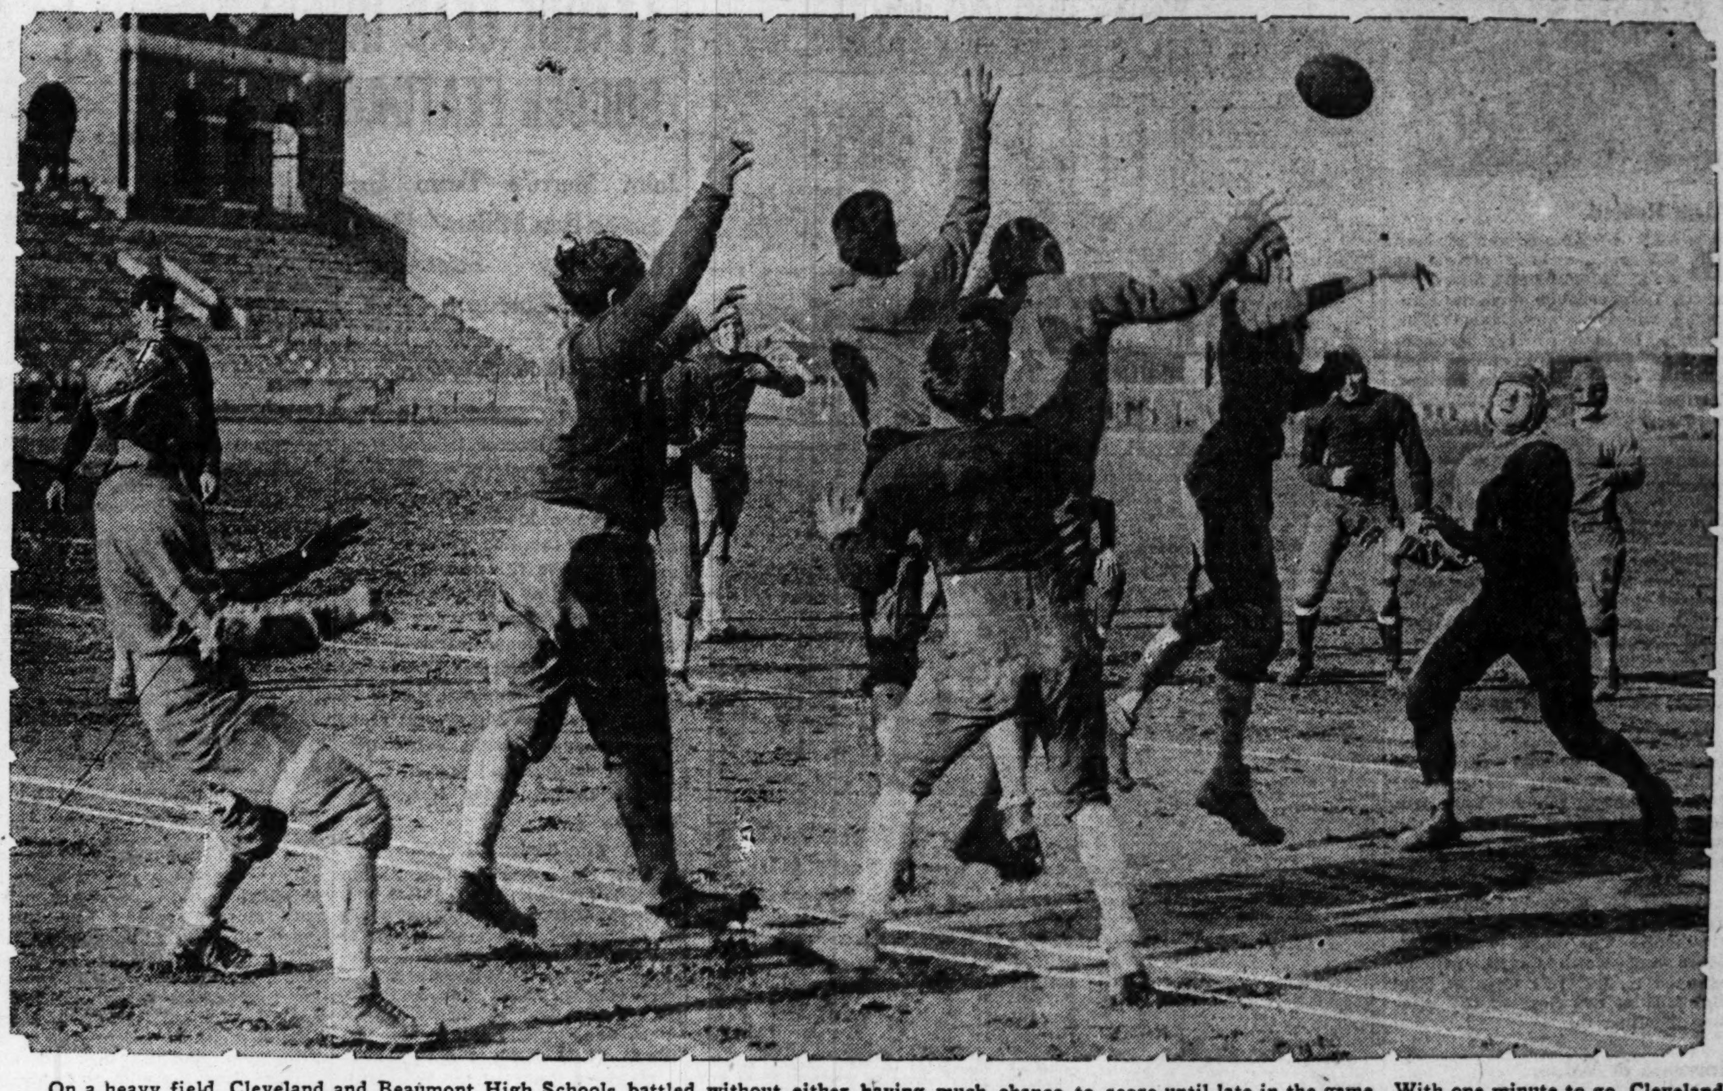
Cleveland's Best Bid for Touchdown Fails at Beaumont's Goal Line



On a heavy field, Cleveland and Beaumont High Schools battled without either having much chance to score until late in the game. With one minute to go, Cleveland, then close to Beaumont's goal, heaved a forward pass intended to be received across the line. You can guess, from all the enemy hands reaching up, that it failed. It did. (For details see third page, this section.)

PITTSBURG IS WINNER OVER NEBRASKA

Nebraska's defense tightened and although the Panthers several times were in a position to score, they could not develop the necessary punch in the crisis.

Although shadowed by contrast with Welch's performance today, Glenn Presnell, great halfback for the Cornhuskers, showed the East why he has been called one of the finest halfbacks in the game. Presnell crashed through the fighting Pitt line for a number of long gains.

Nebraska Scores in First.

Nebraska's first score came in the opening period. Alternate line plunges by Presnell and Howell, took the ball to within scoring distance. Howell carried the ball across and McMullen kicked the extra point.

The visitors' second and final touchdown was scored in the third period. With Howell and Presnell again carrying the ball, the Westerners advanced to the one-yard line. Here the Pitt line tossed Presnell for a 2-yard loss, but Howell scored on the next play. McMullen missed the extra point.

During the closing minutes of play, the Cornhuskers resorted to a wild forward passing attack. One or two of the passes went for long gains, but the game ended with Nebraska still far away from the goal line.

The visitors scored 11 first downs to six for Pitt and gained 167 yards on running plays to 150 for the Panthers.

BRANCH RICKEY GOING HUNTING WITH PASTOR AND COLLEGE HEAD

BENTON, Ill., Nov. 12.—Branch Rickey, business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, is coming to Benton Monday to hunt quail and see some of the Southern Illinois territory. With him will be Dr. Cameron Harmon, president of McKendree College.

Rickey and his companion will be guests of the Rev. T. B. McClain, pastor of the Methodist Church, who will entertain them during the day and pilot them on the hunting expedition.

In the evening at the First Methodist Church Rickey will address a gathering of men and boys. The address will follow a dinner which is to be served by the ladies of the church.

Washington Is Winner Over Grinnell Team

the Bears in the lead, 18 to 0, after three quarters, and then, with the second and third string athletes in the Washington battle front, the Pioneers recovered a fumble and a 60-yard run produced their one touchdown. Not at all worried by this break, Coach Higgins continued to send in third stringers, and when the final gun sounded the bench was empty and a pony backfield and an entirely new line were holding their own with the enemy.

Last Valley Conference Tilt.

It was homecoming day, but only about 4000 persons attended the contest, the last for Washington University in the Missouri Valley Conference, as that organization is now constituted. However, the 4000 were treated to a convincing demonstration of the power of the Washington machine and as a result of the triumph there are high hopes on the Pikeway campus now that the Bears will finish the season gloriously by beating the St. Louis University Billikens in the Thanksgiving day struggle.

Perhaps the most pleasing feature of the Washington performance was the versatility of the attack. In the first quarter the machine made six consecutive first downs, marching from the Bear 20-yard line to the Grinnell goal, scoring a touchdown without resorting to the forward pass. Whittler and Harnett were the stars of this drive and Whittler made the final thrust at the line, smashing through the Grinnell line for the touchdown.

Big Gain on a Pass.

In the second quarter the Bears gained possession of the ball on the Grinnell 26-yard line when Schimmers recovered after Rose of Grinnell fumbled. Whittler made a yard through center and then two passes were incomplete, the Bears being penalized five yards for the second. A third attempt through the air certainly was not expected and that's what made it a smart play. Bickel feigned to punt and then passed to Whittler, who was downed on the Pioneers' 12-yard mark. Harnett hit the line for a yard or two and Whittler was thrown for a loss. But the Bears were not to be stopped. If the line held, there was always the air, and this time Big Bud Harnett grabbed a toss from Bickel and went over the goal line for the second Washington touchdown.

Just as the gun ended the first half, the Bears again were charging toward the Grinnell goal line. A pass, Bickel to Lohrding, was good for 20 yards, putting the ball on the Pioneers' 30-yard mark. Two line plays netted eight yards and Lohrding snared Harding's pass and carried the ball to the 11-yard mark just as the pistol barked.

There was another sustained Washington attack in the third period, and aonther touchd This charge started on the 36-yard line after Duncan had turne da punt 10 yards. Bickel circled right end for three yards and Harnett squirmed through center for six. Whittler hit the same hole for four and first down and Harnett hit left tackle for six. Whittler added three through the line and Harnett made it first down on Grinnell's 36-yard line. Harnett cracked right tackle for four and then came the prettiest forward pass of the day. Whittler put all he had into his toss and the ball sailed to the distant right corner of the gridiron. Tike Collins ha dto sprint for all he was worth to get down for the pass, but he was there. He leape dinto the air and made the catch over his shoulder. Two or three Pioneers were on him, but he was only four or five yards from the goal line and he dragged his tacklers with him over the double chalk mark.

That made the score 18 to 0, Whittler consistently missing his third attempt for extra point after touchdown.

Reserves Finish Out Game.

By this time the Bear reserves were being rushed into the battle front and the rest of the game was not so good. There was not the same co-ordination to the attack and with the defense weakened the Grinnell backs found it easier to puncture the Bear line. In the fourth period the Bears looked like the Bruins who failed against Oklahoma and could do not better than hold Westminster even. But the game was won and it was a wise move to give the reserves a chance under fire. They will have to man the positions regularly perhaps, in the future, and it takes experience to make a football player smart.

Washington intercepted a pass on Grinnell's 35-yard line, lost five yards on a penalty for offside and lers was trying to hit the line the pass from center slipped of his hands. Kingery, scooping up the loose ball, had a clear field and he raced 60 yards for a touchdown. McIntire added the extra point with a place kick and during the rest of the game neither goal was in danger.

Duncan, Millard, Harding and Evans called signals for the Bears and Duncan's work stood out. Perhaps it was because he had the first string team behind him. However, he looks like the best quarter on the squad and in addition is a splendid safety man. Bob Evans was sent in at quarter for a few minutes and distinguished himself. He knows about interference and was in the thick of every play. On one attack at the line he smeared two men trying to grab the ball carrier.

It was a team victory, though, not a parade of individual skill, and that's why the Bears won. Scheib at center, Drake and Hoffman and Schimmers at guard, Paris and Comstock at tackle and McCarroll and Collins at end—they all were on their toes, every minute. That's why there were sustained drives down the field, line smashes and end runs and forward passes that were caught.

Billikens Must Face Creighton at Omaha Saturday

COACH BOB MATHEWS and his St. Louis University football men took yesterday off and saw the Washington-Grinnell contest as guests of the Bears. On Friday the Bears were guests of the Billikens at the St. Louis-Detroit game.

The Billikens will start work tomorrow for their game next Saturday with Creighton University at Omaha, Neb. The Creighton eleven has an impressive record, with victories over Utah, Marquette, North Dakota and South Dakota State, and a tie with Oklahoma. Creighton lost, however, to the Oklahoma Aggies.

No Billikens were injured in the Detroit defeat and the squad will probably face Creighton at full strength, as Tison, a tackle, may have rounded into shape by then. Five days after playing Creighton the Billikens will meet Washington at Sportsman's Park, on Thanksgiving day.

Foley's Atlanta Dog Track Closed Pending Hearing

Legality of Contribution Form of Betting to Be Decided Tuesday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 12.—With approximately $100,000 invested in a handsome plant 16 miles south of Atlanta, promoters of the Dixie Lake Kennel Club are awaiting the result of a hearing, next Tuesday, before Superior Court Judge John B. Hutcheson, that may determine the future of dog racing in this state.

There is no state law prohibiting dog or horse racing, but stringent regulations forbid betting on such contests, and it is the allegation that betting was conducted in violation of the Georgia law that stopped the club after it had operated two nights, with marked success.

Five thousand persons attended the opening night, November 3, and nearly that many the following night. The crowd included socially prominent Atlantans.

The following day, acting upon petition of 41 residents of Campbell County, Solicitor-General Claude C. Smith instituted proceedings to close the track, obtaining a temporary injunction from Judge Hutcheson that barred the making of bets, but did not bar the racing. The operators forthwith closed the track, pending the hearing, declaring that it cost approximately $3,500 in purse money and other expenses each night, and that they could not operate solely upon the 50-cent admission fee.

It is understood here that the track was backed by Tony Foley, promoter of the Ramona Dog Track in St. Louis County, and that the plant was largely financed by him. Some stock in the venture was disposed of to residents of Campbell County, largely in the effort to secure good will.

Sheriff's Sons Employed at Track

Two sons of Sheriff Camp of that county were employed in construction work on the track. Bettinb booths at the track were labeled "contribution booths," there being 24 for placing the wagers and 24 for paying off. The tickets were carefully worded in the manner employed in Missouri and elsewhere.

Forty thousand dollars changed hands on the outcome of the races the first two nights, the prosecutor alleged, and it is understood that the promoters were generally pleased with the financial end of the venture until the court stepped in.

Hearing on the injunction petition was originally set for last Tuesday, but postponed upon plea of defense counsel to allow more time for preparing their case, meanwhile the dogs are held at the track and exercised daily, but the venture is bringing in no returns to its promoters.

BROWN-JOSTIES DOUBLES TEAM RANKED FIRST

District Tennis Partners Went Through the Season Without Suffering a Defeat.

By Davison Obear.

The Ranking Committee of the St. Louis District Tennis Association has completed its task of naming the men players on the basis of their showing in the various tournaments held in St. Louis during the 1927 season. Several weeks ago the committee announced the men's singles list, but has found it necessary to revise the second 10 in that list. The men's doubles ranking has also been finished and is indicated herewith.

In making the men's doubles ranking, the committee decided to eliminate all teams that did not compete in at least two important tennis events during the season. This ruling left a surprisingly small number of teams to be considered. In fact, the committee was only able to rank 11 teams instead of 15 or more as is the usual custom.

Wray Brown and Fred Josties ranked first, went through the season without defeat. They won the Central States, Triple A and St. Louis District championships. Ted Drewes and Ed Serrano, 1926 district champions, were named for the No. 2 place in the doubles list. The official ranking, as announced by Chairman Karl Hodge, is as follows:

MEN'S DOUBLES.
1. Brown and Josties.
2. Drewes and Serrano.
3. Kammann and Barnes.
4. Rosebrough and Wright.
5. Werner and Hodge.
6. Smith and Weinstock.
7. Dalrymple and Bryant.
8. Frohlichstein and Schwarz.
9. Smith and Bascom.
10. Plunkert and Murphy.
11. Wiese and Steideman.

Not ranked account of insufficient data—Heuerman and Minnegerode, Niemoeller and McMillen, Reppert and Eggmann, Josties and Hodge, Henermann and Norton, Beutel and Hopkins.

Owing to an error in the records the Ranking Committee was obliged to revise the second ten list in the men's singles ranking for 1927. William Bell, O'Fallon Park player was found to be too low in the first list announced several weeks ago. He has been moved up from No. 16 to No. 14. Joe Smith and Clifford Beutel were each dropped one place. There were no other changes.

The revised list is as follows:

MEN'S SINGLES.
Second Ten.
11. Forrest Stuckman.
12. Ted Heuermann.
13. Charles McMillan.
14. William Bell.
15. Joe Smith.
16. Clifford Beutel.
17. Gus Serrano.
18. Clark Smith.
19. Turner Minnegerode.
20. Vernon Tietjen.

McLEAN'S TORO BEATS MISSTEP IN $10,000 HANDICAP AT LATON

WINNER PAYS $28.70 FOR $2 IN THE MUTUELS

Favorite, Misstep, Finishes Third and Backward Second—Ambrose's Ride a Factor.

By the Associated Press.

LATONIA, Ky., Nov. 12.—E. B. McLean's good colt, Toro, coming from far behind, got up to win by a length from Blackwood, with the heavily played favorite, Misstep, saving third money in the eleventh annual running of the $10,000 Queen City Handicap at Latonia today.

Golden Racket broke fast and held sway for half the distance, where he weakened. Misstep was always close up, but could not improve the position. Blackwood was always a keen contender.

The winner was given a great ride by Jockey Eddie Ambrose. Net value to the winner was $16,400, and he was overlooked in the betting, paying $27.80 in the mutuels. His time for the mile was 1:40 1-5.

Hats Up, coming from behind in the stretch, got up to win by a length and a half from Grapestone, with Dingo showing, in the opening race today. His time for the six furlongs was 1:14 4-5. Genial Host took the second race, a six-furlong dash, by three lengths, from Watch On and Henry Horner in the order named. He was overlooked in the betting, paying $35 for the $2, and ran the distance in 1:13 1-5.

The third race, for maiden 2-year-olds, went to Albert Blanton by three lengths over Dr. Rankin, with Storm Maiden showing. Storm Maiden took the lead at the start and held on gamely until near the finish, where she weakened. The time was 1:41 3-5.

EAST ST. LOUIS AND QUINCY (ILL.) BATTLE TO A SCORELESS TIE

East St. Louis High and the Quincy (Ill.) High School eleven battled to a scoreless tie in their third annual game on Parons' field here this afternoon before about 3000 fans. The game was closely contested, first one team and then the other threatening to break through for a touchdown, which never materialized.

East St. Louis retains the edge in the series to date, having won the first game played. The game last year was a tie.

DOWN the STRETCH

Mars Retired.

MARS, 4-year-olds son of Man O'War, has been retired to stud. He will stand Miss Elizabeth Daingerfield's farm in Kentucky, where his sire, Man O'War, stands. Mars, one of the best sons of Man O'War, won more than $125,000 in three years on the turf. His best year was 1926, when, as a 3-year-old, he accounted for $70,261 in stakes and purses. Handicappers rated Mars one of the best handicap horses in the country. He was given top weight in most of the handicaps.

Jockey Ernie Scobie has been set down for 30 days by the stewards of the Maryland Jockey Club, which operates the Pimlico race track. Scobie was suspended for 10 days Thursday, but upon further investigation of his ride on Mint Grass, increased it to 30 days.

Following the close of the Latonia meeting this afternoon, Jcokey Vic Peterson will leave for New Orleans to ride for Phil Reuter's establishment. Peterson, an apprentice, is second to Lee Hardy in the 1927 jockey leadership.

Walter M. Jefford's stable of racers has been put into winter retirement. The band, headed by Mars and Edith Cavell, will be shipped to Jefford's farm at Berlin, Md., at the close of the Pimlico meeting.

Increase in Value.

THIS year's running of the Breeder's Futurity, for 2-year-olds, at one mile, to be run at Lexington Nov. 19 will have a greater value than ever before. With 12 starters the race will have a gross value of $28,080, of which the winner will get $19,656.

The Breeder's Futurity, won by R. S. Clark's Woodlore last year, is expected to draw some of the best juveniles in training. Some of the youngsters whil raced in the Queen City Handicap at Latonia yesterday will be held over for the Breeder's Futurity. Reigh Count, one of the best colts in the country, is still in training and is an intended starter. One hundred and forty juveniles remain eligible for the stake.

• • •

Among the Eastern invaders for the Breeders' Futurity are A. H. Cosden's Vito and E. B. McLean's Toro. Both horses were starters in the Queen City Handicap at Latonia. The field in the Breeders' stake is expected to consist of Vito, Reigh Count, Toro, Kentucky Ace, Wisdom, Blackwood, Tinita, Twitter, Scotch and Soda, Billy, Ederle and Polish.

Kathleen Crosby Sold.

THE good filly, Kathleen Crosby, was sold at auction in the Pimlico paddock Thursday to J. E. Davis, owner of the good colt, Polish. Kathleen Crosby brought top price at the sale. She was knocked down for $3500. Six other racers went under the hammer. Sunsweeper was sold to H. R. Smith for $975, Trumpet Rock went to T. Moran for $850 and Best Shot to H. G. Bedwell for a like amount. The other horses disposed of were Alix II, Dijon Gnome and Just.

The consistent filly, Henrietta Wildair, owned by Rosedale Stable, will be campaigned at Cumberland Park, Nashville, this winter. The filly will be shipped to the Tennessee track along with 15 other thoroughbreds. Henrietta Wildair is trained by W. A. Carter. The Cumberland Park track was a prominent racing center in the old days. This year's meeting will be the first at that track for many years.

FISK TEAM TO MEET LINCOLN U. ELEVEN HERE NEXT SATURDAY

The Lincoln University of Jefferson City, Mo., will meet the Fisk University eleven of Nashville, Tenn., next Saturday afternoon at the Stars' Park. The first university grid battle ever held in St. Louis between Negro teams was staged last year when the Lincoln Tigers defeated the Wilberforce University eleven of Xenia, O., by a score of 8 to 0.

The Fisk squad seems to have an edge over the Missouri team, but the Lincoln aggregation will place its faith in a strong line. Tubby Johnson is coach for the Fisk team, while the burden of conditioning the Blue Tigers rests with Coach Collins.

Local alumni organizations of the contesting schools are planning to make this game a feature event. Probable lineup of Fisk U.: Brooks, L. E.; Dillard, L. T.; Kilgore, L. G.; Walker (Capt.), C.; Willis, R. G.; Evans, R. T.; Robinson, R. E.; Gee, Q. B.; Yost, L. H.; Thornhill, R. H.; Pope, F. B.

S. M. U. Defeats Baylor.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 12.—Baylor University bowed to the strong Southern Methodist University football squad today, losing by a 34 to 0 score in a game featured by the flashing aerial game of the winners. Hume, a substitute halfback, scored three of Southern Methodist's touchdowns.

Looney	105	1	6	6^{3}	7	7	7	S. Stretton	25.79

Hats Up, in a contending position from start, slightly wide and after bearing out on last turn, bore in when finishing gamely. Grapestone began sluggishly, finished with a rush. Dingo saved ground, disposing of Dry Nation and after restrained to stretch was weakly handled in drive. Ritter had no mishap. Dry Nation was done after showing speed for a half mile.

$2 mutuels paid: Hats Up, win $5.20, place $3.80, show $3; Grapestone, place $15.60, show $6.60; Dingo, show $3.40.

SECOND RACE—$1500, claiming, 3-year-olds and up, six furlongs: Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post 2:32, at post 2 minutes. Winner b. c. 4 by Granite-Kathryn. Trainer, J. McPherson. Time, :23 2-5, :47 2-5, 1:13 4-5. Value to winers, $1150, $225, $125.

Comrade	110	2	1	4^{3}	5	5	5	W. Fronk	3.10

Genial Host, well suited by the footing, closing with a rush after being outrun first half-mile, was taken in hand after taking command. Watch On, taken back after being hustled to keep in the pace the first quarter, came steadily through the stretch and easily disposed of others. Henry Horner drew into the lead after first quarter, saved ground thereafter and had no excuses. Reputation had early speed but gave way in final furlong. Comrade lacked his usual late rush.

$2 mutuels paid: Genial Host, win $35.06; place $11.40, show $4.20; Watch On, place $7.60, show $4; Henry Horner, show $2.40.

THIRD RACE—$1500, maidens, 2-year-olds, one mile: Start good; won easily; place driving. Went to post 2:56; at post 2 minutes. Winner, br. g. 2, by Gnome-Marjorie. Trainer, M. F. Shapoff. Time, :24 3-5, :49 4-5, 1:15 4-5, 1:41 3-5. Value to winners, $1150, $225, $125.

Bashful Beau	113	4	7	7^{h}	7^{h}	8	8	8	C. E. Allen	5.70

Albert Blanton, in closest pursuit to the stretch, responded readily when called on and, disposing of Storm Maiden, quickly assumed a good lead and held it. Dr. Rankin began sluggishly, met blocking when working way up on inside, and was racing well at end. Storm Maiden, away fast, made the pace under restraint, but failed to rally when put to a drive. Sign Off swerved repeatedly and tired badly. Widely Known, taken up several times, lost ground for most of trip. Ashburne, forced wide throughout, appeared to suffer interference on several occasions, and flattened out badly last quarter.

$2 mutuels paid: Albert Blanton, win $29.80, place $10.80, show $6.20; Dr. Rankin, place 6, show $4.60; Storm Maiden, show $10.40.

FOURTH RACE—$1500, claiming, 3-year-olds and up, one mile and one-sixteenth: Start bad; won driving; place same. Went to post 3:26; at post 1 minute. Winner, b. f. 4, by Sir John Johnson-Love Story. Trainer, J. McPherson. Time, :24 2-5, :48 2-5, 1:15 2-5, 1:41, 1:47 2-5. Value to winners: $1150, $225, $125.

Good Shepherd	107	3	4	1^{1}	1^{2}	1^{1}	$3^{1/2}$	5	T. Root	3.80

Malvina B. raced early while in pursuit first five furlongs and settling into the final drive gradually, gamely withstood Wooldridge in final drive. Latter under a poorly judged ride suffered extensively from failure to get through on inside after seven furlongs and after going to outside was sent to the leader with a rush and could not overhaul her. Boom away badly showed a good effort. Duelist was raced into submission by Good Shepherd. The latter had fine early speed but was done after six furlongs.

$2 mutuels paid Malvina B. win $6.60, place $3.20, show $2.80; Wooldridge place $3, show $2.40; Boom show $2.80.

FIFTH RACE—$10,000, The Queen City Handicap, 2-year-olds, one mile—Start bad; won driving; place same. Went to post 3:54. At post 3 minutes. Winner, b. c., 2, by The Porter-Brocatelle. Trainer, J. F. Schorr. Time, :24 1-5, :47 3-5, 1:13 4-5, 1:40 1-5. Value to winners, $16,400, $1500, $800, $225.

Toro, restrained for first five furlongs, went to the leaders on the turn and taking the lead, continued gamely. Black Wood raced into lead with a rush after half-mile, saving ground final three-eighths, made a game try to stall off winner, but was not good enough. Misstep, away badly, saved ground first turn and after nearing lead racing on outside, tired in drive. Golden Racket began tiring after six furlongs. Cartago finished well. Happy Time bolted when racing in the lead on the first turn. Vito was caught in the barrier and away poorly.

$2 mutuels paid: Toro, win $27.80, place $10.80, show $5.60; Black Wood, place $8.60, show $4.80; Misstep, show $2.80.

SIXTH RACE, $1500, claiming, 3-year-olds and up, six furlongs: Start good, won driving, place same. Went to post 4:23, at post one minute. Winner, ch. f. 3, by Polymelian-Athlone. Trainer: Owner. Time: :23 3-5, :47 3-5, 1:14. Value to winner, $1150 first, $225 second, $125 third.

Polygamia, outrun to stretch, closed with rush got up in final strides. Dar Fur, poorly handled, made up much ground in stretch and was rapidly getting to front. Red Grange had most speed after beginning slower, holding on better than usual, outstayed McCulloch. Latter saved ground most of trip. Teak tired. Russell Gardner finished fast. Edna Glenn showed a poor effort.

$2 mutuels paid: Polygamia, win $19.40, place $10.20, show $7.40; Dar Fur, place $14.00, show $9.20; Red Grange, show $12.20.

Raving Lady	103	5	8	8	8	8	8	8	R. Russell	7.70

Longchamps, under good handling, slipped through a narrow opening between leaders nearing stretch turn and drawing into a good lead, held Barbara Palmer safe. Latter, away fast, taken up in first quarter, swerved when finishing fast. Bruneth saved ground most of the way and after offering a challenge entering stretch tired. Efeldee raced well before she tired. Susan Rebecca met interference through the stretch. Kublai Khan retired fast after seven furlongs.

$2 mutuels paid: Longchamps, win $9.80, place $5.60, show $3.40; Barbara Palmer, place $11.60, show $5.60; Bruneth, show $4.60.

Oklahoma Trims Jayhawkers, 26-7

Crowd of 20,000 at Norman Sees Sooners Run Over Kansas Eleven.

By the Associated Press.

NORMAN, Ok., Nov. 12.—Protected by a light line that stood, fought and out-charged the University of Kansas, the University of Oklahoma's make-shift backfield ran rings around the University of Kansas Jayhawkers as a fitting climax to the Sooners' homecoming. Coach Ad Lindsey's crimson-clad warriors won, 26 to 7.

A colorful crowd estimated at 20,000 persons filled the stadium and cheered the Sooners on. The Sooners made 14 first downs to their opponents' six.

Oklahoma made 263 yards in scrimmage as compared to 136 for Kansas.

SOUTH AFRICAN BOXER SAILS FOR AMERICA

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Nov. 12.—Willie Smith, the South African champion bantamweight who recently defeated Teddy Baldock in London, sailed today on the Berengaria for the United States.

"Three fights have been arranged for me in the United States," said Smith, "but I haven't the foggiest idea of the identity of my opponents."

TABLERS SEEK LEAGUE LEAD IN SOCCER FEATURE

John Marre's Team Opposes Ben Millers—Harry McCarthy Strengthens Morgan Lineup.

By Dent McSkimming.

Eager to take advantage of the opportunity to assume the lead in the St. Louis Soccer League race, John Marre, president of the Tabler club, has made a further effort to strengthen his club for today's game with the Ben Millers. The match will be the second of two games played at Sportsman's Park.

Marre has signed Andy Hack, former professional league player who recently performed at fullback for the St. Matthews at Fairground Park. Hack has had several years of professional league experience, his last connection being with the Vesper Buicks under Harry McCarthy.

Two Strong Kickers.

With Hack at right and Phelan at left, fullback, the Tablers will have the biggest and huskiest backs in the league. Both are powerful fellows and strong kickers. Benoist, Quinlan and Rodriguez will form the halfback line and McHenry, Grenon, McCarthy, Bocknicek and Brengle will be the forwards. Nick Reidy will tend goal.

Manager Foley of the Ben Millers has announced that he will drop Tracy from the halfback line until he gets in better physical condition. Mandeville will be shifted from fullback to halfback and Schweppe probably will return to his center halfback berth with Croak at right half.

Flavin to Return.

It is not likely that Flavin, regular center forward of the Morgans, will return to his customary position today in the game against the Wellstons. Manager McCarthy has received word that Flavin is on his way to St. Louis from Atlanta where he went on business two weeks ago. When Flavin returns, Manager McCarthy will retain Joe Hand on the forward line, using him at inside left and shifting Hanson to outside left. Ikemeyer will take the outside right job and a newcomer, probably from the rank of the Municipal League, will be used at inside right. McCarthy declined to divulge the identity of the new forward because he is not yet under contract.

The Morgan backfield will be the same as last Sunday, with Rich and Gockel playing fullback.

Manager Brady will keep his Wellston team intact as a result of the return to form last Sunday when the blue-clad boys beat the Millers, 1-0.

The first game today will start at 2 o'clock.

The Call of the Outdoors

By ALEC MERMOD

DURING the past 10 days the writer has been asked a great many questions pertaining to shooting. All of these questions have been answered, but as there may be many more men who are not fully posted, the questions most frequently asked, along with the writer's answers follow, and we trust that our readers will find the information of interest and help.

The answer to these questions have been drawn from personal experience, and I realize that there are many who may not agree with me, for we all have our own ideas about loads, dogs, style of hunting etc. I trust that the readers will not infer that I am setting myself up as being infallible, or that my opinion expressed on the various subjects must be RIGHT.

The old shooters do not need the information set forth below, but those who are just starting may find a few hints that will be of some value.

Information for Beginners.

Q. Which is the best gun for a beginner, "pump," automatic or double?

A. The double gun is to be preferred, because a new shooter is apt to be more careful with his first shot, knowing that he has only two chances, while if he starts in with an automatic about the only thing he has on his mind is to keep pulling the trigger without trying to cover his game. If he uses a "pump" he gets too busy trying to operate the action fast enough to shoot five or six times before the bird is out of sight. From a standpoint of humanity and conservation there is no comparison, for when a magazine gun is used by any one but an expert, a great many birds are wounded that are not retrieved and consequently suffer for some time or else become easy prey for the hawks and other vermin. Another point in favor of the double gun for the novice, is that it is better balanced than the magazine guns.

Q. What gauge gun is best suited for quail and rabbits?

A. A 20 gauge, because it is lighter and easier to handle.

Q. Is it not a fact that, to obtain results one must hold so much closer with a 20-gauge than with a 12-gauge?

A. No; one must hold on their game with any gauge gun to make a kill, just aiming in the general direction, no matter if it be a 10 or a 20 usually brings the same results.

Q. For rabbits and quail how should a double gun be bored, and what is the proper length of barrel?

A. If a 20-guage is the choice, the right barrel should be modified and the left full choke, and the barrels should be 26 inches. A 16-guage should be bored the same and the barrels 28 inches. A 12-guage should have the right barrel cylinder and the left full choke with the same barrel length as the 16-gauge.

Q. What are the proper loads of powder and shot, in the different gauges for small game?

A. 12-gauge, 3 drs. powder, 1⅛ oz. shot; 16-gauge, 2½ drs. powder, 1 oz. shot; 20-gauge, 2¼ drs. powder, ⅞ oz. shot.

Q. What size shot is best for the following? Snipe, quail, rabbit and duck.

A. Snipe, No. 9; quail, No. 8; rabbits, No. 7½; duck, No. 6.

Q. Why do some shooters prefer chilled shot, while others contend that soft shot is better?

A. Those who prefer soft shot claim that the pellets are heavier and being soft are pressed out of shape when striking the flesh of bird or rabbit, consequently exert a greater shocking force than does chilled shot, which are lighter and harder.

The champions of chilled shot claim (and they are right) that the pellets of soft shot lose their sperical shape on account of friction in the barrel, this being the case, the pellets which are out of shape fly off at a tangent, losing force and causing a poor pattern. Furthermore these misshapen pellets carry small feathers into the flesh of the bird, making it very unattractive. Again the continuous use of soft shots "leads" the barrels to such an extent that unless they are cleaned quite often with brass wire brush, the pattern is not regular.

SHARKEY FAVORED TO BEAT HEENEY FRIDAY NIGHT

NEW ZEALANDER HAS MADE FAIR RECORD IN U. S.

Knockout of Jim Maloney, Victory Over Johnny Risko and Draw With Uzcudun His Best Performances.

By Damon Kerby.

Interest of fight followers this week will center on the heavyweight bout between Jack Sharkey of Boston and Tom Heeney of New Zealand, to be held in Madison Square Garden on Friday night as one of a series of elimination bouts to discover a logical candidate to oppose Gene Tunney in a championship fight.

The future careers of both fighters hinge directly on the outcome of the bout. If Heeney wins, he will be in line for a bout with Dempsey or Tunney with its accompanying large purse.

Sharkey, should he defeat the New Zealander, will be the foremost candidate for a match with Dempsey or possibly a match with the champion. The latter is believed unlikely, however, as popular opinion would force Sharkey to meet Dempsey, who previously knocked him out, before he gets a chance at the heavyweight championship.

Of course, a defeat of either boxer in the bout would force him out of the big-money class.

Sharkey Is Favored.

Sharkey will probably enter the ring a favorite over Heeney, due to the fact that the New Zealander's record, beyond his past few bouts in the United States, is an unknown quantity to most fans. In bouts in his native country and England, before coming to the United States, Heeney earned a reputation as a consistent, though unsensational performer.

Heeney has fought 31 bouts and won 10 of them by knockouts, won 17 on decisions, was held to a draw in two, and lost two on decisions. One of the two verdicts against him was won by Paulino Uzcudun in a 10-round bout. The result created unfavorable comment, as ringsiders believed that Heeney had at least battled the Basque woodchopper to even terms, and the two were rematched. On the second meeting Heeney was awarded a draw after 15 rounds.

In his other outstanding American fights, Heeney kayoed Jim [illegible] in one round, won from Johnny Risko of Cleveland on a decision in 10 rounds, was given a bout over Bud Gorman on a foul, a decision over Jack De Mave in 10 rounds, and knocked out [illegible] Anderson in eight.

Sharkey's record, unlike his opponent's, is well known in American ring circles. He stepped into the front rank as a heavyweight challenger when he knocked out Maloney in their New York

On the strength of this showing he was matched with Jack Dempsey and the result of that match, in which Dempsey dropped Sharkey on a knockout in the seventh round, also dropped the Boston sailor as a title challenger.

Other than the Dempsey knockout, Sharkey has been kayoed but once, that coming in 1924 at the hands of Romero Rojas in nine rounds.

Four opponents were successful in winning over Sharkey on decisions. They were Charlie Weinert, [illegible] Record and Bud Gorman, all of whom won 10-round decisions over Sharkey in 1925, and Jim Maloney, who defeated him in six rounds in 1924. He later won from Maloney on a foul.

Until 1927, Sharkey had won [illegible] fights by knockouts, mostly against minor opponents. In 1926 he kayoed Joe Lawson, in two rounds, Orlando Reverberi in three and Homer Smith in seven.

[illegible] News From Everywhere.

Wisconsin may follow the lead of [illegible] commissions as regards [illegible]. Heretofore the Badger commission has been lenient with its boxers in that respect, letting them off with a suspension and leaving it up to the clubs as to whether they should be fined or not. However, several fouls have been committed by boxers of late and now the Wisconsin officials are thinking of adopting more severe punishment.

[illegible] Finch, manager of Frankie [illegible], clever Buffalo middleweight, has developed a young [illegible] heavyweight whom he thinks can take Jimmy Slattery, claimant to the title, any time they meet. The Buffalo papers recently told of the match between Slattery and [illegible] Scozza, and despite the fact that Jimmy was given the verdict, the papers strung with Mr. Scozza. He is a youngster and has been boxing less than two years.

Two lumbermen at a suburb of London (Edmonton) had an argument and were battering away at one another when some one suggested that they finish their battle in a regular ring. One of the London promoters got wind of the affair and immediately matched the men for a six-round contest. But before the men were ready to enter the ring two policemen appeared on the scene and ordered the promoter to call it off on the ground that no "grudge fights" would be tolerated. The promoter followed orders.

NAVY IS SUNK BY MICHIGAN ELEVEN, 27-12

Crowd of 87,000 Witnesses Thrilling Game in Which Long Runs and Forward Passes Feature.

By the Associated Press.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 12.—A slashing, fighting Michigan backfield tore through the Navy line and around the ends to win their intersectional clash with the Midshipmen, 27 to 12, here today. here today.

Some 87,000 persons crowded into Michigan's new stadium to witness the game, despite earlier predictions that a blizzard was due to strike the vicinity before game time. The crowd was greater than that which was present three weeks ago when the new stadium was formally opened with a defeat over Ohio State.

A versatile line smashing attack which twice took the ball over the Navy goal line in the first period gave Michigan a lead which they did not relinquish, despite the passing and running attack of Lloyd and Ransford, Navy backs.

Lloyd Bears Brunt of Attack.

Lloyd, Navy's triple threat man, bore the burden of the Middies' attack until late in the third period when Ransford entered the game with Michigan leading 27 to 6. Immediately following Michigan's second touchdown, Lloyd broke loose around Michigan's right end and outdistancing the Wolverines' defense men, ran 85 yards for a touchdown. The second Navy score came in the third period, when Ransford, after carrying the attack to Michigan's four-yard line, slipped through the line for a touchdown. Both of Lloyd's tries for point after touchdown went wild.

The Michigan passing combination, Louie Gilbert to Bennie Oosterbaan, got under full headway today. The Michigan captain displayed the form which gave him all-America honors. He grabbed a 40-yard pass from Gilbert late in the final period which took the ball to Navy's 17-yard line, where the Wolverines lost the ball on downs. The second Michigan touchdown was the result of a pass from Oosterbaan, which Gilbert took on Navy's two-yard line, where two Navy tacklers dropped him.

"Old 83" Successful.

Despite the overwhelming lead which Michigan ran up in the first two periods, Navy continued to threaten, Lloyd and Ransford breaking away time and again for long gains, usually starting from a triple pass.

Michigan's most ancient of plays, the "old 83," paved the way for the first touchdown, when Gilbert tore around Navy's right end to go out of bounds on the 17-yard line. Rich and Oosterbaan combined to drive through the line to Navy's four-yard line, where Rich plunged over center for a touchdown.

Two minutes later Gilbert broke away on a triple pass to run 22 yards aided by perfect interference, to Navy's eight-yard line. Here a lateral pass, Oosterbaan to Gilbert, put the ball on Navy's two-foot line, where Rich again dove high over the line for his second touchdown.

One the first play following the kick-off, Lloyd sneaked off Michigan's right tackle into an open field and outran Oosterbaan for Navy's first score. He crossed the goal 15 yards ahead of the Michigan captain.

FRIEDMAN OFF FORM, HIS TEAM LOSES, 22-0

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—The Frankford Yellow Jackets rode rough shod over the Cleveland Bulldogs in a National Professional Football League game here today, winning 22 to 0.

Benny Friedman was not up to his usual form and retired in the third period after his fumble led to Frankford's last touchdown.

A feature of the contest was an 88-yard run for a touchdown by Kassel. Charlie Rogers, former University of Pennsylvania star, made Frankford's other touchdowns.

Murphysboro Wins and Is Near "Egyptian" Title

Red Devils Defeat Harrisburg High School, 13-0, for Five Conference Victory.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Nov. 12.—The Murphysboro Red Devils practically clinched the championship of the Egyptian High School Conference here this afternoon when they defeated the Harrisburg Bull Dogs, 13 to 0.

Murphysboro made both its touchdowns in the third quarter. The crack defense exhibited by the Murphysboro team held back the plunging backfield of the visitors.

The winners have one more conference game to play this season. This is the Thanksgiving day game with Carbondale. Murphysboro should win this game as Carbondale has failed to show much strength this season, winning one conf rence game, losing three and tieing one. Harrisburg plays its next game against Eldorado. This game should prove an easy victory for the Bull Dogs, as Eldorado also has failed to do much.

Murphysboro has a record of five conference victories and no defeats.

The lineup of today's game follows:

Har'burg.	Position.	Murp'boro.
South	L. E.	North
Rice (C.)	L. T.	Boucher
Reed	L. G.	Gibson
Fox	C.	Corley (C.)

ROLLA MINERS DOWN DRURY PANTHERS, 18-7

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 12.—Taking advantage of Drury misplays, the Rolla Miners downed the Panthers, 18 to 7, here today in the thirty-first annual game between the two schools.

Although Drury found the Miner line strong, over half the game was played in Rolla's territory, but the Panthers lacked the punch to score.

Late in the second quarter Rolla recovered a fumble on Drury's 45-yard line. Ledford clicked off 40 around end and Kjar plunged the line for touchdown. Ray's goal kick was wide.

The two teams then battled on even terms until the final quarter, when Ledford tossed a 35-yard pass over the goal line into McCormick's arms. Ray's goal kick was blocked.

Patterson did practically all the ground gaining for Drury, while Ledford and Kjar starred for the Miners.

ROLLA	Position	DRURY
Ray	L. E.	Evans
H. Bolon	L. T.	Moseley
Tucker	L. G.	J. Davidson (C.)
Young	C.	Decker
Lacy	R. G.	Ebert
Johnson	R. T.	Tennis
Kelly	R. E.	Long
Ledford (C)	Q. B.	L. Davidson
Kjar	L. H.	Patterson
McCormick	R. H.	Latimer
Sharp	F. B.	Delaporte

Score by quarters:

Rolla	0	6	0	12—18
Drury	0	0	0	7— 7

Substitutes: Rolla—Neidermeyer for Kelly, Shear for Johnson, Cavanaugh for Sharp, Kelly for Neidermeyer, Loupe for McCormick Reid for Kjar. Drury—Talbot for L. Davidson, McManamy for Ebert, Blackwell for Long, Walker for Latimer, Bowman for Moseley, Long for Blackwell, Barr for Evans, Latimer for Walker, Thompson for Barr, Ebert for Thompson.

Summary: Touchdowns—Kjar (2), McCormick Delaporte. Point after touchdown—Talbot from placement. Yards gained, scrimmage—Rolla, 159; Drury, 95. Yards lost scrimmage—Rolla, 31; Drury 14. First downs—Rolla, 9; Drury, 5. Held for downs—Rolla, 1; Drury, 2. Passes Drury completed—5 out of 11 for 122; Rolla completed 5 out of 13 for 65. Punts—Rolla, 9 for average of 38; Drury, 10 for average of 34. Punts blocked—by Drury, 1. Penalties—Rolla, 5 for 35; Drury, none. Officials—Kelly, St. Louis, referee; Brickbauer, St. Louis, umpire; Jackman, Arkansas U., head linesman.

St. Louis to Send Women's Hockey Team to Chicago

Fourteen Local Players to Compete in Tournament to Name Mid-West Teams.

This city will be the scene of the national women's field hockey championship next month. The tournament will be held on Taylor Field, the new Principia Academy grounds in St. Louis County, during the three days commencing Dec. 2. Teams composed of players from the Eastern section as well as those from the Middle West will participate in the play.

The national event will be under the auspices of the St. Louis Field Hockey Association, of which Miss Virginia Gordon is president. There are 16 clubs holding membership in the St. Louis association. They are as follows: Washington University, University of Missouri, Mary Institute Alumna Club, Lindenwood College, Washington University Alumna Club, St. Louis Hockey Club, Principia College Club, Principia Academy, Hosmer Hall, Mary Institute, Clayton High School, Kirkwood High School, Sacred Heart Convent, Webster Groves High School, Normandy High School and John Burroughs School.

St. Louis Team Goes to Chicago.

St. Louis will send an all-star team to Chicago to take part in a tournament at which two mid-western teams will be selected to participate in the national tournament here next month. Fourteen players have been named to make the trip to Chicago. They are named in the following lineup:

Player.	Position.
Gertrude Webb	Left Wing
Virginia Gordon (Capt.)	Left Inside
Ume Chaplin	Center Forward
Ruth Forcier	Right Inside
Anne Becker	Right Wing
Mary Betts	Left Halfback
Ruth Hafner	Center Halfback
Hazel Stoddard	Right Halfback
Dolores Boeckmann	Left Fullback
Dorothy Munford	Right Fullback
Ernestine Long	Goal

Substitutes—Marguerite Max, goal; Jule Bennett, right fullback; Frances Parks, right wing.

The Principia players on the team are Hazel Stoddard, Jule Bennett and Frances Parks. Mary Institute is represented by Capt. Virginia Gordon and the Misses Chaplin, Forcier, Becker, Hafner Betts and Max. The St. Louis Hockey Club players are Misses Munford, Long and Boeckman, while Lindenwood is represented by Gertrude Webb, who is also a member of the St. Louis Hockey Club.

Burroughs Loses To Country Day

Tupper, Larkin and Boettler Score Touchdowns for the Victors.

Country Day School defeated John Burroughs yesterday 20 to 0 on the Burroughs gridiron before a crowd of about 1000.

The winners gained their first touchdown in the second quarter on straight football and the second marker after the kickoff at the start of the second half when Larkin received the ball and ran 80 yards. In the fourth quarter Boettler, substitute quarterback, ran 50 yards to the third touchdown from scrimmage.

Lineups:

County Day, 20.		Burroughs, 0.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SIMPLIFYING TAX LAWS APPROVED

Joint Congressional Committee Reports Favorably on Upwards of 40 Recomendations.

FAILS TO AGREE ON ONE PROPOSAL

This Had to Do With Changes to Prevent Alleged Evasions by Holding Corporations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation approved today with only a single exception upwards of 40 recommendations submitted by its advisory board for simplification in administration of the nation's revenue statutes.

It ordered a favorable report on the proposed changes tendered to the House Ways and Means Committee the first of the week along with the recommendation that they be enacted into law by Congress.

The joint body, however, failed to agree on a proposal to modify Section 220 of the revenue law, which deals with the taxing of corporations, and ordered this proposal submitted without recommendation.

For Corporation Tax Revision.

Representative Green of Iowa, who heads both committees, said that it was impossible to obtain unanimity of opinion on the proposed change although he favored its revisions. He said he believed there was a large evasion of taxes by holding companies under this section.

"As the matter stands now," he added, "I think that Section 220 should be made definite and certain and obligatory to enforcement."

This section imposes a tax of 50 per cent on the net income of a corporation which permits its gains and profits to accumulate for the purpose of preventing the imposition of the surtax upon its stockholders, and the joint committee's advisory board reported that enforcement of the section is "obscure and difficult of administration."

Statement of Principle.

It suggested a provision which, it said, "will tend to give some incentive to corporations to make reasonable distributions without going to the extent of enforcing unwise distributions." The principle was stated as follows:

"Allow the corporation a deduction in computing net income equal to, say, 20 per cent of the excess of dividends paid other dividends received, the deduction in no case to be more than, say, 25 per cent of the corporation's taxable net income before such deduction. In computation, no account should be taken of stock dividends."

Of all the recommendations only one, the proposal for revising the present method of computing the earned income credit, constituted any approach to a change in tax rates. The suggestions were of a technical nature and designed primarily to guide the confused taxpayer in making out his tax returns.

Simplification Aimed At.

It was reported that a simple income tax law for complex business appeared almost out of the question but that it was felt that some degree of simplification could be attained. One of the recommendations along this line was for consolidation of the 64 offices of the Collector of Internal Revenue and the 36 offices of revenue agents into a total of approximately 60 offices.

The ways and means committee is expected to take up this report when it meets Monday to begin consideration in executive session of a new tax bill. Open hearings, at which a number of conflicting proposals for tax reduction were received, were closed two days ago.

CHARLES P. PFISTER, LEADING MILWAUKEE FIGURE, DIES

Capitalist and Philanthropist Was Director of North American Company.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 12.—Charles F. Pfister, 68 years old, capitalist and philanthropist, and an outstanding figure in the industrial, financial and political life of Wisconsin, died today.

Mr. Pfister was one of Wisconsin's wealthiest citizens—an officer of the Pfister & Vogel Leather Co., a director of the First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee, a director of the North American Co. and its subsidiary, the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co., and affiliated companies, and vice president and director of the Milwaukee Sentinel.

He was the owner of the Hotel Pfister, which he built in 1893 as a memorial to his father, and he had large investments in mines, timber lands and many other enterprises, some of them national in scope.

For many years Pfister was regarded as a power in Republican politics in Wisconsin, although he never sought office for himself.

PLANS TO SUPPLY ST. LOUIS WITH LOUISIANA NATURAL GAS

Representative of Texas Concern Says 427-Mile Pipe Line Will Be Built Shortly.

Plans for construction of a 427-mile pipe line to bring natural gas to St. Louis from the Monroe and Richland fields of northern Louisiana were announced here last night by a representative of the Moody-Seagraves Corporation of Houston, Tex., builders and operators of a pipe line supplying Houston with natural gas from another field.

Surveys for the line to St. Louis, which will closely parallel the Mississippi River through Arkansas and Missouri, are virtually completed, the announcement said, and delivery of pipe is expected to begin soon. It was added that if weather does not interfere, the line and compressor stations on it to move the gas will be ready for use by next summer, with a daily delivery capacity of 200,000,000 cubic feet every 24 hours.

George M. Parker, an engineer for the company, who made the announcement in behalf of O. R. Seagraves of Houston, president, said the Dixie-St. Louis Gas Co. had been organized as a subsidiary to operate the new line. He was unable to tell about financing arrangements, and said that no agreement had been reached for purchase of the gas for distribution by local public utilities, but that its favorable price would make its use here certain.

He did not know what the price might be. He declared the natural gas would have heat value of 1000 B. T. U's per cubic foot, compared with about 560 for the usual commercial gas pany, he declared, ply, which is sufficient years.

Flag Ball for Debut At Country Club of Florence Ludington

Colors of All Nations Form Background for Armistice Eve Party Given by Her Father, E. K. Ludington.

THE banners of the allied nations made the interior of the St. Louis Country Club a colorful background for the Armistice eve flag ball given by Elliot Kingman Ludington to introduce his daughter, Miss Florence Ludington, to society.

Hundreds of yards of bunting in the national colors lined the rooms and draped the long French windows from which the hangings had been removed, and the wide doorways, while the Union Jack, the Tri-Color of France, the flags of Belgium and Italy, and the brilliant sun of the Japanese national banner, paneled the walls. The ceilings were covered with a network of wires from which suspended pennants of every conceivable hue, interspersed with colorful waterballs, intended as souvenirs. The lights were shaded in pleated paper bunting, from which flag fans flared in all directions.

The receiving line stood in a bower of flowers, in front of a huge shield of the Stars and Stripes from which, on red, white and blue sticks waved the flags of all nations. Leading from the lounge down through the three connecting dining rooms, the scene seemed to gain even more color. Great American flags partially concealed the orchestra stall, and elaborate caps and noisemakers were used in lieu of flowers to adorn the dining tables. From a screen at the far end of the East room flashed the lights of the sky line of New York harbor, with a lighted replica of the Statue of Liberty silhouetted in the foreground.

In the receiving line with Mr. Ludington and the debutante were his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson Lambert, whose names also appeared on the invitations; Miss Catherine Ashbrook of Wilming-

Informality Marks Coolidge Receptions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Informality is the keynote of life in the capital just now, and it is particularly noticeable in the first receptions held in the White House by Mrs. Coolidge.

Thursday was her first day of the new season at home and she received a large group of guests by special appointment. Each visitor was there by pre-arrangement with Miss Mary Randolph, private secretary of Mrs. Coolidge. Guests assemble, generally in the blue room, where they chat informally for a few minutes. Then an aid takes his place near the door opening into the red room, opens it and there stand Mrs. Coolidge, smiling and ready to receive, with another aid beside her to make the presentations.

Seldom is there any effort to carry out precedence, unless there is some particularly distinguished or much older person present. The room is cheerful and over in one corner stands a tea table laden with handsome silver, cut crystal, flowers and dainties made by the cook of the White House. Mrs. Coolidge visits freely with each guest and when the minute for the reception to close arrives she bows herself out of the room, followed by an aid.

Princess Deligne, wife of the new Belgian Ambassador, and their daughter, Princess Elizabeth Deligne, who are certain to be great favorites here, have paid their respects, as have Mrs. Frederick Steiwer, wife of the recently arrived Senator from Oregon.

It is announced from the Hungarian Legation, that Count Szechenyi, the Minister and his American wife, Countess Szechenyi, formerly Glady's Vanderbilt of New York, who are arriving at the lelation after a summer spent abroad, will present their elder daughter, Countess Cornelia Szechenyi, to society this season. No day has been set for her coming out.

The Saturday debutante this week is Miss Janet Phillips, daughter of former Representative and Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Lawrence B. Tyson, wife of the Senator from Tennessee, were to assist Mrs. Phillips at the debut tea, and a large group of girls were to be with Miss Phillips, including the daughters of the French and Italian Ambassadors.

Mrs. William Jaeger of 4413 Olive street, gave a bridge luncheon Monday at the Forest Park Hotel, in compliment to Mrs. Alys Dameron Weed, who celebrated her birthday anniversary Monday. Fifty-five guests were present, among them being members of the Current Events Club, which was organized by Mrs. Weed and of which Mrs. Jaeger is president. The luncheon tables were decorated in premier roses. The central table was adorned in boquets of the roses and lighted by pink tapers. A large birthday cake formed the centerpiece. During the luncheon Mrs. Bess Whiting presented a group of her pupils in a program of songs.

Saturday afternoon, Nov. 5, Miss Mary Agnes Griffin of 3852 Castleman avenue entertained at a Halloween costume party. The following were present: Helen Driscoll, Marion Alice Rosskopf, Tess Lammers, Betty Scherer, Ruth Savage, Claire George, Mary Frances Denny, Mary Elizabeth McDonald, Mary Catherine Flynn, Mary Spellbrink, Mary Margaret Mayer, Alma Huger, Marcella Flynn, Louise Schneider, Blanche Schlueter.

Mrs. A. P. Greensfelder of 7041 Lindell boulevard will be hostess at a dinner in honor of Prof. Bruno Roselli, who will speak at the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A. this evening on "Danger Zones in Europe."

Mrs. M. L. Taryle of 5134 Easton avenue entertained a group of her friends Saturday, Nov. 5, in honor of Mrs. Anna Fark, who has departed for an indefinite visit in Kansas City.

The most elaborate social event at Lindenwood College this season was the party given in honor of Mrs. John L. Roemer's birthday, Friday night, given by the freshman class. Mrs. Roemer was seated upon a dais improvised in rose and silver, where she received congratulations and witnessed a play specially written for her. It was entitled, "An Old-Fashioned Bouquet," and was written by Miss Jane White, a freshman. Eighty-five freshmen took part.

Decorations of the hall were skillfully made by the 226 freshmen, so that shaded rose tissue paper relieved by silver, covered the walls and ceiling, with wall-baskets flutings and rosettes. A dinner of five courses, with 100 additional guests besides the student body, preceded the dance. Miss Jean Murdock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Murdock of 6923 Pershing avenue, presided at the party as president of the freshman class, and led the grand march with Mrs. Roemer, while Dr. Roemer escorted the class sponsor, Miss Katherine Hankins of Webster Groves, who is the faculty head of Lindenwood's classical language department.

Blanke and Miss Dorothy Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Wright of 46 Portland place will give a dinner dance at the St. Louis Country Club Thanksgiving Eve, at which their niece, Miss Martha Pettus, daughter of Mr. Charles Parsons Pettus, will make her bow to society. A number of out-of-town guests have been invited, among them the debutante's uncle, Thurston Wright and Mrs. Wright of Pittsburg, an aunt, Mrs. George W. Simmons of New York and Mr. Simmons.

Mrs. Horace W. Gilliam of 3757 Westminster place has postponed her luncheon, which she was to have given Thursday for Miss Anne Farrar Semple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Humphrey Semple, to Wednesday, Nov. 30. The party will take place at Hotel Coronado. The date of the luncheon was changed owing to the fact that a number of the debutantes will go East to attend the Harvard-Yale game.

Miss Margaret Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ramsey Brown of Dallas, Tex., will make her debut tomorrow at a reception which her mother will give at their home. Her grandmother, Mrs. William K. Stanard of Brentmoor, whom Miss Brown has been visiting for a number of weeks, departed for Dallas last week to be present at the party. Miss Brown's debut ball will be given at the Adolphus Hotel during the Christmas holidays. She served as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Gatch of 5266 Westminster place will be hosts to a group of debutantes and their escorts at a theater party, Monday evening, Dec. 19, for Miss Frances Blayney, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Blayney.

The formal debut dinner dance of Miss Florence Ludington, which was given Thursday evening at the St. Louis Country Club, was preceded by an informal tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Davis Capen Jr. of 5603 Kingsbury court for a number of the younger married set.

Mrs. James Walter Harris of 6238 Washington boulevard will entertain a group of the debutantes at luncheon, Thursday, in honor of Miss Grace Moulton and Miss Kate Edmonstone Thompson.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture.

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

No Need to Look Aged

A good face symmetrically formed is a fine letter of recommendation. This truth might be a great discouragement to men and women with sagging faces, humped, bent, turned or parrot noses and all other facial defects were it not for plastic surgery. Why go to New York or Chicago when you can have plastic surgery work done here at half price.

"Fitting the Heel Snugly"

An Attractive Adapto Model $10

—and these shoes are comfortable!

If you've wearied of the dissatisfaction that invariably follows the purchase of a pair of any kind of ordinary shoes—come in and try on a pair of Adaptos. Adapto Shoes have something to be found in no other footwear. They are cleverly built, on the inside, to conform to the lines of the normal foot and—to give you foot comfort. They are constructed, on the outside—to appeal to your sense of good taste.

Smartness, alone, brings only misery!
Comfort, alone, is not enough!
Adapto Shoes give you both!

How Well Do You Know It?

Pevely Dairy Company

There is no industry so necessary to the Welfare of the children and the health of the public as the milk industry.

The Pevely Dairy Company is the largest dairy west of the Mississippi River. They bottle approximately 200,000 bottles of milk and cream every day at the rate of 500 bottles a minute.

Last year this company churned from fresh, sweet cream enough butter to spread a quarter million slices of bread every day. They made 1,221,942 pounds of chee[illegible].

A fleet of high-powered glass-lined Thermos milk trucks transport the milk from the farms to the Pevely Plant on Grand and Chouteau Avenues where the milk is scientifically pasteurized and constructed for Pevely and is patented by them. It is automatically operated by electricity and handles 800 gallons of milk per hour.

One of the largest and most scientifically equipped dairy laboratories is operated by this company.

The Pevely Dairy Company has under construction one of the finest ice cream plants in the country which will be completed January 1st.

One of the show places around St. Louis is the Pevely Farm, just 25 miles from the city, at Crescent, Mo. On this farm thousands of roses are cut daily and shipped to St. Louis Florists. A herd of 350 pure bred Holstein Cows bred on the hillsides.

The dairy barns and surrounding buildings are of modern construction, clean and airy and flooded with light. The milk is automatically cooled and bottled immediately after milking and rushed by motor truck to St. Louis—the dairy food of thousands of babies.

Every day this space will be devoted to some one particular manufacturing plant or industry which is contributing to the dynamic growth of St. Louis.

will be given preceeding the dinner.

The Rev. M. S. Ryan, C. M., D. D., Ph. D., of Kendrick Seminary, who has just returned from a trip through Palestine, made a talk on the trip to the members of the Catholic Women's Association at their November meeting, held in their downtown headquarters, 206 North Eighth street.

The regular meeting of the Twentieth Century Art Club will be held tomorrow at Jefferson Memorial at 2 p. m. Post Asokan sculpture will be discussed by Mrs. E. J. Burkley and Mrs. Kenneth Cope will speak on Ajanta paintings. Mrs. A. E. Meyer will give current events. The club was entertained last Monday by Mrs. S. Carson McCormack at her country home, "Carson Hurst." Following luncheon the club members played bridge. The board meeting of the Twentieth Century Art Club was held at the Town Club Monday, with Mrs. Samuel Williams, the president, presiding.

The annual election of officers of De Soto Circle No. 171, Daughters of Isabella, was held Nov. 3. Following are the officers for the ensuing year: Kathryn T. Goodwin, past regent; Mary Oechsle, regent; J. Sanguinet, vice regent; F. Hahn, recording secretary; R. Sanguinet, financial secretary; A. Foan treasurer; H. Koetting, custodian; L. Barnes, monitor; C. Mulroy, chancellor; M. Conklin, inside guard; M. Cashion, outside guard; G. Foan.

When to Suspect Acid Scal

It isn't age that dulls the hair. Nor frequent washing or curling. If your hair lacks all life and lustre, it may be due to a condition you can correct in twenty-four hours. Acid scalp.

Neutralize the acid secretions of the scalp, and your hair will have the lovely sheen that makes any hair so attractive. A few drops of Danderine will do this; and as its name implies, Danderine is a scientific dandruff dissolvent. Five minutes after Danderine is applied, every particle of dandruff has been dissolved!

Acid scalp should be suspected if your hair is at all stiff or stringy, or won't hold a wave. Another sign—not so easily detected in one's self—is an acrid odor to the hair when it is warm, or after exercise. 'And for thirty-five cents at any drugstore, you can get a bottle of Danderine that will keep your hair soft and sweet and "on its good behavior" for weeks!

"Blends Perfectly With My Complexion!"

Pretty Helen Miller, of Richmond Hill, Long Island, "never hesitates" to recommend Black and White Face Powder.

"From my own experience," says Miss Miller, "I know other girls and women will find this delightful powder is just the kind they should be using. It blends perfectly with my complexion and stays on longer than any powder I have been accustomed to. I never hesitate to recommend it to my friends."

This dainty, flower-fragrant face powder adds tone and color to the skin, does not clog the pores or look artificial, and clings caressingly for hours at a time.

Black and White Beauty Creations are of a quality acceptable to those who seek the best, at prices within the reach of all—25c and 50c.

Mr. and Mrs. Washington Schiffer and baby of Birmingham, Ala., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Coffey of North Eleventh street. Mrs. Schiffer before her marriage was Miss Genevieve Coffey.

Mrs. Grover Callions was hostess to the members of the Dixie Club Wednesday afternoon. The following enjoyed luncheon and bridge during the afternoon; Mrs. Ed Ash, Mrs. L. Shreve, Mrs. Bart Schmitt, Mrs. Fred Mollman, Mrs. Frank Verder, Mrs. E. A. Baugh and Mrs. M. Mullen.

Mrs. Carl Helfrich of Waverly avenue entertained Tuesday evening at bridge. Her guests were: Miss Dorothy Schmitt, Miss Thelma Beasley, Miss Margaret Shreve, Miss Marie Huschle, Miss Helen Carter, Miss Marguerite Karsch and Mrs. Cletus Canavan.

The Sigma Tau Omega club of the East St. Louis High School entertained Friday evening with dance at the St. Clair Country Club. Chaperons were: Miss Gladys Goedde, Miss Effie Maxey, Miss Ruth Taggart, Miss Beulah Sprecher, Carl Pearce and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Frazier.

Corns Now Needless
Prove It Overnight!

Why keep "treating" corns, when the first drop of Freezone stops all sensation of pain, and a few drops soon end the corn!

The most painful corn, even one sensitive to touch of stocking, can't throb ten seconds ofter Freezone comes in contact. All that's left to do, is lift the corn right off and it's gone! Isn't that better than surgery?

Feet that are "sights" from corns can grow back to normal, un blemished condition through the use of Freezone. Meantime, no pain—none at all—and no awkward pads or plasters to cause shoes to pinch and cultivate corns in other places.

The Freezone process is scientific and certain. The hardest corn that ever formed can't resist it—nor the soft corns between the toes where nothing has ever helped. A tiny bottle of Freezone copes with the worst condition of corns. Freezone has made it folly to have any corns at all, for any length of time.

For your own comfort, investigate Freezone. Every druggist has it, and the cost is a few cents!

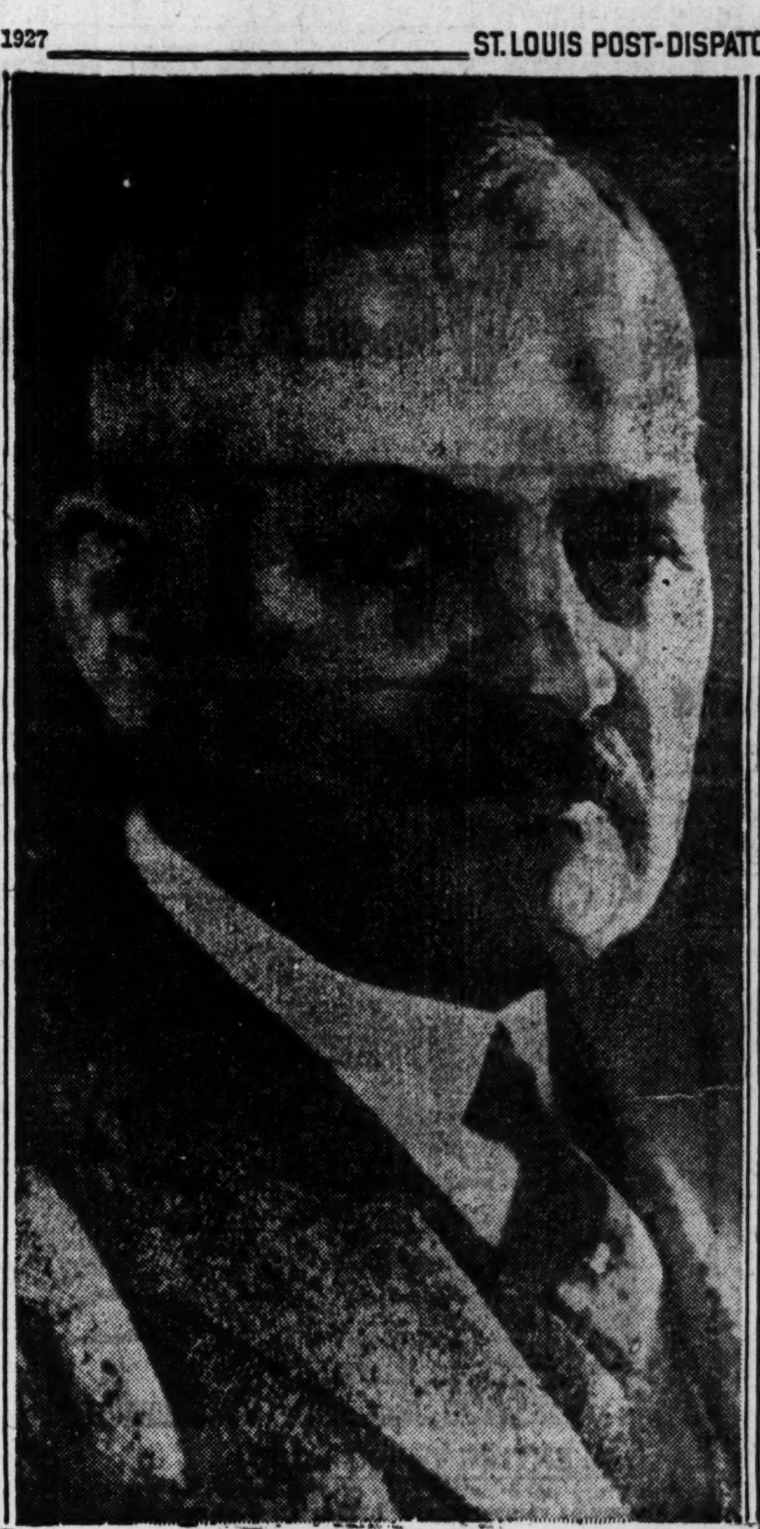
Announcing the NEW Maytag Aluminum Washer



F. L. MAYTAG

WITH distinct pride and satisfaction I announce the introduction of the NEW Maytag—a washer that is a real tribute to Maytag ideals, traditions and accomplishments. It is a worthy successor to the Maytag Aluminum Washer that during the past few years won World Leadership.

This New Maytag is as far in advance of today as the Maytag Gyrafoam principle was ahead five years ago, and again identifies the Maytag with the most notable achievements in Washing Machine history.

I earnestly urge you to visit the nearest Maytag dealer at once and see this New Maytag, or take advantage of our trial plan and phone for a free washing in your own home. If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

Sincerely, F L Maytag

Special Correspondence of the Post-Di

Shaw's thorough-going defense of Mussolini started several months ago when he protested against newspaper attacks on the Fascist regime. It was widely printed in the Italian Fascist press and drew hot criticism from Socialists throughout Europe.

Rebuked by Dr. Friedrich Adler, leader of the Austrian Labor party and secretary of the Labor and Socialist International, Shaw stood by his guns and ridiculed Socialists and others who persist in attacking Mussolini.

"Ideal Democracy Dead."

"The democratic idealism of the nineteenth century is as dead as a door nail," Shaw declares. "People generally prefer facts to ideals, whether they live in Italy, Ireland, England, Russia or the United States. Socialists whine like slaves when they demand absolute humanity in government.

The rise of Mussolini to power, and his rule since, are reduced by Shaw to a simple march on Rome the use of castor oil and the murder of one member of Parliament. Minimizing Fascism's extra-legal terrorism, Shaw expresses admiration for the ease with which Mussolini has taken command of Italy. He insists that Il Duce is more Socialistic in fact than a British Socialist Government would be were it in power.

"The blots on Mussolini's rule are neither specifically Fascist nor specifically Italian; they are blots on human nature," Shaw concludes.

"Shaw is very, very old," said Bertrand Russell, noted British radical, in commenting on the Shavian indorsement of Mussolini.

Letter Sent to Friend by G. Bernard Shaw.

"Democratic Idealism Dead As Door Nail," Says Shaw in Letters Defending Mussolini

Dictator More Socialistic Than a British Socialist Government Would Be, He Declares—Excesses of Fascism Only Those of Human Nature.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
LONDON, Nov. 12.

IT is as stupid to attack Mussolini as to denounce Napoleon, Lenin, the Irish Free State or the United States because their governments were, or are, ruthless and imperfect.

This is the statement by George Bernard Shaw which has shocked Liberal and Socialistic circles here and abroad more than anything since the Bolshevists took power in Russia.

Shaw's thorough-going defense of Mussolini started several months ago when he protested against newspaper attacks on the Fascist regime. It was widely printed in the Italian Fascist press and drew hot criticism from Socialists throughout Europe.

Rebuked by Dr. Friedrich Adler, leader of the Austrian Labor party and secretary of the Labor and Socialist International, Shaw stood by his guns and ridiculed Socialists and others who persist in attacking Mussolini.

"Ideal Democracy Dead."

"The democratic idealism of the nineteenth century is as dead as a door nail," Shaw declares. "People generally prefer facts to ideals, whether they live in Italy, Ireland, England, Russia or the United States. Socialists whine like slaves when they demand absolute humanity in government.

The rise of Mussolini to power, and his rule since, are reduced by Shaw to a simple march on Rome the use of castor oil and the murder of one member of Parliament. Minimizing Fascism's extra-legal terrorism, Shaw expresses admiration for the ease with which Mussolini has taken command of Italy. He insists that Il Duce is more Socialistic in fact than a British Socialist Government would be were it in power.

"The blots on Mussolini's rule are neither specifically Fascist nor specifically Italian; they are blots on human nature," Shaw concludes.

"Shaw is very, very old," said Bertrand Russell, noted British radical, in commenting on the Shavian indorsement of Mussolini.

Letter Sent to Friend by G. Bernard Shaw.

Feb. 7, 1927.

"MY DEAR—I am very sorry my comments on the Daily News articles on Mussolini, which the sub-editor headed 'A Defense' distressed you as it did. You are not the only one who jumped to the conclusion that I must have been unaware of the Matteotti affair, and of the other revolting incidents of the Fascist terror.

"This is quite a mistake, I knew about them.

"But you cannot dispose of Mussolini by simply repeating in a tone of virtuous indignation the admitted and even vaunted fact that he owes his power to a coup d'etat.

"Since Augustine founded the Roman Empire, with himself as Emperor, by a coup d'etat which began with the assassination of Caesar, until Lenin became dictator of Russia by a violent overthrow of Kerenskyist Liberal democracy involving the very unpleasant operations of the tcheka, there have been dozens of great usurpations effected by coups d'etat; and everyone of the coups have been a filthy business, in which honest and loyal men have been shouted down in court by perjured witnesses and time-serving magistrates, and have been beaten, tortured and murdered out of it by gangs of infernal blackguards.

"The only novelty in the Italian case was the castor oil; and most men would rather be dosed with castor oil than be tarred and feathered.

Precedents for Violence.

"Now it is clear that our attitude toward a new regime cannot be determined by the means employed to establish it. It is no use fighting Augustus or provoking him to fight you merely because Antony points eloquently to the gashes of Caesar's body.

"You cannot ignore Napoleon because he kicked out the excessively constitutional Abbe Sieyes.

"You cannot demand the reconquest of the Irish Free State because it has passed a coercion act that would have horrified Lord Salisbury, sweeping away the democratic councils established by the London Parliament and replacing them by autocratic triumvirates such as Dublin Castle at its worst would never have dared to set up.

"It is silly to refuse to trade with Russia because the soviet connived at regicide and made an end of the nice dinners given by the dear Benckendorffs.

"It would be absurd to pretend that the Kaiser is still the rightful ruler of Germany because the substitution of a republic was accompanied by the murder of Rathenau as well as Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg.

Used "Usual Villainies."

"It is equally irrelevant and silly to refuse to acknowledge the dictatorship of Il Duce because it was not achieved without all the usual villainies.

"The only question for us is whether he is doing the job well enough to induce the Italian nation to accept him faute de mieux. They do accept him, some of them faute de mieux, several of them with enthusiasm.

"His enemies—if you like, his victims—cannot pretend that they had not as good a chance as he . . .

"Some of the things Mussolini has done, and some that he is threatening to do, go farther in the direction of Socialism than the English Labor party could yet venture if it were in power. They will bring him presently into serious conflict with capitalism; and it is certainly not my business nor that of any Socialist to weaken him in view of such a conflict.

"As to cocking snooks at him as the British aristocracy did at George Washington long after they had been forced to accept him as President of the independent United States of America, what good will that do?

"As long as he can say 'J'y suis, et j'y reste,' and the Italian people say, 'So you shall; Viva Il Duce!' we must accept the situation, and we may as well do it with a good grace.

Lost Chance to Challenge.

"I repeat, we had our chance of challenging him over Corfu; and when we flunked that we practically admitted that we must put up with him.

"As he has not succeeded in keeping his enemies at home. I think he would do well to be more liberal of passports to his friends, because the Italian refugees who have escaped to Paris and London have it all their own way there when they represent Italy as groaning under an unbearable tyranny.

"All the tyranny I saw was of the kind which our capitalist press denounces as characteristic of Socialism; and I do not boil with indignation at it as the Liberals do.

"But that is not my point. which was and is that the campaign of abuse against the Mussolini dictatorship is just as stupid as the campaign against the soviet dictatorship in Russia.

"I am sorry my fellow Socialists in Italy were totally unable to take command after the war; and I loathe the savageries which

By THOMAS F. DAWSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Nov. 12.

THE man who once favored Harry F. Sinclair in a deal involving a natural gas concession—at a time when Sinclair was "one of the little fellows"—is today living on the edge of this grownup frontier town—out of the oil industry and broke.

Albert P. McBride, once the big promoter of Independence, Kan., home town of Sinclair and his brother Earl, is today the assistant caretaker of the small park of the town. From the front yard of the shabby frame house where he lives with his wife and three children, he can see the green-tiled tower of the mansion he used to occupy in his days of power—in the days when Harry Sinclair's brother worked as his bookkeeper.

McBride had untold wealth at his disposal in the early 1900s. He was president of the Independence Gas and Oil Co., of the Consolidated Natural Gas Producing Co. of Independence, of the Wichita Pipe Lines Co., and the Wichita Natural Gas Co. He was the leading citizen of Independence and its wealthiest man. Today he wears a hickory shirt and lives on a pittance.

The lucky star of McBride, once fulgent in the firmament of oil promoters, has declined as the Sinclair star has risen. The orbits of the two fortunes crossed in 1916. The stars remained at equipoise for awhile and then Sinclair's shot skyward with a roar. If stars could kick, perhaps a hob-nailed boot from the rising star would have sped the downward course of its contemporary.

McBride Gave Earl Job 28 Years Ago

It was McBride through whom the Sinclairs had their introduction to the oil business. Earl went to work for McBride as bookkeeper and general handy man about 28 years ago. A portly youth with a bent for poker, Harry Sinclair was then filling prescriptions in the drug store left him by his father.

Earl gained undoubtedly valuable experience at the hands of McBride, first to drill a sizeable gas well west of the Mississippi and then regarded as one of the shrewdest operators in the country. Earl accompanied his employer on leasing expeditions and helped with the books of McBride's various concerns. Possibly the fact that Earl had once worked for him induced McBride, in 1906, when Harry and Earl were trying to garner many leases, to favor the two brothers with his natural gas concession.

All of a dozen other youngsters in the oil business were eager for the concession. It was valuable because it meant a steady income of cash. Young promoters invariably have their money tied up in leases, and a steady income from another source is invaluable to them. The Sinclairs were no exception.

McBride had his hands full with other matters. The concession was the piping of natural gas from Wichita to Hutchison, Kan., and other towns.

"Give it to the Sinclairs," McBride said. The Sinclairs got it.

"It was not much," McBride said to a Post-Dispatch reporter commenting on the concession. "Of course, it meant cash. That's why it was important. We favored the Sinclairs when we let it. Why not? I always liked Harry and Earl."

How Sinclair Later Froze Out McBride

Ten years later the fortunes of the two men had changed. Sinclair had just concluded his operations with Patrick J. White, now the leading operator of the Wichita Falls field, and was credited with having between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000. In addition he had tentative arrangements with producers in western fields looking to a merger. The former drug store youth of Independence—the former bucket-shop proprietor of Bartlesville—had now waxed important among the larger petroleum enterprisers.

McBride, on the other hand, had lost some of his holdings. But he had been working months to put over a huge deal—the formation of a company that would open up big fields in Texas. McBride had interested both Joseph M. Cudahy, son of the late Patrick Cudahy, Chicago millionaire, and W. H. Isom, trustee of the Cudahy estate.

He effected a working agreement with Cudahy and Isom and began prospecting near Mineral Springs, Tex. He acquired several thousand dollars worth of leases and was negotiating for substantial chunks of what later became the Ranger field, when Cudahy wired him to cease operations. McBride was astonished. He wondered what had happened.

He learned then that his large company to open up the Texas fields would have to seek other capitalization. Cudahy had decided to cast his lot with the interests of Harry F. Sinclair. A few weeks later, Sinclair announced the merger of his own holdings, the Cudahy interests, and those of several other large producers. McBride was out in the cold.

With that announcement, Sinclair became the director of between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000 in oil and refinery properties. This was six years before the Teapot Dome affair, the basis of the conspiracy charge for which Sinclair and Fall will have to stand trial again in January.

McBride was not able to concentrate his holdings in a productive field after 1916. His luck had apparently turned. He prospected in Texas and Oklahoma. He took out shares in promising fields. But he failed to get all his holdings back. He met with his most serious reverse in 1924. Last April, disgusted with his luck, he came back to Independence—where he had been the community's "great man" in other years. His friends arranged the assistant caretaker's job. McBride took it for the sake of his three girls and his wife.

Holds No Grudge, Admires Sinclair

In those tough years after he missed the Cudahy chance, McBride saw Sinclair two or three times. The latter was always cordial and hearty. But no deal eventuated between the two. Bread cast upon the waters may sometimes return. In this instance, apparently, it didn't.

McBride nurtures no grudge against Sinclair, the man who plucked from his grasp the Cudahy interests for his own venture—for the exclusively Harry F. Sinclair developments. McBride merely says: "It's part of the game." He confesses, on the other hand, to a deep admiration for Sinclair and astonishingly declares the belief that Sinclair is the victim of a "frameup!"

A square-shouldered slender man, with iron gray hair, McBride looks his 67 years.

"Harry was always a shrewd financier," McBride said. "He didn't know much about the actual operating of a field, but he didn't have to know that. He made his pile through handling money. Now I don't think those fellows down in Washington have anything on Harry. He's too shrewd."

Apparently unaware of the Supreme Court decision in the Teapot Dome civil case, McBride added: "It looks to me just like they're framing Harry."

A few minutes later the old operator, who dates back to the days when drillers made their own tools, and who today can command operations at the most modern tower in any fields observed: "It's not so bad here at the park. The air and all is good for my little girls."

A pale ray of sunshine, a quarter of a mile distant, was at that moment glinting on the green-tiled roof of the former McBride mansion, now occupied by an independent operator of the newer school.

A prophet may be without honor in his own country, but it is different with a millionaire oil man, even when that oil man has been scored by the Supreme Court of the United States for dishonesty. The majority of persons in Independence, it may be said, although most have no illusions about Sinclair are "for" him—pulling for his acquittal. It is a safe bet that if Sinclair rode through the streets here he would get an ovation, and that one of the cheerers would be A. P. McBride.

Sinclair Too Fast for Independence, Kan.

McBride's view of Sinclair, contrasted with that of other men here who worked with Sinclair in the latter's youth—who were hunting with Sinclair on the fateful occasion when a shotgun charge carried off Sinclair's foot—is astonishingly naive, almost incredibly rose-colored.

These men say euphemistically of Sinclair—"he was 'bold' in his financial operations, he was always a little too fast for us here."

"Fast? What do you mean by fast?"

"Well, he wouldn't let anything stand in his way. If there were obstacles, he always got rid of them.

"By force?"

"Never by force. By money. He always

NAGEL PRESENTS REPORT OF BUSINESS COMMITTEE ON FARM RELIEF MEASURE

Favors Tariff and Rate Adjustment and Creation of Agricultural Foundation—Opposes McNary-Haugen Idea.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.

GRADUAL tariff adjustment, to equalize more nearly the benefits of the protective tariff system as between agriculture and the manufacturing industry; the creation of a Federal Farm Board to assist in the stabilization of farm prices and production; a comprehensive land utilization policy to be administered through an endowed National Agricultural Foundation; a revision of State and local tax systems; strengthening of the rural banking system, and revision of railroad rates on farm products and development of waterway systems are among the chief recommendations of the Business Men's Commission on Agriculture. The commission rejects legislation of the McNary-Haugen type as injurious to the long run interests of agriculture, and as setting a dangerous precedent.

MEMBERS OF COMMISSION

FOLLOWING are the members of the Business Men's Commission on agriculture who made the investigations of which Chairman Nagel's report is a digest:

Charles Nagel, chairman, of Nagel & Kirby, St. Louis; E. N. Brown, chairman of the board, St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co., New York City; E. M. Herr, president Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., New York City; J. G. Lonsdale, president National Bank of Commerce, St. Louis; A. F. McKissick, vice president, Alice Mills, Greenville, S. C.; Clay Miller of Clay Miller & Co., San Francisco; Arthur R. Rogers, president Rogers Lumber Co., Minneapolis, Minn.; John Stuart, president Quaker Oats Co., Chicago; Alfred Swayne, vice president General Motors Corporation, New York City; Paul M. Warburg, chairman International Acceptance Corporation, New York City.

The findings and recommendations of the commission, which were made public today by the chairman, Charles Nagel, at the commission's headquarters at 247 Park Avenue, are the result of a year's study of agricultural conditions and trends. The commission was created about a year ago by the National Industrial Conference Board and the Chamber of the United States jointly, but its findings, according to Nagel, are its own and were arrived at independently of either the conference board or the national chamber.

Farmer Has Suffered.

Chairman Nagel's statement in behalf of the Business Men's Commission on Agriculture follows:

"Serious and careful consideration of the agricultural situation makes it clear that in relation to it the United States is confronted with a question of fundamental national concern and of permanent importance to the American people.

"The evidence is clear that American agriculture has undergone a prolonged and trying readjustment to post-war conditions, in the course of which those engaged in it have suffered seriously in their relative economic prosperity in comparison with those engaged in other fields. On the human side, it has been deprived of the energy, experience, and knowledge of many thousands of farmers who have lost their resources and have been persuaded or compelled to leave the farm for other occupations, while the land resources of the nation have been impaired by neglect and wasteful exploitation under the pressure to which those who remained on the farm have been subjected.

Agriculture Falling Behind.

"Agriculture in this country also appears to be subject to certain deep-lying ills which time alone cannot safely be relied upon to cure but may even accentuate. There is evidence that real as well as money costs in the industry are rising; that we are not keeping our old superiority over competitors; that the fertility of the land is being impaired; that erosion is insidiously and constantly carrying away a layer of irreplaceable surface soil not only from the hillsides but over practically the whole area devoted to ploughed crops; that many if not most farmers are year after year failing to secure a return equivalent to that which can be obtained in the city by workers of no greater ability, that the comparative advantage of other industries is rapidly increasing; that the obstacles to the extension of markets for farm products are growing more effective; that the difficulties of improving the organization and methods of agriculture are increasing; that the year by year fluctuations in the prices of farm commodities are growing ever more severe and are increasing the hazard under which the farmer carries on his occupations; that tenancy is increasing; and that the quality of the farm population is undergoing a progressive deterioration.

"Our national policies in respect to industry, trade and international relations all have a profound bearing on the agricultural problem. But the aim in agricultural policies should have in view such improvement in the economic position of the farmer as is consistent with the wisest utilization of our land resources and the development of types of farmers and of rural life which will make not only for greater farm prosperity but for the long-time social and political welfare of the nation as a whole.

National Policy Favored.

"A sound national agricultural policy conceived in this way can not rest upon governmental action alone, but requires active participation and co-operation of farmers and of other economic groups as well as of local, State and Federal governmental authorities. The putting into execution of such a policy necessarily will be a matter of gradual development and can not spring complete from the brain of any individual or group. It is in this spirit that the commission proposes the following suggestions as to ways in which the economic position of American agriculture may be improved and a basis provided for the gradual development of a comprehensive national agricultural policy.

"(1) The Commission believes that efforts should be made more nearly to equalize, as between agriculture and manufacturing industry, such benefits as the existing protective tariff system can afford to both. Protective policies which tend to place artificial obstacles in the way of natural and normal extension of markets for American farm products and which tend to increase the domestic costs of their production should be subjected to careful reconsideration with a view to equalizing their effects.

Against McNary-Haugen Bill.

"The economic position of agriculture would obviously be improved if farmers could secure higher prices for their products, or find markets for more of them at prevailing prices, or reduce their costs of production. It is recognized that the eduction of costs of production and the extension of agricultural markets is necessarily a slow and difficult process which for the most part does not depend so much on legislative action as on other factors. For this reason those who feel that immediate public action for

Wants the Burns Charter Revoked.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

APROPOS the Burns Detective Agency jury-tampering case: Is it not possible for the various states to have this firm's charter revoked? Its pernicious activity places it in the same category as any other commercial establishment that has abused its right to do business.

With Volstead Act, paid snoopers, jury-tampering detectives and many other forms of intolerable practices (mostly underhanded), it is high time that the people of this good old country demand that restraint be placed upon the trouble-makers and the people be allowed to rule as the majority desire, and not for any one or several groups who wish to gain either notoriety or wealth at the expense of the people as a whole.

On every side distrust, hate and greed are cropping up, and I am sure they can be traced back to these spying agencies who will stop at nothing (their activities are always lawful, so they say) in order to grab the almighty dollar, which is the only god they know. WES.

What Gompers Thought of W. J. Burns.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHAT Samuel Gompers says about W. J. Burns in his autobiography is worth recalling:

Burns' conduct in the land fraud cases in the State of Washington, the letter under date of May 10, 1912, from Attorney-General Wickersham to President Taft charging Burns with jury fixing and subornation to convict an innocent man, the President's pardon for the man convicted under such circumstances, confirmed me in my judgment that I did not wish to meet Mr. Burns if I could avoid it.

I felt justified in the belief that no citizen's life or liberty was safe with a man such as Burns in such a responsible position.

Gompers goes on to tell how for many days Burns or his detectives followed him "to fasten the crime upon me."

Truly a leopard does not change his spots. CYRIL CLEMENS.

Hey, Big Bill! Here's a Customer for the American First Society.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE attempt to displace British books dealing out treason, slander, disloyalty and kingcraft in the Chicago schools is the most commendable bit of true patriotism of the past half century. This has been going on for a long time and Mr. McAndrew is proved to be a poor and decrepit substitute for a real American. ROBERT E. McGUIRE.

George Was Second Fiddle to No One.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN a recent issue of the Richmond (Va.) Times Dispatch, a correspondent, while boosting Washington as a great American statesman, makes our first president play second fiddle to Alexander Hamilton. In fact, he tries to make all of us play second fiddle to Alexander Hamilton.

A really great man plays second fiddle to no one, whether it is politics, war or running a blacksmith shop. Washington was an expert blacksmith, could shoe a horse to perfection and make the tools for his own farm and his neighbor's. In this trade he would have disdained to consult Alexander Hamilton. While he trusted Hamilton as his secretary with many important things, he did not hesitate to tell him when Hamilton was half an hour late in meeting the General that he must get another watch or he would have to get another secretary, as Hamilton credited his delay to his faulty watch.

When Madison outlined Washington's farewell address, following Washington's dictation, the plan was finally given to Hamilton, and Washington dictated the great address to Hamilton, who did not believe in the full spirit of the address. Thus we see Washington did not play second fiddle to Alexander Hamilton or any one else. Hamilton, with his superior mind, was a standstill statesman, unprogressive, holding to imperialism. Many of our citizens of today are trying to educate the people of the United States to leave behind them such political power, a power that dictates and oppresses, to carry its false doctrines to success.

Jefferson's bill of rights will have to be in full possession of the people of the United States before the people can become free and independent citizens of this great nation. Jefferson's declaration of independence is based upon the basic law of the rights of man, as Wilson's League of Nations is based upon legal rights to settle all national disputes and give each nation justice. All the votes in the world against such ideas cannot destroy them. C. J. GRIFFITH.

WHO GOT THE BONDS?

Who got the bonds?

That is the question concerning the remainder of the bonds bought by the Continental Trading Company of Canada after Albert B. Fall was given his bribe of $230,500 for the lease of Teapot Dome to Harry Sinclair.

The Continental Trading Co., a dummy concern, denounced by the United States Supreme Court as having been formed for some illegitimate purpose, accumulated approximately $3,000,000 under a contract entered into between A. E. Humphreys and Harry Sinclair, Robert Stewart, head of the Standard Oil of Indiana, James A. E. O'Neil, head of the Prairie Oil and Gas Co., and Harry N. Blackmer. The whole story is told by Paul Anderson, staff correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, in an article published in today's Sunday Post-Dispatch.

The Post-Dispatch tried to ascertain what became of the bonds purchased in excess of the amount turned over to Fall through his son-in-law. It must have been approximately $2,770,000 worth. Since part of the fund of the dummy company went to Fall, who, as Secretary of the Interior in Harding's Cabinet, fraudulently, by a corrupt bargain, turned over Teapot Dome to Harry Sinclair, the presumption is strong that the remainder of the fund, $2,770,000, was used for some illegitimate or shady purpose. We thought that, perhaps, in view of the corrupt use of part of the funds, the Department of Justice would attempt to discover what became of the remaining bonds. The records are probably in the Treasury Department, to which the Department of Justice has access.

An interview with Attorney-General Sargent merely disclosed that the Department of Justice has had nothing to do with the Fall-Sinclair case, because the prosecution was turned over to special counsel employed for the purpose of prosecuting that case. Mr. Sargent refused to discuss the matter at all. The Department of Justice evidently has washed its hands of the whole dirty affair.

There are many theories, all more or less guesswork. There is an inkling that part of the money at least went to meet the deficit of the Republican National Committee in the Harding campaign, but no proof.

A thorough investigation might disclose who got the remaining bonds. But it requires authority to get at the facts. If the Department of Justice refuses to move, and that is a fair conclusion from its inaction and the refusal of the Attorney-General to discuss the matter, there is only one other way by which the records can be ascertained and the facts made known. That is through a Senate investigation. It was through a Senate investigation that the fraudulent and corrupt transactions of Fall with Doheny and Sinclair were brought to light. It was through a Senate investigation that the crookedness of the Department of Justice under Harry Daugherty was discovered. It was through a Senate investigation that the huge slush funds of Vare and Smith were uncovered.

A Senate committee armed with authority to summon witnesses and bring out Governmental records might disclose who got the bonds. The Senate has another opportunity to perform a service to the American people by disclosing the whole vicious and dirty deal by which money was raised by Sinclair and his oil associates to bribe Fall and for other illegitimate purposes.

The answer to the question who got the bonds rests with the United States Senate. Is there a majority in the Senate with the courage to undertake this task?

THE I. C. C. STANDS PAT.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has placed a valuation of $382,400,000 on the property of the Great Northern Railroad. It has cut the company's own estimates by $254,112,774. The commission's figures are based on its theory of prudent investment as against the "reproduction new" calculation of the railroad company.

This difference of more than a quarter of a billion dollars emphasizes the necessity of legally determining the plan of valuation which is to prevail. It is imperative that our railroads prosper. Neither commission nor court should lay down a rule which is tantamount to confiscation; neither should they permit the railroads or any other public utility to charge rates and earn profits on hypothetical investment and mythical values. Such special privilege would enable the railroads to confiscate the people's money by excessive rates. Confiscating the people's money is quite as intolerable as confiscating the railroads would be.

A STATE ROAD SYSTEM—NOW!

All the members of the State Highway Commission are now reported as favoring a bond issue to hasten completion of a State road system. They are not agreed as to the amount of such an issue. Some of them are strong for the $120,000,000 proposal sponsored by the Automobile Club. Others are for a "reasonable" issue. One commissioner fixes $60,000,000 as advisable. Some of the commissioners have not settled upon the amount.

The commission, apparently, has scrapped the pay-as-you-go plan advocated by the former chairman, Theodore Gary. The Post-Dispatch believes this is sound judgment. Missouri has got as far as she is today in road construction by the bond method of financing. That method is the standard financing practice of large enterprises, private and public. It is the modern method. It is the one established straight, expeditious way to big results.

The pay-as-you-go plan, whatever may be said for it, is slow and tedious. Missouri, in our opinion, cannot afford either to be slow or tedious in this great work. The position of a State today in national esteem depends largely upon its roads. Such judgment is not merely sentimental. It is a practical appraisal. Good roads mean money to a State. They mean infinitely more, too, of course. It is unnecessary to recite the blessings they bestow.

And we who are here today will not be here forever. We should like to see a completed highway system in Missouri while still in the flesh. That is a prevalent attitude. Our highway commissioners have encountered it in their journeyings over the State. They have found a definite and growing sentiment for a bond issue. If those gentlemen will get together, canvass the situation, decide on what Missouri ought to do in her own best interests, sign the report and swing into action, the people of Missouri, we believe, will indorse their recommendation.

Make no mistake about this: The people of Missouri want a State highway system, not a paper system, or a promissory system, but a system of real roads, and they want that system of roads now.

IS SENATOR REED "DESTRUCTIVE?"

Since the Sedalia meeting which indorsed him for the presidential nomination, there has been a countrywide discussion of Senator Reed's qualifications as a candidate. The main criticism of him, so far as we can gather, is the old charge that he is not "a constructive statesman." This designation, like so many tags and labels attached to public men, is to a large extent meaningless.

To begin with, there should be some clarification of the term constructive. Obviously, very much of the vital business of government, especially on the part of men in an opposition party, is tearing down bad legislation and eradicating vicious practices.

Some of the most noted figures in British parliamentary history, as well as in our own congressional annals, won their spurs not by proposing good legislation, but by opposing evil laws.

In Senator Reed's case, we think there is no doubt that his brilliance and effectiveness has been displayed best on the attack. Ever since he has been in public life, for example, he has fought for the purity of the ballot. In 1912, at the very dawn of his career, he fought to unseat Senator Stephenson, against whom it was said that he had bought his seat. In the same session, Reed became a leader in the successful struggle to expel William Lorimer from the Senate.

His greatest service in the interest of clean elections is too fresh in the public mind to need extended rehearsal. As chairman of an investigation committee, whose members for the most part were apathetic or even hostile to its purposes, Reed, practically single-handed, exposed the rottenness of the Pennsylvania primary, where enormous sums of money were spent on behalf of George Wharton Pepper and William S. Vare. He then journeyed to Illinois, all by himself, and turned up the astounding details of Frank L. Smith's primary campaign, including the huge contribution of Samuel Insull, public utility magnate, to a man who at the time was chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission. Few investigations in our history have ever been so ably and vigorously conducted.

This kind of work is "destructive" in the same sense as the work of a surgeon who cuts out a cancerous growth. We think, however, those who accuse Reed of lack of constructiveness have in mind principally his campaign against the treaty of Versailles and the League of Nations, and if that one episode, to be sure conducted in Reed's bitterest and most venomous mood, is considered enough to characterize his whole career, then the charge of "destructiveness" is understood.

Apart from that, a glance at Reed's record shows that he has often been on the affirmative, positive or "constructive," side of public questions. This was evident in Wilson's first administration. In 1913, for example, he became one of the authors of the great Underwood tariff law. Earlier he had championed the direct election of Senators. Although Reed was charged with opposing the Federal reserve law, called by Woodrow Wilson the greatest piece of constructive legislation in half a century, he was thanked by Wilson for his aid in perfecting the bill. Reed's opposition consisted in an unwillingness to rush the bill through, as Wilson had asked, and his unwillingness seems to be justified in the light of the more than 500 amendments attached to the bill before its final passage.

Reed was prominent in the fight for the ship-purchase bill to create an American merchant marine; he stood with Wilson in the armed merchantmen dispute of 1916; he voted to establish a public armor plate factory to protect the Government against extortionate prices of private manufacturers; he voted to confirm Louis Brandeis for the Supreme Court, one of the greatest appointments Wilson made; he assisted in passing the Federal farm loan act; he was one of the authors of the national defense act of 1916. He voted for the war and for practically all of Wilson's war measures; he supported Wilson's veto of the Volstead act.

With the passing of the Democrats, Reed went into the opposition. In 1920 he was seen as an active member of the Kenyon committee whose disclosures scuttled the ship of Frank O. Lowden and made it impossible for the late Gen. Wood to capture the presidential nomination in 1920. In the last Congress Reed was an opposition party all by himself. He conducted the hearings on the prohibition question, where his talents as a cross-examiner were at their height. He conducted the corrupt primary investigations, and he found time in between to introduce and put through a much-needed bill increasing the salaries of the Federal judiciary.

It is true Reed's name is not attached to any great piece of legislation. The Post-Dispatch listed last spring the number of laws even remotely deserving that designation that have been passed in the last 60 years. They number less than 50. Frequently the man whose name is on a bill wins the distinction not because he is its real author or the driving force behind it, but because of the purely fortuitous circumstance that he is chairman of the committee from which the bill was reported.

We do not undertake here to make a brief for Senator Reed, but simply to clarify the "constructive statesman" charge. He is entitled to such clarification. Nor do we mean he was a "constructive statesman" in the sense that Jefferson was, although from one point of view Jefferson was perhaps our most destructive statesman. Consider the destruction he wrought of the old British colonial government when he wrote the Declaration of Independence! The work of Jefferson, Hamilton, Madison and others of the group known as the Founding Fathers was done when the nation's building took place. The statesman's work at that time was necessarily constructive. Reed comes in another age. He comes at a time when the building is complete, and the vital work is to keep the Government in conformity with the original pattern. Hence Reed's program includes such things as the abolition of useless boards and bureaus, the simplification of government and the protection of the civil rights of citizens as guaranteed in the first 10 amendments to the Constitution. It would be absurd to class such aims as destructive ones.

Finally, if presidential candidates must be "constructive statesmen," how would Harding have measured up to the qualification? His senatorial record, so far as real achievement is concerned, was a pitiable blank. Or Coolidge, whose great luck in public life is due in large part to his extraordinary capacity for doing nothing, or, as he might express it, his talent for whittling?

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

THE PRESUMPTION OF GUILT.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

ONE of the fundamental conceptions of American law—and of the English common law from which our practices derive—is that a man accused of crime shall be deemed innocent until he shall have been proved guilty. This means that it is up to the State, having made its accusation, to prove its case. Unless the offense is definitely proved, the accused man must be set free.

This is the law. But the practice is different. By a series of invasions, each more flagrant than the other, the politicians and bureaucrats have whittled away at this conception until it has nothing like the significance it had at one time. The man who possesses alcohol, for instance, is deemed guilty of a crime. The mere possession is a crime. He must prove that it is legal possession or he goes to jail. The burden of proof is not on the State, but on him. He is guilty before he starts.

Indeed, in many matters in which the citizen comes in contact with the Government which is supposed to protect him, he is regarded as a criminal. The most noteworthy instance in point comes in connection with the individual as a taxpayer. Under regulations which have all the force of law, the taxpayer who is accused of fraud by the Internal Revenue Department, must prove that he is an honest man. The law regards him as a crook. It is up to him to prove, if he can, that he isn't.

Yesterday before the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives appeared Hugh Satterlee, a New York lawyer. He spoke on behalf of the American Bar Association. He protested vehemently against this perversion of the fundamental right of the citizen. He asked that the law be changed so that jobholders would be restrained from regarding the citizen as a criminal.

We hope that Mr. Satterlee's request bears fruit. But we fear that the matter has gone too far. The Bar Association should have made its fight when the bureaucrats began their campaign against the citizen. Then the tendency might have been checked. But to ask them to change now is like expecting Mussolini to become a pacifist.

In a few years probably the bureaucrats will regard all citizens as criminals and the law will support them in their belief. We shall keep out of jail on sufferance, not by right.

KEEPING THE MOVIES PURE.

From the New Orleans Item.

A SUMMARY of the provisions of the State laws leaves one lost in wonder that the motion-picture producers are able to exhibit anything turned out of their studios. The most amazing lack of uniformity prevails in opinion with regard to what is fit and unfit for the screen. Some States forbid the symbolic knitting of small socks. Across the boundary this is quite proper, but here the film may not show a policeman falling into a mortar vat.

Other States forbid the portrayal of a bottle of whisky standing on a table. Others find this unobjectionable, but forbid anyone to drink out of the bottle. One State will not permit a man to caress a woman's arm. Another will not permit him to kiss her anywhere save on the mouth. One State will not permit any scene in which a man enters the room of a woman not his wife. Another bars every picture of strikes or riots, The list in each State is different.

A MOTLEY collection of Democratic self-appointed leaders are seeking to saddle the unwilling donkey with candidates of their own kidney whose chief aim in life is to know where to get the next drink. We are disposed to put a little cracked ice on the over-heated mastoids of these folks, affording them some helpful suggestions. As a basis for discussion and contemplation, how would this do as the head of the Democratic ticket in case the mashtub patriots get in control?

For President—Hon. Alcohol Smith.

For Vice President—Hon. Hinky Dink, South Water street, Chicago.

In the makeup of the Cabinet, how would something like the following do?

Secretary of State—Wallipus E. Wedge, of Mortification Corners, New Jersey.

Secretary of the Treasury, Doc Cook, Leavenworth, Kansas.

Attorney-General—George Remus, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Secretary for Roasting the Anti-Saloon League—Jim-along Reed, of Toad-a-Loup, Missouri.

Secretary of Beer—Augustus Busch, of St. Louis.

Secretary of War—Haig & Haig, Glasgow, Scotland.

Secretary of Bunk—Prothonotary Ritchie, Snolligoster, Maryland.

Secretary of the Navy—William Hohenzollern, Doorn, Holland.

Secretary of Agriculture—Fatty Arbuckle, Barbary Coast, California.

Secretary of Commerce and Labor—Weary Willie, Dog Hole, Pennsylvania.

Secretary of Modification—Abe Slupsky, New Orleans.

SOME OTHER FAMOUS FLIGHTS.

FLOYD L. DARROW in St. Nicholas.

THE nighthawk nests in Yukon and winters in Argentina, 7000 miles away. Nineteen species of shore birds rear their young north of the Arctic Circle and then fly to South America, six of the species even penetrating Patagonia, 8000 miles from their northern nesting grounds.

The far-famed bobolink of New England migrates to Brazil, making a transoceanic flight of 700 miles from Cuba to the South American coast. So also do the purple martins, cliff swallows, barn swallows and some thrushes.

The bird which holds the world record for long-distance flying is the Arctic tern. It builds its nest within 7½ degrees of the north pole, remaining but a brief period in the land of the midnight sun, when it flies away to the icebergs of the Antarctic continent, a distance of 11,000 miles.

While it may be quite possible to do this by legislative action, the commission believes that it can be done only by means which are unsound in principle, which artificially and arbitrarily alter the relations between supply and demand and which promise no permanent relief.

"Accordingly, the commission finds it impossible to support any of the legislative proposals of the type represented by the McNary-Haugen bill and others designed to raise the domestic over the world market price by artificially restricting the supply of agricultural products in the home market. But the commission does believe that the interests of American agriculture would be better served by intelligent and discriminating effort to diminish gradually those trade restrictions and tariffs on manufactured articles which tend to reduce the foreign market for our agricultural products. The more so, inasmuch as the shifting of the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation has further tended to increase the difficulty of American agriculture of marketing its products abroad. Until such time as the foreign market for farm products can be materially improved in this way without at the same time injuring the domestic market, agriculture also should be given the fullest benefit of such tariffs as will protect its domestic market against foreign sources of agricultural supply.

"(2) The position of agriculture can be improved not only by governmental policies which facilitate the sound extension of markets for farm products, but also by measures which tend to reduce the wide fluctuations in prices and the hazards of loss due to changing natural and market conditions.

"The commission cannot recommend that the Government itself enter directly and actively into the buying of farm products for this purpose until and unless it is conclusively demonstrated by experiment that the result cannot be accomplished in any other way. The commission suggests, therefore, that a Federal Farm Board consisting of a small number of men appointed by the President should be established to aid in the stabilization of prices and production in agriculture by advising farmers and farm organizations fully and promptly regarding the planning of production and the marketing of crops. With the advice and assistance of the Federal Farm Board, effort should be made to organize stabilization corporations to engage in the buying and selling of farm products for the stabilizing of prices. Such organizations should be established through the co-operation of farm organizations, or private business organizations and of the Government acting through the Federal Farm Board, each supplying part of the capital necessary. The Federal Government should at no time hold a controlling interest in such corporations, although it would participate in the management and exercise supervision, such as it exercises over national banks and the Federal Land Banks and the Intermediate Credit System.

Nagel Presents Farm Report of Business Committee

the relief of agriculture is necessary, have turned to various proposals for legislation designed to raise the prices of farm products relative to the prices of other commodities. While it may be quite possible to do this by legislative action, the commission believes that it can be done only by means which are unsound in principle, which artificially and arbitrarily alter the relations between supply and demand and which promise no permanent relief.

"Accordingly, the commission finds it impossible to support any of the legislative proposals of the type represented by the McNary-Haugen bill and others designed to raise the domestic over the world market price by artificially restricting the supply of agricultural products in the home market. But the commission does believe that the interests of American agriculture would be better served by intelligent and discriminating effort to diminish gradually those trade restrictions and tariffs on manufactured articles which tend to reduce the foreign market for our agricultural products. The more so, inasmuch as the shifting of the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation has further tended to increase the difficulty of American agriculture of marketing its products abroad. Until such time as the foreign market for farm products can be materially improved in this way without at the same time injuring the domestic market, agriculture also should be given the fullest benefit of such tariffs as will protect its domestic market against foreign sources of agricultural supply.

Federal Farm Board.

"(2) The position of agriculture can be improved not only by governmental policies which facilitate the sound extension of markets for farm products, but also by measures which tend to reduce the wide fluctuations in prices and the hazards of loss due to changing natural and market conditions.

"The commission cannot recommend that the Government itself enter directly and actively into the buying of farm products for this purpose until and unless it is conclusively demonstrated by experiment that the result cannot be accomplished in any other way. The commission suggests, therefore, that a Federal Farm Board consisting of a small number of men appointed by the President should be established to aid in the stabilization of prices and production in agriculture by advising farmers and farm organizations fully and promptly regarding the planning of production and the marketing of crops. With the advice and assistance of the Federal Farm Board, effort should be made to organize stabilization corporations to engage in the buying and selling of farm products for the stabilizing of prices. Such organizations should be established through the co-operation of farm organizations, or private business organizations and of the Government acting through the Federal Farm Board, each supplying part of the capital necessary. The Federal Government should at no time hold a controlling interest in such corporations, although it would participate in the management and exercise supervision, such as it exercises over national banks and the Federal Land Banks and the Intermediate Credit System.

Immediate Measures.

"(3) In view of the difficulties standing in the way of immediate Government action designed to raise or stabilize farm prices and to extend the foreign markets for farm products, the chief immediate means of improving the economic position of the farmer must be sought in measures to reduce his costs of production.

"First and foremost, the commission feels that great emphasis should be placed upon the things the individual farmer himself can do to lower his production costs, the production methods of many farmers being far below the best technical and economic standards. A higher yield per man engaged must be sought, in part by increasing the average size of the farm unit, in part by utilizing labor more fully throughout the year. Much land now in crops should be put in grass or reforested. Yields per man should be increased by larger expenditures for relatively cheap materials, as commercial fertilizer, and for improved farm equipment. In such a program power farming promises the best results and rotation and diversification of crops are a fundamental necessity, not only to maintain soil fertility, reduce crop pests, increase the period of employment and insure against the hazards of nature and price, but also to increase the self-sufficiency and security of the farmer.

Co-Operative Selling.

"(4) Important as are the opportunities for individual self-help, success of farmers in overcoming their own difficulties without outside aid depends mainly opon organized co-operative efforts in reducing production costs and market losses.

"Co-operation, in the purchase of goods for agricultural production, in securing test seed, in the improvement of livestock, in the utilization of machinery, in harvesting, in the grading, standardizing and processing farm products, in providing cheap credit and developing calamity insurance, holds great promise of giving the farmer advantages similar to those obtained in the manufacturing industry through large scale production and corporate organization. Co-operative selling organizations offer the greatest opportunities in the marketing of perishable commodities, but in the marketing of staple crops like wheat and cotton the advantages to be gained are not so great as is generally assumed and in part are offset by definite dangers. It is unlikely that great national co-operative marketing organizations can undertake the marketing of wheat or cotton more cheaply than the existing marketing machinery, or secure better prices by holding it to the end of the year. But often such large co-operatives, subject to the temptation of securing higher prices through an unsound control of the supply, where they apply pressure on their members to restrict production, experience a great deal of desertion among members, leaving the remaining members to bear all costs while non-members secure equal benefits.

Utilizing the Land.

"(5) A balanced agricultural production, the highest efficiency of the agricultural industry, sustained prosperity of the farmer and the preservation of the nation's natural resources can be attained only through a carefully planned policy of land utilization.

"A large reduction of crop acreage in favor of improved pastures, as well as forest land, is desirable in the interest of agriculture and in keeping with the requirements of coming generations. The forest problem especially requires rapid action on a large scale, and we shall be compelled within a few years to effect a veritable revolution in the point of view and the methods involved in the utilization of land for forests.

"A national prerequisite to the introduction of a comprehensive land utilization policy is the determination of the present and future requirements of the population for the several types of land. Land classification, however, the commission believes, can be successfully undertaken only by an agency entirely independent from the Federal Government, state governments and all business interests of regional or local character, because of the political considerations involved, as well as the vast private business interests affected.

National Foundation Proposed.

"The commission, therefore, proposes the creation of an independent organization endowed with adequate funds to undertake the classification of land resources and the development of a comprehensive plan for land utilization, which might be called the National Agricultural Foundation. The ultimate aim of the foundation would be gradually to concentrate farmers on the best land, to cause the poorer or submarginal lands to be evacuated so that they could be turned over to grass or forests, either for the production of lumber or as game and fish preserves or for general recreational use. Such a foundation could also aid in the guidance of the population movement between farms and cities. In connection with such guidance, the foundation should make the systematic effort to eliminate that type of farmer who cannot meet the difficult requirements of efficiently conducted agriculture, as well as encourage able farmers to remain on farms or to move to better lands and aid them to employ the best agricultural methods.

Tax Revision Suggested.

"(6) Earnest and effective co-operation is needed between the organizations of farmers, business men, manufacturers and other occupational groups to exercise watchfulness over local and State governmental expendiutres, and to effect needed redistribution of the burden of farm taxes now resting with undue severity upon the farmers and thereby endangering the economic interests of each state as a whole.

"(7) The states should, so far ah practicable, relinquish the general property tax to the local governing units and obtain such revenue as they need through income, business and excise taxes. So far as the state exercises control regarding standards of education, it is incumbent upon it to assume a considerable share of the financial burden. In meeting local education needs, the granting of state aid in proportion to the relative need or prosperity of the local community is highly desirable.

Rural Credits.

"(8) The machinery of agricultural credit as it exists being seriously defective and susceptible of great improvement, this problem should be energetically attacked.

"Serious consideration should be given to the desirability of extending branch banking within certain prescribed areas and of serving agricultural credit needs by a system of fewer but stronger banking institutions. Improvement in the system of banking control and in the supervision of State banks are urgently needed and it would probably be beneficial if State banking laws should place stricter responsibility on directors of banks.

"To lower interest rates for short-time credit and to release the farmers in some sections from undesirable dependence upon the local merchant or landlord for their current credit needs, it would appear necessary to bring about a more extensive use of the facilities of the Intermediate Credit System through the wide establishment of agricultural credit corporations. Such corporations should be permitted to charge a rate so much above the rediscount rate of the Intermediate credit banks as would not only cover expenses but would permit the accumulation of reserves and surplus to be applied to the redemption of all stock not in the hands of the farmers or co-operatives. The Intermediate Credit Banks on their part should be allowed to charge enough to meet expenses and provide for the gradual retirement of the Government from ownership of the stock of these banks so that they may be changed into farmers' mutual associations under Government supervision.

Lower Carrying Charges.

"(8) Agriculture can be substantially benefited by readjustments of the railroad rate structure, the extensions of waterways systems and other reductions in distribution costs.

"Although the relatively unprosperous condition of agricultural railroads shows that the existing rates on agricultural commodities are in general not unduly high, a different division of rates on through shipments would be of essential benefit to agriculture in central and Southern states. The commission urges expedition in putting into effect any reduction of rates on agricultural commodities as were contemplated in the Hoke-Smith resolution and prove feasible and consistent with it.

"The development of the Mississippi waterway system and the construction of Great Lakes-to-Ocean water route would be of great benefit to producers of grain in the central Northwest and the great plains section and of meat products in the corn belt. The prevention of flood disasters in the Mississippi basin is urgently required and would be of great benefit to large agricultural areas. In view of its national importance the larger share, if not the whole, of the cost should be borne by the Federal Government.

Education in Farming.

"9. The commission strongly urges the extension of research work in the field of agriculture by the Federal Government, its co-ordination with the research work of states and other agencies, and the appropriation of larger funds for such work on the part of the Federal Government.

"Extensive research is needed to supply the basis of a comprehensive land utilization policy, for the elimination of plant pests and diseases, for the development of new types of agricultural products and of new uses for existing products, as well as concerning the possibilities of the application of industrial methods and business organization in agriculture. Special attention should be given to the functions of the rural schools in the education of young people with a view not only to improve their efficiency as future farmers, but also to cultivating in them a more fundamental appreciation of the values of farming as a way of life and as a profession.

"The foregoing briefly summarizes the recommendations made by the Business Men's Commission on Agriculture as a result of a year's study of the agricultural problem in the light of the present situation, the previous economic development of the United States as well as the deep-going changes in the economic position of the United States through and since the war. The commission's investigation of the agricultural problem revealed the agricultural situation as involving and being affected by many varying factors, some of which were fundamental and connected with the gradual change of the country from that of an agricultural to a prevailingly industrial nation, while others were problems of post-war readjustment of more temporary nature, but intensifying the more permanent ills of agriculture. The findings of the commission of the causes of the agricultural problems may be briefly grouped as follows:

Summary of Findings.

"1. Farm prices and land values in the general deflation of values following the war were more seriously affected than prices in other fields. While farm prices have tended to become readjusted to the general level of prices, they have done so but slowly, incompletely and uncertainly, and certain major elements in agricultural costs has resisted readjustment and continued at uneconomically high levels. These include the burden of State and local taxation; interest rates; transportation costs, which have increased following the restoration of the railroads to private management and at a time when the general price level, and with it the prices of agricultural commodities, were falling sharply; similarly post-war changes in ocean freight rates and the development of water transportation via the Panama Canal have increased the difficulties of certain agricultural sections. The persistent burdens upon the farmer resulting from waste in marketing, high costs of distribution and the increasing spread between prices at the farm and retail prices have been intensified since the war.

"(2) Certain national policies and changes in the international trade relations of the United States have tended to increase production costs and especially to restrict the market for American farm products.

Immigration Restriction.

"Immigration restriction has probably tended in some measure to sustain urban wages which are reflected in agricultural costs, to increase direct farm labor costs and the costs of distribution. Despite increased urban purchasing power, it is probable that immigration restriction has aggravated the surplus problem in agriculture by curtailing the market for farm products, and by increasing foreign competition through keeping European farm workers at home or diverting them to newer agricultural countries. Furthermore, quota restriction in all likelihood has deprived American agriculture of types of immigrant farmers who by long experience and tradition are well qualified to farm successfully and may nave tended to depress agriculture as whole by the free admission of low-standard farm labor.

"The shifting of the United States from the position of a debtor to that of a creditor nation in international transactions, the steady extension of tariff protection to the manufacturing industries and the increase in the tariff level in post-war years have further tended to increase the difficulties of American agriculture both in respect to the foreign market for its products and its cost of production. The enormous increase in governmental and private foreign indebtedness to the United States has compelled the debtor nations to reduce their imports, increase their exports, and become more self-sufficient in respect to agricultural products. The full effect of this change has been deferred by continual foreign loans, but the decreased purchasing power of foreign markets for American products has been more seriously felt by the farmers than by other industries and the effect of our creditor position in this respect is likely to be more apparent in the future.

Reduced Consumption.

"(3) The conditions cited, which have arisen in recent years, have combined with certain other factors which have been in evidence for a longer period to make for persistent agricultural depression.

"The decline of per capita consumption of certain goods, due to urbanization and changed occupations, as well as changed dietary habits and new methods in the preparation and distribution of foods, the substitution of mechanical for animal power on farms and in cities, changed clothing habits together with the development of substitutes for textiles, all have combined to reduce the domestic consumption of farm products.

"Declining foreign and domestic demand for farm products have followed a long period of persistent overexpansion of farm acreage due to the long prevalence of the self-sufficient farm, the abundance of available land, governmental and private land settlement policies, rising land values and the ever-present tendency toward speculation in farm real estate. This unsound expansion of production, and the unsound forms of land tenure accompanying it have contributed to exploitation and wasteful use of our soil resources.

"Conditions such as these have tended to bear especially heavy on agriculture because of the low gross return of the average farm enterprise; its increasing commercialism or dependence on market conditions accentuated by excessive regulation of produce exchanges; its lack of advantages of economies in production and marketing which organization has made possible in other fields; its slow adjustment to changing economic requirements, and the rapidly increasing comparative economic advantage of the manufacturing industries in the United States, reflected in the declining role played by farm products in our export trade.

Prices Rising Again.

"Some of these factors are clearly to be regarded as aspects of the post-war adjustment process. It appears that the worst phases of post-war readjustment in agriculture are over. Prices of farm products have risen since 1923, due to contraction of acreage and decrease in the number of farmers, while prices of manufactured goods have tended to decline, owing to increased productive efficiency and intensive competition. Readjustment to post-war conditions, however, should not be allowed to obscure the larger problem of securing a balanced and stable relationship between agriculture and other industries and of achieving some sound adjustment to the deeper lying forces which over a long period of time have tended persistently to depress the relative economic position of the farmer.

"The findings and recommendations herewith made public are the commission's own conclusions and were arrived at independently of the two organizations which created the commission; that is, the National Industrial Conference Board and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States."

Rise of Sinclair From Drug Clerk to Millionaire

paid his way. He said every man had his price."

"Teapot Dome stuff on a smaller scale?"

"Practically, yes. He was too fast for us here."

It is the picture of a shrewd, affable, poker-playing, well-fed, cigar-smoking youth, always confident, always able to inspire confidence, that men who knew him in the early days draw of Harry Sinclair.

Harry's Credit Was Always Good.

The oft repeated story that Sinclair shot off his own foot to realize money on an accident policy is scoffed at by the older men here. Such an act, to raise money, they said, would have been unnecessary. Sinclair's mother, they said, had money and stood by Harry in a pinch. Furthermore, he made it a point always to meet his notes—the interest at least, if he couldn't at the moment raise the principal. And apparently nobody pressed Harry for money. Somehow, his credit could always be extended.

After he sold out the drugstore, he opened a bucket shop in Bartlesville. It was, according to estimates here, tremendously profitable. He spent his evenings, playing poker and was held to be an expert at the game.

His first partners in the oil business were R. S. Litchfield, an operator and banker who died a few years ago, and John F. Overfield, an operator and paint manufacturer of Independence. Both were experienced heads when Sinclair joined them in 1904 in the Canary oil pool southeast of Cady, Kan. They brought in some good wells and reached out for new holdings. Almst from the start Sinclair took the leadership. He could raise money much more effectively than either of his partners despite their superior experience.

Recaptured Indian and Got His Oil.

It was at this time that the practice was in vogue of "capturing" members of the Cherokee tribe of Indians, two or three days before they arrived at their majority, and holding them incommunicado by means of beverages or anything else, until they had signed over, for a consideration, the lease rights of the 80 acres awarded them on their twenty-first birthdays. Once it is said another promoter kidnaped a young brave due to be 21 in six days, and Sinclair, believing the youth's 80 acres were promising for oil, pursued the kidnaper and kidnaped with a switch engine over the trackage of three railroads in the Osage Hills. He finally found the Indian and outbid his competitor.

With Harry's genius for smoothing legal difficulties that might stand in the way of the man whose eagerness to get oil in the Cherokee country made him impatient of any restraint went a wide streak of luck.

A typical story concerns his dealings with one James V. Bell. Sinclair understood that Bell would go halves in a promising leasehold of 320 acres. The bidding came high and Sinclair had finally to agree to $50,000 for the oil rights. When Bell heard the price, he promptly withdraw. Oil men laughed, thinking Sinclair had on his hands the proverbial white elephant.

Two men missed with wells at the edges of Sinclair's property, but the former drug store youth drilled a third well in the center of his leasehold and struck oil. He sold out the acreage that had cost him $50,000 for $350,000 to James E. O'Neil, now under subpena in connection with the naval oil scandal, who chooses to stay in Europe.

Then in a few weeks the well went dry.

"No man ever had a keener nose for the 'trend' of oil," said John E. Overfield, one of Sinclair's partners. "He would study the map of a field where a few wells had been brought in and then he would mark a few locations. 'Those points ought to strike paydirt,' he'd say. Again and again he'd hit the right spot. And in those days he never consulted a geologist. Always took his own judgment."

Discarded Partners Dot Sinclair's Rise.

The history of the Sinclair fortune as approximated chronologically by men who started out with him is an interesting tale. Two factors, up to 1910, are always to be discerned—the sudden "dropping" of partners as if they were hot bricks. The "dropping" is said to have been caused always by one of two considerations—either Sinclair needed new and more extensive capital to realize his plans, or his partners, at the crucial moment of a prospective coup grew timid.

Disagreement with his partners on, let us say, "a matter of policy," never caused Harry to deliberate long. As one former partner put it, Harry "passed us the way a cannonball freight goes by a way-station," and always the luck stayed with him.

From 1904 to 1922, Sinclair made his headquarters in Independence. He had first realized capital from the sale of his drug store and had, it is said, multiplied this by running the bucket shop in Bartlesville. His first ventures were with Overfield and Litchfield.

He "rode" with them for many years, although taking shares with dozens of other operators and taking over some leases alone.

This is the time when he was popular as an entertainer in Independence. The basement of his two-story house was outfitted with billiard and card tables and a little mahogany bar stood in the corner, where a Japanese in a white apron dispensed drinks. Harry Sinclair, according to contemporaries, asked nothing better after a hard day's work chasing Cherokee Indians, to get their signatures on the dotted line for that 80-acre leasehold, than to sit at a poker table in his basement, chewing a fat cigar, signaling occasionally to the Japanese servant at the little mahogany bar. His friends liked to sit in a game there, too.

By 1912, Sinclair's holding had multiplied to perhaps $500,000. It

Democratic Idealism Dead As Door Nail, Says Shaw

attended the establishment of Fascism. But I shall not waste any energies and compromise my reputation for good sense by refusing to accept an accomplished fact. If I did I should lose the right to criticise Mussolini's rule, which I am quite ready to do whenever I think I can do any good by it."

Letter from Dr. Adler Calls Shaw a Buddha.

DR. ADLER writes, under date March 4, 1927, that he has received a copy of Mr. Shaw's letter to a friend from Mr. Gillies, secretary of the international department of the British Labor party, who had accompanied it with a statement that Mr. Shaw "would not be sorry to see it given the same publicity as the telegram of Signor Turoti."

"I find your request," writes Dr. Adler, "a quite Utopian one. There is no possibility at all of giving the same publicity. Your letter to the Daily News was printed with prominent headlines in the whole press in Italy, while not a single word of reply to you could appear, since the whole of the Italian press is under Fascist control."

He states he has read Shaw's letter with real indignation. The standpoint taken was "very adequate to Buddha sitting with a fixed state," but was a really astonishing one for a militant Socialist.

Accused of Toryism.

"Certainly," he goes on, "we have to take into account the fact that the temper of the people, which, out of blindness or despair, rushes into an enthusiasm for its own enemies, but we may never accept the situation.

"The idea that a people should accept absolutism faute de mieux can only be put forward by someone for whom absolutism is merely a mental exercise in history, but not a real experience.

"In the notice I wrote about your letter in the Daily News I attempted to depict your error as due to the defects of your qualities. But in your second letter it is hard to find any good side, because there is really nothing good in it. You come dangerously near to the point of view of the British ruling class. * * * We are for the restoration of democracy in Russia as well as in Italy, and accordingly we have a moral right to fight against Fascism with all our strength."

Shaw Sends Reply to Dr. Friedrich Adler.

THIS is dated from Stresa on Lake Maggiore, Italy, Oct. 2, 1927. Mr. Shaw writes:

"My article in the Daily News was, I am informed, published in the Italian press after it had been threatened with complete suppression by the Mayor of Milan, and then drastically expurgated. Whether this is true I do not know, as I did not see the Italian newspapers in which it appeared. However, it does not greatly matter. The article was, in the main, a remonstrance with the Daily News for writing contemptuously of Mussolini, as if the whole situation in Italy could be disposed of by representing the country as writhing in the grip of a brutal egotist.

"It was a demand for common sense and common civility in dealing with a foreign statesman, who had achieved a dictatorship in a great modern state without a single advantage, social, official or academic to assist him, after marching to Rome with a force of Black Shirts, which a single disciplined regiment backed by a competent Government could have routed at any moment.

"To tell us that this extraordinary success was achieved by murdering one hostile deputy and administering castor oil to his supporters in childish. The obvious retort to it is: 'If dictatorships can be established in Italy so easily, why did not the communists establish the dictatorship of the proletariat by the same simple means?' They have as much castor oil at their disposal as the Fascisti; and they have not hesitated to shoot and throw bombs.

"In your letter you speak of the restoration of democracy in Russia and Italy. But do you seriously attach and value to the status quo ante in Russia and Italy? I take it that after the war Italy was left in a condition not unlike that in which Napoleon found France under the directory when he returned from his Egyptian campaign. * * *

"Are the Italian Liberals going to persist in the same mistake? After the war the Government of Italy was so feeble that silly Syndicalists were seizing factories, and fanatical devotees of that curious attempt at a new Catholic church, called the Third International, were preaching a coup d'etat and a crusade in all directions, and imagining that this sort of thing was Socialism and Communism. Mussolini, without any of Napoleon's prestige, has done for Italy what Napoleon did for France, except that for the Duc d'Enghein you must read Matteotti.

"Are we to give him credit for his work and admit its necessity and the hopeless failure of our soidisant Socialists, syndicalists, communists, anarchists, etc., etc., etc., to achieve it or even to understand it, or are we to go on shrieking that the murderer of liberty and Matteotti is trampling Italy under foot.

Italy's Currency Higher.

"You say that 'we' can never accept the situation, never submit spiritually. But what exactly is it that 'we' cannot accept and will not submit to?

"Is it the fact that the despised lira is worth three pence (six cents) in English money whilst the democratic franc is worth only two pence (four cents)?

"Is it that Italy is governed by a man of the people, whilst France, libertarian, egalitarian and fraterian, is governed by Monsieur Poincare?

"Is it that Mussolini, with all his dramatic gestures, has not yet threatened to dam the Nile and cut off the water supply of Egypt, nor broken open Rakovsky's safe, like the English Government, which so liberally tolerates our friend Salvemini?

"Is it because the Corriere della Sera seems to be much more accessible to news that is unpalatable to the bourgeoisie than most of the London papers?

"Of course, if you compare Italy with a Mazzinian Utopia, it is full of abuses and tyrannies. So is America, so is France, so is England, so is Russia.

"In liberated Ireland, my native country, liberty has been established by throwing the shibboleth of Liberalism to the winds; superseding routine democratic bodies by autocratic commissions; and passing coercion acts such as England never dared to impose. There is a lady in Ireland who declares that she will never accept these facts, never submit to them spiritually. But the facts remain, and the Irish people will not return that lady to the Irish Parliament.

Socialist Ruler, He Says.

"Do you seriously ask me to talk about Mussolini's regime as that impossible countrywoman of mine talks about the Irish Free State? Do you believe, or expect me to believe, that if the Black Shirts were replaced by red ones, or by cylinder hats and frock coats, Italy would become an earthly paradise?

"Because I face the facts in the full knowledge that the democratic idealism of the nineteenth century is as dead as a doornail, you say that I come dangerously near the point of view of the British ruling class. But are you not delighted to find at last a Socialist who speaks and thinks as responsible rulers do and not as resentful slaves do?

"Of what use are Socialists who can neither rule nor understand what ruling means? Do you expect me to lecture Mussolini as Kautsky lectured Lenin, as Marx lectured Thiers, as Victor Hugo lectured Napoleon III and Pius IX, as all the Socialists who have never had to administer a farthing of public expenditure or employ a single workman (to say nothing of signing a death warrant) lecture the Cabinets of Europe, especially the Socialist ones?

Violence Disgusts Him.

"You can hardly believe that the brutalities and retaliations, the assassinations and counter-assassinations, which accompany the ternal struggle of Government with anarchy do not disgust me as much as they disgust you.

"If they were peculiar to Fascism our continual harping on them would have some excuse. As it is the murder of Mattiotti is of no more an argument against Fascism than the murder of Matteotti is no more an argument against Fascism than the murder of St. Thomas a Beckett is an argument against feudalism.

"In Ireland the new Free State found itself obliged to hang many of its ultra-patriotic comrades for this sort of thing; and the Minister who ordered the executions was assassinated by their sympathizers.

"Mussolini may have to hang some of the cruder Fascist for trop de zele before order is completely restored in Italy. Meanwhile, nothing is to be gained by pretending that any indictment can be brought against him by us or any one else that he cannot meet by a crsuhing tu quoque. The blots on his rule are neither specifically Fascist nor specifically Italian; they are blots on human nature."

Dr. Adler Dismisses Debate as "Hopeless."

4.—Letter from Frederick Adler to G. Bernard Shaw.

DATED from Zurich, Oct. 7, Dr. Adler writes:

"After your letter of the 2d inst., I regard it as hopeless that we should come to any understanding as to an attitude toward Fascism. Accordingly, there would be no point in my restating the general views developed in my letter of March 4."

(Dr. Frederick Adler, the son of the veteran Socialist leader, Dr. Victor Adler, was sentenced to death for shooting the Austrian Premier, Von Sturghk, on Oct. 22, 1916. The death sentence was commuted to a term of imprisonment, and when the revolution came at the end of the war he was liberated.)

was then he dropped his Independence partners cold, and went down to Tulsa. Two years of operations there with P. J. White multiplied his fortune 20 times. When he and White split he had between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000. Then in 1916 came the big merger. After that, he got holdings in California. Then his interests began to enchain the world. He got oil rights in Costa Rica, in Panama, in distant Africa, in the Balkans. He negotiated with the Russian Government on a huge scale, undertaking to develop their vast oil fields, the most extensive in the world. Later he was offered the crown of Albania.

And in 1922, he received exclusive rights to the 9000-acre naval reserve in Wyoming, for which he was to pay 6 per cent of the oil removed. It is in connection with this deal that he must stand trial for criminal conspiracy with Albert B. Fall, the Harding Secretary of the Interior.

Independence is a grown-up frontier town. It was founded in 1869. It was for years the western terminus of the Santa Fe. Packtrains from the Indian Territory came over the Osage Hills. Prospectors, oil hunters, the original bootleggers, vagabonds, soldiers of fortune, gamblers, Indians of the Cherokee, the Osage, Choctaw, the Chickasaw, the Creek and Seminole nations; a few sober farmers. These were the folk who moved through Independence in the early days.

Later, in '93, came the first big oil rush. Most of the oil lands to the south, in Oklahoma, belonged to the Indians. It was the job of the oil promoter to get the land away from the Indians, paying only a small percentage if the well came in.

Independence of these days was an excellent background for "highbinding" of one sort or another. The important thing was to "get the lease." The Indian territory was overrun with grafters. History shows the very blankets of the Indians, the provisions without which they would starve, were stolen by the men who, a short time previously had issued these same materials and provisions. "Honesty" was a phrase with a particularization. Perhaps you didn't skin your friends, if you could help it, but you did get the lease, at all costs. And the Indians, like sheep, were made to be sheared.

It was in such a country, amid such conditions, that Harry Sinclair got his start.

Independence reads the reports of doings in Washington. It thinks of Harry Sinclair who used to run the drug store on Main street there where Laderer's clothing store has its big window now; it remembers that Harry was never afraid to "take a chance." Independence sees his two-story house [illegible] dwelling of a man [illegible] fixed, and reflects that he is [illegible] now 10, 20, 50, possibly 100 [illegible] lions.

COURSE IN LEADERSHIP FOR SCOUTS TO OPEN

Officers New in Work Will Be Trained in Series Starting Next Week.

An introductory training course in leadership for scoutmasters, assistant scoutmaster and troop committeemen who have just entered Boy Scout work, and have had little experience in scouting will be given by the St. Louis Council of Boy Scouts for the next two and a half months, starting a week from tomorrow evening, announces William Puffer, educational director of the local organization. Puffer, as in former years, will have general supervision of the course.

The course will be held every Monday evening until Jan. 30, except for the two weeks around Christmas, at a location which will be announced next Sunday. The Educational Committee will make the choice before then of one of three places, all in the vicinity of Grand boulevard and Olive street.

This will be the sixth year the council has offered a leadership training course, but it will be the first in which only the introductory will be given. Heretofore an advanced course, for leaders who had taken the elementary, or who had had several years experience in scouting, has been given at the same time. This year, however, this latter class will be postponed until a later date since, according to Puffer, there has been such an influx of recruits into scout leadership during the past year that it was felt all training attention should be centered on them, without having to divide the experts who will act as teachers. This does not mean that any leader who feels the need of the introductory course will not be admitted, for the class will be open to anyone in the city or county, but enrollment cards are being sent only to men new in scouting.

The course will be similar to those given in former years. The men will be organized into troops, under scoutmasters they elect themselves, and each troop will take up the scouting problems as a unit. Troop management in general will be stressed, including how to organize a troop, duties of a scoutmaster and of each officer, troop meetings and programs, principles of scouting and how to manage a group of boys.

The various tests the scout must take also will be passed by the students, and project work, such as first aid, leatherworking, pioneering, knot-tying a [illegible] study will occupy an important part of the time. Games, hiking, camping and other recreational methods also be taught, and it is expected the class will go on one or more hikes to gain practical knowledge of the various phases of scouting taken up in the meetings.

PRIEST EXECUTIVE FOR ALL CATHOLIC BOY SCOUT TROOPS

The Rev. Father P. Maxwell Receives Commission From National Headquarters.

For the first time in St. Louis, Boy Scout troops of one religious denomination are to have an executive in charge of all troops of that creed, the Rev. Father P. Maxwell, assistant pastor of St. John's Church, Sixteenth and Chestnut streets, having just received his commission from National Headquarters as deputy commissioner of all Catholic troops in St. Louis.

Father Maxwell has done considerable scout work in St. Louis. the 14 registered troops made up entirely of Catholic boys here having been organized largely through his efforts.

Boy Scout Notes

WEST DISTRICT.

The Diamond W Troop met Monday night at Pilgrim Congregational Church. Field Executive Reaves outlined plans for Diamond W meetings. The group was organized as a troop with E. B. Langenberg as scoutmaster. Patrols were formed and a regular troop meeting was held.

Troop 134 of the Central Presbyterian Church has as its new scoutmaster, G. E. Rodehaver, who succeeded Brent Williams. At a meeting Friday night 38 boys were present, most of whom were in uniform.

Troop 119 of Shaare Zedek Congregation will hold a reregistration meeting Tuesday night, with Assistant Scoutmaster Lester Hirshstein in charge. Former Scoutmaster J. J. Senturia was forced to resign on account of his work at Washington University. G. A. Folkman of Reading, Pa., has accepted the scoutmastership of the troop.

Troop 60 of the Union Avenue Christian Church has a new scoutmaster in Charles L. Long, and a new assistant in T. H. Bell. They took over leadership of the troop Friday night.

Troop 26 of the Delmar Baptist Church had an outdoor meeting Friday. They met at the church at 3:30 in the afternoon and hiked to Forest Park. Each boy carried his supper. A number of the boys passed the firebuilding and the cooking tests. The evening was spent in games and stunts around a big campfire. John Jaudon was introduced as the new scoutmaster.

Troop 30 of the Y. M. H. A. was host to its Deputy Commissioner, A. C. Lindsley, Thursday night. Commissioner Lindsley demonstrated fast knot tieing and rope work and interested a number of the boys in a knot tieing contest.

Troop 98 of St. Roch's met Nov. 2, with Assistant Scoutmaster Nagle in charge. Robert Bohn, John Walsh, and M. French passed second class tests in tracking. Charles Coyle is leading in the points contest with 32 points, while John Barry is second with 25. Thomas Butler was added to the list of tenderfeet. Several of the troop enjoyed a hike out Manchester road last Sunday.

Troop 246 of the B'nai Ammona temple has obtained the services of H. J. Freed as scoutmaster. Freed visited the troop with Field Executive Reaves and told the troop he would be glad to work with them. The troop is having an interpatrol contest which will end in January, at which time the winning patrol will be presented with a fitting award.

Troop 6 of Second Presbyterian Church claims the record for unusual metings. J. C. Sartelle, a former cowboy, is the main attraction now and for three or four more weeks. He is holding his scout audience with graphic tales of steer-throwing and bronco busting.

These Sartelle stories have started something. There is a decided movement on foot for more and more interesting troop meetings with outside speakers or entertainers each week this winter. Dr. Staley, who is interested in herpetology and who gave prize winning aid in preparing the Reptile Exhibit for the recent Merit Badge Demonstration, will be the next speaker.

Dr. Staley presented Jack Uiland, at the meeting Nov. 4, with his second class badge, and conferred the rank of first class scout on Harold Hassett, recently appointed scribe. The investiture ceremony, including usually parents' night, has been an institution in Troop 6 for more than a year. The night will be kept even though applicants for the rank of first-class must now appear before the West District Court of Honor before they can be awarded the right to wear first class pins.

Troop 2 of the Pilgrim Congregational Church met Nov. 4 and 10 tenderfeet was initiated.

Scouts from Troops 23, 27 and 150 went on an educational trip through the Bell Telephone Building a week ago Saturday. The telphoto and the dial systems stirred up a lot of questions. In the telephoto room the scouts received a picture of "Lindy" transmitted from New York.

Troop 59 of Eden Immanuel Evangelical Church gained recognition as musicians from their booth and orchestra at the Merit Badge Demonstration. Broadcasting from KMOX and KSD, Troop 59's orchestra did its bit for the Community Fund.

NORTH DISTRICT.

The North District court of honor held at Yeatman High School last Monday night, was by far the largest court ever held in the North District. This court was the first to confer the right to wear a first-class pin according to the recent ruling passed by the national office.

Troop 162 is planning for a contest in which the winner is to receive a lumberjack shirt and the runnerup either a scout knife or ax.

Troop 42 postponed their meeting last week to win first prize in class "C" booths at the merit badge exhibit. They demonstrated firemanship. The Fire Chief was at the exhibit and praised the booth quite highly. Not a thing was left out. The troop demonstrated the merit badge again at the North District court of honor held at Yeatman High School Monday.

Nov. 2 a drilling contest was held. The Wolf Patrol won with the Rattlesnake Patrol second and the Elk Patrol third. Next week the contest will be on nature study. Each scout must prepare, by next week's meeting, a nature board with leaves, flowers and insects. The patrol having the greatest number of boards neatly done will be awarded first place.

The Wolf Patrol now has a full patrol and therefore wins the blue ribbon.

Troop 206 will hold an open meeting to which all parents and friends are invited next Tuesday. Last Sunday they presented a scout knife to a fellow member in the hospital.

Several tests were passed and three first-class pins awarded at a meeting of Troop 88, Nov. 4. All the tickets for the Merit Badge Exhibit were accounted for.

Troop 3 was represented at the recent Court of Honor held at Yeatman High School. Three scouts received merit badges.

Troop 148 now holds its meetings at Clay School owing to the reconstruction of Hyde Park Church. Since the tornado this troop has doubled the number of registered scouts and still expect to gain. They now have three full patrols. Committeemen are planning a hike to hunt persimmons.

Troop 156 of St. Casimer's Church, with Charles Modinski as scoutmaster, met last night for the third time this fall. The troop is reorganizing its patrols and leadership. Membership has increased from 10 last year to 30 scouts that were present last evening.

The troop went on an all-day hike to Meramec Highlands last Friday. Each scout took with him his own food and received instruction in its proper preparation. Boys living in the vicinity of this troop, desiring to become scouts should attend the next meeting which will be held Wednesday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 p. m., at St.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for only 75 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

Activities of Boy Scouts

Casimer's Church, Eighth and Mullanphy streets.

SOUTH DISTRICT.

Troop 66 of Dover Place Christian Church reorganized last week for another year of scouting. J. C. Kraus has signed up again as scoutmaster, and reports a busy program planned for the coming year.

Troop 104 of Carondelet Presbyterian Church has signed up under Scoutmaster Dwight Moodie for another year of scouting.

Troop 232 of Blow School, with Ralph Coleman as scoutmaster, is instituting ways and means for bringing the troop up to 32 boys.

Troop 248 of Brandt Memorial Church put on a demonstration of scouting activities at the William Taussig open air school. The exhibition consisted of first aid, games and scout drills. The troop later attended the merit badge exhibit in a body.

Troop 158 of Holy Innocents School will hike from Valley Park to some woods about four miles southeast, today. Scoutmaster Messing predicts an excellent outing.

Troop 198 of St. John's Episcopal Church held an inter-patrol rally at the meeting this week. There were contests in first aid, signaling, compass work, knot-tying and an undressing and dressing race. The Panther patrol, led by John S. Groom Jr., won the contest.

The troop is conducting an inter-patrol contest which will run until Dec. 14. The winning patrol will receive a set of scout books. The contest covers all phases of scout work. At present the patrols stand: First, Beaver; second, Flying Eagle; third, Panther; fourth, Wolf.

Troop 74 of Sherman School has lost its former scoutmaster, Arthur Ocker, who had to give up scouting on account of not having time enough for all his activities. Ernest Kempster, a student at Washington University, succeeded Ocker, and has planned several novel and entertaining events for the troop. Scout Wilbert Gansloser was elected troop quartermaster for the coming year. Seven boys have been taken into the troop in the last two months. The troop's second inter-patrol contest began Nov. 4.

Troop 143 of the Hancock High School went on a hike last Sunday to Dillon's farm on the Ringer road. Besides passing several tests and playing many games, many lizards and one snake were caught. H. Doer has become the new assistant scoutmaster.

Troop 76 of the Winnebago Presbyterian Church appointed the following troop officers: Herman Miller Jr., assistant scoutmaster; Elmer Pickles, senior patrol leader; Charles Bieger, scribe and patrol leaders; Robert Hathaway, George Eigel and Oliver Haas. Assistant Scoutmaster Roy Huegerich told of his travels on the Northwest Pacific Coast. The troop also invested two second-class scouts and two as tenderfeet. The Rev. J. Johnson gave a talk on the scout laws.

SUBURBAN DISTRICT.

Dr. Staley, scout herpetologist of St. Louis, spoke to a joint meeting of Webster Groves 5 and 10 at the Bristol School gymnasium a week ago Friday. He brought several of his snakes to illustrate the talk.

Webster Groves 1 of the Webster Groves Congregational Church registered last week with 26 scouts. The officers for this year will be Jiggs Wolf, scoutmaster; Russell Holbrook, assistant scoutmaster; former Scoutmaster C. H. Utrecht, chairman of the troop committee; Frank Achilles, junior assistant; Bud Thompson, senior patrol leader, and Harold Utrecht, scribe.

Plans are being made for the troop's annual pilgrimage to Lincoln's tomb at Springfield, Ill.

Webster Groves 8 of Emmanuel Christian Church is working on plans to weather-proof the cabin at Camp Thorton. Part of the cabin is already lined and the sleeping porch, which will hold about 50 scouts, will not need any insulating material. The scouts intend to have the cabin ready for the coldest of winters. The troop plans many trips to the cabin this fall and winter. Much of their time week-ends has been taken clearing up the grounds after the tornado struck.

Troop 186 of Country Day School held the largest meeting this week it ever had. Although about 15 boys went home after the meeting, quite a number camped out over night.

Webster Groves 14 of South Webster Sunday School will hold a father and son dinner at the Community Building on Chestnut avenue in the near future.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, and pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

The National Players will present William Ford Manley's Biblical drama, "Ishmael," through KSD at 5:30 this afternoon. Manley's manuscript is founded on the story of Sarah, Hagar and Abraham.

Abraham married Sarah, who bore him no children. In order that the tribal leadership might stay in the line of Abraham, Sarah arranged for her husband to take her slave, Hagar, as his wife. Hagar becomes Abraham's second wife and a child, Ishmael, is born to her. Jealousy arises after the birth of the child and a length Sarah bears Abraham a son in his old age. The situation is thus changed and Hagar and Ishmael are driven out to perish in the desert but for Divine intervention.

Vincent Lopez will take part in the Capitol Theater program at 6:20 this evening. Lopez will direct the recently formed stage band, "The Capitolians."

Knute Rockne, who in eight years has piloted the Notre Dame football team to victory in 70 of 78 games played, will be the guest speaker Collier's Radio Hour, to be broadcast by KSD at 7:15 tonight.

The famous football coach comes of Norwegian stock. He began playing football in his high school days, and played end for three seasons at Notre Dame College.

Other features of the Collier's Radio Hour will be dramatized short stories, music by Collier's symphonic orchestra, and dialogues between "Uncle Henry," the rustic philosopher, and "The Editer," who presents a more sophisticated view of current topics.

Beniamino Gigli, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera will appear in the Atwater Kent Radio Hour on KSD tonight, at 8:15.

Gigli is recognized as one of the great tenors. He was born in Italy on March 20, 1890. His musical studies began practically from infancy. For ten years, young Gigli sang in the boy choir of one of the largest churches in Recanti, Italy, and soon became its chief soloist. His operatic debut was made at Roviga near Venice in 1914 as Enzo in "La Gioconda." His success was immediate. He made a triumphant tour throughout South America. In the summer of 1920, Gatti-Casazza engaged Gigli for the Metropolitan Opera and he made his New York debut in "Mefistofele."

His program will be as follows:

Monday Night on KSD

Henri Nosco, one of the two concert masters of the Roxy Symphony Orchestra of 110 musicians, will be the featured performer in the program by Roxy's Gang to be broadcast through KSD tomorrow evening, beginning at 6:30.

Besides the soloists there will be the great Symphony Orchestra, the 100-voice chorus, the Russian Cathedral Choir, the large theater organ and the cathedral chimes.

Nosco, who was born in Paris and educated in the Paris Conservatory, won the first prize there at 16 for his work on the violin.

Nosco has ben a soloist with most of the French orchestras of importance. He has been in America four years.

Willem Mengelberg, conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, with a special symphony orchestra of 47 pieces, will open the second broadcast program of the General Motors "Family Party" tomorrow evening at 8:30. Louis Graveure, noted concert soloist, will sing three songs in this popular-classic period. Two old-time favorites appear in the vaudeville section of the hour in the persons of "Judge" Walter C. Kelley and Marie Cahill. The former is to be master of ceremonies for the 20 minutes of light music and humor, during which Miss Cahill will be heard in songs and stories, assisted by the Hallelujah Quartet, made famous in "Hit the Deck." Other music will be by Joe Green and his Marimba band and Day and Alban, harmonizers.

The third period will be devoted to popular music by Goldman's Band, led by Edwin Franko Goldman.

The program follows:

Works of four great composers and a modernistic paraphrase of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" will be played in the Eveready Hour Tuesday evening. This Eveready Hour program has been arranged to portray, through the medium of music and dialogue, incidents of environment and circumstance which led Beethoven, Chopin, Tschaikowsky and Schubert to compose some of their greatest pieces.

Beethoven, it is said, composed his "Moonlight Sonata" in a cellar, and this will be the subject of the first number. To the trivial fact that a dog was chasing his tail during Chopin's visit at the home of a friend is attributed that com-

The Sensation of the Radio World

No improvement in radio has had such a wonderful reception as the TEMPLE SPEAKER. Because it is built on a principle scientifically correct, it brings in every radio program with a richness and purity of tone that is amazing. This is the speaker that was heard six miles off the shore of Lake Michigan; the speaker chosen by Eddie and Fannie Cavanaugh, the Gaelic Twins of KYW, Chicago, as the peer of them all; the speaker that today is selling like wildfire all over the country.

Go to your nearest dealer and hear a TEMPLE SPEAKER demonstrated on a TEMPLE COMPARATOR. Convince yourself that the TEMPLE is today the finest, clearest, most wonderful speaker you ever heard.

poser's "Minute Waltz," which will be played as the second number.

Tschaikowsky's "1812 Overture," scheduled for the third number on the program, was inspired by a life-time attraction toward bells.

With the recent discussion in musical circles as to the propriety of efforts to complete the "Unfinished Symphony" of Schubert, additional interest attaches to the fourth number. It is not planned to provide a suggested ending for the Viennese composer's greatest symphony, but to indicate the inspiring effect of listening to it, on these present day composers whose crowded efforts ordinarily resound of Tin Pan Alley.

Music and the incidental singing for the other numbers will be provided by the Eveready group, including the Eveready Revellers, Virginia Rea, soprano, and the Eveready Hour Orchestra.

A medley of tunes from the Ziegfeld "Follies" will complete the program.

At 9 o'clck Tuesday night KSD will broadcast another radio bridge game.

At 9:30 Tuesday night KSD is to broadcast an address on flood relief by Commerce Secretary Hoover, speaking at Hotel Statler, in St. Louis.

The Whittal Anglo-Persians period on KSD, from 8 to 8:30 Friday night, will bring Bierman's beautiful "Desert Dream." This portrays an Oriental love as burning as the desert sun and a loved one as cool as the desert night. It mirrors a dream of savage heat and of cool green oases. A special arrangement of the universally popular "El Ukhnem" (The Volga Boatman) also is to be featured.

The program also will include:

Call of the Desert
La Vestale, Valse Mignonne..Drigo
Arabian Dance ....Crist
Just a Memory ....Henderson
Procession of Bacchus ....Delibes
Parting Melody

The third Friday night broadcast will bring another La France Orchestra concert.

A musical miniatures program will occupy the fourth period.

An address by Commerce Secretary Hoover, on "America's Future Role in World Trade," is to be featured in a broadcast by KSD at 9:30 Friday night of the annual dinner meeting of the Academy of Political Science. Thomas W. Lamont also is to speak.

Saturday on KSD

Phillips Carlin and Graham McNamee will be at the microphone in the Harvard Stadium at Cambridge, Mass., to report to KSD listeners the Harvard-Yale football game next Saturday afternoon. Broadcasting from the field will begin at 12:45 (Central Standard Time).

The prelude to Wagner's opera, "Die Meistersinger," is to open the concert by the New York Symphony Orchestra, Walter Damrosch conducting, in the R. C. A. hour on KSD at 7, Saturday night. Other numbers to be played are:

"Sounds of the Forest" from "Siegfried"; Good Friday Spell from "Parsifal"; violin solo by M. Gusikoff; Entrance of the Gods into Valhalla from "Rheingold"; Prelude Act III from "Lohengrin."

The prelude to "Die Meistersinger" contains the elements of the Prize Song by which Walther von Stolzing seeks to gain, and finally wins, the hand of Eva, whose father has promised her to the victor in the midsummer festival of song. It contains the Meistersinger's motive also, and the Meistersinger's march, as well as many others, including the Lyric Motive and the Spring Motive.

"Sound of the Forest" is from Wagner's music drama, "Siegfried." Siegfried, armed with the magic sword, wanders into the forest fearlessly, among the sunlit trees, with the sun's rays flitting over the green mosses. The trees and birds imitated by the strings, reeds, wood-winds and flutes.

The Good Friday Music from "Parsifal," the sacred opera of the Holy Grail, is one of Wagner's most beautiful mood paintings in tone color, coming as it does between the Motive of Baptism and the final statement of the Motive of Faith in arpeggiature.

"The Rheingold," is a prologue in four scenes to the trilogy of the Wagnerian music-dramas, "The Ring of the Nibelung." Here we meet the supernatural beings of German mythology, the God of Fire (Loge); the Goddess of Youth (Freia), and the giants and gnomes of the Nibelungs, who dwell in the center of the earth. The Gods, in the Valhalla music, have achieved the height of their glory and the motive swells to a majestic climax.

"It Happened in Nordland" will be presented as the Philco Hour feature on KSD Saturday evening.

Jessica Dragonette, soprano prima donna, and Colin O'More, tenor, will sing the leading roles. Other artists who will be heard in "It Happened in Nordland" are Doris Doe, contralto; May Hoppel, soprano; Muriel Wilson, contralto; James Wilkinson, baritone; Charles Robinson, bass, and Steele Jamison, tenor.

"It Happened in Nordland," music by Victor Herbert, books and lyrics by Glen MacDonough, was produced by Lew Fields in New York, Dec. 5, 1904, with Fields and Harry Fisher as principal comedians.

The most successful of its many delightful musical numbers are "Absinthe Frappe," "The Matinee Maid," "A Knot of Blue," "Beatrice Barefacts," and "The Coon Banshee."

The music will be directed by Harold Sanford, a protege of Victor Herbert, for many years first violinist in his orchestra, and a recognized authority on this composer's works.

Geller, Ward & Hasner, exclusive Federal Orthosonic distributer, was host at a dinner at Hotel Chase Monday evening to the Federal dealers in the metropolitan area. H. W. Geller, president of the distributing firm, who presided, discussed service and Federal policies. K. H. Bartlett, territorial representative for the Federal Telephone and Telegraph Co., Buffalo, N. Y., discussed the Federal radio franchise. He also showed how easily Federal receivers operate.

L. M. Blye, Federal representative for Southern Illinois; R. J. Lickiss, general sales manager for Geller, Ward & Hasner, and T. J. Brown, city salesman, also spoke.

MAKES RADIO STATIC UNHEARD

A simple, amazing device has been invented by C. H. Geppert, M-591 Hewitt Bldg., Des Moines, Ia., which filters 50 to 90 per cent of static in radio receiving sets. Not only that, but when static is not bad, you can increase your volume tremendously, bring in more distant stations, save 30 to 40 per cent on batteries, eliminate local stations from running in, give your set at least one more stage of radio reception and greater selectivity. Works on all radios; can be attached instantly by anyone without change to set. Mr. Geppert wants agents and is willing to send a no-cost sample. Write him today.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Tremendous saving in the world's finest radio

IT IS the genius of American industry that when sweeping demand brings huge production—prices drop.

While others were still struggling in the experimental stages, scientific production became a reality in the immense Atwater Kent factory. Amazing economies in manufacture kept step with equally amazing improvements in Atwater Kent Radio products.

Now—at the peak of radio perfection—Atwater Kent mass production has attained the ultimate reward—sensational savings.

Only six months ago the superb Model 35, at $70, was recognized the world over as the biggest value in radio. This model, now greatly improved, is today priced at $49.

This reduction in prices, by the unquestioned leader in radio, is epochal. Atwater Kent Radio now takes its place, full grown, alongside of other great American industries that pass their savings on to their customers.

Turn Dials Slowly and Stay Popular With Neighbors.

Every operator of a regenerative set should remember to turn the tickler dial slowly and carefully. If they are twisted quickly, he will be making himself the nuisance of the neighborhood. The dial that causes all the trouble is the one that controls the tickler coil, in the majority of sets, or the plate variometer in some of the more old-fashioned outfits. The best position of this dial is reached gradually, unlike that of th[illegible]ndenser tuning dial, which is quite sharp in its setting. Now, the trick is to handle the condenser with one hand and the tickler with the other in such a manner that the sound in the phones caused by the movement of the tickler is always a soft hush. It will be found that by turning the dial just a little more, the hush will end in a sharp click. It is when this click is heard that the set is "oscillating," and at the same time causing a squeal to be sent out.

CROSLEY FAVORS MONTHLY SUPER BROADCAST PROGRAM

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 12.—Broadcasting of a radio program comparable in public interest to the Tunney-Dempsey fight broadcast every month was suggested by Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, in an address at Louisville.

Crosley said that there were possibilities in entertainment for programs that would arouse the enthusiasm of the entire country. For example, he said, there might be an evening with foremost comedians, featuring such celebrities as Will Rogers, Al Jolson, Moran and Mack of "Two Black Crows" fame, and other national favorites.

Crosley suggested that such programs be sponsored by the radio industry. Instead of waiting for a Tex Rickard or other promoter to stage events of national interest, he declared, radio leaders should take the initiative in providing programs capable of enlisting nation-wide interest.

10-TUBE TYRMAN RECEIVER PROVES QUALITY IN TESTS

One of the new 10-tube Tyrman superheterodyne receivers, designed for home builders, has been under test in South St. Louis the past week, and has proved to be an exceptional set. Its tone quality is very fine, due largely to its final stage of push-pull amplification. This tone quality is as warm and full on local as on distance reception.

It gave real coast-to-coast reception every night it was operated, bringing in KFI clearly and strongly as soon as WRC and WOS were off the air. Wednesday night KFI and WRC appeared to be slightly off their joint wave length. By detuning the Tyrman slightly it was possible to get either station plainly, though the other, of course, also could be heard.

Each night the Tyrman was operated it was easily possible to get WMAK, Buffalo, N. Y., which uses the same wave channel as KSD, as soon as KSD signed off.

Separation of stations on adjoining wave lengths was clean-cut and precise, the selectively being exceptional.

In the first four nights of the past week, stations were logged with the Tyrman on virtually every wave length, from 201 up to KSD's 545 meters. To do this in four nights is a feat not often accomplished with any radio receiver.

The logging was not done only late at night, but throughout the evening, numerous distant stations being tuned in between 6 and 7 o'clock.

No weak spots developed during the tests, the Tyrman winning praise for every phase of performance.

There are upward of 18,000 privately owned radio stations of various classes in existence in the United States.

RCA RADIOLAS

Designed by the same engineers who planned the great broadcasting stations.

Built by the world's greatest electrical manufacturers—General Electric, and Westinghouse.

Acclaimed everywhere as the finest achievements of the radio art. You haven't really heard radio until you have listened to a Radiola and RCA Loudspeaker. Let us demonstrate these wonderful instruments.

Price—You get more for your dollar in Radiolas than in any other Radio Set. You are assured of satisfaction, regardless of price. Radiolas are offered at prices that fit any purse. The lowest priced Radiola, $69.50, we believe offers the biggest value in any Radio instrument, and the lowest price at which a good set can be purchased. The finest instruments, selling at $495 to $895, are in a class by themselves—superior beyond comparison. No instruments approach them in Tone Reproduction, Reception and Selectivity.

BIG CHANGE IN WAVE LENGTHS CONSIDERED

Clearing of Channels for National Reception of Super Power Stations Possible.

By THOMAS STEVENSON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—It is likely that 10 or perhaps 20 broadcasting channels will be cleared for national reception by the Federal Radio Commission through removal of smaller stations to other channels, and assignment of the waves cleared to one station which will have permission to use unlimited power.

Out of it all may come a plan something like this: 545.1 to [illegible] meters, inclusive, assigned to local broadcasting, with a number of stations on each wave; 499.7 to 370.2 meters, inclusive, assigned to national broadcasting, with one station having unlimited power on each channel; 365.6 to 200 meters assigned for sectional broadcasting, with two or three 500 or 1000 watt stations on each channel."

Up to the resgnation of Henry A. Bellows from the commission, his associates seemed satisfied with the way things were going.

Bellows is chiefly responsible for the present arrangement of stations. It was he, with the aid of Col. John A. Dillon, deceased, who worked out the plan originally adopted by the commission.

From the time of the first meeting of the commission up to his resignation, Bellows was the leader of the commission. Bellows "sold" his views to the commission and kept his fellow members "sold."

About the only man around the commission who was not satisfied with the progress being made was Sam Pickard, who has replaced Bellows as commissioner. Pickard then was secretary of the commission. He was pessimistic about the outcome of the Bellows plan. Repeatedly he tried to impress the commissioners with his objections. They listened courteously, but heeded not.

Then Pickard was elevated to the commission. He took with him positive views and a definite plan for improvement. Up to a few weeks ago Commissioner Caldwell withheld his objections to the Bellows plan. Now Caldwell is sponsoring a new plan. He has made a number of confidential recommendations to the commission—recommendations similar to those made by the American Engineering Council several months ago which were disregarded by Bellows.

NALS IN MID-WEST ICE CONTEST NOV. 19

Missouri and Illinois Singers in Atwater Kent Competition on WGN Saturday Night.

The Middle West finals in the nation-wide Atwater Kent Foundation contest to discover outstandingly fine young voices will be broadcast next Saturday night through WGN, Chicago, 980 kilocycles, 305 meters.

The men winners in the State contests for Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Ohio and Wisconsin are to sing in turn through WGN from 8 to 8:15 Saturday night, Central Standard Time.

The girl winners in the same states are to sing through WGN between 8:45 and 10 the same night.

To Be Feted in Chicago.

The boy and girl who are voted by radio listeners and judges to have the best voices will enter the national finals next month when they will sing through WEAF and allied stations.

Missouri will be represented in the Chicago competition next Saturday night by Miss Gladys Morrison, coloratura soprano, Kansas City, and Sam W. Thompson, baritone, Hannibal. They were adjudged winners in the Missouri State competition, which was broadcast by KSD on the nights of Oct. 10 and 11.

Charles G. Dawes, Vice-President of the United States, is to receive Miss Morrison, Thompson and the other contestants on their arrival in Chicago. Mayor Thompson also is to welcome them at the Chicago City Hall. A reception and tea in their honor will be held at the Drake Hotel, Chicago, with Mrs. Medill McCormick, who directed the Illinois State contest, as hostess. Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois; Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern University; Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick of Chicago, Bishop E. H. Hughes, and other sponsors of the audition also will greet the visiting contestants at this affair.

Radio Listeners to Vote.

Listeners to the contest Saturday night are asked to mail their votes for first and second choice of both boys and girls to WGN, Chicago. The votes of listeners will count 60 per cent in deciding the winners. Ballots of a board of 27 official judges will count 40 per cent. Five of the judges will listen at Chicago. Two others will listen in at their homes in each of the 11 states that will be represented by contestants.

Similar district auditions will be held as follows:

Southwestern district, through WFAA, Dallas, Tex., Nov. 15-16.

Eastern district, through WEAF, New York, Nov. 19 and 26.

Western district, through KPO, San Francisco, Nov. 21.

Southern district, through WSB, Atlanta, Nov. 22-23.

The prizes in the national finals at New York next month will aggregate $17,500 in money, and will include tuition in musical conservatories, decorations and sponsorship in radio, concert and operatic singing.

Soldering Flux.

Acid flux should be avoided in soldering. Unless every trace of this chemical is removed there is a dangerous tendency toward corrosion. Rosin flux, when properly applied is more efficient.

TELLS OF GROWING DEMAND FOR SETS WITH AC TUBES

Kellogg Co. Sales Manager Points Out That 15,900,000 U. S. Homes Have Electric Wiring.

Public interest in radio receivers that are operated from the light socket with AC tubes is increasing at a tremendous rate, Mac Harlan, general sales manager of the Kellogg Switchboard and Supply Co., Chicago, said in an address Wednesday night before radio dealers at a diner at the Coronado Hotel at which the Globe Electric Co., Kellogg distributer, was host.

Harlan said that the demand for AC tubes was so great that the Kellogg plant was working three 8-hour shifts a day in an effort to meet it. The conviction is growing among radio listeners, he said, that AC tube sets are the coming things in radio, and this conviction is expressing itself in a strong and increasing buying trend toward such receivers.

Harlan pointed out a fact that the dealers who heard him evidently took to heart—that there are 15,900,000 homes in this country that are wired for electricity. The sales possibilities for AC tube sets revealed by this statement immediately caught their interest.

Harlan also emphasized that there are:

Twenty-six million homes in the United States.

Seventeen million telephones.

Eighteen million passenger automobiles.

Six million radio sets.

Twenty million homes without radio.

Six million farm homes without electric wiring.

The sales possibilities before any approach to radio saturation, and, above all, the market for AC tube sets, were obvious, he pointed out.

Harlan also declared that more sales possibilities lay in the fact that surveys had showed that fully 50 per cent of radio set owners desire better receivers.

H. C. Abbott, sales promotion manager for the Kellogg Co., told the dealers that Kellogg AC tubes could be used in a receiver for 3500 hours before they would lose 25 per cent of their efficiency. He and Harlan both related facts about the research and testing that the Kellogg Co. went through before it felt that AC tubes had been perfected and were now a stable certainty that could be depended on to operate a receiver without care or servicing.

He said also that the Kellogg Co. had the benefit of 30 years' experience in making voice transmission apparatus and years of manufacturing radio appliances for the War Department.

J. R. Carter, vice president of the Globe Electric Co., presided at the dinner meeting, and introduced the speakers. R. Officer, president of the firm, also was present; as were H. A. Gregory and W. B. Baldwin, St. Louis and Kansas City territory representatives for the Kellogg Co., respectively.

BALKITE HOUR

Without the uncertainty of untried apparatus

And without any sacrifice in quality of reception

There are two ways you can own an AC receiver. One is to discard your present radio set and buy a new and untried receiver, using a new and untried type of tube, at a sacrifice of quality of reception.

The other way is simply to add Balkite Electric "AB" to your present radio set. Balkite Electric "AB" replaces both "A" and "B" batteries and supplies radio power from the light socket. Entirely batteryless, it makes any standard set an electric receiver.

With this method there is no sacrifice in reception. For it makes possible the use of the standard type of set and of standard type tubes, both of which are tried and proved and give by far the clearest and truest reproduction. There is no waiting for tubes to warm up. No difficulty in controlling volume. No noise, no AC hum. No crackling, no booming, no blasting. Instead the same high standard of reception to which you are accustomed.

And if you already own a radio set, the cost of equipping it with Balkite is only a fraction of the cost of buying a new receiver.

By all means go to AC reception. Its convenience is the greatest radio improvement you could buy. But let your AC receiver be a standard radio set equipped with Balkite Electric "AB."

Two models, $64.50 and $74.50.

"A" BATTERY ELIMINATOR

Licensed by The Andrews-Hammond Corporation, under Patent No. 1,637,795 and applications

4-volt model for Radiola sets or any receiver using small tubes, $27.50. Slightly higher west of the Rockies.

$32.50

Slightly Higher West of the Rockies

Imagine running a vacuum cleaner from a storage battery! This is no more impractical than operating your radio set with energy stored by a charger in a battery reservoir.

ABOX takes the current direct from the light socket and delivers it to the set as hum-free, 6 volt direct current. Always ready at the touch of a switch to supply "A" power to any set using eight tubes or less. ABOX never runs down or causes trouble because it contains no battery in any form.

Anyone can install an ABOX in a few minutes and have care-free light socket "A" power. Two simple connections and the job is done—and done well.

The ABOX Filter is an entirely different unit from the Eliminator, being the filter circuit alone in a small, compact unit. If you have a suitable charger, it can easily be converted into an "A" Eliminator by substituting the ABOX Filter for the storage battery. Shipping weight, 11 lbs. Price, $19.50. Slightly higher west of the Rockies.

KOLSTER CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Forty-seven dealers attended a dinner meeting of the Kolster Club Wednesday night at the Coronado Hotel, at which the Straus Co. Kolster distributer, was host. L. M. Schlude, president of the Kolster Club, and Gene Straus, head of the Straus Co., made talks.

Alma Rotter, the Jesters Quartet and others took part in an entertainment program.

The Kolster Club meets the second Wednesday of each month.

Cheap Resistors Cause Trouble.

One of the most likely sources of trouble in a set is inferior resistors. Often the resistors do not have sufficient current-carrying capacity, so that they heat up excessively, altering their resistance materially and resulting in a short life. Suitable resistors must not only handle the required energy, but must have a rapid dissipation of heat so as not to alter the resistance value appreciably. And even the best resistor made must be intelligently applied, so that it will be of the proper wattage capacity to handle the energy.

Installation on ANY Radio Set!

Easy as Turning on your Electric Light

It makes no difference whether you now have a dry-cell or a storage battery operated radio set, or what kind of battery set you may buy, the Philco will run it from the electric current. Here is your chance to do away with the usual "A" storage battery and all dry-cell "A" and "B" batteries.

Now you can select the radio set with the tone and selectivity you like—any tried and proven set—and Philco will run that particular set from the electric current. No need whatever for you to buy a new-born, untried receiving set to get electrical operation!

An Ironclad Factory Guarantee goes with every Philco AB Socket Power and they are built to conform with Underwriters' Laboratories Safety Specifications.

Cabinet-Console Models are built to fit inside the cabinets of practically all well-known radio sets, including: Atwater Kent, Fada, Pfanstiehl, Crosley, Splitdorf, Freed-Eisemann, Radiola-28, Victrola-Radiola, Brunswick-Radiola.

Special Philco Units have been designed for Fada, Pfanstiehl, Freed-Eisemann, Stromberg-Carlson, Splitdorf, King, Brunswick-Radiola and Victrola-Radiola.

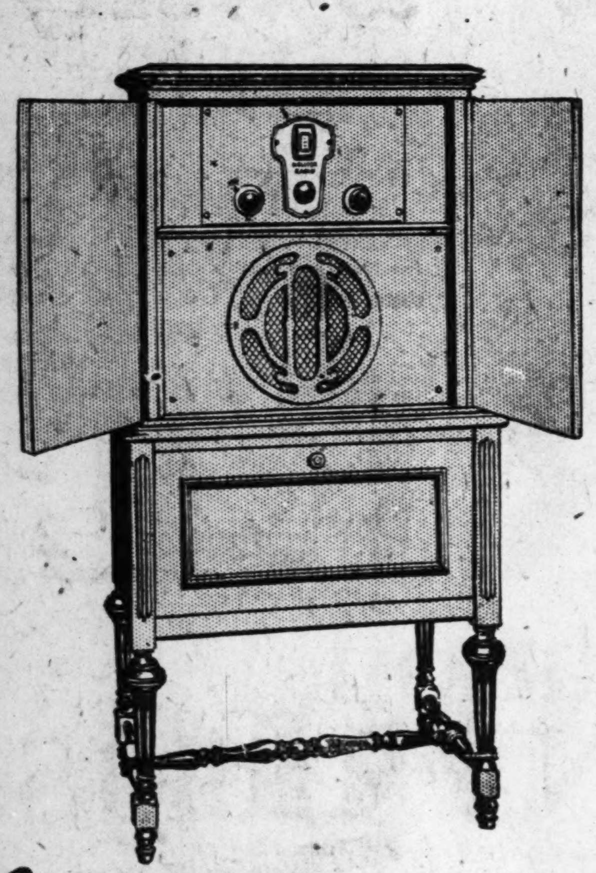
KOLSTER RADIO



The store with Kolster sets has the best interests of your radio dollars in mind.

Because the Kolster method is to put so much value into the set that less selling expense is needed. This means that careful comparison of tone, selectivity, range, volume and appearance will do all the selling that the shrewd purchaser needs to put Kolster in his home.

You literally cannot know whether you are buying well if you patronize a store where Kolster is not present. Compare values.

Then . . . you . . . will . . . buy . . . Kolster.

There is an Authorized Kolster Dealer convenient to you. For his name and address 'phone or write:

SEEKS TRANS-ATLANTIC SHORT WAVE LENGTHS

National Broadcasting Co. Prepares for Program Exchange With England.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Application has been made to the Federal Radio Commission by the National Broadcasting Co. for two short wave lengths which are intended for exchange of broadcast programs between the United States and England. Here is the letter of Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, chief broadcast engineer of the broadcasting company, to the commission asking for the waves:

"It is the intention of the National Broadcasting Co., subject to approval by the Federal Radio Commission, to endeavor to establish systematic international broadcasting at the earliest possible date. The first interchange of programs is planned as between England and the United States.

"In the United States it is intended to operate between 7 and 11 o'clock in the evening, Eastern Standard Time, throughout the year.

"Our experience in their field has shown us that two short wave lengths at least will be required to enable British reception of American programs.

"The transmitter for the service in question will deliver approximately 20 kilowatts of power modulated telephonically. It will be installed at Boundbrook, N. J., in the same building as the present broadcast transmitter of WJZ.

"The programs to be transmitted will be sent not by broadcasting to the public, but as an addressed message to the British Broadcasting Corporation, corresponding receiving station in England, and the service is regarded as a point to point service. It is entirely possible that commercial arrangements relative thereto will be worked out, and, in any case, the program will not be available for rebroadcasting purposes except to those to whom it is addressed.

"The purpose of this restriction is to make certain that the broadcasting be conducted by responsible agents capable of giving good service to the public abroad, and in such efficient manner that a fair idea of the nature and quality of American programs can be gained by the public in foreign countries."

The wave lengths desired are one of 27.207 meters (11,020 kilocycles) and one of 18.715 meters (16,0 kilocycles).

The first of these falls within a band already assigned for relay broadcasting. The second length falls within a point-to-point service band.

What Columbia Chain Offers This Week

Two Mozart arias—one for tenor and one for basso—will vary the Columbia chain orchestra program on KMOX at 2 this afternoon. Redferne Hollinshead, tenor, will sing "Il Mio Tesoro" from "Don Giovanni," and Frank Croxton will sing "In These Sacred Halls" from "The Magic Flute."

Orchestral numbers will include Smetana's "The Bartered Bride" overture, "Story of the Kalendar Prince" from "Scheherezade," selections from Massenet's "First Suite" and the Polovetzian dances from Borodin's opera "Prince Igor" by orchestra and mixed quartet.

Don Voorhees and his concert band will have the hour starting at 3 this afternoon, their program including "Poor Pierrot" by Gillet, and "Somebody's Knockin' at Your Door," a Negro spiritual arranged by Dett-Still.

In the evening the Emerson hour will include a seldom-heard American composition, Mortimer Wilson's "Overture 1849." The American Singers will have the half hour beginning at 8:30, and the Intimate Hour will begin at 9.

Monday will bring an hour of music by the Captivators Orchestra, followed by the Musical Album Hour, which w tish systematic international broad-casting at the earliest possible date. The first interchange of programs is planned as between England and the United States.

"In the United States it is intended to operate between 7 and 11 o'clock in the evening, Eastern Standard Time, throughout the year.

"Our experience in their field has shown us that two short wave lengths at least will be required to enable British reception of American programs.

"The transmitter for the service in question will deliver approximately 20 kilowatts of power modulated telephonically. It will be installed at Boundbrook, N. J., in the same building as the present broadcast transmitter of WJZ.

"The programs to be transmitted will be sent not by broadcasting to the public, but as an addressed message to the British Broadcasting Corporation, corresponding receiving station in England, and the service is regarded as a point to point service. It is entirely possible that commercial arrangements relative thereto will be worked out, and, in any case, the program will not be available for rebroadcasting purposes except to those to whom it is addressed.

"The purpose of this restriction is to make certain that the rebroadcasting be conducted by responsible agents capable of giving good service to the public abroad, and in such efficient manner that a fair idea of the nature and quality of American programs can be gained by the public in foreign countries."

The wave lengths desired are one of 27.207 meters (11,020 kilocycles) and one of 18.715 meters (16,020 kilocycles).

The first of these falls within a band already assigned for relay broadcasting. The second length falls within a point-to-point service band.

What Columbia Chain Offers This Week

Two Mozart arias—one for tenor and one for basso—will vary the Columbia chain orchestra program on KMOX at 2 this afternoon. Redferne Hollinshead, tenor, will sing "Il Mio Tesoro" from "Don Giovanni," and Frank Croxton will sing "In These Sacred Halls" from "The Magic Flute."

Orchestral numbers will include Smetana's "The Bartered Bride" overture, "Story of the Kalendar Prince" from "Scheherezade," selections from Massenet's "First Suite" and the Polovetzian dances from Borodin's opera "Prince Igor" by orchestra and mixed quartet.

Don Voorhees and his concert band will have the hour starting at 3 this afternoon, their program including "Poor Pierrot" by Gilbert, and "Somebody's Knockin' at Your Door," a Negro spiritual arranged by Dett-Still.

In the evening the Emerson hour will include a seldom-heard American composition, Mortimer Wilson's "Overture 1849." The American Singers will have the half hour beginning at 8:30, and the Intimate Hour will begin at 9.

Monday will bring an hour of music by the Captivators Orchestra, followed by the Musical Album Hour, which will feature Flotow's "Stradella" overture and "In the Garden," from Goldmark's "Rustic Wedding" symphony.

The story of Victor Herbert, illustrated from his works, will be told in the Kolster Famous Composer hour at 8 Wednesday night.

Effective with this program, the Kolster hour takes the 8 to 9 period, changing with the Columbia Phonograph hour, which takes the 9 to 10 period.

The Victor Herbert hour will cover the range of his music from his light operas to his one grand opera, "Natoma." It will feature the popular "Pan-Americana," as well as the singing of "Falling in Love With Someone," from "Naughty Marietta," by the Kolster tenor.

In the Columbia Phonograph Co.'s hour Wednesday night the first 15 minutes will be given to German music sung by a male chorus of 100 voices from the Schwabisher Sangerbund, Gustave T. Heil conductor.

The second 15 minutes will feature a Scandinavian instrumental quintet under direction of Christian Thaulow, who will also be heard as a violin soloist. The quintet includes xylophone, accordion, guitar, flute and violin.

The third quarter will be given over to Spanish music played by the Rondolla Usandizaga players, a Spanish instrumental organization, and solo. by Rodolfo Hoyas, Spanish baritone.

The closing period will be devoted to Austrian music, featuring the Viennese concert orchestra playing "The Blue Danube," bits from "The Merry Widow" and others.

Harry Glantz, trumpet soloist, will be heard in Dodge Brothers hour at 8 o'clock Friday night.

At 9 o'clock will come the Cap'n Kidd program, and at 9.30 p. m. a half hour by Red Nichols and his Charleston Chasers.

SILVERTOWN QUARTET HAVE HAD VARIED EXPERIENCE

The singers who make up the Silvertown quartet that sings with the Goodrich Zippers orchestra through KSD Wednesday nights have all had unusual training and experience.

Cyrill Pitts, the first tenor, came from Richmond, Ind. He studied at Earlham College and its conservatory of music. Then he went to New York and entered the American Institute of Applied Music where he learned still more about using the voice. He has sung in opera and in choirs.

Thomas Muir, who sings second tenor, has been all over the world learning how to get the most out of his voice. Two years study in Italy, where he sang in grand opera; then a tour of Sicily and Italy, singing such roles as Rhodames in "Aida," Cairo in "Pagliacci," and Manrico in "Il Trovatore." When he returned to the United States he spent two years with the Philadelphia Civic Opera. Now he is in concert work.

George Miller went to Baker University and the University of Kansas, then to Washington, D. C., to study at the College of Music there. Subsequently he studied with several noted New York teachers.

James Phillips, the bass, has sung in vaudeville and in light opera. He sang Pooh Bah in "The Mikado," and Dick Dead Eye in "Pinafore." His last stage appearance before joining the Silvertown Cord quarter was in "The Student Prince."

DAMROSCH CONCERTS WEEKLY IN R. C. A. HOUR

New York Symphony Orchestra Is Heard Saturday Evenings Through KSD.

The series of R. C. A. Hour concerts by Walter Damrosch and the New York Symphony Orchestra, which began recently through KSD and allied stations, is to consist of 20 programs, according to David Sarnoff, vice president of the Radio Corporation of America, which is the sponsor. The concerts are to be given on successive Saturday nights, from 7 to 8 central standard time.

For the first time, one of the leading orchestral organizations of the country, under the baton of the dean of American music, will broadcast concerts controlled and directed by the conductor, not for a limited audience in a concert hall, but for the vast audience which will receive the music through the air.

"Hitherto," Sarnoff said, "the great symphony orchestras whose concerts have been broadcast have been conducted from the acoustical and other requirements of the auditorium or the concert hall. The orchestra was playing for the benefit primarily of the seen, not the unseen audience. It was left to a technician at the "mixing panel" of the broadcasting station largely to reconduct the concert at his power keyboard. Dr. Damrosch has rendered a great service both to music and to radio in the study he has made of broadcasting technique, so that the musical conductor, not the technician, might interpret the orchestral score to millions of people."

After the first few concerts in a temporary studio, Damrosch will conduct the New York Symphony Orchestra in the "RCA Hour" from the main studio of the National Broadcasting Co. now being made ready at 711 Fifth avenue, New York.

The RCA Hour will be broadcast from WJZ, New York; WEEI, Boston; WTIC, Hartford; WJAR, Providence; WTAG, Worcester; WCSH, Portland (Me.); WHAM, Rochester; KDKA, Pittsburg; WBAL, Baltimore; WSB, Atlanta; WSM, Nashville; WMC, Memphis; WHAS, Louisville; WLW, Cincinnati; WJR, Detroit; KYW, Chicago; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul; KSD, St. Louis; WOC, Davenport; WDAF, Wansas City (Mo.); WHO, Des Moines and WOW, Omaha.

M. Gusikoff, first violinist of the New York Symphony Orchestra, is to be one of the soloists in this concert series.

Dr. Damrosch says experience has convinced him that radio has opened a new opportunity to the musical conductor for the expression of musical art to millions of people.

How Best to Hunt Trouble in Set

The Radio Manufacturers' Association's "Manual on Interference," recently issued, lists a series of tests for radio sets that are misbehaving.

"1. Disconnect aerial and ground. Connect the imput terminals of the set with a piece of bare wire. If, when this is done, the noise ceases, there is safe evidence that the interference is being picked up by either aerial or ground and it becomes reasonable to suppose that the source of interference is outside the house.

"The corrollary is not entirely true. An inductive pickup through wiring in the walls or through a B supply system is still possible. But in any event the field is narrowed.

"2. Test the batteries. B batteries that have lost a third of their rated voltage are as a general rule interesting replies. If the A battery crackles, three courses are open: A—Give it a charge; B—Consult a battery man; C—Sit down and howl.

"3. Look for corrosion and acid creepage.

"4. Test plate supply by elimination, substituting B batteries for them temporarily. (Such units cannot be tested by means of ordinary meters inasmuch as their output is too small.)

"5. Check the connecting cable wire for shorts, open and bad connections.

"6. Check binding posts.

"7. Replace aerial and ground and rearrange tubes in test for microphonic noises.

Further Tests.

"8. Examine socket prongs for corrosion.

"9. Touch jack springs and soldered connections with glass red or strip of bakelite. If a grating noise results there is a loose joint.

"10. Take out tubes, connect 22 volts of B battery across terminals of variable condensers. If sparks result look for defective insulation or scraping plates.

"11. Test loud speaker cords by twisting or shaking. If noises result replace cords."

These tests briefly cover most of the difficulties to be encountered in an ordinary receiver.

The R. M. A. Manual is now available at the Radio Manufacturers' Association, 32 West Randolph street, Chicago, for 25 cents.

Old-time radio reception

You would not sit out a motion picture that blurred and slurred the figures. And there is no need now to endure radio reception that does the same thing. "Fada Harmonated Reception" means that the "sound pictures" you hear are clear, complete, undistorted. You hear all the notes of the musical scale, every syllable of the speaker, each shading of tone in the voice of the singer. This new-day naturalness is made possible by an exclusive Fada principle—the most sensational betterment in modern radio. No matter what your conception of radio may be today, you will have to revise it when you hear Fada's wonderful realism. Harmonated Reception—as it is called—distinguishes Fada from all other radio. And only a Fada Receiver with a Fada Speaker can give you real Harmonated Reception. Hear it wherever you see the Fada sign.

WGY RE-BROADCASTS AUSTRALIAN PROGRAM

Late Evening Music at Sydney, 9970 Miles Distant, Heard at Breakfast in U. S.

International rebroadcasting, heretofore a one-way service from the United States to other countries, east, south and west, has been made a two-way service on two occasions.

On successive mornings, Oct. 27 and 28, WGY, the General Electric Co, station at Schenectady, N. Y., picked up and rebroadcast programs from Station 2FC of Sydney, Australia, 9970 miles distant. Music on the late evening program of the Australian station became breakfast hour music for WGY's audience. WGY's audience heard music from 7:50 to 8:30 a. m. Thursday that Syndey listeners were getting between 10:50 and 11:30 Thursday night.

Signal Always Audible.

Last May, WGY broadcast a series of early morning programs for Australian and New Zealand listeners. These programs were carried on two short-wave stations, 2XAF and 2XAD. Five Australian stations picked up the short-wave signals and rebroadcast them. Reports indicated that the rebroadcast signal was exceptionally clear and, fortunately, free from static and fading.

The success of this rebroadcasting delighted most Australians, but left their technical man dissatisfied until the courtesy could be returned. A few weeks ago, the chief engineer of Amalgamated Wireless, Ltd., of Sydney notified WGY that test programs would be transmitted by 2FC on 28.5 meters and asked the Schenectady engineers to rebroadcast if possible. Dates for test programs were Oct. 25, 27 and 28.

Signals on the first morning were unsatisfactory, but Oct. 27, voice and music were coming through so well that WGY went on the air with the rebroadcast entertainment for 40 minutes. There was some static and the fading surge was present at all times, but the signal, whether voice or music, was never inaudible. Just before the sign-off at 11:30 p. m., Sydney time, a male quartet sang, "The More We Are Together, the Merrier We'll Be," and in that song forecast what may ultimately prove the highest mission of radio, promotion of international understanding.

An American Record.

In transmitting to 2FC, WGY has established an American record in rebroadcasting. Two years ago a program from a station of the British Broadcasting Co. was picked up in the United States and rebroadcast by WJZ and WGY, but this is as far as rebroadcasting of foreign stations has gone in this country. The signals of the European and other foreign stations were not strong enough for rebroadcasting purposes. Now, however, there is a trend toward the short waves in other countries.

Station PCCJJ, at Eindhoven, Holland, is using a short-wave transmitter that has reached out well and AGA, a German station working on 14 meters, has been heard occasionally in the United States.

WGY is known throughout the world as a result of rebroadcasts of its short-wave stations. Perth, Australia, more than 11,000 miles away, has picked up the Schenectady stations and rebroadcast. Last winter a half-hour from WGY was a program feature of the British Broadcasting Co. every Tuesday night for several weeks. Stations in South America, Germany, Spain and France have carried WGY's programs. So well known is the reliability of 2XAF and 2XAD's signals that cables are generally received when sporting events of international interest are planned. On the eve of the Dempsey-Sharkey and Dempsey-Tunney fights, 2XAF was asked to broadcast these features. Men in the service, army and navy, have written WGY from distant posts, requesting that the Army-Navy football game be carried on short waves. Three polar expeditions reported receiving the Dempsey-Tunney fight, story via 2XAF.

Engineers of WGY are hopeful that 2FC may carry a special program for the United States at an hour when more listeners will find it convenient to be at their radio sets. This means that Australia must start its program about 6 a. m.

Radio outlets are now part of the standard equipment in the building of modern apartment houses.

TWO NEW A C TYPE TUBES

Two new alternating current Sonatron tubes, X-226 a. c., and Y-227 a. c., designed to operate direct from an alternating current socket, doing away with rectifier and filter are announced. The X-226 a. c., for use in radio frequency and audio frequency amplifier circuits, takes a curren drain of 1.05 amps. at 1.50 volts, and operates with a plate voltage of 90 to 135, to a maximum of 180 under full power. The standard four-prong UX base is used.

The Y-227 a. c. is designed for use as a detector in a receiver using X-226 a. c. tubes as amplifiers: though the Y-227 may be used as an amplifier tube, particularly in first stage audio. It is a heat-principle tube, self-stabilizing to eliminate the hum noticeable when other types of a. c. tubes are used as detectors. Current drain in this type is higher than in the X-226 a. c., 1.75 amps. at 2.5 volts being required for perfect performance. A constant-uniform-humless

AUTOMATIC!

NO radio set will operate with full efficiency without a constant flow of humless, full-voltage electric power.

The Basco Combination "A" and "B" Unit meets this requirement with such superb fitness as to seemingly become an integral part of the radio set itself. It supplies all the power you will ever need, always available at the click of your radio switch, and adjustable to the power needs of your particular radio set.

Here is unfailing, uniform power, automatically supplied assuring you the best radio reception of which your set is capable. Here is super-quality in every detail of design, materials, workmanship, and performance. Here is operating convenience, without petty annoyances (no "silent nights" or charging nuisance), and minimum cost radio operation.

Basco Power Units are the product of a concern nationally known as builders of highest quality, precision-made equipment. Satisfactory performance is guaranteed.

Basco Power Units will operate any 6-volt radio set having 1 to 10 tubes. Easy payments can be arranged. Ask your Basco dealer for a demonstration.

NEW 112-A POWER TUBES HAVE VARIETY OF USES

It has long been known that the use of power tubes such as the CX-112 in the R. F. detector and first audio stages of a receiver improve the quality and sensitivity of the receiver. The greater handling power of these tubes results in greater and better amplification with less distortion than when ordinary tubes are operated to capacity.

The main objection, however, to the use of these tubes for other than the last audio stage has been the greater current consumption of their filaments which require half an ampere at five volts, twice the current required by 301-A tubes.

While the current factor is not important when only one of these tubes is used in a receiver, the extra current necessary when the receiver is equipped with five or more of these tubes has militated against their more general use in all stages of a set.

The introduction by E. T. Cunningham, Inc., of the CX-112A tube, having the same characteristics as the CX-112 tube but consuming only one-quarter of an ampere at five volts, the same as the CX-301A tubes, opens a greater field of usefulness for power tubes.

Equal Efficiency, Less Current.

The oxide coated filament used in the new tube is similar to that in the 113 tube. But refinements in tube design have retained the good qualities and high efficiency of the latter tube but to one-half of the filament current required for efficient operation.

The tube filament operates at a dull red temperature and works best when operated at the rated filament voltage of five volts.

The filament is "M" shaped and is the same length as that in the CX-112, keeping the plate resistance and the amplification constant unchanged.

R. E. BOLIN NOMINATED FOR OFFICE BY RADIO AMATEURS

The radio amateurs of the Midwest division of the American Radio Relay League, which includes Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas, are voting for director of the Midwest division for 1928-1929. The amateurs of St. Louis have submitted to the League headquarters at Hartford a petition nominating Ray E. Bolin, 9EAG of St. Louis. All league members in the Midwest division can vote in this election, and anyone who is an annual subscribed to "QST" is a league member.

Bolin will be the chief speaker at the next meeting of the Radio Transmitters' Association, at the Marquette Hotel, 8 p. m., Friday. Bolin has been interested in radio since 1912 and has gone through all the various stages of amateur radio.

All radio amateurs with broadcast fans experimenters and hams are invited to attend next Friday's meeting.

IDEAL ONE DAY TRIP IS TO HERMANN, MO.

Ten Miles of This 200-Mile Jaunt Are Dirt-Slab and Gravel Rest of Way.

By RICHARD G. BAUMHOFF.

So much road construction work has been accomplished in Missouri's State system during the past year that a 200-mile loop trip across the Missouri River hills can now be made out of St. Louis by way of two perfect transcontinental routes and using State Highway No. 45 through Hermann, as the connecting link.

It is a beautiful ride at any time, but particularly so in Indian summer, when new vistas are opened by the lack of foliage and embellished by the browns of nature's palette. It crosses from the Columbia-Kansas City highway (No. 40) to the Jefferson City-Kansas City highway (No. 50) through sections of Montgomery and Gasconade counties which in the past have been a closed preserve to the general run of motorists.

All-Weather Route.

Except for 20 miles, this tour follows high-type gravel and concrete pavements. Included in the 20 miles (all in No. 45) are a 10-mile stretch of dirt north of the river, with the hills rocked or graveled so that passage usually is possible in spite of rain; three miles of sand in the bottoms and seven miles of natural gravel, all-weather surface south of the stream.

Starting out on the paved National Highway, No. 40, (St. Charles road) it is worth while going as far as Mineola, a village nestling in the Mineola Hills beside the Loutre River. The hills, known as a hunting section, are worth seeing, and worth exploring by foot or horseback. The river has pleasant glens along its banks. There are tourist accommodations in the settlement.

Retracing the way a few miles to New Florence and the junction of No. 45, the trip then leads south on the latter highway, and across those pretty little elevations of the land which have no particular name but are best called the Mis-

Ten Miles of This 200-Mile Jaunt Are Dirt-Slab and Gravel Rest of Way.

By RICHARD G. BAUMHOFF.

So much road construction work has been accomplished in Missouri's State system during the past year that a 200-mile loop trip across the Missouri River hills can now be made out of St. Louis by way of two perfect transcontinental routes and using State Highway No. 45 through Hermann, as the connecting link.

It crosses from the Columbia-Kansas City highway (No. 40) to the Jefferson City-Kansas City highway (No. 50) through sections of Montgomery and Gasconade counties which in the past have been a closed preserve to the general run of motorists.

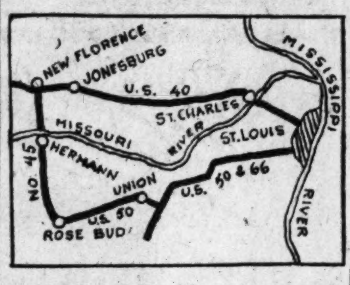
All-Weather Route.

Except for 20 miles, this tour follows high-type gravel and concrete pavements. Included in the 90 miles (all in No. 45) are a 10-mile stretch of dirt north of the river, with the hills rocked or graveled so that passage usually is possible in spite of rain; three miles of sand in the bottoms and seven miles of natural gravel, all-weather surface south of the stream.

Starting out on the paved National Highway, No. 40, (St. Charles road) it is worth while going as far as Mineola, a village nestling in the Mineola Hills beside the Loutre River. The hills, known as a hunting section, are worth seeing, and worth exploring by foot or horseback. The river has pleasant glens along its banks. There are tourist accommodations in the settlement.

Retracing the way a few miles to New Florence and the junction of No. 45, the trip then leads south on the latter highway, and across those pretty little elevations of the land which have no particular name but are best called the Missouri River hills. They possess certain characteristics all their own.

SUNDAY TOUR OVER TWO U. S. HIGHWAYS AND STATE NO. 45



Ferry Is Boarded.

McKittrick, on the Katy Railroad, is the only little town passed. There is a large, gasoline-operated ferry boat, the Loutre Island, plying between Hermann and a landing on the north bank. It makes four trips daily, leaving Hermann at 8 and 11 a. m. and 1:30 and 4 p. m., and departing from the opposite shore somewhat later. Sunday service is like week days. The toll is $1 for car and passengers.

Hermann is a picturesque county seat spread over the high bluffs and the back hills. It was famed of old as the home of commercial wine cellars. Travelers remember it for the delightful views of the broad river from its vicinity.

South of Hermann, No. 45 terminates at the crossroads of Drake, where the tour turns east on the excellent gravel of No. 50. The latter highway becomes concrete at Union and enters St. Louis via Manchester road.

Log of Tour.

A log of the tour, as made by the Gypsy Baron recently in Skidamaree, gypsy car of the Post-Dispatch, follows:

00.0 Leave Post-Dispatch Building.
74.0 Mineolo on No. 40.
82.0 Junction of No. 45 on the return.
82.0-91.5 Dirt road, with fairly well graveled hills.
91.5-96.0 Good gravel road, ending at McKittrick.
96.0-99.0 Good Sand bottons road, ending at ferry landing.
99.0-112.0 Old gravel road, starting from Hermann.
112.0-119.0 Natural gravel, all-weather road, ending at Drake.
150.0 Start of concrete at Union.
203.0 Post-Dispatch Building.

New Highway Bridge to Span Mississippi at Louisiana, Mo.

Structure to Be Opened Feb. 1 Will Shorten Route to Southwest From Northeast by 50 Miles.

Will Relieve U. S. 40 and the Bridges at St. Louis of Excessive Intra-State Traffic.

Completion of the Mississippi River bridge at Louisiana, Mo., now expected by Feb. 1, 1928, will find the Missouri connecting highway—U. S. 54—ready for the resultant heavier traffic when the bridge succeeds the present ferry service. The bridge will shorten the route to the southwest from the northeast by more than 50 miles over any present route across Missouri. It will give motorists of Kansas City, for instance, a shorter, quicker route to Chicago, eliminating the necessity of following U. S. 40—the St. Louis-Kansas City route—all the way into St. Louis and using the bridges here to cross the Mississippi.

All-Weather Route.

With progress on the Missouri route of U. S. 54, between Louisiana and U. S. 40, near McCredie, south of Mexico, proceeding rapidly in four sections, a hard-surfaced roadway is virtually assured for the entire 75 miles by the end of the 1927 road-building season.

Then, when the bridge at Louisiana—termed the Champ Clark Mississippi River Bridge, in honor of the great Missouri statesman, is completed next February, motorists can follow all-weather U. S. 54 to Louisiana, cross the river, continue on U. S. 54 to Pittsfield, Ill.—its junction with the U. S. 36 in Illinois—travel this route to Springfield, and take any of the several available routes to Chicago or other principal points north.

The new bridge is being erected at a cost of over $1,000,000. It has concrete understructure, already in position, and the roadway will be paved. Steel superstructures will complete it.

And while work on the bridge is being rushed, hard-surfacing of U. S. 54 is being pushed to completion.

Slab at Vandalia.

On the Louisiana-Bowling Green section of the road, present gravel is being replaced with concrete, as the permanent plan provides for the entire route, now a primary road, though only a secondary road when the first gravel sections were built.

On the Vandalia-Curryville section, east of Vandalia, the paving is completed, and will be opened next week with the end of the "curing" period.

Through Laddonia, northeast and southwest, the nine miles of bridging and grading are almost complete, in readiness for the State graveling outfit, which will speed the work there to close this final gap on the highway this fall.

The Chamber of Commerce of Laddonia has given unusual co-operation with the contractors in helping this work along, as it was not let until July, and when the contractors arrived to begin work, the commerce body had their officers selected, and their homes for families all located throughout the town.

South of Mexico the nine-foot concrete slab is two-thirds complete, and only two to three miles remain to completely link the present gravel south with U. S. 40 at North Fulton or South McCredie.

A newly announced feature of the highway, across Missouri, too, is the duplication of the famous Burbank experimental fruit and flower garden at the Star Nurseries near Louisiana.

Landscape artists have prepared a living catalogue design of the trees, fruits and flowers of the nursery, to become the most extensive display of its character in the world.

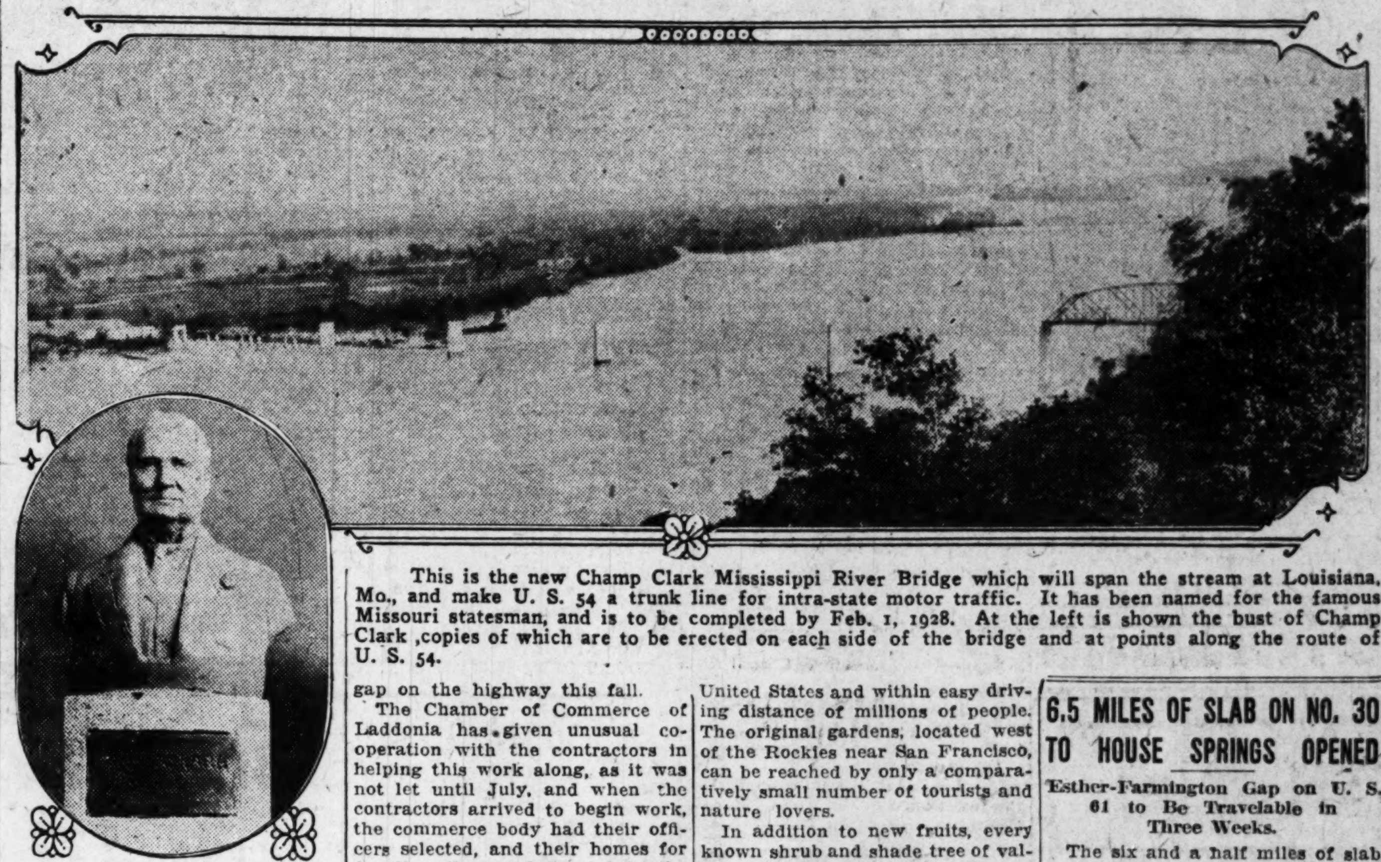
In Center of U. S.

This location will place the Eastern Burbank Gardens almost in the exact geographical center of the United States and within easy driving distance of millions of people. The original gardens, located west of the Rockies near San Francisco, can be reached by only a comparatively small number of tourists and nature lovers.

In addition to new fruits, every known shrub and shade tree of value to planters in the United States will find a place in the Stark-Burbank Horticultural Gardens when they are completed. It is hoped in this way not only to erect a living monument to Luther Burbank, but to assemble a most complete living catalogue of plant life on the American Continent a — place where nature lovers and students can come to study and see with their own eyes in one locality, thousands of varieties that ordinarily can only be found in books, or in widely separated sections.

S. A. E. New Car Ideas.

Members of the Society of Automotive Engineers say that the industry is entering a new era, and that the hope of the engineers is to design a car that will need no adjustment of any kind in the first 10,000 miles of travel.



This is the new Champ Clark Mississippi River Bridge which will span the stream at Louisiana, Mo., and make U. S. 54 a trunk line for intra-state motor traffic. It has been named for the famous Missouri statesman, and is to be completed by Feb. 1, 1928. At the left is shown the bust of Champ Clark ,copies of which are to be erected on each side of the bridge and at points along the route of U. S. 54.

6.5 MILES OF SLAB ON NO. 30 TO HOUSE SPRINGS OPENED

Esther-Farmington Gap on U. S. 61 to Be Travelable in Three Weeks.

The six and a half miles of slab on Missouri Highway No. 30 from three miles beyond the bridge at Fenton—over the Meramec River—to House Springs was opened to travel yesterday. There is now a 25.5-mile stretch of continuous concrete on this highway out of St. Louis.

Detour eliminations announced the past week by the division highway office at Webster Groves include the one on U. S. 61 immediately south of St. Louis, between Luxemburg and Point Breeze. The old route along the concrete construction is being used. It is rough but passable.

Paving has begun on the six-mile gap on U. S. 61 between Esther and Farmington. This stretch will be open to travel Dec. 1, the Webster Groves highway office announces.

$100,000,000 GAS TAX IN FIRST HALF OF 1927

Share of Missouri Motorists, at 2 Cents Per Gallon, Almost $3,000,000.

Gasoline taxes yielded a total revenue of $101,250,841 in the first six months of 1927, according to the Bureau of Public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"This represents, "says the bureau," an increase of 19.2 per cent over the same period of 1926. A tax was imposed in all but four States and two of these have since adopted a tax so that only two States, New York and Massachusetts, do not now tax gasoline. The rate of tax on June 30 ranged from 2c to 5c per gallon and averaged 2.55 cents."

The revenue was an important item in financing highway programs. State highway funds received the largest portion, being credited with $69,616,088. County and local road funds received $22,843,566, payments on road bonds amounted to $4,598,751 and the remainder was used to defray collection costs and for miscellaneous purposes.

The revenue derived indicates that 4,919,000,000 gallons of gasoline were consumed by motor vehicles including estimated amounts for those states not imposing the tax. This is 11.4 per cent more than was reported for the first six months of 1926, while the increase in motor vehicle registration was only 7 per cent. This seems to indicate an increased use of motor vehicles.

With a 2-cent tax rate in Missouri on June 30, motorists of this State paid an aggregate of $2,921,065 gas tax the first six months of 1927.

Federal Aid Roads.

With $510,000,000 expended up to June 30, the United States Government is aiding in the construction of 170,000 miles of highway for nearly 21,000,000 owners of automobiles now registered. At the close of the fiscal year, 60,957 miles had been completed.

Announcing

The Wilson Motor Car Co.

Geo. A. Krauss, Pres.

2921 Locust Street

as Distributers for Chandler

TO PROVIDE Chandler motor cars with representation on a par with the excellence of the cars, and adequately in keeping with the bigness of the St. Louis Metropolitan Area, we have appointed the Wilson Motor Car Company as Chandler retail distributers for St. Louis and St. Louis County.

George A. Krauss, president of the Wilson organization, is one of the best known automobile men in the city. For a dozen years he and his company have been earning the good will of thousands of local automobile owners.

The company is displaying the new Chandler Royal Eights and Sixes in a setting well worthy of the cars—a showroom with a frontage of 110 feet in the heart of Automobile Row. And with a corps of expert service men, specially trained with regard to Chandler owners are assured of 100 per cent service on a friendly, skillful, economical basis.

Mr. Krauss and his associates consider the good will of the public far too priceless ever to be jeopardized by any slackening of interest after a sale. It is, to them, every bit as important to hold old friends as to make new friends . . . and to do both is the main thought and purpose of their business.

The Wilson Motor Car Company will appoint a number of reliable neighborhood dealers, and will operate in close co-operation with the Midstate Motors Company, wholesale Chandler distributers for Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois.

Have you seen the new Royal Eights and new Sixes by Chandler? They are the most magnificent cars in all Chandler history . . . at new LOWER prices!

WILSON MOTOR CO. NEW CHANDLER DISTRIBUTER

To Handle Line Exclusivelyj in St. Louis City and County.

The Wilson Motor Car Co., 2921-29 Locust street, has been appointed exclusive Chandler distributer in St. Louis and St. Louis County. The firm for 10 years has distributed automobiles here and is one of the charter members of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association. George A. Krauss is president and Fred G. Zibell, secretary of the company.

Besides displaying all the 17 Chandler models, the Wilson Motor Car Co. has installed a full line of Chandler parts in its stockroom and has equipped its service department to handle all Chandler repairs.

Formal showing of Chandler models by the firm will begin tomorrow. The Chandler line consists of the Special Six series, the Big Six, Royal Six and Royal Eight lines, ranging in price from $995 to $2200 factory list. All of these are to be displayed.

The Chandler Royal Eight is the car with which Ralph K. Mulford, pioneer racing star and Indianapolis Speedway performer of several years ago, has set recent stock car records. Mulford, who is now connected with the engineering department of the Chandler Motor Car Co., was in St. Louis the past week supervising installation of mechanical equipment in the Wilson Motor Car Co. service station, and assisting in preparing the line for its formal showing tomorrow.

The distributing headquarters of the Wilson Motor Car Co. is a two-story building with a 110-foot frontage and 185 feet deep. The display room, fronting on Locust street, takes in the entire frontage and is 25 feet deep.

Three Studebaker Cars Exceed Mile a Minute For Full 25,000 Miles

Roadsters, Certified as Stock by A. A. A., Average 65 M. P. H. for Distance, Sedan, 61 M. P. H.—New World's Records.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—New world records for endurance and speed have been established by two Studebaker Commander roadsters and a Studebaker Commander sedan on the Atlantic City speedway.

Announcement to this effect is made here by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, which supervises official racing and officiates at speed and endurance tests of automobiles in the United States.

All three cars participating in the tests on the Atlantic City speedway, according to the Contest Board statement, traveled 25,000 miles in less than 25,000 minutes. No machine made by man ever before traveled so far and so fast.

The Contest Board statement describing the tests continued:

"The cars started their grind on Oct. 18 and maintained better than a mile a minute average speed night and day, under supervision of 35 officials of the American Automobile Association, for nearly 16 days until the 25,000 miles had been completed.

"The official speed of the two roadsters, which started and finished simultaneously, was 65.31 miles per hour. The official speed of the sedan was 61.98 miles per hour.

"The cars were disassembled by the Technical Committee of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association following the test, and certified to be strictly stock cars in every respect. They ran fully equipped as sold by the Studebaker Corporation of America to its dealers.

"In spite of the Studebakers being fully equipped as stock cars, the records exceed any ever made by special racing cars or stripped stock cars from 3000 miles to 15,000 miles, and established new records from 15,000 miles to 25,000 miles, inclusive."

NEW GRAHAM TRUCK PLANT IN CALIFORNIA OPERATING

The new Graham Brothers truck plant at Stockton, Cal., is now operating and production is to be stepped up as rapidly as possible, according to Dodge Brothers, Inc., the parent company.

Work on the new factory was started Aug. 8 and construction was completed late in October. The building is a one-story brick structure, 540 feet long and 90 feet wide. It increases the production capacity of the factory to about 50 units per day.

BLOCKS FOR CITY-OWNED PARKING SPACES FOR FUTURE

"The parking problem in cities has not been given the attention it deserves," says Sid Black, vice president of Chandler-Cleveland Motors Corporation, in commenting upon present day automobile owners' parking problems.

"The aeronautical industry is fortunate that so much attention is being given to providing airports, municipal and otherwise. Cities are vieing with each other to make themselves air centers of the future.

"Sea-going vessels have adequate terminal facilities. So do railroads. It's only in the automobile world that we find so little attention paid to providing satisfactory facilities for the stopped vehicle.

"The public spends huge sums annually on highways to expedite transportation, but little or nothing is being spent to make parking easier.

"Municipal parking spaces in business sections would help solve the problem. It would not only be a great help to the automobile owner, but it would relieve traffic congestion and would bring more busines sto sections so provided. This frequently means a walk of many blocks for the motorist on business to sections so provided. parking stands have helped to alleviate the situation in some places, but the municipality has a responsibility which should not be overlooked."

INSURANCE RATES LOWERED

A 45 per cent reduction in the theft insurance rate on new Paige sixes and eights is announced.

The reduction followed a survey by insurance experts as to the manner in which Paige cars are built and the way they are protected against theft. The new rates also are based on favorable experience of insurance companies with current Paige models.

The release is operated from the driver's seat. A fire siren on the car routs the wolves from their hiding places, and Cummings and the dogs do the rest.

NEW ELCAR EIGHT-IN-LINE ANNOUNCED BY FACTORY

F. B. Sears, president of the Elcar Motor Co. of Elkhart, Ind., announces for early delivery a new low-priced eight-in-line sedan. This model is priced at $1395, factory. It is mounted on a 123-inch wheelbase chassis and will be equipped with all the shockless features heretofore confined to higher-priced Elcar models. The new line includes a five-passenger sedan, a four-passenger coupe, a five-passenger touring and a four-passenger roadster.

A. A. A. SANCTIONS 24-HOUR HISPANO-SUIZA-STUTZ RACE

"Official sanction has been given by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association for the 24-hour match race between a Safety Stutz and a Hispano-Suiza on the Indianapolis motor speedway in the latter part of November. This means that the race, which is to be run for a bet of $25,000, will be run and timed under supervision of the A. A. A. contest board, and all records established will, if the cars are strictly stock, be entered on the books of the A. A. A.," the Stutz Motor Car Co. "The Stutz Motor Car Co. ning to use a strictly stock

"If we were to use any equipment that would aid race against the Hispano, car was not absolutely every particular, we would feating the very purpose for we have competed in stock racing throughout the year," said E. S. Gorrell, president. "When the a stock car race, it wants the exact duplicates of models can be purchased from the show room."

Scoring Greatest Success in All Chrysler History

THE ILLUSTRIOUS NEW CHRYSLER

Public Enthusiastic Over Its Outstanding Performance and Riding Luxury — Counterweighted 7-Bearing Crankshaft and Rubber Spring Mountings Offered for the First Time at Such Prices

MOST unusual, even for Chrysler, has been the reception given to the Illustrious New "72."

But no other result could have been possible, because no other car combines such rare quality and value.

The new "72" offers inimitable speed, pliability in traffic, hill-climbing ability, ease of riding and handling and dependability in measure beyond even the brilliant standards of earlier Chryslers.

Before the "72," no car in the $1500 class, or even in the $2000 group, provided counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft in a 75 horse-power engine; spring ends anchored in blocks of live rubber; and long, roomy, handsome bodies in such correct taste.

Every Chrysler dealer is eager to show you the Illustrious New "72," to put it through its paces. Only by riding in it and driving it can you familiarize yourself with this new performance, this new smartness that has been responsible for the greatest success in all Chrysler history.

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" prices—Roadster (with rumble seat), $1495; 2-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1545; Coupe (4-passenger), $1595; Royal Sedan, $1595; Sedan (4-door, close-coupled), $1695; Crown Sedan, $1745; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $1745; f. o. b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax. Chrysler dealers are in position to extend the convenience of time payments.

New Chrysler "Red-Head" Engine—designed to take full advantage of high-compression gas, is standard equipment on the roadsters of the "52," "62," "72" and sport roadster of the Imperial "80." It is also available, at slight extra cost, for all other body types. For a reasonable charge it can be applied to earlier Chrysler cars now in use.

DODGE PLANT BUILDS ITS 2,000,000TH CAR

Retail Value of Dodge Brothers Product in 11 Years Totals $2,200,000,000.

to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Nov. 12.—The two-millionth car which Dodge Brothers has made came off the final assembly line a few days ago, just 12 years, 11 months and 21 days after the first car was built by John and Horace Dodge on Nov. 14, 1914. 2,000,000 is a standard four-cylinder leather upholstered sedan. It was shipped to W. L. Eaton, Seattle dealer, who purchased it nearly eight years ago after failing by six months to get in his order in time to get No. 500,000.

"The passing of the 2,000,000 mark by Dodge Brothers sets a new record for the automobile industry as no other company manufacturing cars that sell in or above the Dodge price class has yet approached the point of making 2,000,000 cars in the short period of less than 13 years," says the factory.

What the automotive industry means to the prosperity of the nation and to Detroit in particular, was shown today by President E. T. Wilmer, who pointed out that Dodge alone, in its 12 years' existence has produced products retail valued at $2,200,000,000, a sum greater than the entire amount of capital invested in automobile manufacturing plants in the United States.

"Dodge Brothers," he said, "has paid its employes in wages during this 12-year period approximately $345,000,000, a sum over one-half of the total wage bill of all motor car and truck factories in the United States in 1926.

"Dodge Brothers, which last year was third in the production of cars and trucks, has been undergoing an extensive transition during the past 18 months and has been engaged almost exclusively in a readjustment of manufacturing facilities. We have been getting our dealers in a position to offer their customers a complete line of fours and sixes in passenger cars and trucks and Dodge Brothers will be prepared to enjoy in 1928 the biggest business in its history."

A statistician has figured that the 2,000,000 cars which Dodge Brothers have built must have traveled a total distance equal to 600,000 trips from the earth to the moon. He estimated their total mileage at 150,000,000,000. If placed end to end they would make a line that would extend from New York City to San Francisco and back as far as Indianapolis, a total distance of 5550 miles, he says.

AUTO INDUSTRY USES AIR TO SUSPEND STEEL CHIPS

Steel shavings and chips which weigh 40 pounds per cubic foot, are literally suspended and carried away by air as a result of new methods adopted by several leaders in the automobile industry to reduce costs and speed up production.

One large manufacturer of roller bearings has installed a pneumatic conveyor which carries steel shavings and chips from automatic screw machines to a "chip washer" 500 feet away and is capable of handling 120,000 pounds during a 10 hour day. The steel is carried away by creating a tremendous pressure of air driven by powerful ventilating fans, similar to smaller ones used to ventilate theaters.

USING LABADDIE ROAD AS DETOUR OF ROUTE 47

The earth detour on State Highway No. 47, between Gray Summit and Washington, in Franklin County, has been changed and the old Labaddie detour, an all-weather road, is again in use, the highway office at Webster Groves reports.

New concrete on No. 47 is being used for five miles south of Washington.

NEW DEHYDRO PLATE BATTERY BEING MARKETED

After months of experimenting, the Continental Battery Co. of St. Louis has produced a new kind of battery plate, which is now being used in all Continental batteries.

B. H. Jacob, president of the firm, states that the new plate, known as the "Dehydro" plate, is baked by super-heated steam at a temperature of 450 degrees Fahrenheit with 125 pounds pressure. The result is a plate of extreme porosity, meaning extra capacity and longer life.

"This new process," says Jacob, "consists of removing all moisture and residue sulphuric acid from the plates, before and after formation, by dehydration, hence their name "Dehydro" plates.

"Tests have shown that after nine months of the most severe use, the plates were as good as new, this apparently because of the fact that gassing, due to the higher charging rate, takes place freely through the uniform pores in the extremely porous plate. Thus this new process employed in the construction of Dehydro plates results in a much longer life than has ever before been expected of plates."

AUTO CLUB OF MISSOURI TO RETURN TO OLD QUARTERS

Building at 4228 Lindell, Damaged by Tornado, to Be Rebuilt.

The Automobile Club of Missouri which temporarily has been located on Locust street at the Lindell boulevard cutoff, since its headquarters at 4228 Lindell boulevard was damaged by the recent tornado, is soon to return to its old location.

Plans were announced the past week by Matt F. Morse, general manager of the club, whereby the building at 4228 Lindell boulevard will be remodeled to meet its needs. The building, formerly three stories high, is to be reduced to two stories and a new front is planned.

Part of the building will be used as club headquarters and the Insurance Interchange, a division of the club, is to occupy the other part. It will be ready for occupancy Jan. 1, 1928.

The recent tornado blew out the third story and front part of the club building.

PLEA FOR TAX REPEAL BEFORE COMMITTEE

Told Hangover Auto Excise War Measure Has Cost Owners $1,000,000,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Representatives of the American Automobile Association appeared the past week before the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives and urged immediate repeal of the Federal auto excise tax Government war levy on automobiles.

The principal statement on behalf of motorists was made by Thomas P. Henry of Detroit, president of the A. A. A., who acted as spokesman for 943 motor clubs in the United States with a membership of 1,000,000 car owners. Henry undertook to refute Treasury Department arguments as having no bearing whatever on the equities of the case of the car owners in their demand for repeal. He ridiculed the idea that the automobile is a semiluxury and asked why the Treasury had selected this "semiluxury of widespread use" together with pistols for a peace time tax when similar war tax on such articles as perfumes, cosmetics and scores of other such commodities had long ago been repealed.

He called "wholly untenable" the attempt to link up the automobile tax with Federal aid for highways, pointing out that this tax had already yielded to the Government a total revenue of more than $1,068,000,000.

Referring to the contention of the Treasury that automobiles should be taxed because railroads pay corporation income taxes, Henry said, that in all probability the automotive and related industries, are today paying as heavy taxes to the Federal Government through the corporation and income levies as are the railroads.

"In my opinion," he said, "the Treasury Department has stepped beyond the bounds of common sense and judicious reasoning in this matter. It should leave to the rail companies the privilege of firing the first gun in a retaliatory war against the automobile. If they want Federal intervention, let them ask for it. It ill befits the Treasury, however, to attempt to revise moth-eaten, discarded theories of rail-highway competition as an excuse for retaining a hang-over war tax on automobile owners."

Henry summarized his arguments for immediate repeal as follows:

"The automobile tax is a special war excise tax, levied to meet the emergency expenses incident to our participation in the World War. It has yielded a total revenue of more than $1,068,000,000.

"The automobile tax discriminates grossly against purchasers of new automobiles and does not distribute the annual burden of Federal taxation equitably among all motor car owners.

"The automobile tax is not comparable with any other tax now levied by the Federal Government except the tax on pistols, because these are the only special war excise taxes now remaining."

CHRYSLER SERVICE EXPERTS WARN OF WINTER'S APPOACH

"At this season," says Chrysler Sales Corporation, "the prudent motorist begins to consider winter driving conditions and plans how best to put his car in order for winter months."

Chrysler service experts advise motorists to make use of service station facilities wherever possible.

They advise to have removed from the oil pan any accumulated sludge and to refill the pan with fresh oil, to make frequent changes of oil afterward and to see that the chassis is completely lubricated and the oil changed in the transmission and differential.

"The generator should be thoroughly inspected and cleaned and any worn parts replaced. With this done and the battery checked and recharged, the electrical system will have plenty of 'punch,' says a Chrysler service expert.

"Other important items include cleaning of gas tank, vacuum tank, carburetor and gas lines, and adjusting carburetor to proper winter setting. The cooling system should be thoroughly flushed, worn hose replaced and anti-freeze solution poured in. Wheels should be aligned to prevent tire wear, and body bolts and spring clips should be tightened to safeguard against body squeaks and spring breakage."

ESSEX CLIMBS MT. TAMALPAIS

Sealed in high gear, a standard Essex super-six coach has just made the first high gear climb up Mt. Tamalpais, near San Francisco, according to word received by the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., here.

Each year thousands of tourists reach the top of the peak by a trip on a cog-wheel railway, which winds its way up the steep sides. The only automobile route to the top is a dirt road which tortuously rises more than 1700 feet in a little over 8 miles.

"The Essex which undertook this test," according to the Hudson Essex factory, "was strictly a standard, stock car and was driven by non-profesionals. Even with the use of all gears, a steady, fast climb up Mt. Tamalpais is a formidable assignment for any car.

"The Essex averaged just a bit less than 40 miles an hour."

Keep to Left.

According to the American Automobile Association, the best and proper way for pedestrians to walk on the highway is to keep on the left-hand side, so that they may be facing the oncoming traffic.

BRITISH BUILT MOON CARS EXHIBITED AT THE OLYMPIA

At the recent Olympia salon in London, England, Northwestern Motors, Ltd., Moon distributer for the British Isles, exhibited models of the British-built Moon line which is now being assembled at Liverpool.

The body of the British-built car is mounted on hte regular Moon 6-60 chassis. Regular equipment includes a Moon-Continental engine, oil purolator, air purifier, thermostat, Lockheed 4-wheel hydraulic brakes and Ross Cam and Lever steering gear. Other equipment includes Dunlop balloon tires and British head and tail lamps. Coachwork is all British.

This plan, it is said, furthers economy as the use of bodies built over there eliminates the heavy duty imposed upon American made bodies imported into England. It also offers another advantage as it offers to the buyers of Moon cars in England a choice between British and American built bodies.

JORDAN'S TREMENDOUS SPEED MEANS EVERY DAY UTILITY

Ability to go over eighty-two miles an hour gives Air Line Eight startling traffic performance and a conquering pace on the hills.

New motor gives 33% more power without an added pound of weight.

THE demand today is definitely for speed—tremendous speed—even though it is never used, because speed means extraordinary performance.

The Jordan Air Line Eight does over eighty-two miles an hour, if need be—and does it without apparent effort.

Few people will ever use that astounding speed—but they want the jump on the other fellow in the traffic—they want the power to swing out and around the procession on the steepest hills—they want the ability to outrun the other car if occasion should demand.

Speed, in the Jordan Air Line Eight, is your assurance of all 'round performance.

OAKLAND-PONTIAC OCTOBER SALES SHOW BIG INCREASE

Oakland and Pontiac October sales of 15,674 units were 61.6 per cent greater than during October, 1926, says W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales for the Oakland Motor Car Co. Tracy also states that sales totals for the last 10 months have made 1927 the company's most successful year.

"The October record follows a September sales increase of 37 per cent over the corresponding period of a year ago," says Tracy. "The grand aggregate of Oakland and Pontiac Six sales from January to October, inclusive, is 172,027, against 121,330 during the first 10 months of 1926. This increase of 50,697 represents

"Introduction of the improved Pontiac Six at lower prices early this year contributed substantially to the increased total of sales," says Tracy. "Oakland Six sales experienced a brief midsummer interruption while the factory was being rearranged for production of the new All-American Six.

"Immediate public acceptance of the Oakland All-American models from August on, together with the sustained demand for the Pontiac Six, have increased our business to the point where Oakland-Pontiac retail registration ranked fourth among all manufacturers in the United States during August and September."

MISSOURIANS USING KANSAS LICENSES TO BE ARRESTED

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 12.—Investigation by the Automobile Registration Bureau in the Secretary of State's Department has revealed that approximately 1500 residents of Kansas City, St. Joseph and other cities and towns on the Kansas-Missouri border are operating their automobiles with Kansas licenses. This was learned from Secretary of State Charles U. Becker today.

The Secretary of State explained that Kansas licence fees were somewhat lower than Missouri's and that Missourians operating with Kansas tags also escaped paying a Kansas City, St. Joseph or other city registration fee and the property tax on their machines.

Agents of the registration bureau are working to apprehend all such persons and stop further purchasing of licenses in Kansas by Missouri residents. The Secretary of State said every effort was being made to put a stop to the custom.

Secretary Becker said discovery of the practice was made largely by deputies of the Missouri game and fish department. They found numerous persons fishing in Western Missouri streams with automobiles bearing Kansas tags. Then when they sought to file charges against them as non-residents fishing in Missouri without a non-resident fish and game license, they proved they lived in Kansas City, St. Joseph or other places in Missouri.

NASH OCTOBER EXPORTS LARGEST IN FIRM'S HISTORY

October was the biggest export month in the history of the Nash Motors Co., more Nash cars being shipped to overseas points during the past month than in any other single preceding month in the 11 years since the company was organized. Nash shipments for export last month were 82 per cent above those of October, 1926.

"This indorsement of the three new series of Nash cars introduced last summer comes from all sections of the world," said H. M. Salisbury, manager export sales of the Nash Motors Co. "As in the United States, automobile buyers abroad have been outspoken in their enthusiasm over the appearance and performance of the Nash Advanced Six, Special Six and Standard Six models. And the fact that every model in the Nash line is equipped with a 7-bearing crankshaft motor we feel is responsible, in large measure, for the unusual performance of these cars and their consequent public favor.

"During October, Nash export shipments exceeded by over 38 per cent overseas shipments by the Nash Motors Co. for the entire calender year 1922. For the initial 11 months of the 1927 fiscal year, Nash export shipments exceeded by 24 2-3 per cent Nash overseas shipments for the entire preceding fiscal year.

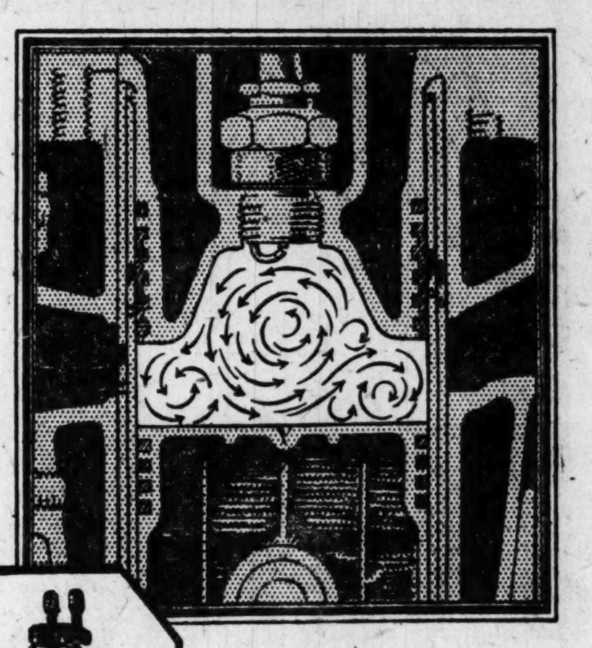
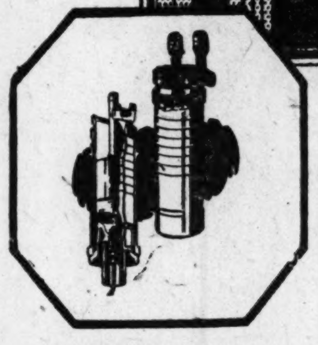
The "WHY" of Willys-Knight's Superiority

SMOOTHER WITH USE!

Highest Uniform compression is possible only with PATENTED Knight sleeve-valve engine

Use ANY gas





Spherical cylinder head and sliding sleeves of PATENTED Knight engine provides the most efficient compression chamber.

Two metal sleeves, working smoothly, silently up and down, one within the other, in a protective film of oil. Simple, positive action making for quietness and efficiency.

is all you pay for a 5-passenger, 6-cylinder Willys-Knight closed car. "70" Six, $1295 to $1495. Great Six, $1850 to $2695. Prices f. o. b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice. Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio.

SMOOTH and quiet at the beginning, the Willys-Knight grows even smoother and quieter the longer you drive. For Willys-Knight offers not only higher compression, insuring greater speed and liveliness, but uniform compression, insuring velvet smoothness at all times, at all speeds. Thus, you always enjoy an even, unfailing flow of power.

Willys-Knight brings you all the advantages of high compression with none of the disadvantages. There is no undue wear on the engine, as is the case with many poppet-valve high compression motors. And with the Willys-Knight, you can USE ANY GAS; there is no need to buy special and more costly fuel.

Unlike most great advances in motor car design, the Knight sleeve-valve engine is controlled by one organization exclusively, and is rigidly protected by PATENTS. The self-starter, lacquer finish, balloon tires and four-wheel brakes are common to many cars; but this, one of the most valuable developments in all automotive history—the PATENTED Knight engine — still remains the property of a single company.

You owe it to yourself to see and drive the finer "70" Six or the Great Six. Their beauty will command your instant admiration. You will enthuse over their low, graceful lines, their rich, harmonious colors. But your deepest appreciation of the Willys-Knight will result from smooth, unfailing performance through the years.

Exquisitely Beautiful New Colors
Your choice of many distinctive colors, both in lacquer and upholstery. Colors that are rich, harmoniously blended, lastingly attractive.

A battery that will "turn her over" on those zero mornings

At last—here is a battery that will turn your engine over on the coldest morning this Winter! One that will do it next Winter too—if you give it just ordinary care!

*Dehydro Plates—an exclusive Continental feature—give Continental Batteries extra capacity and longer life. Extra capacity that responds to the touch of your foot on the starter, even in below-zero weather! And longer life that means at least two years of dependable service.

*Dehydro Plates are made of pure lead oxide without a particle of filler or adulterant. They are, then, made more porous than any other battery plate—by our special Dehydrating Process. This added porosity gives extra capacity and longer life to every Continental Battery.

The Continental TWO YEAR Guarantee!

Continentals are unconditionally guaranteed for 90 days—and are further guaranteed against mechanical defect for TWO YEARS. This guarantee means every word it says. Your Continental Dealer is ready to back it to the limit!

If you want a battery for your car that you can count on—a battery that lasts longer, and yet always has extra power—there's a heavy-duty Continental priced as low as $12.00. You can identify Continentals by the name on the containers. See your nearest dealer today:

Priced as low as
$12.00

*Dehydro Plates are battery plates that are made additionally porous by our process of dehydration. This permits more rapid circulation and thus lessens strain on the active material within the battery. It means quick response—greater capacity—and longer life for the plates.

There are CONTINENTALS for Radios too!

SUPER-ROAD PROBLEM SOLVED BY ILLINOIS

Will Divide 40-Foot Highways Through Towns Into Two 20-Foot One-Way Routes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 12.—A pointer for Missouri in widening its State highways into the centers of population, particularly into St. Louis, is found in an opinion the past week by Attorney-General Carlstrom of Illinois approving a scheme to handle the traffic on a super-road through an incorporated village.

The ruling relates to State Route No. 1, which it is proposed to widen from 18 to 40 feet, from Lincoln Fields racetrack, Will County, into Chicago.

This route traverses Crete, near the Cook County line. To carry it through the main street of Crete with the 40 foot traffic space—sufficient for four lanes of cars—the thoroughfare would have to be widened to 56 feet in order to allow parking space on each side to give access to stores.

Such a widening would require the removal or alteration of most of the existing business houses and relocation of gas mains and sewers.

As an alternative, the Highway Division proposed two 20-foot roads running parallel on different streets of Crete and converging on both sides of the village.

Chief Engineer Sheets asked the Attorney-General if this would be legal. The latter replied that it would, inasmuch as the State Supreme Court repeatedly had advised the division to use its best discretion in laying out hard roads, under a phrase of the law saying these were "to be built in such manner as shall be to the best interest and advantage of the people of this State."

LETTER EXPERT ADDRESSES AUTOMOBILE DEALERS HERE

"What Not to Put in a Business Letter" was the subject of an address to the members of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association by Dr. Frank W. Dignan of the LaSalle Extension University, Chicago, at a meeting at the Claridge Hotel, Monday, Nov. 7.

The meeting was attended by 72 executives and sales managers representing 26 St. Louis automobile firms.

Dr. Dignan showed that the stilted style of correspondence used by most business letter writers dated back 300 years to the time of Will Shakspeare.

In the absence of President P. H. Brockman, the speaker was introduced by Robert E. Lee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, who also presented Joseph A. Schlecht, former president of the association, to the meeting for a brief address.

Considering Its High Resale Value
The PONTIAC SIX
Actually Costs You Less
To Own and Drive

Even if the Pontiac Six did not command the high resale prices that it does, it would still enjoy the reputation of being a "wonderful buy"—

—for it is the only car combining the advantages of superior six-cylinder performance and the luxuries of a Fisher body at a price of $745.

But with a high resale price which reduces the net cost of ownership, a Pontiac Six is actually more economical to own and drive.

This is a direct result of definite planning on the part of General Motors and Oakland engineers. From the very start they set out to design a low-priced six that would win approval on the sound principles of genuine, long-lived, inexpensive owner satisfaction.

That is why the severest usage affects the Pontiac Six so slightly—why used car buyers are willing to pay more for it when the original owner is ready to replace it—why Pontiac owners benefit by this condition and enjoy true six-cylinder luxury at a cost that defies comparison! Come in—get a ride—and let us give you the facts!

New lower prices on all body types (Effective July 15th): Coupe, $745; Sport Roadster, $745; Sport Cabriolet, $795; Landau Sedan, $845; De Luxe Landau Sedan, $925. The New Oakland All-American Six, $1045 to $1265. All prices at factory. Delivered prices include minimum handling charges. Easy to pay on the General Motors Time Payment Plan.

Is your car one of the "hot-house" variety?

Do you fail to get Winter service from your car (as some motorists do) for fear of "radiator pneumonia?"

Cars today aren't hot-house plants—they don't have to be coddled. They're built for all-year-round service.

If you've had the idea that Winter driving cannot be comfortable and safe, you've never used Ivo Radiator Glycerine, the safe, permanent anti-freeze.

The inconvenience and expense of frozen radiators are unknown to motorists who buy Ivo and use it according to instructions. Fill your car's cooling system with Ivo in the Fall and, barring leaks, you'll find just as much there next Spring as you originally poured into it.

Ivo does not evaporate. Its protection against freezing is permanent. Even the water which you must occasionally add to your cooling system in Winter does not evaporate rapidly. It should not be necessary to add more than a pint or so all Winter long if your cooling system is tight.

Because of Ivo's permanence, it is actually more economical in the long run than volatile anti-freeze mixtures which have to be renewed frequently. Ivo is odorless. It will not burn or explode. It will not harm rubber hose connections or any part of your cooling system. If you spill it on that new lacquer finish, no damage will be done.

The Ivo dealers listed below are equipped with charts which show how much Ivo you need to protect your car against freezing at various low temperatures. Call upon the nearest Ivo dealer at once and buy your permanent protection before cold weather actually arrives.

MANY STATES ADOPT HOOVER VEHICLE CODE

Uniform Motor Laws, Drafted in 1926, Now Govern One-Fourth of U. S. Motorists.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Although the Uniform Vehicle Code, drafted by Hoover's National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, is just a year old, enough states have modified their highway laws so that now more than 27,000,000 persons or approximately one-fourth of the population of the United States, operate cars under regulations embodied in this law. Considering the slow pace legislation moves, and that the necessary legislation had to be affected in many separate State legislatures, these results are remarkable.

Although it was known that uniformity in motor vehicle laws was needed and desired by all motorists of the United States, even the most hopeful backers of the movement would not have believed a year ago that one-fifth of the population would be operating cars under the suggested code in such a short

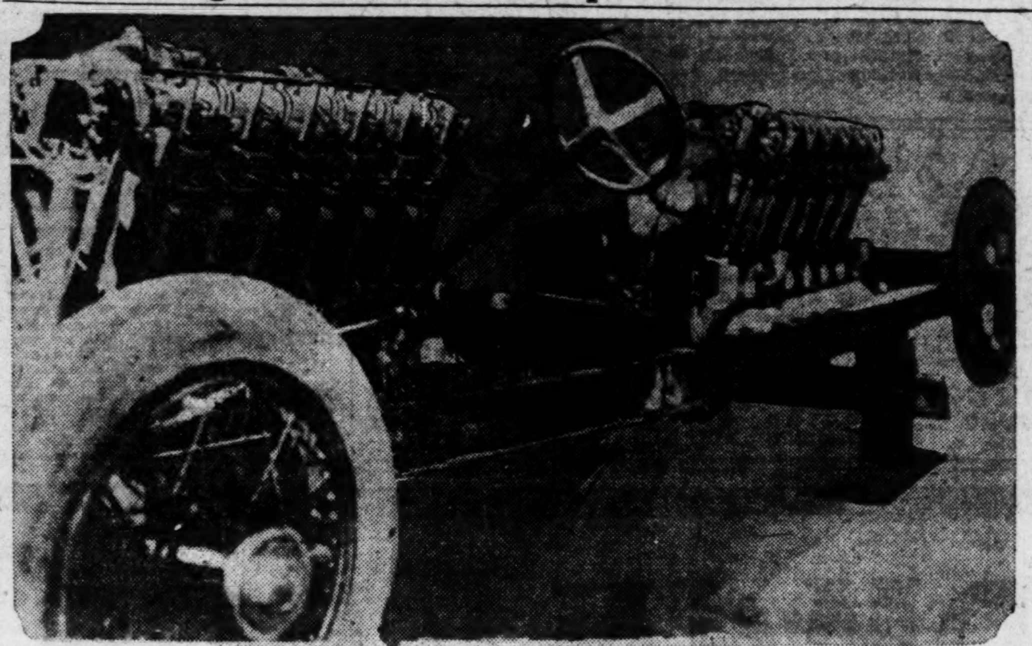
Uniform Motor Laws, Drafted in 1926, Now Govern One-Fourth of U. S. Motorists.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Although the Uniform Vehicle Code, drafted by Hoover's National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, is just a year old, enough states have modified their highway laws so that now more than 27,000,000 persons or approximately one-fourth of the population of the United States, operate cars under regulations embodied in this law. Considering the slow pace legislation moves, and that the necessary legislation had to be affected in many separate State legislatures, these results are remarkable.

Although it was known that uniformity in motor vehicle laws was needed and desired by all motorists of the United States, even the most hopeful backers of the movement would not have believed a year ago that one-fifth of the population would be operating cars under the suggested code in such a short time. The speedy adoption of this legislation not only is proof of the trend of public opinion toward uniformity, but also is an almost certain sign of the eventual adoption throughout the country of uniform laws governing all phases of automobile traffic.

Racing Car Built to Develop 1500 Horse Power



The 36-cylinder, 12-carburetor racing car, with three engines, which J. M. White, a Philadelphia manufacturer, is building with the avowed aim of setting a new speed record for the mile on the Florida sands. Its three engines are reported to develop 1500 horse power. The car weighs 8000 pounds, has no rear springs, and has 12-inch steel chassis frame.

The Uniform Vehicle Code, approved by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety following more than two years' work, as finally approved, consists of four acts, a uniform motor vehicle registration law, a uniform motor vehicle antitheft law, a uniform motor vehicle operators' and chauffeurs' license law, and a uniform act regulating the operation of vehicles on highways.

The conferences were called by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover who acted as chairman of these gatherings. The first was held in December, 1924, and the second in March, 1926, when the code was approved. The conferences were composed of men vitally interested in traffic problems.

So favorable has been the reaction to uniformity that during 1927 11 states have passed new highway codes, altered old ones or added to those already existing, thereby harmonizing their motor vehicle laws with the Uniform Vehicle Code of the National Conference.

Pennsylvania, perhaps, is the outstanding example as regards the aims of the conference. This State, always in the van in motor vehicle legislation, cast aside much of its existing law, and put into effect the recommendations of the conference. The new code, as passed by the Legislature, embodies virtually the entire Hoover code, with certain modifications found necessary because of local State conditions.

Three of the four acts were adopted by North Carolina, North Dakota and Idaho. Laws of these states now include the registration of motor vehicles act, the antitheft law, and the act governing operation of vehicles on highways.

This last-mentioned act is considered the most important by the average motorist. With this act universally in force, the car owner from one state will be able to venture without the least uneasiness into another state and, if he knows the law of his home State, he will not unknowingly violate the law of the state through which he is traveling.

New Hampshire and a number of other states have passed supplementary legislation in line with the uniform code, and while in most of these states the advance has not been as significant as in others, yet the new legislation shows that uniformity not only is desirable, but is steadily approaching nearer.

It is obvious that such a gigantic step cannot be achieved overnight. Few states want to tear down what has taken them years to build, and many feel their motor vehicle laws are as good as any that may be devised.

There is little likelihood of many more Legislatures adopting the Hoover code during 1928, since only nine State Legislatures meet during the 12 months. However, in 1929, when virtually every Legislature will convene, it is probable that the Uniform Vehicle Code, or parts of it, will be adopted by many states.

Until then much effort will be put forth by those behind the movement to educate the public to the need for uniformity.

Along with the educational work which is to be conducted, a study will be carried on to determine how the code is best adaptable to the individual states, how to meet local conditions and problems and how to bring about the adoption of uniformity with the least possible delay.

ESSEX RUNS 60 M. P. H. USING KEROSENE AS FUEL

"How effectively Hudson-Essex cars vaporize fuel and extract from it every unit of energy is indicated in reports from the Pacific Coast, where sensational tests have just been completed with an Essex supersix," the factory reports.

"These tests, conducted by the Walter M. Murphy Motors Co., Southern California distributers, proved that an Essex supersix car can travel at over 60 miles per hour using kerosene as fuel. In fact, the Essex ran at faster than a mile-a-minute clip on a still lower grade fuel, or distillate. With the kerosene the car ran about two miles an hour faster than with distillate.

These tests prove that the Essex motors are perfectly designed from the standpoint of vaporizing fuel. Unless the carburetion and the manifolding systems were of exceptional efficiency, the motors would miss and function imperfectly. When standard gasoline is used, of course, the performance of the cars is still more outstanding," the factory says.

Similar tests have been conducted at many points in the country, so that the abilities of both the Hudson and the Essex have been amply proved. With the autumn and winter coming on, this ability to use fuels effectively is a most important item of design.

AUTO ACCIDENTS DUE TO A VARIETY OF CAUSES

"Inattention causes more automobile accidents than anything else," says Roy H. Faulkner, vice president of the Auburn Automobile Co. Lack of consideration of other drivers' rights follows closely as a cause of accidents.

'In Connecticut, an analysis of the cause of automobile accidents, shows them, in their relative importance to have resulted from the following:

Inattention; failure to give right-of-way; skidding; driving on the wrong side of the road; careless backing of automobiles; inexperience; failure to signal; following another machine too closely; driving too fast for conditions; intoxication; cutting in; runaway car; confusion; cutting corners; passing on wrong side of the vehicle passing on a curve; passing a standing trolley car; passing on a hill; improper parking and trying to beat a train.

"This," says Faulkner, "proves that caution and consideration are the cardinal virtues of an automobile driver and their exercise should mean a reduction of automobile accidents."

NASH CHIEF OPTIMISTIC OF BUSINESS CONDITIONS

Indications of a "year of plenty" for 1928 are seen by W. H. Alford, vice president and comptroller of the Nash Motors Co.

"The year 1927," he says, "is rapidly drawing to a close and manufacturers and business men generally are giving thought to the business outlook for 1928. There is every indication that general business should be as good or better in 1928 than in 1927. I base this conclusion on the general improved condition of our great agricultural population."

Army Auto Repair Shop.

In order to afford better facilities for the prompt and efficient repair of motor transportation, each of the nine corps area commanders of the United States Army has been authorized by the War Department to organize a corps area motor repair shop.

URGES ESCALATORS AS NEXT TRAFFIC STEP

National Auto Chamber Says Subways Would Also Decrease Fatalities.

Better opportunity to cross the streets is a paramount need of traffic today, according to the monthly report of the Street Traffic Committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce issued this week. Bridges and subways for pedestrians are recommended and the successful experience of Highland Park, Detroit, with passenger subways is pointed to as indicating the accomplishments being worked out in this direction.

Alvan Macauley, chairman of the Committee, suggests that escalator sidewalks such as are now used within buildings and for certain elevated lines' platforms, are a logical development.

Nine of the ten large cities of the country had a lower motor fatality total for September this year as compared with September, 1926. These cities are New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Baltimore, Boston, St. Louis, San Francisco, Pittsburg. Chicago is the exception. Only three of these cities, however, show improvement for the nine months. These are Cleveland, Boston and St. Louis. "Protection of the pedestrian is one of the biggest jobs of modern cities," says Macauley.

Highland Park, Detroit, has had notable success in building pedestrian subways which have saved lives and lowered expenditure. C. W. Seymour, Chief of Police, reports on this subject as follows:

"About two years ago we had officers detailed at certain street crossings to escort children across the street while going to school. It kept the Police Department badly disrupted in order to take care of these school crossings, so we installed a pedestrian subway at the corner of Second and Midland Avenues, in this city. It cost at that time about $7000, but it cost to keep a Police Officer on this corner about $2500 per year.

"Pedestrians of all kinds use this subway both day and night. It is lighted at night and is left open at all times.

Recognizing that inertia may tend to make subways or staircases undesirable to adults, Macauley suggests moving elevated sidewalks.

"The use of the escalator," he says, "has been satisfactorily demonstrated in department stores for years. Many people prefer these even to elevators, and they are very useful as an optional method when stairways are not acceptable.

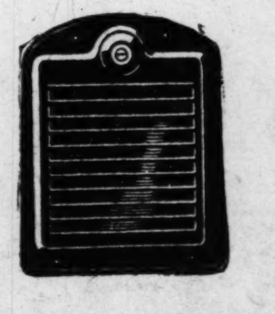
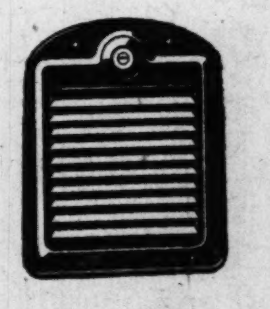
AUTOMATIC MOTOR Protection in the fight against COLD



Closes Itself when your motor needs heat.



Opens Itself when your motor needs cool air.

AT 60° Fahrenheit — cold, the destroyer, strikes at the very heart of your motor. And until temperatures go well above 60° in the spring, your motor is in constant danger.

You may not know when damage occurs until spring finds you paying a big repair bill. One hour of neglect may bring such damage.

Thus—it is a serious mistake to trust motor protection to memory. It must be automatic—timed with scientific exactness to the operation of your motor—leaving no chance to guess or forget.

Be safe this year—take the advice of leading car authorities and equip your car at the first sign of cold with Pines Automatic Winterfront—the only automatic radiator shutter on the market.

Winterfront ends danger of cold—automatically

With a Winterfront on your car, you "warm-up" in seconds. You lose the dangerous cold-weather "choke" habit. Your motor starts quicker and easier with less battery strain. You enjoy a noticeable increase in gasoline economy—snug warmth inside your car—summer-time smoothness and flexibility in your motor.

Put on in ten minutes

Drive in today. It takes but ten minutes to give your motor this vital protection. Models for all cars — priced $22.50 to $30.00. Special models for Ford, $15.00; Chevrolet, $17.50; Dodge Four, $20.00.

The motor car dealer who recommends and sells you a Pines Automatic Winterfront is considering your interests first. Take his advice. Your dealer will supply you.

Her Secret Beautifier Envy of Her Friends

Miss C. Delano, Washington, writes: —"About two years ago I was bothered a great deal with a muddy, sallow and pimply skin. I found I could cover the blemishes with cosmetics, but this was only a temporary relief. "My druggist recommended your purely vegetable laxative, and suggested my trouble might be constipation. After taking a short while I noticed a wonderful difference. My complexion has improved, also headaches, indigestion and biliousness never bothered me any more."

Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup

Better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily prepared.

If you combined the valuable properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real healing power as there is in this home-made syrup, easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, or clarified honey, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the throat tickle and heals the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and it is splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

IZAAK WALTON LEAGUE SEEKS MORE MEMBERS

National Field Representative to Remain in St. Louis for Two Weeks.

Expansion of the Izaak Walton League in Missouri to increase its usefulness in saving the outdoors from desecration has been undertaken by J. A. Cushman of Chicago, national field representative of the league.

The movement in this State is part of a nation-wide campaign for more members. There are more than 200,000 in the country, and it is hoped to have 300,000 by 1928. Missouri has chapters in most cities and towns, but its membership of 5000, of which about 700 are in St. Louis, does not compare with some other large states. Wisconsin, for instance, has about 12,000, and Minnesota 10,000.

Cushman, after reorganizing and increasing the membership of some Missouri chapters, has come to St. Louis to spend two weeks or a month helping St. Louis chapter members to get new members.

Aids Recreation Movement.

Membership dues are $3 a year, of which 75 cents is retained by the local chapter, 25 cents goes to the State division, and $2 goes to the national league. From the national league each member receives without further charge a year's subscription to Outdoor America.

In Missouri the Izaak Walton League has lent its support to the establishment of State parks, where the public may enjoy natural recreation; has furthered the stocking of streams with fish, and the replenishing of quail, and has conducted an educational campaign for more forests, more clean streams, more fish and game and more outdoor life.

Saved Wyoming Elk.

Nationally the league has saved the Superior national forests from automobile roads, supported the upper Mississippi River refuge bill, saved elk at Jackson's Hole, Wyo., by buying grazing acreage, and has taken other measures to keep the outdoors for the public as against private interests.

During the St. Louis membership campaign, Cushman will have offices with Leslie Mahl, a St. Louis director, at 511 Locust street, GArfield 4343.

John A. Love is president of the St. Louis chapter, and H. J. Steinmesch is secretary. George S. Johns is president of the Missouri division, and Harry Collins is secretary.

'PAINTINGS' OF COLORED PAPER

Entire Exhibit of Pictures Made That Way in Paris.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Colored paper "cut-outs" have graduated into the art gallery class. An entire exhibition of pictures made with all shapes and kinds of colored paper pasted on canvas instead of spots of paint, has attracted much attention here.

Madame Choumansky, deprived of paints during the revolution in Russia, turned to paper and critics approve the softness and the beauty of the technique she has developed. Such a method, much more geometrical in outline, has been used by cubists, but the "painting" of marines and landscapes with irregular bits of colored paper is greeted as something quite new.

Care of Babies

This baby has never had a day's sickness and never a cross or fretful spell that lasted an hour. And what do you suppose is responsible for this healthy, happy condition? Not diet, for he has eaten just about anything and everything a child could eat. Not drugs, for he has not been dosed with opiates; he has never had a drop of paregoric. Nor has his sensible mother ever made him taste castor oil. Yet his nerves are sound and his little bowels are strong, and when he does seem the least restless or wakeful, or out of sorts—or likely to be—his mother has him all serene again in ten or fifteen minutes!

The secret of this complete freedom from the many ills and upsets so common to infants? Plain old fashioned Castoria. A million and more mothers swear by Castoria, and no wonder! A few drops and an approaching fever, colic, diarrhea or constipation seems to vanish in thin air. Castoria is purely vegetable; that is why physicians tell parents they may use it freely with children of any age—the youngest infant. And how they love the taste!

One word of warning; get the pure, real Castoria. Fletcher's Castoria is the original. It is the kind doctors specify. And with every bottle comes a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" that is worth its weight in gold to any mother or prospective mother. So, remember; tell your druggist you wish Fletcher's Castoria.

WINGS OF HUMMING BIRDS TOO FAST FOR MOVIE CAMERA

British Air Ministry Unable to Obtain Pictures for Use in Experiments.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Humming birds' wings have baffled Britain's fastest cinema camera. For weeks the Air Ministry has been endeavoring to photograph humming birds in action as an aid in perfecting the helicopter, but the attempts were unsuccessful.

Humming birds hover in front of flowers, sipping the nectar while stationary in the air, and this is the secret the Government officials have been trying to record on the film.

One film was taken at the rate of 300 exposures every second, but the birds' wings were entirely too fast. Only blurs showed where the scientists had hoped to see wing movements.

A faster camera apparatus, to take 1000 pictures a second—equaling an exposure of 1-2000th of a second—is to be brought into use, if possible.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

MUSIC-DRAMA-MOVIES

PART EIGHT ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 13, 1927. PAGES 1—4A

Cradle Song's Lesson

Possibilities of the Drama at Two Dollars. Willim Hodge Comes Again in a New Play. Marx Brothers Return in "The Cocoanuts."

THE Civic Repertory Theater Company of New York, under the direction of Miss Eva Le Gallienne, presented "The Cradle Song" to St. Louis audiences at the American Theater last week at a scale of prices ranging up to $2 for the best seats at night with a dollar matinee on Wednesday and $1.50 on Saturday. At the Wednesday matinee more than a thousand persons were turned away after the theater had been sold out and yesterday afternoon the same condition prevailed. The total amount of business for the week was some $14,000 and the company and the theater both made money.

Now the business side of the theater may be none of the business of the captious critic of the drama, but the present writer cannot refrain from pointing out that a very decided lesson is to be found in the financial success of last week's venture. For several seasons in these columns it has been said repeatedly that there is a fine field for good plays at something like old-time admission charges. There is. And, as told many times here, there is no reason why ALL of the better class dramas and stars could not profitably —profitably, that is, to themselves and their audiences—play at a $2 scale. Big musical shows with tremendous casts no doubt would wind up on the wrong side of the ledger at the $2 rate, but that hardly permits the charging of $4.40 for a seat for any show.

THE business done by "The Cradle Song" in St. Louis was the largest the company has known since it set out from New York. The dollar matinee last Wednesday was the first, at that price, the local theatergoers have seen in more than 10 years.

Whether or not Miss Le Gallienne's lead will be followed by the more commercial managers remains to be seen. As a guess one would be inclined to say, knowing the commercial managers, that it will not. It may inspire some of them to send out from New York cheap casts in doubtful plays at that figure and, when the audiences refuse to accept them, announce that the public does not want cheap amusement and that small prices will do only for the picture houses.

THERE were a great many people, to be sure, who saw "The Cradle Song" who did not care for it as an entertainment. It was not actually a drama, being, rather, two but slightly connected episodes in the life of a girl, but its great beauty made it a wonderful and touching picture and it brought to the theater—on its merits and not because it was offered at $2—persons who had been driven from the show houses. It was a tender, rueful little play wrought from the Spanish of the Sierras—a play as simple and as haunting and as sweet as chimes heard in a green valley. A tale spun inside the old walls of a little convent, filled with fond raillery and at the expense of the fluttering sisters and speeding, as with a kiss of benediction on the brow, the exit into the beckoning outside world of the young, tremulous girl who, 18 years before, had been left a nameless disowned morsel on the convent steps. Across the cool, gentle dusk of this play that world's reminding sunlight throws a latticed pattern of nostalgia and into its gracious hush, the symphony of the world's sounds sifts so muted that it is but half distinguishable from the hum of a myriad of bees among the drooping roses on the other side of the wall.

THIS week's offerings at the playhouses are, as the producers would express it, something else again. William Hodge, who writes his own dramas and plays in them, too, comes to the Shubert-Rialto tonight in his newest opus which is now known as "Straight Thru the Door." Up to a week or so ago it was called "The Man at Home," a title which was too reminiscent perhaps, of Mr. Hodge's greatest success, "The Man From Home." It is termed a mystery comedy and Mr. Hodge's part is that of an actor who is trying to complete a home for himself and family during his vacation. The turmoil of carpenters, painters and other workmen in action, the disorder of a house littered with tools and materials, the wranglings with builder and architect, the threats of a bolshevik stone mason, and the disturbance to domestic harmony resulting from the blandishments of an amorous lady interior decorator are a few factors that make his summer holiday anything but a blissful one. A mysterious murder and a pair of bungling minions of the law bring further discomfiture.

Down at the American Theater the four Marx Brothers will disport again, for a single week, in their highly successful musical show, "The Cocoanuts."

The National Players will present "Love in a Mist" at the Empress Theater this week. It is a comedy by Amelie Rives, the novelist, and Gilbert Emery, the author of "Tarnish." The play was produced in New York last year, but it has never before been presented in St. Louis.

IT is probable by the way that few St. Louisans have recognized John Lorenz, leading man with the National Players at the Empress as Nouitane, the pearl diver in "Aloma of the South Seas," which was presented by a road company at the Shubert-Rialto last year. Nevertheless, at that time, Nouitane and John Lorenz were one! It was he who wore a little red rose behind one ear, a broad tooth-paste ad smile such as peculiarly becomes a native of the South Sea Island, and very little else. When the show first went on the road, Mr. Lorenz took the place of George Gaul who created the part of Nouitane.

"I met Mr. Gaul some time afterwards," said Lorenz, "and he inquired very anxiously concerning the state of my health. When I told him that I had been quite well for some time, he co[illegible] to me that he had caught a fearful cold while he was playing the part. Of course, in the winter season on a draughty stage, everybody in the play complained about being chilly, but I never did more than throw a very light wrap about my shoulders and was always very comfortable. I found out that Gaul had been in the habit of wearing a heavy robe while he stood in the wings waiting for his next cue. It was so warm that when he took it off and rushed onto a chilly stage, he naturally took cold."

Lorenz said that he had always liked the part of the pearl diver and enjoyed the tour a great deal. The Hawaiian musicians who traveled with the company played and sang on the train and in the dressing rooms all the time.

Allan Rogers, Tenor, Comes to Orpheum

Allan Rogers, tenor of the Municipal Opera Company last summer, and Jay Brennan and Stanley Rogers, comedy stars of "Artist and Models" and "A Night in Spain," will be the featured attractions on the bill which opens at the Orpheum Theater today. "Passion," the Ernest Lubitsch screen production, with Emil Jannings and Pola Negri will be the photoplay.

Allan Rogers will entertain with a repertoire described as "Songs Persons Love to Hear." A concert artist under his real name of Albert Lindquist, Rogers formerly was soloist with the Minneapolis and other symphony orchestras, and for two seasons was starred in the New York cast of "Rose Marie." His work at the Municipal Opera here last summer made him one of the most popular vocalists in this part of the country.

Another bright light on the bill will be Doc Baker, the protean artist, in a miniature revue, "The Wishing Well," assisted by "Peaches" and "Poppy," singers and steppers.

GARRICK—Burlesque.

CLOSE-UPS OF THE STARS Behind the Screens OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12.

YOU have to hand it to the boys who choose the titles for our movies. Particularly, those who have christened some of John Gilbert's pulsating poems of passion. When Hermann Sudermann wrote "The Undying Past," Hermann was absolutely devoid of any suspicion that some day it might be interpreted by the flaming Gilbert and the gorgeous Greta Garbo under the title, "Flesh and the Devil."

Now comes the M-G-M boxoffice experts and rechristen a coming Gilbert opus "Man, Woman and Sin." Originally, this was to have been "I Am the Man!" But the change is just what the doctor ordered, from the boxoffice viewpoint.

Jeanne Eagles, the stage Sadie Thompson of "Rain," which Gloria Swanson will produce under the title of "Sadie Thompson," will pulsate with Mr. Gilbert in "Man, Woman and Sin." Judging from Miss Eagles' past success in "Rain" and her extremely happy choice as the Great Lover's leading woman, maybe the title-change isn't a bad one, at that.

The Irish-Jewish comedy problem will receive further critical consideration. Sally O'Neill, who was the daughter of an Irish "Mither" and a Jewish "Poppah" in "Frisco Sally Levy," will again be the daughter of an Abie's-Irish-Rose alliance in "Becky." The producers, with their usual daring, have probably varied Sally's parentage to an Irish father and a Jewish mother.

Sally's going to be a department store girl in this one—but a department store girl bitten with the grand opera bug, the desire to warble "Caro Nome" and "Un Bel di Vedromo!" Owen Moore will do one of his high-minded crook characterizations as Dan Scarlett, a gentleman crook who has a way with women and with safes. Harry Crocker, who was Penny Fish in Marion Davies' "Tillie, the Toiler," has the part of John Carroll Estabrook, social lion and last male in the family Estabrook. Gertrude Olmsted has the role of his sister. Mack Swain has a comedy part.

Replacing Vera Veronica, who was taken suddenly ill and is confined to her home under physicians' orders, Dorothy Sebastian is now playing the chief feminine role

UP THE LADDER — By William Hodge

SINCE "The Man From Home" days, I have written and starred in "The Road to Happiness," "Fixing Sister," "A Cure for Curables," "The Guest of Honor," "Beware of Dogs," "For All of Us," "The Judge's Husband" and now "Straight Thru the Door." How I happened to go in for play writing began when I was playing at the old Park Theater in Boston. The play was "Sag Harbor," and I was playing opposite James A. Herne. Now Herne had all sorts of peculiarities. We used to call him "the icy-eyed humorist." He said the most awful things to you with a face like a block of wood.

Well, Herne was the only man who ever made me laugh on the stage. He was always "adlibbing" —that is, putting in stuff that wasn't in the play—and it was so funny and so unexpected that I'd break out laughing. One day he called me after the show and lectured me for laughing. I told him I'd not do it again because I'd know what he was going to say, but when the next night came he pulled something entirely different and I laughed. So I got another call down.

That kept up for a number of nights until I finally got real mad. The next time he "adlibbed" I came right back at him with some of my own. He came back again and I answered him. We had it back and forth there on the stage and neither of us realized how long we took.

WELL, that lasted a long time. Every night Herne would spring some new ones and I'd come back with some of my own. He never said a word about the thing off stage until one night he stopped me and said:

"Freeman"—that was my name in the play—"why don't you write a play?"

"I wish I could," I said. "You can," said Herne. "I've been trying you out. Now you try it."

So I did—first a story and then plays.

I had gained my first opportunity to learn the actor's art and enjoy a dramatic career by beginning behind the scenes as a property boy. And this was with a small repertory company wandering among small towns of Pennsylvania. Then I was given minor parts to play.

I "trouped" for several seasons in Pennsylvania and my native state of New York, playing every kind of part known in the catalogues of these repertory organizations, a hero one night and a villain the next. In this all around capacity I even developed a talent for stage dancing and acquired a reputation as a waltz-clogger when it was all the rage. This was many years ago—at least the "Charleston" was never dreamed of.

I REMEMBER that on one occasion the audience was so insistent on having me perform my dance that I had to go on between the acts of "East Lynn" and do the clog in spite of the fact that I was playing the part of the rascally Sir Harry Levison, and was in a make-up that suggested all the villains of the part.

In time I succeeded in forming a repertory company of my own. I was not only leading man and stage manager, but owner and producer as well. An elder brother, who had had experience in circus life, was finally made a manager of the company, but I controlled all its variegated destinies.

I have forgotten even the names of most of the dramas I wrote in those days. What I most remember about that early period of my career is that I developed all by myself, and unconsciously in a way, a natural method of acting. Perhaps I should not call it method, for it was simply my own feelings carried out in my playing.

"My brother used to come to me and remonstrate with me for not being more theatrical. 'Why,' he would say, 'you are just the same on the stage as off. That's not acting.' This always remained a mooted question between us and I really suspect that my brother in those days looked upon me as a misguided and stubborn young chap who would never see the footlights of Broadway. As I look back now, I often wonder how I did manage to resist the false influences about me, and in my unsophisticated youth remain true to my innate notion of an art in which I was really immature and untaught.

ONLY once was I really stranded, and that was in a little New York State town quite a number of years ago. The stage had refused to be elevated, and I and kindred bold spirits had taken a sporting chance and hired the town hall for $20 for a performance of "East Lynne." We didn't come up to our guarantee, for there was exactly $19.60 in the house when all had been counted.

We were feeling pretty blue, I can tell you, and when the kindly-faced old gentleman who was either the manager of the house, the janitor or sexton, approached, we decided to ask him to help us with money enough to get to the next town. We had gotten as far as to tell him that we were without funds when he stopped us and left abruptly, saying that he would see what could be done. He was gone three-quarters of an hour. Then he returned and said:

"Boys, it's all right. I couldn't settle this thing myself, because I ain't got all the say. But the trustees were willing to help you when I explained the thing to them. You don't have to worry about that other 40 cents."

Gone Are the Days

Why the Movies Cost More Than a Nickel. Betty Compson—Do You Remember Her When? Mitchell Lewis Coming Back.

By NIE

THE good old days when a movie theater was a theater in which movies were shown seems to have become one of those dim, sweet memories, like the nickel steins of beer.

In the gilded palaces of cinemas, they seem to be going in for everything but the pictures. Loew's State announces John Philip Sousa, plus a 65-piece band, as its principal attraction for the week of Nov. 19.

Sousa and his band form no cheap attraction. When Loew's State finishes paying the March King $9500 and transportation for 65 persons, it will know it has been to the wars. For that is only the start of the pleasant business of paying and paying and paying. For when the cost of the films—for they are still showing films in the movie houses—are added with the theater's overhead and the current bills and advertising appropriation are tacked onto the Sousa cost, it becomes evident that Loew's will have to play to SOME business to come out in the blue-ink side of the ledger.

BACK in dear, dim, distant 1918, when America had just finished the job of winning the war, local wise-crackers were wont to observe Louis K. Sidney. Louis K., then the impresario of the Fox-Liberty Theater (now the Liberty), was almost certain to be observed. Louis K. stood 6 feet four and one-half inches in his woolen socks; and, weighed about 243 pounds—to quote one of the local witticisms of the time, "About two pounds less than a mule."

That was considered funny. But the prize bon mot among the somewhat envious learned gents in theatrical circles of that time, upon observing the Sidney dimensions looming up Film Row, was the sage observation: "Here comes Louie Sidney. Well, some day that guy's going to be a BIG MAN."

Today, at the fairly youngish age of 34, Louis K. Sidney has made prophets of the kidders of nine years ago. Today, Louis K. Sidney, the former St. Louis showman, is not only A Big Man—he's one of the biggest in the amusement business. But he bulks big in more than mere physical bulk.

For this former St. Louis showman has turned theatrical business upside down and inside out in the showshops of wise Gothman. Sidney and his associates—the fair-haired boys of Yap Center, as far as blase Broadway had been concerned—carried the Capitol Theater in New York from the box-office depths to the box-office heights.

ONE echo of St. Louis of last season is the Sunday Concerts, which Sidney introduced in New York, just as he was its sponsor here, when Don Albert conducted a 22-weeks' series of concerts. In New York, as Sunday concert soloists, Sidney has had such leading luminaries of the world of music as Anna Case of the Metropolitan Opera Co.; Albert Spalding, violinist; and John Charles Thomas, baritone.

Sidney had the flair for large orchestras even in the old days in St. Louis. He introduced the large orchestra here 10 years ago, when Fred Gecks conducted 25 musicians in classical works at the Fox-Liberty; and a young man, later to win fame as Gene Rodemich, handled the jazz orchestra from his piano-bench.

Sidney was the first to introduce atmospheric stage stuff to this town. As the war ended, he "wowed 'em" at the Fox-Liberty by offering a male quartet, in the uniform of various service branches, singing the songs popular in the '17-'18 era, while miniature battle ships of canvas sailed the ocean's waves, projected via film, on the Fox-Liberty stage.

Sidney left the Fox-Liberty to become general manager for the theater-chain owned by Harry Koplar, embracing the Kings, the Pershing, the Shenandoah, the Juniata (now the Ritz) and others. With him, as manager of the Pershing, he took his Fox-Liberty assistant, a young Hawaiian named Harry Greenman—now manager of Loew's State, one of the theaters under Sidney's general supervision.

Another crime for which Sidney will some time have to answer is the ever-recurring "style show," sometimes termed "fashion revue," featured ever and anon in the local amusement parlors. Sidney sponsored the first one ever seen in St. Louis at the Kings, producing it in conjunction with a Washington Avenue dress manufacturer. That show "clicked" for $8000—so successful for the Kings, that all the other theaters have continued the custom of having beautiful morons display what little the well-dressed gal will wear, if anything.

O. HENRY could have fashioned a story of this. It's just a simple announcement that Betty Compson has been signed for a role with Lon Chaney in "The Big City," the underworld story which the screen's foremost character actor will make.

Not so many years ago, Betty Compson was one of the most beautiful of all the beautiful girls appearing in "Bathing Beauty operas." She worked for Al Christie. Being a bathing beauty meant something. For between them, the Professors Christie and Mack Sennett had graduated such first ladies of the cinema as Gloria Swanson, Phylis Haver, Marie Prevost and others of that rank and station.

While Betty was filling out a bathing suit in fashionable curves Lon Chaney was working as a "Western heavy." That meant that the Herr Doktor Chaney was devoting his not inconsiderable talents to pursuing (the dirty villain!) some sweet, stainless girl of the Western prairies, whose thoughts were as pure as the manly, simple-minded moronic hero.

Wid Gunning, a producer, obtained the screen rights to "The Miracle Man," a story Frank Packard had written for Munsey's Magazine. Gunning signed George Loane Tucker to direct the picture. And Tucker, in casting, picked three "nobodies" for his principals. The three 'nobodies" were Thomas Meighan, Betty Compson and Lon Chaney. They were to be the unholy three of an underworld gang.

Paramount released the picture to a waiting world. Across the pages of screen history, Chaney, Meighan and Miss Compson scrawled their marks. Meighan

Sylvain Noack Soloist On Symphony Programs For Friday and Saturday

SYLVAIN NOACK, concertmaster of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, will appear as soloist, playing the Brahms D major concerto for violin, at the third pair of regular concerts at the Odeon Friday afternoon and Saturday evening of this week. The same program will present a 200-year-old novelty—the Bach Brandenberg Concerto No. 1 in F major—and Beethoven's Symphony in A major No. 7.

The first of the Brandenberg concertos was probably Bach's first essay into the realm of absolute symphonic music. Its score calls for three instruments now obsolete: a violin piccolo, which was a small violin tuned one-fourth higher than the violin of today, and for which Mr. Noack's violin will substitute in solo passages; a high horn in B, for which a substitute is found in the flugelhorn—common enough in European bands but seldom used in America—which Joseph Gustat will play; and the clavicymbalum, to reproduce the tones of which a modern piano has been specially prepared by the manufacturers for Mr. Oberhoffer's use and the guest-conductor will preside at that instrument while directing the performance of the work. Ermete Simonazzi will play a solo oboe in the concerto.

The program presents an unusual bracketting of the "three B.'s" of Hans von Bulow's historic epigram. The Beethoven Symphony represents what is most satisfying in all that composer's symphonic work, and particularly in the allegretto presents musical beauty unsurpassed if not unsurpassable. The Brahms concerto—written for Joachim, who for many years had a virtual monopoly of it because of the technical difficulties which he alone of the virtuosi of his time could solve—is Brahms in his happiest lyric moods.

Upon Mr. Noack's first appearance with the orchestra last year St. Louis critics were unanimous in praise of his scholarly playing, his sound musicianship, and that high purpose which made him a devotee of art rather than a showman of the violin. Far greater opportunity is presented the soloist in the Brahms D major than in the Bruch D minor concerto which he played then.

Originally a pianist—at 15 he had played the Mozart D minor in public—he was forced when he entered the Amsterdam Conservatory to take up a second instrument and so chose the violin. He became a first violin in the famous Concertgeboeuw Orchestra, and graduating with the Prix d'Honneur from the conservatory joined its faculty, becoming assistant to Carl Flesch, head of the violin department, and second violin in Flesch's famous quartet. In 1908 he came to Boston as assistant concertmaster under Dr. Karl Muck and later under Henri Rabeau, and there formed the Boston Quartet. Afterwards he was concertmaster of the Los Angeles Orchestra, whence he came to St. Louis. His summers are spent as concertmaster of the Hollywood Bowl concerts.

"Beggar's Opera" By Civic League At Odeon Monday

THE "BEGGAR'S OPERA," the old musical comedy by Gay, will have its first St. Louis presentation at the Odeon tomorrow evening under the auspices of the Civic Music League, which has been responsible for so many "first times" in St. Louis. The "Beggar's Opera" has been kept to the fore through two centuries, the musical values, the story, the highly entertaining characters drawn from the lower strata of society furnishing endless interest and amusement. The London company will be heard here and the present American tour embraces some 100 cities who for the first time will see one of the most successful pieces ever produced on the English stage. The production enjoyed a run of 63 nights in 1728 in London, an unpredecented run at that time and it was said made "Gay rich" and "Rich gay" for John Gay is the author and John Rich the original producer.

The "Beggar's Opera" brought fame overnight to Lavinia Fenton until then an unknown actress, who played the role of "Polly Peachum" and later caught the eye of a scion of nobility and became the Duchess of Bolton. At the first performance the fate of the piece trembled in the balance for a moment, but its story and its songs proved irresistible and the town went wild over it. It had one great point in its favor. The London stage was surfeited with Italian opera which was neither understood or popular with the average theatergoer so the "Beggar's Opera" was immediately hailed with its catchy and simple songs which are nothing more or less than old Irish, Scotch and English ballads that have been whistled and sung on the streets and in the fields for centuries.

A famous character in the opera is Peachum and another his wife, who were "informers" and plied a profitable trade. Macheath stands out prominently as the highwayman hero, a fairly common type of the period, as many gentlemen in the service of His Majesty had to relinquish their commissions owing to gambling, dicing and high play generally. Macheath is a man of many amours and it is with his love affairs with Polly Peachum and with Lucy Lockitt that the play is chiefly concerned.

As tomorrow evening's showing at the Odeon is for members of the Civic Music League only, a return engagement of the "Beggar's Opera" has been arranged for Friday and Saturday—two evenings and one matinee for Feb. 10 and 11 for the general public at the Odeon.

The Seriousness OF Being Humorous

By "Groucho" Marx

EVERY comedian at some time or other desires to play Hamlet. Every humorous columnist has, in the bottom of his trunk, a tragic play that some day he hopes to see produced. Just as very few comedians play Hamlet, so very few of these plays are produced. Perhaps it is for the best. However, the point that I am trying to bring out is that all humorists are serious people at heart. The fact that they have to be continually funny makes them so They also realize that humor is regarded in a light vein; that for a thing to be really worth while it must have depth and a certain amount of vitality. Basically their humor contains these qualities and knowing it they endeavor to bring it out in serious material. Generally they fail, for they only know the field of comedy. The path of the drama, the tragic, is new to them and they stumble and fall over strange objects. The same is true of the comedian who ventures into Hamlet.

Well, I'm glad the above is over. You know, I'm a comedian and I always did want to write something serious, like the rest of the humorists. I guess, after reading it, you will believe what I said about humorists being failures when it comes to the writing of serious material.

THINKING up jokes is by no means an easy task. I'm sorry I ever started. I was playing in vaudeville at the time and one night I put a gag of my own in the act extemporaneously. It went over big, but spoiled the scene and and "Chico" almost killed me. However, my vanity was pleased and as I thought of more I added them to the act. Soon I started to contribute "wise cracks" to humorous weeklies and the leading columnists. It was then that my brothers and I thought that we could arrange our own act. I was using mostly all of my own material and of course "Harpo" didn't need any lines and the main work of "Chico" and "Zeppo" was what is technically known as the "business." That was how it started.

Writing humor is mostly the result of habit. After you do it for a while you just can't get away from it and you feel ill at ease when you are not doing it, although you may hate it. After writing humor for a time good jokes begin to occur to you. Then, there is what is known as the "wise crack" on current topics. This is obtained by following the newspapers and twisting a current event. This work makes a humorist a wide awake fellow. Nothing is going on without his knowing about it.

AS soon as a person becomes known as a comedian he becomes a slave to his own humor. Everybody believes that he must be funny at all times, and he tries to live up to their expectations. As for myself, I am always trying to think of new and better jokes. There is not a performance that goes by without my adding at least one new crack.

I have received several good offers to conduct a humor column, but so far have refused them all. I realize how difficult it is to be funny and I believe that the place for me to be funny is on the stage. There I do not have new material for every performance and my voice and mannerisms add to the comedy. Conducting a column I would not have these and I would have to be funny in cold type, and far too often to suit me. Yes, sir, this business of being funny is far too serious. Undertaking is much the more cheerful job of the two. And I do hear that humorists never die of old age—the strain is too much for them.

Second St. Louis Theater Anniversary.

The St. Louis Theater will celebrate its second anniversary all week starting next Sunday, with a special show, featuring Charles Wither's "O'pry," a travesty on a vaudeville program; Harris and Holley, Negro comics; the Six Galenas, Ina Alcova and company and other attractions, with the photoplay being "Dress Parade," a romance of West Point cadets, with William Boyd and Bessie Love. The picture, which is in seven reels, was sponsored by the War Department, and officers and troops from Jefferson Barracks and the local recruiting station, it is announced will capitalize the showing of the picture at the St. Louis to arouse popular interest in army affairs.

Orchestra Plays 30 Hours.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 12. — A world's nonstop record in musical performances was claimed by the mixed orchestra in a cafe in Koselin, Pomerania, which played uninterruptedly for 30 hours. Hitherto a record of 22 hours had been credited to an English jazz orchestra. None of the numerous diners and spectators in the cafe was equal to sitting out the incessant din.

Waltz Wins Favor in Germany.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—The winter season's new dance is the waltz, according to the decree of the Union of German Dancing Masters. Other dances still remain on the repertoire, but the waltz is the thing, topping the Tango, the Black Bottom and a less violent Charleston, the Yale and the Heebie-Jeebies. At the annual congress of the dancing masters, the "modern waltz" won the applause of thousands. It has less "turns" and more "walking" than its classical predecessor.

in John Barrymore's new United Artists picture, "Tempest." Miss Sebastian, who has been loaned to the United Artists unit by Metro Goldwyn-Mayer, has the part of "Tamara," a Czarist General's daughter whose affair with Barrymore provides the romantic interest in the story of modern revolutionary Russia. She recently completed the lead in a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, "Wyoming," and during the past year has played with Lew Cody in "On Ze Boulevard" and "Tea for Three."

Plunging into action again without delay or ceremony after 10 weeks spent shooting the high spots of New York, Harold Lloyd in Hollywood last week instituted the final phase of production on his newest laugh opus, which blossomed forth with the title "Speedy" during the comedian's stay in the East. Thoroughly satisfied with his accomplishments around New York, Lloyd now aims to complete all his exteriors before rain sets in on the Pacific Coast.

Louis Wolheim, who is conceded to own the toughest looking face on the screen or stage, won't acquire a "profile like John Barrymore's," at least until Barrymore's new United Artists picture, "Tempest," is completed, if the courts and Wolheim's employer, John W. Considine Jr. have anything to say about it.

The latest move in Hollywood's bitterest battle over a screen artist's right to change his facial map is a court order restraining Wolheim from undergoing a plastic operation. The row dates back to three weeks ago, when Wolheim, who is playing the chief supporting role in Barrymore's Russian feature, made arrangements with a Hollywood surgeon to have his nose "beautified."

Considine, who is president of Feature Productions, Inc., under whose banner "Tempest" is being filmed, heard of the plans and announced he would seek legal redress if necessary to prevent the operation. "Wolheim is under contract to us, and because his so-called 'hard-boiled' face makes his services unique and distinctive, I do not intend to have his personality ruined by an operation," said the film executive. "Mr. Barrymore's picture when completed, will represent one of the year's biggest investments for a motion picture. 'Tempest' is just well started, Wolheim has one of the most important roles, and if his face suffered 'beautification,' we would have to go to great expense to have his scenes retaken."

Wolheim, hearing of Considine's edict, replied: "It's my face and I'll do with it as I see fit. The public is under the impression my homely mug is responsible for my success. Every time they want a terrible looking creature in a picture, they pick me. Personally, I believe I'm an actor, and with my face remodelled, I'll be able to get out of the rut of playing one type of role."

The addition of Alice Joyce and Robert T. Haines, the latter an old-time stage actor who has appeared in a number of films, marks the completion of the cast supporting Richard Barthelmess in his new picture, "The Noose," from Willard Mack and H. H. Van Loon's play Lina Basquette is the leading woman. Others in the cast are Montagu Love, Thelma Todd, Ed Brady, Fred Warren, Jay Eaton, Robert O'Connor and Yola d'Avril.

Hospital bills instead of new fur coats take the money of the motion picture stars in Hollywood this fall.

Dorothy Dwan is in the Hollywood Hospital having her tonsils removed. She was just starting a picture with Fox when the throat trouble of many years' standing stopped her work.

Helene Costello lost the leading role in Monte Blue's picture because of 'flu. Dorothy Phillips lost a lead with Tiffany because of bronchitis this week. Marie Prevost, Betty Blythe and Blanch Sweet are all just out of the hospitals, recuperating. Patsy Ruth Miller had her appendix cut last week, and Adolph Menjou is minus tonsils.

Princess Soloist At "Pop" Concert At Odeon Today

PRINCESS JACQUES DE BROGLIE, one of the foremost of European woman pianists, appears as soloist, playing the brilliant Saint Saens Concerto in G minor, with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in its Sunday popular concert at the Odeon at 3 p. m., today. Accompanying the Princess to St. Louis is her husband, Prince Jacques de Broglie, member of an old Italian ducal family.

Her visit to St. Louis comes in the first American tour of the Princess, though she is widely known in Europe, in South America and in Australia. To the latter country the Prince insistently pursued her when she had refused to permit marriage to interfere with her concert career, and there at the close of a joint tour with Clara Butt he married her.

The Princess was Marie Antoinette Aussenac, member of a French family, but was born in Oporto, Portugal. At the age of 5 she appeared in concert before Queen Amelie whose protege she became. Difficulties with her family, who sought to prevent a musical career, were at last cut short by the Princess who simply cut loose from them, and at the age of 21, after brilliant studies and a debut in Paris, crossed to London with enough money to keep her for a week and a letter to Sir Landon Ronald, conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra by whom she was engaged for three concert appearances. Thereafter she toured Europe with great success, appearing under the batons of Richard Strauss, Vincent d' Indy, and Chevillard, among other famous conductors. Portugal, proud of its musical daughter, conferred upon her the Order of St. Jacques, an honor never previously conferred upon a woman.

The Saint Saens concerto was composed for a concert at which Saint Saens was soloist and Anton Rubenstein conductor. Liszt was enthusiastic over it. A work of aristocratic lineage in itself, and one that because of its brilliance and its flowing melodies is a favorite in the repertories of piano masters. Other works of important interest on today's program are the tone poem "Finlandia" and the "Valse Triste" of Jean Sibelius, and that group of excerpts from Berlioz's "Damnation of Faust" including the "Rakoczy" march with which the program closes.

The program in detail is:

Overture, "Carnival" ....Dvorak
(a) Symphonic Poem, "Finlandia"
(b) Valse Triste ....Sibelius
Concerto in G minor for pianoforte
I. Andante sostenuto
II Allegro scherzando
III. Presto ....Saint-Saens
Scherzo from "Midsummer Night's Dream" music ....Mendelssohn
Overture to "Mignon" ....Thomas
Three excerpts from "The Damnation of Faust" ....Berlioz
(a) Minuet "Will o' the Wisp."
(b) Dance of the Sylphs.
(c) Rakoczy March.

GONE ARE THE DAYS WHEN PICTURE SHOWS COST HALF A DIME

and Miss Compson became Paramount stars. Chaney made a masterpiece for Universal, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." He followed with a series of remarkable melodramas for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, his present producing firm.

Today, Tom Meighan is still a star and so is Chaney. Betty, following a stardom for Paramount, slid from the heights—Betty, the full-lipped, full-bosomed, beautiful blonde the public adored.

Chaney, the grotesque, the startling, the hideous in his make-up masterpieces, remains a star.

True, Betty Compson is cast in a role in the Chaney film. But not in the feminine lead—that goes to Marceline Day, who is younger, radiant in a beautiful young womanhood. Betty is merely in a supporting part—Betty, the beautiful, supporting Chaney, the painfully plain.

WHEN Mitchell Lewis first joined the moving picture industry he received $10 a day, and he played one of the most important parts in the picture. But that was back in 1908, when the industry was young.

The leading man of Mitchel's first picture was Arthur V. Johnson, who was sharing with Maurice Costello the laurels held by the most popular actor on the screen. Marion Leonard, James Kirkwood and Henry B. Walthall were in the cast, and Phillips Smalley was the assistant director, while Stanley E. V. Taylor was his boss. The company worked for two weeks on the mammoth one-reel Reliance production, and in all, Lewis collected $120.

Now, Lewis, who has been heard of but little lately, is playing the part of Suleimann, the Strong, the fearless renegade of the desert, in Paramount's version of "Beau Sabreur."

There's a big difference between the pictures of those old days and now. When Lewis rejoined the Reliance company, two years after his first start, his salary was increased to $12 a day, which was a progressive step. He made several one reelers with them, "On the Brink," "The White Red Man" and others.

Alluring contracts began coming from other companies, one even offering Lewis $15 a day to work for them. He accepted.

Lewis is a veteran of the stage and screen. He has done notable work with Nazimova, William Faversham, Florence Roberts, Holbrook Blinn, Lewis Morrison and others on the legitimate, and on the screen has appeared in some seventy big pictures.

Sunday evening, Nov. 20, the Y. M. H. A. symphony orchestra under the baton of Irl Rosenblum, will give their first concert of the season to the members of the "Y" and their friends. The orchestra has been preparing for this concert since early summer.

Miss Marie Gollub will be the soloist at the concert, playing Mendelssohn's Concerto in E Minor with the orchestra. The program opens with Saint-Saens Marche Francaise, a gay rhythmic march with a military tone thereto. It also includes Tchaikowsky's suite "The Enchanted Lake." The other three numbers on the program are S. Coleridge-Taylor's "Petite Suite," Richard Drigo's "Valse Bluette," and Leo Delibes' "Ballet Suite." The last is a typical French waltz in which the composer writes in a free and uninterrupted style.

The Perpetual Help Church choir will present "Tulip Time," a musical comedy on Sunday, Nov. 20, and Wednesday, Nov. 23, at the parish hall, Twenty-first and Linton avenue, at 8:15 p. m. The leading roles will be played by Misses Regina Wagner, Mathilda Schmitz, Clementine Klein, Messrs. Albert Polley, Paul Kullenberg, G. Harold Schmitz, Joseph Willmering and Joseph G. Otte. An ensemble of members will assist in this presentation. Dancing will follow the show.

Mabel Henderson, mezzo-contralto, will be heard in recital Tuesday evening, at 8:15 in the ballroom of the Forest Park Hotel with Helen Wolverton at the piano. The program follows:

Eyes Strengthened 50% by Proper Eye Care, Says Doctor

Suggests Simple Home Treatment Which Quickly Relieves All Irritation and Sharpens Vision

No longer is there any excuse for most of our eye troubles. For specialists have perfected a simple but amazingly effective treatment which not only quickly relieves burning, itching, smarting, aching eyes, but also banishes eye headaches, eye-strain and blurred vision.

This simple treatment is called the Bon-Opto system, and is now being prescribed by physicians and specialists everywhere. It is based on the latest scientific discoveries. Scientists have recently proved that 80 per cent of all eye troubles are due to weakness in certain little muscles which adjust the eye. Eyeglasses alone will not strengthen these muscles. But the Bon-Opto treatment seeps through directly to them, heals and tonics them, and soon restores them—and therefore the eyes—to their old-time strength and vigor.

Don't neglect your eyes. The discomfort felt after an automobile ride, a movie or any close work, are important danger signals. Yet every irritation and ache can be almost instantly banished by a Bon-Opto eye-bath, and more serious trouble prevented. Bon-Opto should be in every home. Your eyes are far more important than your teeth. As often as you use your toothbrush you should take your eye-bath.

So get a package of Bon-Opto. Results guaranteed. Money back without question if you are not delighted with the improvement in your eyes and sight. Bon-Opto is sold by good druggists everywhere, including Walgreen, Wolff-Wilson, Enderle Drug Stores.

What Made His Hair Grow?

Read His Letter for the Answer

"Two years ago I was bald all over the top of the head.

"I felt ashamed for people to see my head I tried different preparations, but they did no good I remained bald, until I used Kotalko.

"New hair came almost immediately and kept on growing in a short time I had a splendid head of hair, which has been perfect ever since—and no return of the baldness."

This statement is by Mr. H. A. Wild. He is but one of the big legion of users of Kotalko who voluntarily attest it has stopped falling hair, eliminated dandruff or aided new, luxuriant hair growth. KOTALKO is sold by busy druggists everywhere.

Brief Bits of News From Arkansas

HARRISBURG.—A new school building on Darr Hill, about 10 miles north of here, was destroyed by fire. The building was valued at $7000 and the contents at $1000.

AMITY.—A Chamber of Commerce has been organized here, with the following officers: W. C. Allen, president; B. S. Thompson, vice president, and O. T. Hays, secretary.

PARIS.—Granting of a franchise for the supplying of gas to residents of Paris to a gas company owning a well near Ratcliff is being discussed by the City Council.

EL DORADO.—The El Dorado Community Chest will open its drive for funds for 1928 Tuesday. Dr. Charles E. Dicken is president of the chest, and Surrey E. Gilliam is chairman of the drive.

MORRILTON.—A a reorganization meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, J. G. Moore was elected president and Tom Davis was reelected secretary and treasurer. J. W. Smith was elected chairman of the agriculture department; M. H. Pierce chairman of the commercial department and Nea Bowers chairman of the public welfare department. More than $3000 was raised recently to sponsor the work of the organization.

EUREKA SPRINGS.—A Business Men's Association has been formed here, with L. E. Halloway as president, J. A. Morris vice president and Ray Freeman secretary-treasurer. A farmers' auction will be held each month, co-operative advertising is planned and the farmers will be reached by a direct mailing list.

VAN BUREN.—Annual union Thanksgiving services here will be held at First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Frank B. Elmore, pastor of the Wood Memorial Christian Church, will deliver the sermon.

ROGERS.—A Pentacostal Holiness Church has been organized here following a tent evangelistic meeting lasting several weeks. William Newton Gibbs was ordained deacon.

ST. JOE.—Large acreages of strawberries have been set out in various parts of Madison County during the past nine months, the latest report being the setting out of 100 acres in Drakes Creek Township. Recent building of good roads makes the hauling of berries to the railroads possible, and this has resulted in a greatly increased acreage.

ST. JOE.—T. T. Millard, one of the largest stave mill operators in this section, who previously operated mills in the Tomahawk and Maumee section near here, has moved his mills to Newton County where he has bought large tracts of timber. The building of good roads from Newton County to St. Joe and Harrison has resulted in the location of many stave and lumber mills in the section. Some of the finest tracts of virgin timber in the State are located in Newton County, where much of the timber was heretofore inaccessible because of poor roads.

BENTONVILLE. — The Ideal Bakery, formerly operated here by R. E. Keith, was sold at sheriff's sale to J. G. Colwell of Siloam Springs for $1900. Calwell, who recently sold a bakery at Siloam Springs, will move to Bentonville.

BENTONVILLE. — Miss Ruth Olive Beall, executive secretary for the Benton County Tuberculosis Association; Miss Anna Patton clerk of Benton County, who is county chairman of the coming Red Cross Christmas seal sale, and Miss Eulalah Miller, in charge of office work for the sale, attended the institude and school of instruction at Fort Smith for seal sale chairmen.

BENTONVILLE. — Mrs. E. H. Breedlove has gone to St. Petersburg, Fla., for an extended visit with her daughters, Mrs. Emory Roberts of St. Petersburg and Miss Francis Breedlove, who is attending school there. She was accompanied by Mr. Roberts.

ROGERS.—Rev. A. A. Dulaney who resigned the pastorate of First Baptist Church here, was extended a call to return and will again make this city his home. The Rev. Mr. Dulaney went to New Mexico where he was connected with the Montezuma school a year ago.

BENTONVILLE.—A semico-operative plan for grinding limestone for use on Benton County farms, worked out by County Agent R. P. Cummings, is expected to give farmers of this county a larger supply at lower prices than could be obtained commercially. A lime crusher has been placed in Cross Hollows where a large quantity of lime suitable for grinding is said to be available.

DE QUEEN.—Jesse S. Haskell, 35 years old, was killed when his coupe overturned on Rose Hill near here. A blowout is believed to have caused the accident. He is survived by his wife and five small children.

MULDROW.—J. C. Ragsdale of Muldrow was shot through the right hip while hunting squirrels. He was taken to a Fort Smith hospital.

Fat Goes
The Sane Way

No more do you have to feel the humiliation of excess fat. No more need you feel blue and depressed because you are fatter than your friends.

Now this can all be changed. You too can have a stylish slim modish figure. Nor need you indulge in any extreme, strenuous exercise or outlandish diets. It is not necessary or healthy.

There is a remarkable discovery called Rite-Wate. This is a scientific, sane preparation. So many have taken off fat with Rite-Wate and told others that you too should give it a trial. You owe it to yourself.

Rite-Wate is composed of the purest vegetables, compounded and prepared by scientific experts.

Simple—sane. Originally a doctor's prescription. Now given to the world. Used for 11 years.

Try Rite-Wate today. Try it for a week. You'll be surprised how quickly it brings about those desired results for which you have been yearning for years.

Kidney Sufferers
Famous Mexican Aguamiel Now Available in Your Own Home

Mexican Maguey Plant

For centuries Maguey sap, known as Aguamiel, has been the great natural remedy of Mexico. Since the Spanish Conquest scientists have studied it. Scores of books and treatises published on its medicinal use. And for 50 years European and American physicians have sent wealthy kidney sufferers to Mexico to drink Aguamiel. Results are medical history.

Now a trip to Mexico is unnecessary. Agmel, delicious syrup concentrate of Maguey sap, has world-wide use. Does not spoil like fresh sap. It is Aguamiel with all vital elements intact, absolutely unchanged except for removal of water without cooking. Nothing added. Non-alcoholic.

All kidney and Bright's disease sufferers should investigate. Free 24-page booklet at your drug store. Imported only by Agmel Corporation, Los Angeles, California.

PART NINE.

$1,250,000 DEAL FOR APARTMENTS ON WEST PINE

Guild Hall Is Purchased by W.A. Meletio and George L. Zollmann From Holding Syndicate.

By Berry Moore.

Purchase of the Guild Hall Apartments at the northwest corner of West Pine boulevard and Newstead avenue by W. A. Meletio and George L. Zollmann, announced yesterday by Jones Bros., real estate and investment brokers, was the outstanding feature of the week in real estate circles.

Meletio and Zollmann conveyed in part payment the northeast corner of Delmar boulevard and Westgate avenue—a substantial building with six stores and 24 apartments—and 2500 acres of land near Houston, Tex.

The deal involved $1,250,000 with the properties given in part payment for the apartments, which figured in the exchange at a valuation of $750,000, it is said.

Real estate experts value the site of the apartments, having a frontage of 115 feet on West Pine boulevard, at $1000 a front foot, or a total of $115,000. Five years ago the ground had a valuation of around $400 a foot, based on the price paid for the West Pine frontage of the Forest Park Hotel, occupying the opposite corner. The Guild Hall site has a depth of 215 feet on Euclid.

This section was established as an apartment-hotel center with the erection of the Forest Park Hotel at the southwest corner of West Pine boulevard and Euclid avenue, at a cost of $1,500,000, by Alex M. and Fred J. Cornwell Jr. of the F. J. Cornwell Real Estate Co.

The Guild Hall is a five-story fireproof structure with 92 suites and a 40-car garage in the rear. Annual rentals from the apartments and the garage approximate $100,000, according to Jones Bros.

Other Apartment Plans.

The former owners of the building and grantors in the transaction were J. T. Craven, Peter Anderson, F. W. McCool, A. E. Humphreys, George C. Sauerbraunn and E. J. Hanley.

The deal, the largest of its character of the season, and is believed to indicate a resumption of real estate operations on a more comprehensive scale.

As was told in the Post-Dispatch plans were disclosed recently for a 16-story apartment building to be erected on the south side of West Pine boulevard, just east of Taylor, by the Herbert M. Edmunds Realty Co. It is to occupy the site of the residence o fthe late San Lazarus, purchased through the Henry R. Weisels company.

Improvement has been noticed in the real estate situation during the last 10 days. All sections of the real estate market display greater buoyancy with a revival of operations in large apartment and business buildings, as well as sites for structures of these types, according to James L. Barngrove of Barngrove & Specht, nominee for president of the Real Estates Exchange.

A decidedly optimistic atmosphere has enveloped the real estate fraternity in contrast with the somewhat discouraged feeling which has characterized it.

Street widenings and extensions and conversion of streets into boulevards, the Memorial Plaza and Union Station project, together with an imposing building program, both public and private, are pointed to as factors in the revival. Advent of new industries, notably the General Electric, which is now apparently taking definite form, together with the local business expansion also are cited.

Consideration also is given to the fact that the reaction which prices of apartments and other buildings in this class have undergone, virtually has spent itself, it is believed, with prices at levels which are challenging the attention of investors.

Activity on South Side.

Plans have been made for a number of major projects, hotels as well as business buildings, which will be executed soon, supplementing the new Missouri Pacific building, which will rise 22 stories at Thirteenth and Olive streets, extending through to Pine, embracing the half block. Another noteworthy new building is the 22-story hotel to be erected at the northwest corner of Twelfth boulevard and Pine streets.

Construction of apartments, flats and business buildings, involving between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000, will be under way in the new Hydraulic subdivision within the next year. Albert Mayer, president of the Albert Mayer Real Estate Co., has plans for an eight-family apartment building for the south side of Meramec street, and Walter H. Sheehan, president of the Dougherty-Sheehan Realty Co., plans for a series of two-family flat buildings for the northwest corner of Dunica and Spring avenues in this addition. Harry and Eugene Freund have plans for a large business block on Gravois avenue.

Approximately $900,000 worth of lots has been disposed of in this addition, which virtually has been

$1,250,000 DEAL FOR APARTMENTS ON WEST PINE

Guild Hall Is Purchased by W.A. Meletio and George L. Zollmann From Holding Syndicate.

By Berry Moore.

Purchase of the Guild Hall Apartments at the northwest corner of West Pine boulevard and Newstead avenue by W. A. Meletio and George L. Zollmann, announced yesterday by Jones Bros., real estate and investment brokers, was the outstanding feature of the week in real estate circles.

Meletio and Zollmann conveyed in part payment the northeast corner of Delmar boulevard and Westgate avenue—a substantial building with six stores and 24 apartments—and 2500 acres of land near Houston, Tex.

The deal involved $1,250,000 with the properties given in part payment for the apartments, which figured in the exchange at a valuation of $750,000, it is said.

Real estate experts value the site of the apartments, having a frontage of 115 feet on West Pine boulevard, at $1000 a front foot, or a total of $115,000. Five years ago the ground had a valuation of around $400 a foot, based on the price paid for the West Pine frontage of the Forest Park Hotel, occupying the opposite corner. The Guild Hall site has a depth of 215 feet on Euclid.

This section was established as an apartment-hotel center with the erection of the Forest Park Hotel at the southwest corner of West Pine boulevard and Euclid avenue at a cost of $1,500,000, by Alex M. and Fred J. Cornwell Jr. of the F. J. Cornwell Real Estate Co.

The Guild Hall is a five-story fireproof structure with 92 suites and a 40-car garage in the rear. Annual rentals from the apartments and the garage approximate $100,000, according to Jones Bros.

Other Apartment Plans.

The former owners of the building and grantors in the transaction were J. T. Craven, Peter Anderson, F. W. McCool, A. E. Humphreys, George C. Sauerbraunn and E. J. Hanley.

The deal, the largest of its character of the season, and is believed to indicate a resumption of real estate operations on a more comprehensive scale.

As was told in the Post-Dispatch plans were disclosed recently for a 16-story apartment building to be erected on the south side of West Pine boulevard, just east of Taylor, by the Herbert M. Edmunds Realty Co. It is to occupy the site of the residence o fthe late San Lazaras, purchased through the Henry L. Weisels company.

Improvement has been noticed in the real estate situation during the last 10 days. All sections of the real estate market display greater buoyancy with a revival of operations in large apartment and business buildings, as well as sites for structures of these types, according to James L. Another noteworthy new building is the 22-story hotel to be erected at the northwest corner of Twelfth boulevard and Pine streets.

Sheehan, president of the Dougherty-Sheehan Realty Co., plans for a series of two-family flat buildings for the northwest corner of Dunica and Spring avenues in this addition. Harry and Eugene Freund have plans for a large business block on Gravois avenue.

Approximately $900,000 worth of lots has been disposed of in this addition, which virtually has been sold over night. Prices range from $60 to $175 a front foot on all streets except the Gravois avenue frontage, which is listed at from $175 to $300 a foot. The southwest corner of Gravois and Chippewa, 150x150 feet, is the prize business corner of the addition. An offer of $220 a front foot recently was submitted for this corner which is held at $300 a foot for the Gravois avenue frontage or $45,000. The addition has an extensive frontage on Gravois avenue, which is essentially a business street.

The prices at which the lots are being sold include complete surface and underground improvements, which are now being made at a cost of $400,000, according to the subdivision developers.

The tract, comprising 50 acres, has been subdivided into 1400 front feet. It is situated one block west of Grand boulevard, with Spring avenue forming its east boundary, Meramec street its west and Gravois avenue its north.

Wayne Stedlin and David P. Leahy, the new owners and subdividers, purchased the tract three months ago through the Mercantile Trust Co., from the Hydraulic Press Brick Co. for $300,000.

OCTOBER BUILDING TO NEW HIGH MARK

New construction started in the 37 Eastern states (about 91 per cent of the total in the United States) in October reached a total of $562,815,800, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation. It was the highest October contract total on record and was the fourth largest monthly total on record for this year. It was 8 per cent ahead of the September (1927) figure, and 9 per cent over the total for October of last year.

October contracts let on new construction work in the Central West (Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska) amounted to $194,278,100. The highest October contract total yet recorded for this district, and was also the second largest monthly total ever recorded in the Central West. Large contracts in the commercial and industrial classes helped to swell the month's record.

Included in the October building record were: $79,303,000, or 41 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $36,769,400, or 19 per cent, for commercial buildings; $27,818,100, or 14 per cent, for industrial plants; and $27,572,700, or 14 per cent, for public works and utilities.

The total volume of construction started in the Central West in the last 10 months amounted to $1,526,637,300, a gain of 10 per cent over the corresponding 10 months of last year.

FEDERER REALTY CO. SELLS SOUTH SIDE BUSINESS BLOCK

The Federer Realty Co. reports the sale of the northeast corner of Grand boulevard and Wilmington avenue for August Stein to Charles Calcaterra. This business corner was erected about one year ago by Stein. Financing was handled by the Federer company who laid out and developed Grand Dover Park and Holly Hills. The improvements consist of six large, modern stores, with five apartments above and four-family flat attached on Wilmington avenue. All stores and apartments are under lease. The building is of the latest type with walls of matt brick and terra cotta. The lot fronts 127 feet on the east line of Grand boulevard by a depth of 92 feet on Wilmington avenue.

MRS. EGGERS BUYS LOT FOR COUNTRY CLUB HOME

Mrs. Helen M. Eggers has purchased a lot in the new St. Louis Country Club grounds with plans for a handsome residence. The lot fronts on Country Club drive and Price road. Joseph G. Fleck was the former owner.

The transaction was handled by Cornet & Zeibig in connection with the Eggers Realty Co.

Adolphus Klauber Real Estate Co.

Adolphus Klauber, formerly of the firm of Klauber-Welz Real Estate Co., is operating as the Adolphus Klauber Real Estate Co., 4550 Gravois avenue. He will continue to handle a general line of real estate, loans and insurance.

ENGLISH TYPE HOUSE BEING ERECTD BY BERGFELD FIRM

The George F. Bergfeld Co., Inc., is erecting a residence for Henry Bischoff Jr., a director of the St. Louis Independent Packing Co., at 7231 Greenway avenue, University Hills. This is one of a number of fine homes being erected by the Bergfeld company.

The residence is of English design and is being erected on a lot 75x140. Some of the special features are colored tiled bathrooms, tiled solarium with stone fountain, breakfast room with large bay window and all tiled kitchen.

IRON FIREMAN MFG. CO. LEASES SPACE AT 2723 OLIVE

The Iron Fireman Manufacturing Co. has leased 10,000 square feet of floor space in the fireproof building at 2723 Olive street in the new Universal Building. This firm specializes in the manufacturing of automatic coal burners. It has branches in Cleveland, O., and St. Louis and a main office in Portland, Ore.

The lease was made for the Republic National Bank. Martin & Breitt represented the lessee and Bannister Real Estate Co. represented the lessor.

Darst Offers New Plan for Home Ownership

Mr. Watson and his friend, Mr. Graves, each paid $55 per month rent. Mr. Watson purchased a home on the Darst plan, continued to pay $55 per month. In three years' time had a home paid down to a first mortgage, with a reasonable increase in value; sold his property at a 50 per cent profit on money invested; had $3000 cash. Mr. Graves continued to pay his $55 rent but could not raise any money on his investment, but helped the landlord to pay for the house he lived in.

YOU DO NOT PAY FOR A DARST HOME—IT PAYS FOR ITSELF!

BARNGROVE EXPECTED TO HEAD EXCHANGE

No Other Candidate in Field—Six Directors Also to Be Elected.

James L. Barngrove is now hailed as the next president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, to succeed W. W. Butts, the retiring head, no other member of the fraternity having so far been brought forward as a candidate for the office. The annual election of the exchange will be held Tuesday, at which the new president and six new directors will be chosen.

There are eight candidates for the six vacancies in the exchange directorate. The candidates are William W. Butts, William E. Caulfield, Charles J. Daly of Daly & McCabe, and Walter H. Sheehan of the Dougherty-Sheehan Real Estate Co., who are seeking re-election, and Edward L. Kuhs, Alfred D. Ruth of Julius Haller Realty Co., Clarence M. Turley of Isaac T. Cook & Co., and Herman A. O'Rourke of Watson-O'Rourke Real Estate Co.

The election will be held in the exchange headquarters, Room 100, Wainwright Building. In addition to the election of officers, several proposed changes in the by-laws are to be voted upon.

The polls will be open from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. E. A. Bokern, Christian Brinkop and George Heffernan will serve as inspectors of election. A complimentary buffet luncheon to the active members of the exchange will be served.

PEOPLE WHO DEMAND THE BEST
Choose Webster Groves for a Home Location
When you have become familiar with the exceptional advantages offered by Webster Groves you will readily understand why this beautiful community is the address of so many fine families.
Webster Groves is located within easy commuting distance of St. Louis, with every convenience of the city, yet with all the charm and beauty of the country—it lacks nothing in its environment and opportunities for the ideal suburban life.
Besides the delightful surroundings of park-like streets and charming homes, there is a community spirit that can be found in no other suburb of St. Louis County.
Without leaving Webster, you can attend church of the denomination of your choice; send your children to excellent schools; shop at most modern markets; play golf at the nearby clubs or enjoy other outdoor sports and recreation.
In this inviting community we have homes for sale that will appeal to every home-lover. Drive out today.

MANY IMPORTANT EVENTS MARK THE WEEK IN MARKETS

Steel Prices Stiffen, Unfilled U. S. Steel Orders Increase More Than Expected and General Motors Declares Extra Dividend.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Important financial and trade developments followed each other in quick succession this week and left Wall street in a cheerful frame of mind. A further recovery in the stock market wiped out more than half of the ground lost in the recent sharp reaction, and sent scores of individual issues to new peak prices for the year. Cotton broke sharply on the publication of an unexpectedly large Government crop estimate, then made partial recovery. Sterling exchange advanced to the highest level since 1914, Dutch guilders the highest since 1919, and Japanese exchange went down to a new low level for the year.

Two of the most significant developments of the week having a bearing on the stock market were the stiffening of steel prices following soon after the surprisingly large increase in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, and the declaration of an extra cash dividend of $2.50 on the new common stock of General Motors Corporation, which also was placed on a regular annual basis of $5, equivalent to $10 on the old, which paid $8 with occasional extras.

Tobacco Shares Up.

Wall street was of the opinion that consumers of steel would place orders for future delivery when they became convinced that the recent declining trend of commodity prices had been definitely checked. Likewise the generous cash extra on General Motors was construed as an indication that Ford competition was not feared by other leading manufacturers. Declines in commodity prices were offset by the fact that the aggregate value of leading crops was well above that of last year. Ease of credit conditions was emphasized by the heavy oversubscription of new bond offerings, particularly the Treasury issue.

Tobacco shares, under the leadership of the American Tobacco issues, responded to reports of steadily increasing earnings of the leading companies, due, in part, to intensive advertising and selling methods. Mercantile shares and mail order issues moved upward. Montgomery ward, Sears-Roebuck, May Department Stores, Woolworth, R. H. Macy, Arnold Constable and several others breaking through to new peak prices.

The advance in oil shares was temporarily checked by the discovery of a new field south of Seminole, which revived fears in some quarters of another era of overproduction. Public utility shares presented several strong spots. Insurance issues were inclined to heaviness.

Some 1927 Highs.

Among the many new 1927 highs recorded were American Can, Burroughs Adding Machine, International Business Machine, Victor Talking Machine, Lehn & Fink, and Warren Bros., the last named more than doubling its low price of the year.

Rails were rather sluggish as a result of the falling off in freight car loadings in the last week of October, although Southern Railway attained a record high price for all time above $140 a share. Hopes of an increased dividend on Southern Pacific were again blasted when only the regular payment was declared. Hard coal carrying railroads developed special strength.

STRONG TENDENCIES SHOWN IN TRADING ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The market on the curb today exhibited the strong tendencies in the various groups that had been evidenced in the last several sessions. Persistent buying in several issues, especially among those that have assumed prominence lately, caused sharp advances to new high records for the year.

Public utility shares obtained early recognition as a result of the vigorous upturn in Southeastern Power issues, all classes reaching new peak levels. American Gas showed a gain of 2 points, selling to 114¼.

Strong features in the industrial were Curtis Publishing, which gained 8 points; Deere & Co. and United States Freight. Newmont Mining scored a high, crossing 110. Bancitaly Corporation opened off 2½ points and then rallied about 2 points. Celanese Corporation declined a point early. Tubize Artificial Silk, after an easier opening of 3 points, to 346¼, received spirited buying and rose steadily 14¼ points to a new mark at 361. Royal Typewriter moved up 10¼ points.

Vacuum led a strong upward movement in the oil division. Quotations of that issue rose steadily 3¼ points to a high at 145¼. Prairie Pipe gained 5 points and several others were higher about a point.

Indiana Pipe Line and Prairie Oil established new high quotations, the former lifting 4 points to 87.

LEAD, ZINC AND COPPER

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—October output of refined copper in North and South America increased to 124,927 short tons from 119,100 tons in September, and 119,736 in August, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports. Stocks of refined copper at the end of the month were 83,882 tons, against 86,493 the month before. Shipments in October were 127,538 tons, against 126,261 in September. Primary copper production in the United States in October amounted to 68,828 tons, compared with 65,936 in September and 67,248 in August.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Leading zinc countries of the world turned out 114,719 short tons in September, against 117,886 in August and 116,401 in July, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports. Output of the United States in October was 50,185 tons, against 47,735 in September and 48,012 in August.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Total transactions in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today amounted to $5,238,000; previous day sales, $12,933,000; week ago, $5,208,000; year ago, $5,217,000; total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $2,869,343,000, compared with $2,518,789,000 same period year ago and $3,089,472,000 same period two years ago.

Quotations on Liberty Bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar; that is, for instance, a sale printed $99.24 means $99 and twenty-four thirty-seconds of a dollar and not $99.24.

The following is a complete list of transactions with sales, highest, lowest and closing prices:

ADVANCES SCORED IN LIGHT BOND TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Current easy money conditions and a falling off in the week's total of new offerings to around $108,000,000 provided the background for a further advance in bond prices today. Trading was rather light, however, and there was evidences of the usual week-end profit taking in some of the recently buoyant liens.

Railway issues were the leaders again, such mortgages as "Frisco" 4s and Canadian Pacific 4½s setting new high records for the year, while Canadian Pacific 4s and Mobile & Ohio 4s were active around their previous peaks. Profit taking developing in the late dealings, brought a fractional decline in New York Central and Hudson River 4s.

Julius Kayser 5½s again featured the industrial group, reaching 105⅞ for the first time this year. There was a little realizing at the top. Other industrials and most of the public utilities were dormant.

Business fell off sharply in the foreign group. The buying of French issues seemed to have tapered off and the prices were close to yesterday's final quotations. German obligations were somewhat firmer, but there were few sales.

United States Government securities followed a mixed trend. Treasury 3⅜s sold at one time at their previous record high, but later fell back slightly.

Major Financing Pending.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Approximately $150,000,000 of major domestic financing, comprised of four units, one a railroad and the others utilities, are about to be floated in this market.

The Treasury will withdraw from banks in the second Federal Reserve District $54,931,000 Tuesday. This sum represents the balance on the combined amounts of deposit on the 3 per cent Treasury certificates, dated Sept. 15 and due March 15, 1928, and the 4¼ per cent Treasury notes, dates Sept. 15, and due Sept. 15, 1932. The call for the entire country amounts to $146,842,000. These funds will soon return to the banks as the Government is engaged in floating $400,000,000 of bonds which carry deposits with them.

One of the most unusual announcements ever made by a public official in connection with public bonds, came from State Comptroller Morris I. Tremaine yesterday. He told the public directly the price he was willing to pay for outstanding State issues.

Eighty-nine communities will award $31,228,024 of bonds at public sale next week, according to the Bond Buyer. This compares with a total this week of $20,967,178. The major issues follow: Montreal, $5,100,000; Albany, $1,558,000; Hawaii, $2,800,000; Buffalo, $3,880,000; Harris County, Texas, $2,000,000; Clifton, N. J., $1,097,000, and Union City, N. J., $1,602,000.

LOCAL STOCK TRADE VOLUME IS SMALLER

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Nov. 12.—The local stock market was not quite as broad the past week as in preceding period, and aggregate stock sales showed contraction. Bond sales were slightly higher. The fact that the week was one day short, owing to holiday, was on factor in smaller trade.

Mercantile Trust led the banking group with total transactions of 1041 shares on 500 basis, which was unchanged from previous week's close. Most of the buying was done by one house, while more than half of the selling was by one house. Mississippi Valley closed the week at 308 for 8 point net gain, but sales were under 50 shares.

International Shoe "when issued" and National Candy common were leaders in the industrial section, more than 1900 shares of the former selling between 59¼ and [illegible], while nearly 1600 shares of the candy stock changed hands between 22½ and 21⅞. An incident of the week's trade was a rise of [illegible] points in Bruce common, to [illegible]. There was fair turnover in Polar Wave.

Lead was quiet at $6 per 100 pounds in St. Louis today.

Slab zinc was quiet at $5.80 per 100 pounds.

FRUIT MARKET

ST. LOUIS PRODUCE ROW, Nov. 12.—There was a slightly easier feeling noted in the potato market. Trade was light and prices were little changed. An accumulation of supplies over the holiday yesterday resulted in a tendency on the part of buyers to hold off for lower prices. Sales, including those made yesterday, per 100 lbs. on track, invoice weights—1 car Idaho russet burbanks $1.75, 1 car do $1.70, 1 car do $1.65, 1 car No. 2 do $1.35, 2 cars Minnesota red river ohios $1.40, mixed car Minnesota cobblers and russet burbanks, $1.25. Delivered—load Idaho russet burbanks $2, 2 loads and 100 sacks do $1.90, load do $1.85, load commercial do $1.60, 1 car Colorado russet burbanks $1.90, load do $1.75, 1 car Nebraska triumphs $1.75, 1 car do $1.65 to $1.75, load do $1.65.

GRAPES—Values on juice grapes weakening with slow demand; decrease in supplies were also noted. California lugs Carringnane quoted in jobbing way $1.15 to $1.25, Zinfandels and Mission $1 and Malagas 85c. On track, 1 car California lugs Mission sold 90c.

KUMQUATS—Florida, $5 to $5.50 per 32-quart crate.

ORANGES—California oranges $5.50 to $7.50 for medium to large sizes, and $3 to $5 for small Florida oranges $3.50 to $5.75.

LEMONS—California $4 to $6.50 per box in jobbing way; off condition stock discounted.

LIMES—Dominican $2 to $2.25.

GRAPEFRUIT—Florida $4 to $6 per box, according to size.

COCOANUTS—In jobbing way, $5.50@6.00 per 100.

BANANAS—In jobbing way loose 6c and in shipping order 6¾c per lb.

CRANBERRIES—Jobbing sales ½-brl crates late Howes $8.25 to $8.50, ¼-brl crates do $4 to $4.25, ½ brl crates early black $6.35 to $6.65; ¼-brl crates do $3.25@3.50 and ¼-brl crates late red $3.50.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Although there were no sales today in nearby sugars, which were firm and unchanged at 4.65 for Cuban duty paid, more interest was shown in shipment sugars by operators, at higher levels. Sales included 21,000 bags of Philippines, for April shipment, and 21,000 bags for May, at 4.70 delivered.

The firmer spot market, and a growing belief of favorable developments at the conference in Paris on Monday, relative to the worldwide sugar restriction plan between the representatives of Cuba and leading European beet sugar countries had a stimulating effect in the raw sugar futures market. Final prices showed net gains of two to three points on covering and buying by houses with Cuban and European connections. Approximate sales 22,300 tons. December closed 2.89; January 2.92; March 2.87; May 2.94; July 3.01; September 3.09.

The refined sugar market was steady and unchanged to five points higher, with all refiners accepting business at 5.70 for fine granulated. Demand, however, was only moderate and of a hand-to-mouth character.

PROFITS, NOT VOLUME, NOW CONSIDERED

Factor of Federal Reserve System in Money Ease—Influence of aLrger Corn Crop Than Anticipated Two Months Ago Important

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly financial review says:

"This week's news of success in Treasury financing, an upturn in unfilled steel orders of twice expectations, forecast of a good corn crop year and declaration of a $[illegible],000,000 General Motors dividend, failed to budge the stock market. The market plainly is no longer easily forced up on favorable developments, but in its present strong technical position neither is it easily upset. The advance of November leaves little doubt that the 1927 volume of Christmas trade will be entirely satisfactory, even if in some cases increased volume does not mean big profits. As a matter of fact when the third quarter earnings statements finally are all tabulated and studied, they are likely to be a disappointment to those who based calculations of the trend on early reports. The indicated size of corporate profits for last quarter has been substantially reduced by failure of recent statements to maintain the pace set by those which first came out. That is why executives are beginning to see that the important thing to watch now is not volume, but profits.

Large Corn Crop Influence.

"Viewed from a broad economic standpoint the Government's forecast of a 753,249-bushel corn crop when it seemed only two months ago that the 1927 output would be the lowest in a quarter of a century, is an event of outstanding surprise. Corn is not a big cash crop since 85 per cent of it is fed to livestock. But on the fortunes of that one crop more farmers depend than upon any other. What the new estimate means is that instead of a failure the corn crop this year will actually be larger than a year ago. Corn prices have suffered their sharpest loss in history during the last two months, but at 83 cents a bushel the commodity still commands more than last year and hog prices at least are better than they have been over a period of the last four or five years. The present indicated value of the ten most important agricultural crops for 1927 is $8,018,[illegible]0,000, or 6.4 per cent above the corresponding 1926 value of $7,[illegible]7,000,000. This is not so substantial a gain as some estimated earlier in the season, but the increased volume of corn production will go a long way toward offsetting any reduction from previous forecasts of the indicated money value of major crops.

Sustained Ease in Money

"For an understanding of the sustained ease in money despite the advance of the autumn season and gold exports the hand of the Federal Reserve system nowadays must be followed attentively. At a season of year when the rediscounts of member banks at the Federal Reserve Banks nominally rise such borrowings this year have been held about on a dead level with their low point of last summer. Since the money market is exceedingly sensitive to the rise and fall in rediscounts the ability of the Federal Reserve banks to hold rediscounts down has encouraged a maintenance of easy money. The increased demand for currency from member banks has been satisfied by purchases of bills in the open market by the Federal Reserve banks. The tightning influences of gold exports have been effectively offset by further purchases of Government securities by Federal Reserve banks. That the Federal Reserve system has deliberately endeavored to maintain ease in the money market despite gold exports emphasizes what became plain along in August, that it, for the present at least, is committed to an easy money program.

Contraction in Flotations

"The pronounced contraction in new capital flotations this week to $109,000,000, as against $148,000,000 a week ago and in excess of $200,000,000 for each of the three preceding weeks, already is having its beneficial and desired influence on the bond market. It gives evidence of a willingness on the part of underwriting houses to sacrifice immediate gain for the sake of a sustained market. Signs had begun to give warning of a glut in the bond market, but apparently the bankers mean to hold down the supply so as to prevent a repetition of last summer's experience. The heavy oversubscription of the Treasury issue was greeted with satisfaction in the financial district, but had no special significance beyond the new emphasis it gave to the exceedingly comfortable position of money. On the future trend of these rates the authorities differ. Good backing may be found both for the view that 1928 will bring even cheaper money than 1927 and for the view that with a business revival next year funds will tighten. Meanwhile those who follow such matters are waiting to see how much gold moves out and how long the Federal Reserve banks will continue to offset the tightening effects therefrom through the sale of securities.

LOCAL STOCK TRADE VOLUME IS SMALLER

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Nov. 12.—The local stock market was not quite as broad the past week as in preceding period, and aggregate stock sales showed contraction. Bond sales were slightly higher. The fact that the week was one day short, owing to holiday, was on factor in smaller trade.

PROFITS, NOT VOLUME, NOW CONSIDERED

Factor of Federal Reserve System in Money Ease—Influence of aLrger Corn Crop Than Anticipated Two Months Ago Important

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly financial review says:

"This week's news of success in the Treasury financing, an upturn in unfilled steel orders of twice expectations, forecast of a good corn crop year and declaration of a $5,000,000 General Motors dividend, failed to budge the stock market. The market plainly is no longer easily forced up on favorable developments, but in its present strong technical position neither is it easily upset. The advance of November leaves little doubt that the 1927 volume of Christmas trade will be entirely satisfactory, even if in some cases increased volume does not mean big profits. As a matter of fact when the third quarter earnings statements finally are all tabulated and studied, they are likely to be a disappointment to those who based calculations of the trend on early reports. The indicated size of corporate profits for last quarter has been substantially reduced by failure of recent statements to maintain the pace set by those which first came out. That is why executives are beginning to see that the important thing to watch now is not volume, but profits.

Large Corn Crop Influence.

"Viewed from a broad economic standpoint the Government's forecast of a 753,249-bushel corn crop when it seemed only two months ago that the 1927 output would be the lowest in a quarter of a century, is an event of outstanding surprise. Corn is not a big cash crop since 85 per cent of it is fed to livestock. But on the fortunes of that one crop more farmers depend than upon any other. What the new estimate means is that instead of a failure the corn crop this year will actually be larger than a year ago. Corn prices have suffered their sharpest loss in history during the last two months, but at 83 cents a bushel the commodity still commands more than last year and hog prices at least are better than they have been over a period of the last four or five years. The present indicated value of the ten most important agricultural crops for 19 7 is $8,018,000,000, or 6.4 per cent above the corresponding 1926 value of $7,-17,000 000. This is not so substantial a gain as some estimated earlier in the season, but the increased volume of corn production will go a long way toward offsetting any reduction from previous forecasts in the indicated money value of major crops.

Sustained Ease in Money

"For an understanding of the sustained ease in money despite the advance of the autumn season and gold exports the hand of the Federal Reserve system nowadays must be followed attentively. At a season of year when the rediscounts of member banks at the Federal Reserve Banks nominally rise such borrowings this year have been held about on a dead level with their low point of last summer. Since the money market is exceedingly sensitive to the rise and fall in rediscounts the ability of the Federal Reserve banks to hold rediscounts down has encouraged a maintenance of easy money. The increased demand for currency from member banks has been satisfied by purchases of bills in the open market by the Federal Reserve banks. The tightning influences of gold exports have been effectively offset by further purchases of Government securities by Federal Reserve banks. That the Federal Reserve system has deliberately endeavored to maintain ease in the money market despite gold exports emphasixes what became plain along in August, that it, for the present at least, is committed to an easy money program.

Contraction in Flotations

"The pronounced contraction in new capital flotations this week to $100,000,000, as against $148,000,000 a week ago and in excess of $200,000,000 for each of the three preceding weeks, already is having its beneficial and desired influence on the bond market. It gives evidence of a willingness on the part of underwriting houses to sacrifice immediate gain for the sake of a sustained market. Signs had begun to give warning of a glut in the bond market, but apparently the bankers mean to hold down the supply so as to prevent a repetition of last summer's experience. The heavy oversubscription of the Treasury issue was greeted with satisfaction in the financial district, but had no special significance beyond the new emphasis it gave to the exceedingly comfortable position of money. On the future trend of these rates the authorities differ. Good backing may be found both for the view that 1928 will bring even cheaper money than 1927 and for the view that with a business revival next year funds will tighten. Meanwhile those who follow such matters are waiting to see how much gold moves out and how long the Federal Reserve banks will continue to offset the tightening effects therefrom through the sale of securities.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Spirited buying in the stock market today carried the general level of prices upward. Some week-end profit taking in the last hour of the half day session checked the advance somewhat, but nevertheless many of the leading issues closed 1 to 3 points or more above yesterday's final figures, some of them at their peaks for the day.

Considerable optimism prevailed among operators for the advance as buying orders came in from the outside, inspired by such favorable developments as President Sloan's optimistic forecast of next year's General Motors earnings, stiffening steel prices and the increase in unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation. Easy money continued to be a factor, emphasized by the ready reception given various new issues in the bond field.

There was buoyancy in mercantile issues, such as Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Sears, Roebuck, Munsingwear and Arnold Constable, all of which reached their highest prices of the year.

Such leading issues as United States Steel and General Motors were in brisk demand, the former closing at its day's highest, but motors fell back a little in the final dealings. Leadership furnished by Steel common was instrumental in running up several important shares into new high territory, including International Harvester, which sold as high as 242 before reacting to around 239½.

The last half hour was featured by advances in some of the carriers, notably Atchison and Delaware & Hudson, which attained their best prices of the day in that period. New York Central advanced more than a point, closing around 164. Buoyancy of these issues was reflected also by sharp advances in American Railway Express and Adams Express, both of which sold at their best prices of the year.

Specialties of Interest.

Some of the specialties provided much interest. American Can common and preferred, Corn Products, Burroughs' Adding Machine and Mathieson Alkali established a new maximum figure and Colorado Fuel, Crucible, Pierce Arrow preferred and Shattuck were among the issues which gained 2 or 3 points or more. Dupont, stimulated by expectations that the company's share of the General Motors extra dividend will be passed on to the shareholders Monday, had an extreme jump of more than 4 points to 320, closing a point below that figure.

Selling of corn futures following the reopening of the Chicago Board of Trade after the Armistice day recess featured the commodity markets. The price was forced down almost 3 cents a bushel, but in a smart recovery at the ebb, part of the loss was made up. The early selling was predicated by indications of an increased yield in the Government's forecast of Thursday. Wheat advanced almost [illegible] cents a bushel on bullish construction placed on the Canadian crop estimate. Cotton prices were quoted steady at 4 to 20 points higher. Coffee was slightly lower and sugar futures a shade better than the previous closing figures.

Sterling Is Strong.

Strength of sterling, which reached $4.87 1-16, the highest since 1914, was the outstanding feature of the foreign exchange market. Dutch guilders at 40.32½ cents, were at the highest level since 1919. Other changes were negligible.

The weekly statement of clearing house banks and trust companies revealed excess reserve of $5,355,490, a decrease of $2,177,150 from the week before. Actual condition this day of clearing house members showed mixed changes, loans, discounts, investments, etc., decreased $5,718,000; reserve in Federal Reserve Bank of member banks, $2,991,000, and net demand deposits, $3,633,000. Reserve in own vaults gained $185,000, reserve in depositaries, $612,000; time deposits, $11,743,000, and cash in own vaults, $1,307,000.

Drygoods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Cotton goods continued in very moderate demand today, with prices more firmly established on the lower levels. Some business for late delivery has been placed on print cloths and Osnaburgs. Inquiry was better. Burlaps for future delivery attracted more attention. Raw silk was unchanged. Fabrics were quiet. Lower prices have been named on some fine denier chemical fibres, but general lines were unchanged. Wool goods for immediate use sold better in retail channels. Some blankets lines for fall, 1928, will be opened next week.

Weekly Metal Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—There was a slight gain reported in the ingot production during October, as compared with the month previous. Unfilled steel orders reported by the U. S. Steel Corporation at the end of October proved to be larger than expected. At least one of the large Eastern railroads ordered substantial tonnage of rails to be shipped during 1928 and there were also said to have been contracts closed for fair amounts of gas and oil pipe lines. Prices, however, remained unsettled.

There was a better inquiry for pig iron, with prices steadier.

Domestic copper prices advanced ⅛c largely in sympathy with higher prices abroad and substantial buying by European consumers. The advance, however, failed to stimulate home consumers and purchases were largely confined to nearby livery. Producers are holding firm at 13⅝c for electrolytic delivered in Connecticut valley. An advance of ⅛c a pound for all copper products, except seamless tubes, was named by leading interests.

Tin entered new low ground for the year. Generally the demand was more active. London was lower and straits shipments remained of good volume.

Lead was steady. Consuming inquiry was limited and buying was largely for requirements.

Zinc remained weak. Consumers were reported to be covered for the balance of the year and some for a part of 1928. Ore was lower. Surplus stocks of slab zinc were reported to have increased during the month of October.

Antimony was quiet and easier. Holders offered spot and futures freely.

CLEARINGS, MONEY AND SILVER

The St. Louis Clearing House Association reported clearings for Nov. 12, 1927, $25,900,000; corresponding day last year, $27,000,000; this year, $6,349,400,000; corresponding period last year, $6,662,400,000. Report of debits for Nov. 11, 1927, were: Debits to individual accounts $26,800,000; total to date, $7,592,000,000; debits to bank and bankers' accounts, $18,700,000; total to date, $4,693,000,000; combined debits were $12,285,000,000; total to date to individual and bank and bankers' accounts, $45,500,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Bar silver, 57½; Mexican dollars, 44⅛.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Bar silver, 26 11-16d per ounce; money, 2⅝ per cent. Discount rates: Short bills 4¼ per cent; 3 months' bills, 4 5-16@4⅜ per cent.

FOR ADDITIONAL BUSINESS FOR SALE PART 11, PAGE 6C

WEEK'S BEST PRICE ON STEERS $16.50

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

	Last Week	Prev. Week	Year Ago
Cattle and calves	31,697	32,478	38,008
Hogs	63,875	52,289	67,064
Sheep	9,635	9,727	7,374
Horses and mules	1,787	2,287	975
	106,994	96,781	113,421

Most cattle improved their selling basis here the past week, steers overcoming a decline to close steady. Fat heifers, mixed yearlings and bulls were 25c higher, beef cows 15 to 25c up, canners and cutters 10 to 15c higher and stocker and feeder cattle 15 to 25c up. The week's best price on steers was $16.50, paid for yearlings. Mature steers stopped at $15.60 in full load lots, bulk of all sales of steers at $9.75 to $15.50. Heavy receipts caused the break early in the week but decreased supplies gave sellers the upper hand later on. Western steers were chiefly from Texas, some on the quarantine side. Sales of Texas steers ranged from $8.75 to $10.25. Oklahomans from $7.25 to $8.50. Mixed yearlings sold up to $13.75 in sizeable consignments, top for straight heifers $12.50. Bulk of desirable kinds went from $11.00 to $13.25, medium and plain grades $7.00 to $10.00. Top for beef cows rested at $9.50, bulk test $8.00 to $8.75, bulk available offerings $6.25 to $7.75. Bulk cutters made $5.25 to $5.75, most canners between $4.75 to $5.00. Bologna bull top stopped at $7.00, bulk of offerings $6.00 to $6.75 with plain kinds down to $5.00. Beef and butcher animals sold up to $8.00 or better. Demand for stocker and feeder cattle exceeded the supply this week and prices advanced 15 to 25c on all classes. Best feeder steers made $10.00, bulk $7.25 to $9.50. Most cows cashed at $5.50 to $6.00, heifers $6.50 to $7.50. Best veals closed $1.50 higher at $15.50, first cuts showing acorresponding gain at $12.00 to $13.00. Heavy calves went through the week at little or no change, most sales from $7.00 to $10.00. Canner yearlings steady at $5.25 to $5.50.

Hogs Recover Setback.

Increased supplies combined with a curtailed demand proved disastrous to the local hog trade the first sessions of the current week. The market was draggy and continually on the decline from Monday until Thursday. A slow shipping and butcher demand gave big packers a chance to bear on the trade, which they did. At the close of the Thursday period good hogs 180 pounds and up were 75c to 95c lower, most decline was on weighty offerings. Pigs were 25c to 65c lower, with weighty pigs showing the most loss, packing sows were 35c to 50c lower. Supplies, however, fell off the last two days of the week and the demand picked up considerably, consequently a good portion of the week's earlier loss was regained. Top today was $9.90, as to $9.60 at the week's low time, and $10.35 last Saturday. As compared with a week ago, good hogs weighing 190 pounds and up are 35c to 45c lower and light weights 160 to 180 pounds are 10c to 25c off. Packing sows and pigs also recovered most of the week's earlier loss. Receipts for the current week were approximately 63,875, as compared with 52,289 last week and 67,064 the same week last year. Quality was fair to good. The demand the past week was centered on light weights 200 pounds and down, although weightier hogs sold fairly good. Pigs and lights closed the period steady to a little higher than a week ago. Bulk of best pigs 90 to 150 pounds sold for the week at $8.25 to $9.25. Packing sows closed steady to 25c lower than last Saturday after showing a 35c to 50c loss at the close of the Thursday period. Most sows sold at $8 to $8.50. Stags largely $8 to $8.50.

A better demand with lighter receipts in the early part of the current week had a bouyant influence on the first two days' trade. Late in the week, however, receipts increased and trading the latter part of the period was steady. The markets were fairly active and good clearances were noted each day. The bulk of the supply was purchased by packers, although city butchers bought several loads each day, excepting Monday. As compared with a week ago, lambs to packers are 25c to 50c higher; to butchers mostly 50c higher. City butchers bought the bulk of their supply at $13.75 to $14, incidentally they paid $14 for lambs every day they were in the market. Packer top was $13.65, with the bulk of packers at $13.25 to $13.60. Cull lambs cashed at $8.50 to $9 to butchers and packers. Aged sheep were in moderate demand throughout the period and prices were firm. Best light ewes cashed at $5.50 with weightier kinds $4.50 to $5. Choppers and bucks $3 to $3.50. Canners sold mostly at $1.50 to $2.50. Packers purchased from the local feed lots several decks of fed Western wool lambs at $14, 25c higher than the previous week. They also bought several decks of clipped fed Western lambs at $12.50. Wethers were in fair supply and the demand moderate. Prices are unchanged from a week ago. Best native yearlings—odd lots—made $11 to $11.50. One deck of Southern yearlings cashed at $9. Several odd bunches and short loads of Southern wethers cashed at $4.50 to $6.50, with canner wethers at $2 to $3.

Horses and Mules.

Trading was fairly active here the past week in horse and mules under moderate receipts and prices held fully steady. Some slowness apparent in the medium and small mules too thin for the Southern trade and plain big mules that were not big neough for export and not enough bone for miners. Fat cotton mules found ready outlet at steady prices and some extra good Carolina chunks sold better.

Receipts of horses were light and quality was fair. Very few buyers were on hand for the better class of native horses, but a good demand was heard for range horses, both wild and broke.

NATIVE HOSE QUOTATIONS.

Good to choice draft, $135@165; medium to good draft, $75@125; good to choice chunks, $75@100; medium to good chunks, $50@65; choice southern horses, $45@60; fair to good southern horses, $25@35; smooth-mouthed southerners, $15@25; plugs, $5@15.

NATIVE MULE QUOTATIONS.

Draft mules, 16 to 17 hands, $175@250; mine mules, 15 to 16.2 hands, $125@160; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 16 to 16.2 hands, $140@165; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 15 to 15.2 hands, $110@135; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 14.2 to 15 hands, $85@100; cotton mules, mares, rough haired, 15 to 15.2 hands, $65@90; cotton mules, mares, rough haired, 14.2 to 15 hands, $45@65; horse mules, $15@20 per head less than above quotations. Farm mules, broke, good bone, 15.3 to 16.2 hands, $90@125; medium farm mules, $80@90; farm mules, thin, half broke, 15.2 to 16 hands, $50@75; small, common mules, $15@40.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER FOLLOWING A SETBACK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The cotton market showed a generally steady tone today on covering by recent sellers, combined with trade and commission house buying on reports of low temperatures in the Southwest and a generally steady spot situation. January contracts, after selling off to 19.74 cents, advanced to 20.01 cents and closed at 19.94 cents, compared with 19.90 cents at the close Friday. The general market closed steady at net advances of four to 20 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to an advance of seven points on overnight buying orders attracted by the firmer tone yesterday. This initial demand was soon supplied by realizing or liquidation, together with local and Southern selling, and prices eased off to 19.70 cents for December and 20.07 cents for May, or about 13 to 16 points net lower.

Trade interests were again credited with buying on scale down orders, however, and prices firmed up later on renewed covering. Some commission house buying also was reported on the advance, which extended to 19.96 cents for December and 20.33 cents for May, or about seven to 12 points above Friday's closing quotations. The tone was a few points off from the best under realizing.

Conflicting views were expressed as to the probable showing of the census report on domestic consumption for October, which is expected at the opening of the market on Monday, and the uncertainty in this respect may have a restricting effect on business, which was comparatively quiet.

Private cables attributed early advances in Liverpool to Bombay buying and covering on the improved technical position, and the prospect for a cold wave in the Southwest, followed by partial reactions under hedging and liquidation.

Manchester advices reported a better feeling owning to an improved demand for cotton cloths from India.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 168,000 bales against 250,000 at the same time last year.

WHEAT PRICES UP WITH A RUSH AS CORN DROPS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Wheat prices went up with a rush today and the corn market came down equally fast. Canada's Government crop report, extreme cold weather over the Canadian prairies, and fresh word of damage by rust in Argentina lifted wheat. Washington official crop figures were the ruling force in the corn trade.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 2c to 2½c net higher, with corn 2¼c to 2⅝c off; oats ¼@⅜c to ⅛c down, and provisions unchanged to 50c up.

Primarily, the wheat market was faced today by the Canadian Government estimate pointing to a reduction of 13,000,000 bushels since September in the expected yield of the three prairie provinces. Whereas a decided increase had of late been looked for by numerous traders. Moreover, the prevailing cold wave was generally taken to indicate likelihood of smaller country marketings in Canada. Demand here for wheat was further stimulated by scarcity of offerings and by private estimates that the new Argentine crop will be 10,000,000 bushels under last year's harvest.

Today's advices about rust in Argentina said reports were current at Buenos Aires that the crop had been badly damaged. The news was contained in a dispatch from a Chicago crop observer, but did not appear to imply first-hand observation by him. Meanwhile, European demand today for wheat from North America was described as rather slow, but Hamburg, Germany, cabled that good business had been done in Canadian wheat to be shipped by way of the Pacific Coast

Corn closed weak as a result of persistent selling on the part of holders influenced by the bearish aspect of the Government corn crop report. Besides, cold weather was regarded as favorable for cribbing operations. Speculative buying, though, was of a free character at times.

Oats reflected the action of corn despite a reduction of 50,000,000 bushels in the Canadian oats crop as compared with two months ago.

Provisions were firmer owing to scattered buying.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

A. C. K.—Please state what kind of Government training schools you want to locate.

B. R.—You may get in touch with someone to make Spanish translations through the Spanish consulate. See telephone directory.

INQUISITIVE. — Probably the reason the occurrence was not mentioned in local papers is that complete police records are not published. News may be obtained from different public records, but no attempt is made to publish the whole record.

LOU.—Square measure applies to surface and cubic measure applies to volume. The wall area of a well 8 feet square and 8 feet deep is 8 times 8 (64) multiplied by 5 to include the bottom. If the well is covered this would be 64 square feet additional. The cubic feet would be its three dimesions multiplied together (512 cubic feet). A cubic foot is 7.08052 United States gallons, which, multiplied by the number of cubic feet (512) will give the number of gallons.

INQUIRER.—The need for river pilots is acute, but is one that cannot be filled immediately or rapidly. Regardless of how much education you have, to qualify as a pilot on any river you would have to know that particular channel, which can only be known by experience. A man must be able to make a sworn statement as to three years' continuous experience before he is licensed as a pilot by the Government. Some years ago men were known to pay their board on a vessel in order to learn to be pilots, now in some cases they are paid while learning. For details address Capt. C E. Patton, Superintendent of Mississippi Warrior Barge Line, Memphis, Tenn.

R. S. V. P.—It is always right to enclose postage and self-addressed envelope when you ask for reply, except in social correspondence. It is necessary if you want your manuscripts returned The department of criticlsm you ask about is for those who show talent but need coaching. Probably a letter asking if you show sufficient talent to undertake the work at the present time would be a good letter to send yith your first manuscript.

ST. LOUIS.—The S. S. Leviathan is 950 feet long, its beam or breadth is 100 feet, depth from keel to smokestack 180 feet, gross tonnage 59,956 and maximum horsepower 100,000. Its decks have an arear of seven and one-half acres. From end to end it is almost twice as long as the Washington monument is high, or pictured standing on end, its height would be 158 feet greater than that of the Woolworth Building, the tower of which is 58 stories above the street.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

A. V. T.—The law has been repealed, so that living in the county you need not pass a State Board examination to do marcelling and hair dressing in your home.

SUBSCRIBER.—If the title to property is in your husband's name, on his death without leaving a will, you, your son, and his daughter would each receive one-third of the property.

ANXIOUS FOUR.—It will be necessary for you to put your proposition as to boxing before the Missouri Athletic Commission, which meets on Tuesdays and Fridays, between 2:30 and 4 p. m., on the fourth floor of City Hall.

READER. — The party who killed fur-bearing animals out of season has no right to the pelts and they can be confiscated by the authorities. For license to keep fur-bearing animals for producing purposes apply to State Game and Fish Commissioner, Jefferson City, Mo., giving him full details of what you want to do.

O. M. Z.—If property and a bank account were owned by your father and your stepmother jointly, on his death she became sole owner and you do not share. However, you are entitled to all of the insurance on your brother's life, as you say your father was named beneficiary in the policy, and also to one-half of any other property which your father left which was not owned jointly. You do not have to support your stepmother or turn in your pay check to her. You should consult a lawyer.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

MILLICENT.—It is possible that bad teeth, pyorrhea, or some irritation about the tonsils or sinuses is responsible for the eruption on the cheek occurring at different times. A dentist, or doctor, or both, should be consulted.

EMMA.—A tonic, such as the elixir of iron, quinine and strychnine, in dessertspoonful doses, three times daily after meals should serve to build you up and restore strength. Also take systematic outdoor exercise, keep good hours, getting plenty of sleep, with freedom from overwork and worry, correcting constipation if necessary.

WORRIED. — Abnormally low blood pressure may occur in infectious fevers, anemia, cochetic conditions, diabetes, mellitus, shock etc., and is due to weakened force of the heart's action in pumping blood through the arteries, or any abnormal condition of the arteries through which the blood flows, hence may occur in cellulitis. Cellulitis is an inflamation of the cellular, or loose connective, tissue, chiefly beneath the skin, but also between muscles and viscera, or surrounding organs. It may be caused by wounds, infections, etc.

A. B. C.—Snoring is due to the vibration of the soft palate sometimes resulting from sleeping on the back, also may be due to an abnormality in the nose or throat. To find the cause or causes a specialist should be consulted. Will recommend some one if you send stamped, self-addressed envelope, and will send name of the other specialist wanted if you will repeat the request.

PAI—The chief reliance for treatment in such a case as mentioned, is by hot and electric baths, certain light rays, etc., systematically given. For this Barnes Hospital is well equipped. Our advice is that you go there for treatment and not tamper with other methods and suggestions. Diet is important. If you wish and will send stamped envelope we will mail list for your guidance.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear mother, Josie Haitz, who departed this life 6 years ago Nov. 10. Sadly missed by
DAUGHTER AND FAMILY and SCHMIDT FAMILY. (c)

In loving memory of our dear father, William F. Dickneite, who died Nov. 9, 1918, and my dear mother, Bertha Dickneite (nee Scheufeler), who died May 12, 1916.
Sadly missed by their daughter, NAOMI.

To commemorate the first anniversary of the death of my mother, Mrs. Barbara Brown, there will be a requiem high mass sung at St. Joseph's Church for the repose of her soul, Saturday, Nov. 19, at 8 a. m. May she rest in peace.
GEORGE J. BROWN (son).

In loving memory of Frank A. Degenhardt, who departed this life Nov. 14, 1925:
You are not forgotten, father dear,
Nor ever shall you be.
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
WIFE, SON AND RELATIVES.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Theo. A. Lange, who departed this life five years ago, Nov 15, 1922.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell.
Of the loss of one we loved so well;
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep,
His memory we shall always keep.
Sadly missed by his PARENTS, SISTERS AND BROTHERS

In loving memory of Corp. Edw. H. Alewel, Co. H, 356th Inf., 89th Div., killed in action, Nov. 11, 1918, Meuse-Argonne.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who once sat there.
Sadly missed by MOTHER, STEPFATHER, SISTER, BROTHERS and all who loved him. 915 Elias.

In loving memory of my dear pal, Alma Borchardt, who departed this life three years ago, Nov. 16, 1924.
Nothing can ever take away the love a heart holds dear
Fond memories linger every day: remembrance keeps her near Sadly missed by SELMA FISCHER.

In memory of Raymond Haemmerle, who died on Nov. 14, 1926:
One long year has passed away
Since that most sad and mournful day,
When God alone who knows the best,
Called him to that home of rest.
Friends may think the wound is healed:
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.
DEAR SON AND BROTHER.

In loving memory of our darling daughter and sister, Mildred Annie Buerger, who departed this life four years ago today, Nov. 14, 1923:
What would we give to clasp her hand,
Her happy face to touch,
To hear her voice and see her smile,
That meant so much to us.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER, BROTHERS AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

In memory of our beloved son, Clarence M. Gahn, who departed his life Nov. 11, 1925:
Our lips cannot tell how we miss him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss him
In our home that is lonesome today.
Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER AND SISTER.

In loving memory of my beloved daughter and our dear sister, Agnes Connolly, who departed this life 18 years ago, Nov. 12, 1909:
Dear Agnes, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, BROTHER AND ALL HHO LOVED HER.

In loving memory of Vera Wiemer (nee Staeger), who died Nov. 9, 1918:
We recall sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
Oh, what would we give to clasp her hand,
Her dear, sweet face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
How happy we would be.
Sadly missed by
HER MOTHER AND HER SISTER VIOLET AND ALL WHO LOVED HER

In loving memory of our darling and idolized daughter, granddaughter, niece and cousin, May Behrend, who departed this life Nov. 5, 1926:
This lovely bud, so young, so fair,
Called hence by early doom,
Just came to show how sweet a flower
In Paradise would bloom.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER AND GRANDMOTHERS AND ALL WHO LOVED HER

In loving memory of my dear husband, Adolph Lang, who departed this life one year ago, Nov. 9, 1926:
I have lost my soul companion,
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss him more,
As I walk through life alone.
Past his suffering, past his pain,
Ceased to weep for tears are vain,
He who suffered is at rest,
Gone to heaven with the blest.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

IN loving memory of Emma Becktame, who departed this life 1 year ago Nov. 2, 1926:
Our family circle has been broken
Though we're parted for awhile
We know we'll meet again.
No one knows how much we miss you
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you.
Life has never been the same
In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly, tender, fond and true.
There is not a day,
My dear, that we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, SISTERS, NIECES AND NEPHEWS.

Quick, Easy Way to Earn

$15 A DAY PROFIT

You can make $15 a day taking orders for Jiffykake—an amazing New Cake Preparation that has taken the country by storm. Makes perfect cakes in just a few minutes. No eggs, milk, sugar, shortening needed. No guesswork. Results always sure and certain. So quick, convenient and economical that everybody orders.

No Experience or Capital Needed

You don't need previous selling experience to make big money with Jiffykake. Just show it to housewives and take their orders. Contains the same pure ingredients used in the home—eggs, flour, sugar, shortening, baking powder, etc.—all mixed and ready to use. Just add water and bake. Two kinds—plain and chocolate. I don't sell Jiffykake to stores. So there's no competition. You and you alone get the profits on all business from your territory.

$125 a Week

That's what Vaughn made with my proposition. Albers cleared $47 in one day. Mrs. Hodges earns $18 to $20 every day. Mrs. Roof cleared $50 the first week in spare time. And you can do as well as any of them, for Jiffykake is only one of my 350 fast-selling products that are in big demand everywhere.

SEND NO MONEY

I'll prove you can make $15 a day starting right now. I furnish everything you need—tell you whom to see—what to do—and what to say. Be the first to introduce Jiffykake in your territory. You don't risk a penny in getting the facts. So mail coupon today—RIGHT NOW!

THE JIFFYKAKE COMPANY,
3656 Monmouth Av., Cincinnati, Ohio.

PREFER MEN EXPERIENCED IN SELLING PUBLIC UTILITIES OR BOND ISSUE, OR MEN OF GOOD CONNECTION WITH SALES RECORD IN OTHER LINES. ADDRESS B-376.

A PERMANENT SALES POSITION

A nationally known organization has two openings in the Southwest; one in Kansas and one in Texas. The positions will be filled by experienced specialty salesmen. Both territories are permanent with very little travel and both offer an opportunity to earn from $7500 to $10,000 a year or better in congenial noncompetitive work. Every co-operation is extended in the way of training and leads from national and local advertising. The men employed will be between the ages of 28 and 40, college trained preferably, and experienced in selling some high grade specialty to mature business men. This is not a financial, insurance or real estate proposition, and no canvassing. Write a full letter and give your phone number. If you have the necessary qualifications an appointment will be arranged. Reply to Box P-220, Post-Dispatch. (c1)

THREE MEN
Who Will Make Selling a Life Job

The opportunity is here to make a larger income than the vast majority of men in or out of selling work. But it is only the opportunity. You will have to earn every dollar you get.

The work is on the sales staff of a life insurance organization that has earned an enviable reputation and made a signal success.

It is a permanent job. We don't want quitters or shifters. We do want three men who believe they are entitled to a greater than ordinary success and are willing to work for it. You may never have been a salesman or you may be a salesman looking for a bigger opportunity. If you are a worker and know you possess the qualifications for success, write us telling why you should be one of the three men we are going to select. Address Box E-342, P.-D.

She Couldn't Resist His Eyes, So Durand (Illinois) Pastor Is Now Out of a Pulpit and Is Suing Six Members of His Flock for Slander.

Rev. John A. Logan Warren.

By GUY FORSHEY
of the Post-Dispatch Staff

DURAND, Illinois. A SPRIGHTLY young Methodist minister was the the Rev. John A. Logan Warren, and he had a roving eye and a disposition to be friendly. Especially, he liked the ladies, and the younger ones. The elder female members of his flock found him not quite so amiable. A good many said he high-hatted them. Sometimes when they met him on the street he would pass right on, looking past them as if absorbed in mighty problems, and even after services, when he stood at the door shaking hands, he was not quite the sort of pastor the elder sisters admire and find most comforting in the dullness of a small town like Durand.

But in spite of these traits, unfortunate as they were in a village where much depends on the feelings of the elder sisters, the Rev. Mr. Warren was achieving a fair degree of success as pastor of the Durand Methodist Episcopal Church. Some who defended him said he was intellectually superior to his congregation and that his opponents merely couldn't understand him. Anyway, if he wasn't so sympathetic as he might have been, he was businesslike, and his collections were larger than collections had ever been before his arrival. In a little more than a year he had completed the building of a new $80,000 church to replace the one destroyed by fire two years earlier, and with all his high-hatting he had brought about a lively increase in attendance. Of excellent standing in the Rock River Conference, he was almost "made" as a minister, almost ready for promotion to a big-town pulpit.

THEN suddenly the Rev. John A. Logan Warren found himself in trouble—the worst mess a minister of the gospel had got himself into since the fictional Elmer Gantry's affair with Lulu Bains down at Schoenheim. It was "girl trouble," very similar to Elmer's, and in this case considerably more disastrous. That was last January.

DURAND, Illinois. A SPRIGHTLY young Methodist minister was the the Rev. John A. Logan Warren, and he had a roving eye and a disposition to be friendly. Especially, he liked the ladies, and the younger ones. The elder female members of his flock found him not quite so amiable. A good many said he high-hatted them. Sometimes when they met him on the street he would pass right on, looking past them as if absorbed in mighty problems, and even after services, when he stood at the door shaking hands, he was not quite the sort of pastor the elder sisters admire and find most comforting in the dullness of a small town like Durand.

But in spite of these traits, unfortunate as they were in a village where much depends on the feelings of the elder sisters, the Rev. Mr. Warren was achieving a fair degree of success as pastor of the Durand Methodist Episcopal Church. Some who defended him said he was intellectually superior to his congregation and that his opponents merely couldn't understand him. Anyway, if he wasn't so sympathetic as he might have been, he was businesslike, and his collections were larger than collections had ever been before his arrival. In a little more than a year he had completed the building of a new $80,000 church to replace the one destroyed by fire two years earlier, and with all his high-hatting he had brought about a lively increase in attendance. Of excellent standing in the Rock River Conference, he was almost "made" as a minister, almost ready for promotion to a big-town pulpit.

THEN suddenly the Rev. John A. Logan Warren found himself in trouble—the worst mess a minister of the gospel had got himself into since the fictional Elmer Gantry's affair with Lulu Bains down at Schoenheim. It was "girl trouble," very similar to Elmer's, and in this case considerably more disastrous. That was last January.

Without further chronicle of the steps in his downfall at this point, it may be stated that the Rev. Mr. Warren no longer is a minister. After several months of gossip, charges, counter charges, slander suits and church hearings, he was unfrocked not long ago when a Rock River Conference trial board of 15 ministers heard his case at the conference meeting at Oak Park, a suburb of Chicago. Found guilty of unbecoming conduct (which really was only a euphemism), he was not only deprived of ministerial standing, but also cast out of the Methodist Church.

He is selling insurance in Rockford now, and Durand is discussing what will happen if he ever shows his face there again. It has been discussing the scandal or some of its ramifications ever since last winter, and the story seems destined to at least a neighborhood immortality. It may be that some of the very young children in Durand will outlive the tale of Pastor Warren's indiscretions, but that is doubtful.

SO FAR as the townspeople can remember now, the morning of last January 14 was a very quiet morning, as most mornings are in Durand. That is, it was quiet up to a certain time. About 8 a. m., it seems, Mrs. Warren came downstairs a little more quietly than usual and went softly to the kitchen. There stood her husband with both arms around the housemaid. The maid saw her and broke away, but Warren didn't see her and followed the maid across the room. The first intimation he had of his wife's presence was when she screamed and let fly at him with a stove shaker. It caught him plump on the back of the head and laid open his scalp. Then she screamed again and the maid screamed and fled and there was so much commotion that the neighbors came running out to see what the excitement was about. Observing it was a family fight, they went about their own business without much important information as to details, but details were not lacking very long.

The new $80,000 church at Durand.

Hazel Lamb, the housemaid, became frightened. She was only 19 years old and inexperienced in amours with pastors, or anybody else, for that matter. The neighbors say now that she always was a stay-at-home, who never even had a date like other girls, although she was possessed of a certain beauty. She had been graduated from the community high school the spring before and, last fall, finding other employment scarce in Durand, went to help with the housework at the parsonage. Her father, who was a janitor at the Methodist Church, said he thought she would be better protected there than if she left home and sought work in Rockford, which is 20 miles away and as wicked as most cities of its size.

Hazel was almost in hysteria when she came running home from the parsonage that January morning, and after she had calmed down a bit she told her mother the whole story. Her mother told the girl's father and the father told the church board, and before long the whole town had it and was being shocked as Durand never had been shocked before.

THE surprising of the pair by Mrs. Warren and the ensuing kitchen combat had been only the closing episode of an extended affair of intrigue, according to the girl's account. Months before that she had fallen victim to the dapper pastor's charms. She had been hypnotized, she said. She had tried to resist, but he had always compelled her to look him in the eye, and when she looked him in the eye she was powerless, because his eyes fascinated her. There had been a lot of meetings with him, she said. More than once, after a blazing denunciation of sin, he had hastened from the pulpit to keep a tryst with her in his own home, almost under the eyes of his wife. Sometimes he lingered behind when Mrs. Warren went downtown shopping or out to visit the neighbors. And once when Mrs. Warren was out of town the two had spent the nights together in the parsonage.

WHEN Durand had heard this story it was frankly stumped. Never before had the Methodist Church had such a situation to deal with. Members and church officials debated heatedly about what should be done, but several weeks passed before anything definite was done. In the meantime church and Sunday school attendance fell off until it was hardly worth while to keep the church open. The Methodist congregation found in this circumstance a bitter pill of irony. Here they had just spent $80,000 to build one of the finest small-town churches in Northern Illinois, and then within six months after its dedication were ashamed to be seen in it because of the conduct of their pastor. Mrs. Sylvia Sodamon flatly refused to continue teaching her Sunday school class and several other teachers followed her example.

Mrs. Warren, who at first was reported to be planning a divorce action, came to the pastor's support and did her best to save the situation by visiting the members, and Pastor Warren became unusually cordial with everybody, but still the scandal could not be talked down. Finally, the district superintendent, the Rev. C. K. Carpenter of Baileyville, came to town and the church board laid the matter before him. They urged the superintendent to remove Warren at once, and Hazel Lamb's father formally entered charges against the minister.

The Rev. Mr. Carpenter told them the case was entirely too serious to permit any summary action on his part and that he would have to see the Bishop. A few days later he did confer with Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, and it was decided to call on the Rev. Mr. Warren for an explanation. Warren was then apprised of the charges and asked what he was going to do about them. He said he was going to do plenty. It was all a frame-up on the part of political enemies who had opposed his candidacy for Congress in the last campaign, he declared, and he was going to hire a lawyer to go to the bottom of these charges and uncover whatever lay beneath them.

ACCORDINGLY, he engaged a Rockford attorney and filed suits for slander against six members of his congregation. Named as defendants were Mrs. Sylvia Sodaman, Wallace Best, Edgar Best, A. E. Swinson, Jud Van Sickle and Albert Fritz, the Postmaster. He asked for $50,000 from each for malicious defamation of character.

The suits were regarded locally as mere gestures to check town gossip, although nobody could figure out why he picked on those six people in particular.

On the night of May 30 Warren was given opportunity to acquaint a church jury with what he had found as to the alleged frame-up. That night will be long remembered in Durand as a mighty occasion. Before a board of ministers and church officials a secret hearing was held while an excited crowd filled the streets outside and tried to keep up with proceedings by peeking now and then through an opening door or under the stained glass windows. Warren told his story and Hazel Lamb told hers. Numerous witnesses, comprising neighbors and townspeople, also told what they knew of the case, and upon passing outside were immediately pounced upon by the crowd, eager for information.

The hearing lasted until past midnight, and when it ended, announcement was made that Warren would depart on leave of absence but would continue to hold his standing as a minister until the charges could be passed upon by the Rock River conference at its October meeting. The Durand pulpit, meanwhile, would be filled by the Rev. Frank Sheets of the neighboring town of Oregon who had conducted Warren's prosecution.

THE case came up on October 6 at the conference meeting in the Euclid Avenue Methodist Church at Oak Park. Fifteen brother Methodist ministers constituted the trial board with the Rev. Louis F. W. Lesemann of Chicago acting as judge. The Rev. Frank D. Sheets again conducted the prosecution, assisted by the Rev. Fred D. Stone, of Irving Park Church, Chicago, and Warren was defended by the Rev. John Thompson, of the First Methodist Church, Chicago, and the Rev. W. S. Fleming of Chicago.

The trial was conducted behind closed doors and continued for more than two days. Warren's defenders tried to combat Hazel Lamb's story with contentions that she had been hired to tell it by Warren's political enemies and some declared the charges against the minister were trumped up by a jealous faction in the church. Mrs. Lilly Young, wife of a Durand dentist, was one of these. She testified the whole thing was the result of a quarrel between Warren and Axel Erickson, a Durand clothier, over a tableau staged by the church.

"Mr. Erickson was instructing the girls how to wear their costumes," she said, "when the Rev. Warren came in. Some of the girls were so scantily clad that Mr. Warren ordered Mr. Erickson out and told the girls to put on more clothes. That was the start of the whole thing." Others gave similar testimony.

But Hazel Lamb's story set forth clearly that the start of the whole thing had taken place sometime before the tableau argument. She told it on the stand and although Warren was hopeful to the last, his case, according to the prosecutors, was doomed from the time she left the chair. Anyway, when the sealed verdict was delivered, it was found that 12 of the 15 ministers had voted "guilty." One was for acquittal and two had failed to vote. Only a majority vote was required and conviction automatically carried the penalty of dismissal from the ministry and the church.

THE girl's testimony at the hearing followed closely the account she had given in a sworn statement previously placed in the hands of the conference authorities, and set forth the fact that Pastor Warren began his wooing the day before the new Durand church was dedicated.

"It was on Saturday evening, September 13," she related, "that I was asked by Mrs. Warren to work at the parsonage on Monday. I accepted the offer and helped her most of that week. One evening just before the church dedication Mr. Warren drove me home from the parsonage. He put his arm across the back of the seat and then around my shoulders. He had been working very hard that day and seemed unusually tired. I sympathized with him as I would with a brother. Several days passed and I helped Mrs. Warren when she asked me. One day while I was helping Mr. Warren look for a book in his study he made advances and I was angry, but when he seemed sorry I forgave him.

"A few days later I was in the house alone with him. Mrs. Warren had gone downtown to settle for an overcoat. I was getting supper and Mr. Warren was in the dining room. He called to me. I started in but the light was off and I hesitated. He was near the door and forced me into the room. I was afraid to scream and was so frightened I could only moan. The next few minutes are not very clear. I remember asking him if he had no more mercy than a beast and after awhile I struggled away. I thought then that I hated him, but his eyes fascinated me. I would turn my head and close my eyes but he always made me look back into his eyes. It gave me the chills.

"This kept on until I came to believe I was in love with him. He said he loved me and was going to take me to Washington with him when he was elected to Congress. I had no desire to break up his home and fought against meeting him but I was powerless to do anything he didn't want me to. One Friday evening when Mrs. Warren was away he came home and asked me to meet him again that night at the parsonage. I refused at first and then finally consented. Then again one night in October I went to his darkened home. He carried me upstairs. After that it didn't seem to make any difference and I quit trying to break off.

"On the morning Mrs. Warren saw us I had gone down early and was taking some clothes from the rack when he came up from the basement and put his arms around me and told me how much he loved me. Then Mrs. Warren came in. She grabbed the stove shaker and hit him on the head. Then she tried to choke me and beat me with her fists. She had an awful spell. She would scream, call on the telephone and run from one end of the house to the other. When she asked me for an explanation I tried to deny it but couldn't lie very long. Then I told her everything."

ALTHOUGH ousted from the pulpit and with prospects for a "come-back" very slender, Warren is still fighting for his job, which, he points out, is the only job he knows. He has appealed from the verdict of the Rock River trial board and the case will be reviewed by the General Methodist Conference at Kansas City next spring.

When I saw him at his home in Rockford recently, he reiterated his declaration that Hazel Lamb's story was a clumsy frame-up and that in time he would prove it. It is clear, he pointed out, that she didn't think of it herself but was telling merely what she was told to tell. Disappointed in his effort to shake the girl's version in two church trials, he now is gathering further evidence for use in the civil hearing where, instead of ministers, lawyers skilled in cross examination will ask the questions. The odds against him seem pretty heavy with his former congregation 90 per cent against him but it can't be said that John A. Logan Warren isn't dying hard.

A Chicago Divorce Case Which Parallels a Sherlock Holmes Story

Frances Johnson's Prosperous Salesman Had a Stock in Trade of Six Pencils Which He Never Sold.

Mrs. Frances Johnson.

When the beggar looked up to thank her, his green glasses slipped down on his nose and Mrs. Johnson recognized her husband.

CHICAGO.

THAT master detective, Sherlock Holmes, was once confronted with a case that nearly baffled him, that led him at first to a mistaken conclusion. It was the mysterious disappearance of Neville St. Clair, prosperous business man, as told by Holmes' creator, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, in the story, "The Man With the Twisted Lip."

A case in actual life that has remarkable parallels to "The Man With the Twisted Lip" has just been disclosed here. Frances Johnson was confronted with a mystery somewhat similar to that which for a time all but thwarted the great Holmes. And Frances is not a great detective, not a detective at all, in fact, but a rather credulous and impulsive girl, 18 years old.

This is the mystery that Mrs. Neville St. Clair called upon Holmes to unravel: Walking along a London side street, in the late afternoon, she had looked up, in response to a startled cry, to see her husband's face in the third-story window of a shabby-looking house. Instantly his head had been withdrawn, as if in terror, and frantically she had tried to make her way to him but had been stopped by the villainous-looking owner of the house.

The police, who forced their way in, arrested a man found on the third floor, a professional beggar whose face was distorted by a hideous scar that twisted up the corner of his mouth. There were blood stains and some traces of St. Clair's presence and the beggar was arrested and charged with murder. It was a splendid mystery and it took all Holmes' ingenuity to solve it. It was quite by accident that Frances Johnson stumbled upon the same solution that Holmes reached in "The Man With the Twisted Lip." And the outcome for her was very different from what it was for Mrs. Neville St. Clair.

FRANCES' life had not at all prepared her for solving mysteries. She lived with her mother, Mrs. Rosalia Milewski, of Polish birth. Their household was a modest and simple one. Frances had always been a good girl and the mother had never worried over her. Her job in a real estate office was a good one. It provided her with most of the things that normal girls who are 18 years old want. She was fond of dancing and she went to dances frequently.

One night several months ago, at a dance in the neighborhood, Frances met a man who said his name was Clarence Johnson. He danced well, he was fairly attractive and he seemed to have a very pleasant personality. Frances did not hesitate to let him see that she liked him and he, in his turn, showed that he was attracted to her.

For a whole week they went about together to dances and picture shows—without the knowledge of Frances' mother, however. He brought her to the doorstep of her home each night and toward the end of the week there were lingering farewells and whispered promises. He told Frances that he was a salesman, working on State street. But he was not very specific about his business. He had plenty of money, however, and this, after all, seemed the most important thing.

Mrs. Milewski got the surprise of her life one evening when Frances came home with two strange men. One of them she introduced as the clergyman of the church which she was attending and the other was Clarence Johnson whom Frances, as she informed her mother, intended to marry.

NOW this was rather a startling thing for a daughter to do—to bring a strange man home and announce that she intended to marry him. Naturally Mrs. Milewski offered some objections. But Frances brushed them all aside. Johnson did seem a likeable man and Frances had always been a good girl. They were married and went to live in a pleasant apartment on Throop street, near Mrs. Milewski's home.

And then Frances began to make some surprising discoveries. First of all, she learned that her new husband had a wooden leg. This was a startling revelation, particularly when Frances remembered what an excellent dancer Johnson was. He gave some vague explanation, passing it off with a statement that he was extremely sensitive about his misfortune.

The next discovery that the bride made was even more disconcerting. She found out that her husband's income was slight, to say the least. He went to work regularly at a certain hour and appeared sober and steady in his habits but there just didn't seem to be very much money at the end of the week. Business was bad, he said, a temporary depression.

That was another thing that began to mystify Frances—the nature of his business. He was a salesman, he told her, but she could never learn exactly what he sold nor what his business address was. This was a little embarrassing when friends questioned her. She began to have a great curiosity about all these things.

She had given up her job when she married but finally she found it necessary to go back to the real estate office and her old familiar typewriter again. The butcher, the grocer and the gas man had to be paid. She was patient enough with Johnson. When she asked him about money matters he told her she was too young to handle money. But she felt she should be trusted with at least enough to pay their current living expenses.

With her salary she kept the household going. She cared very much for Johnson and he was ready enough with assurances that business—his mythical business—would soon pick up. Meanwhile, she grew more and more curious.

Having paid the tradespeople and mailed off the checks for the other bills one Saturday night, Frances decided to do a little shopping. There was some money left over from her salary. Moreover, it was a good opportunity, for her husband had to work Saturday nights. It was his busiest time, he had told her.

She went to State street, where Clarence had his business. Perhaps she thought she might meet her husband and come home with him. State street was crowded with the usual throng of Saturday night shoppers. The windows were brightly alluring.

IMPATIENTLY Frances waited at Madison street for the policeman's whistle that would permit her crossing. Glancing about, her eyes fell on a hunched figure, sitting forlornly with his back against the building wall. A beggar, his store of pencils held pathetically out, his crutches by his side, a figure not unlike dozens of others in a great city, but for some reason a wave of pity surged over Frances. Here, she thought, was a man much worse off than she and Clarence were.

She opened her purse, took out a dime and dropped it into the cup the beggar held out, pitying the sightless eyes that were shielded by green glasses and an old cap pulled low. The beggar looked up to give his thanks, his glasses slipped down on the bridge of his nose slightly and Frances saw Clarence Johnson, her husband.

So, by a much more subtle process, had Sherlock Holmes unmasked Neville St. Clair, in "The Man With the Twisted Lip," as a professional beggar, accused of murdering the prosperous business man that he pretended to be when he came home to his family at night. The disguise had been very skillful. A piece of thread and flesh-colored court plaster formed the ugly scar that distorted the beggar's mouth, tan face stain that could be removed at night simulated filth and grime, but the great Holmes triumphed. In the Conan Doyle story everything ends happily when Sherlock, on St. Clair's promise to earn his living more honestly thereafter, promises to conceal the secret from his wife.

THERE was no such happy ending for Frances. She turned and fled from the sight of her beggar-husband to endure one of the bitterest hours she had ever known in her life, alone in their little apartment. Her husband a professional panhandler, a salesman of pencils that were sold a hundred times over, because, out of pity, no one would think of taking them.

Her first impulse was to leave him at once. Then she thought of her mother's objections to the marriage and of what her friends would say when they heard. Her pride won out at last and she decided to make the best of it.

When Clarence came home, she was still crying. This seemed to displease him greatly. He had brought his crutches home with him, no longer bothering, now that the secret was out, to leave them at the drug store where it had been his custom to call for them on his way to "work." So annoyed was he with Frances that he began to beat her with one of them, acording to the story she now tells. When she cried out, he undid his wooden leg and used that as a handier weapon with which to beat her.

This became quite a regular part of Johnson's daily routine. The leg was easily detachable, it was blunt and easy to grasp. But she could endure even this for her pride.

The end came not long afterward, however, when she was ill and unable to get up in the morning. She asked her husband to get her a glass of water. Instead, she says, he threw the alarm clock at her. She warned him that she could not endure their life together much longer. He picked up his stock in trade and his crutches and stood threateningly over her.

"I've sold these pencils at least ten thousand times," he said, "and I guess I can get along without you. But I can't get along without these pencils. I've still got the first pencil I ever bought and I can keep on selling them." And he strode out with his six pale green lead pencils.

The last shred of pride was gone. Not long after the door had slammed upon Clarence, Frances went home to her mother. Mrs. Milewski took her to a lawyer who at once began to prepare divorce proceedings.

Shortly thereafter the pencil king disappeared from his favored seat on the State street stock exchange. He has never, so far as Frances and her mother have been able to determine, returned to the apartment.

MRS. Johnson's case came up before Judge Joseph Sabath, who has heard more than 32,000 divorce cases. The story of the wooden leg, the beggar's cup and the lead pencils astounded him.

"This is the most remarkable case of the thousands I have heard," he said as he listened to testimony. "This poor girl certainly got the rawest deal I ever heard of. It is almost unbelievable."

Although he hears on an average of 100 divorce cases a week and although there are literally thousands of cases pending on the calendar, Judge Sabath took time to question Mrs. Johnson himself concerning her experience.

"He did not tell me he was a cripple before we were married," the young wife testified.

"But was that not visible?" the Judge asked.

"No, it wasn't," Frances answered. "I didn't know about it until we were married."

She told the story of his cruelties, of the crutches and the alarm clock which he had thrown at her. Her mother testified that she had seen the black and blue marks and the bruises which had come from the last beating he had administered. Mrs. Johnson testified that her husband had never given her any money and that she had had to go back to work to support their home.

"Divorce granted," Judge Sabath said.

MRS. JOHNSON'S lawyer, Stanley E. Basinski, is very anxious to find the big tin-cup and pencil man of State street. There is the little matter of allimony. It is Basinski's theory that Johnson made an income of no small proportions, all or most of which he managed to conceal from his wife. He points to the surprising incomes that some professional beggars are known to make. Certainly Johnson was no amateur and he had one of the best "stands" in Chicago. His efforts to consult Johnson about an alimony settlement have so far been futile.

"The unusual here-and-thereness of an enterprise like that of Mr. Johnson," Basinski said, "adds tremendously to the difficulty of my project on behalf of his wife.

"I am anxious to confer with Mr. Johnson for the purpose of learning facts and figures concerning the income he derives from sitting on sidewalks in comfortless postures, offering his pencils to the public at the public's own price. The theory is that his income is considerable. He himself told his wife, before their marriage, that he had a good income and while this may have been a mere 'front' he was probably telling the truth. But when my agents seek him at one corner he always has flitted to another. We have been unable thus far to catch up with him."

Since Basinski is a very ambitious and determined attorney, however, it is probable that some day he will catch up with Johnson's place of business.

As for Mrs. Johnson, she says she has had enough of mystery to last her for the rest of her life. She is going to know very definitely what her next husband's business is.

SOME 20 years ago, when Georgie and Willie Muse, Negroes, were born in the little mountain town of Clifton Forge, Virginia, nature played a joke. A transient medicine vendor saw it first, laughed until his sides shook, and employed it. Off to the Middle West he went. A small-time circus saw it, thought it was big-time stuff and took it. Then, after several years, Ringling Brothers and Barnum-Bailey had their turn.

So, according to best estimates, the joke is about 12 years old. But the laugh at present is by many sucker's lengths on the establishment of Barnum and Bailey.

Old Harriet Muse, pink parasol and all, is, through a Roanoke attorney, suing "the greatest show on earth" for $100,000, alleging that her two boys have for four years been "held in slavery" by the circus.

"And that ain't half of it, suh, they been callin' 'em Eko and Iko, Ambassadors from Mars, wherever that is, an' raisin' 'em up all heathenism. Eben said they was 'hairy monsters from Mars!' Well, Mars or no Mars, they's back wid their real ma now. An' payin' off time is coming 'round."

Old Harriet means business, she says. She can't reconcile Georgie and Willie with Eko and Iko, even if they are albinos and look rather odd. And what's all this talk about Mars, when Georgie and Willie came from Clifton Forge? And what about all those heart-breaking years of absence from the boys? Years spent, she says, above the old kitchen stove, when visions of Georgie and Willie hung with haunting persistence in the steam of the turnips and baking cornbread.

COULDN'T get so much as a word from them. Old Cabell Muse, the stalwart black daddy, would drive off each day in his coal truck. At night he'd come back, grimy and tired.

"An' what has you heard from Georgie and Willie?"

"Nothin', not eben nothin," old Harriet would say.

The hound would howl in the night time — dreary, distracting moans. "Maybe he's callin' Georgie and Willie," someone once remarked. But far was the call to the big top.

The Muse family left Clifton Forge and settled in Roanoke. Harriet kept the house in order and told all the neighbors about Georgie and Willie, of their alleged abduction by the medicine professor, and of the resulting heartaches.

Harriet can tell the story well. Sometimes she becomes explosive, but beneath it all is kindness. And who could keep from becoming bitter, she intimates, when pelted so unmercifully by fate, fortune and a transient medicine man?

The STOLEN TWINS Who Became "Ambassadors From Mars"

The Muse family left Clifton Forge and settled in Roanoke. Harriet kept the house in order and told all the neighbors about Georgie and Willie, of their alleged abduction by the medicine professor, and of the resulting heartaches.

Harriet can tell the story well. Sometimes she becomes explosive, but beneath it all is kindness. And who could keep from becoming bitter, she intimates, when pelted so unmercifully by fate, fortune and a transient medicine man?

But if she ever grew bitter, hope stayed as fast as the old hound. "Those boys is comin' home, sure as Gawd loves us they's comin' home," she often was heard to remark. Never said how she knew it, she just knew it, and that was enough. "They's comin' home."

About a month ago a party of men in white overalls, with paste buckets and long bill-posting implements, visited Roanoke. The elephant is coming to town, screamed lurid legends from the blazing sheets. Barnum and Bailey, combined with Ringling Brothers' show, will be here on October 14. All this old Harriet saw.

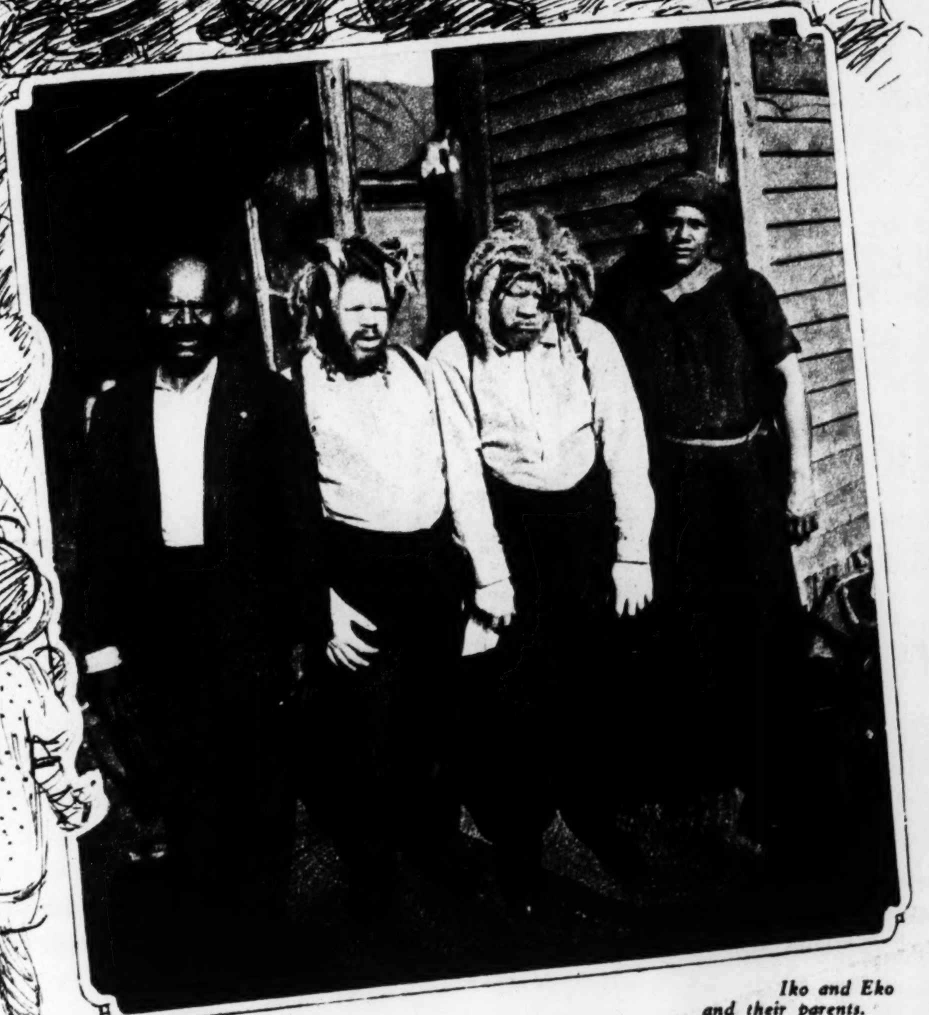
And a strange rumor spread through Ten-and-One-Half street, where most of Roanoke's better-off Negroes live. It made good listening at meal times. Old Harriet Muse says Georgie and Willie will be home with the circus.

Old Harriet kept talking, old Cabell kept driving the coal wagon, the hound kept howling. October 14 came, and the circus came with it. It was 1909 when Barnum-Bailey was last here. Once again from the Blue Ridge Mountains came those who find an elephant interesting and those who can laugh at a clown. They milled about the lot. The wise boys said the white elephant was sandpapered and the girls, who for 365 days of the year see more mountains than anything else, looked a bit wistful as the calliopes played "In the Good Old Summer Time."

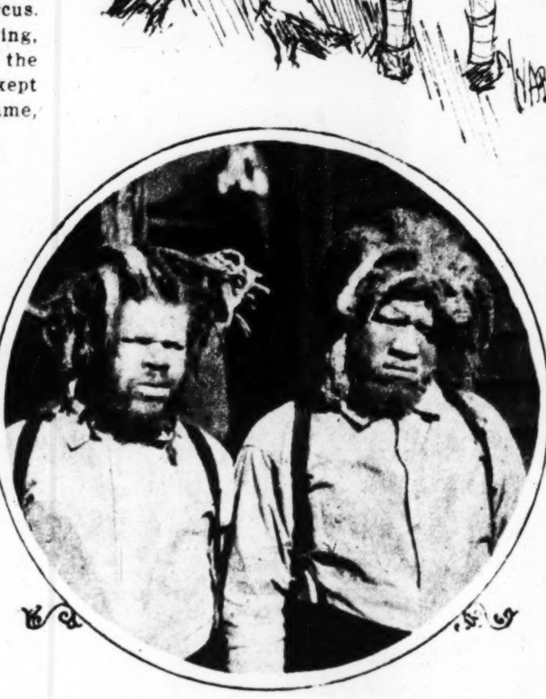
There was shouting and rushing about. Ballyhoo men ballyhooed, the lions roared, engines shifted cars in the near-by yards and red lemonade flowed as freely as the moonshine in the hills a stone's throw away. Taken altogether, a good time was being had by all.

All these were things of the surface. But the sardonic gods had yet a trump card to offer; they were casting a spell that was sending an old Negro woman scurrying across the lot with vague rumblings and searching eyes.

She was alone. It seemed that she knew something; if she didn't know it then she at least felt it. Those who saw her say there was no indecision in her stride. Maybe she knew all along where she was headed for.



Iko and Eko and their parents.



Iko and Eko.

"You don't have to believe me, ladies and gents, step inside and see for yourself," thundered the ballyhoo man, who clung to Mr. Barnum's beliefs about humans.

"They're here, ladies and gents, the Ambassadors from Mars. This is not a motion picture. They're in the flesh. Here for your inspection. White of skin, long of hair, and believe me when I say their eyes are pink. Hairy Monsters from Mars. Don't crowd, please. I know you want to see them, but please keep the aisles open. Three, you say? Dollar five! Here they are, hairy, horrible, astounding, inhuman monsters! Have been featured before all the crowned heads of Europe. Step right up!"

And little did he realize just what was "stepping up" at that time. For from the corner of a knotted handkerchief old Harriet was digging a quarter and a dime. Those who saw her say she had a curious look. It was 2 p. m., and from the bluest sort of sky an old Virginia sun was pounding down. Harriet adjusted beneath one ample arm a parasol. She tied the knot in the handkerchief, hesitated a moment and walked right in.

She entered the mammoth tent where Negro men and women were elbowing with white neighbors for points of vantage. A jazz band was in action, the clarinetist tooting a wild obligato against a background of grunting basses. Over the grassy floor heavy feet shuffled. Long lines extended from the entrance away to the farthest corners. In an unbroken chain were the freaks, seated on pedestals. The tattooed man, the strong man, wild men from the islands, wild ladies from the jungles—all were there. Children screamed, burst their toy balloons, and cried.

Into this old Harriet wandered.

ABOVE the din a stentorian voice was pleading. The owner of this voice de luxe was passing from freak to freak, explaining to gaping spectators the freakish points of the freaks.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen, we come to our feature a-ttraction—Eko and Iko, twins; the strangest you ever saw in your lives. Are they normal human beings? Not by a long jump! They are nature's enigmas. Many believe that they are Ambassadors from the far-off planet of Mars. Scientists are baffled. The world is puzzled, amazed, astounded at this intrusion upon our planet of these strange creatures. I ask you, ladies and gen-tle-men, are they Ambassadors from Mars?"

There was a sudden commotion among the spectators. Through the crowd an aisle was cleaved as with a charge of shrapnel. An excited Negro woman, pawing and pushing, was coming through the line. She gained the outer edge, stood wild-eyed for a moment, opened wide two burly arms and screamed: "Georgie, Willie, your ma is come."

THE barker ceased his discourse. The undertone of the crowd vanished. Children quit blowing tin whistles. The galaxy of freaks, their nonchalance put aside, turned, stood up and stared. And Eko and Iko, those strange Ambassadors from Mars, sprang into the embrace of their ma. Their style was a bit cramped, so elaborately were they dressed. It was not the full-dress attire that bothered them, nor even the red ribbon across their shirt fronts. It was the high, stiff collars.

But none who saw the demonstration denies that they did all they could. Their big, clumsy feet were dancing wildly, but the jazz band wasn't causing it. Under the canvas walls a steady breeze was coming and the long, white, sheeplike hair of Eko and Iko waved wildly.

The announcer was very, very unhappy. But to protest was useless. Frankly, he was embarrassed. All this talk of Mars and baffled scientists, only to be exploded by a hysterical Negro woman. And just at the climax of the tale. It was that which was even stranger than the story he was telling; it was truth stranger than fiction.

"Aw, I told you 'twas a lot of hokum," said the wise boys from the mountains.

The scene, though vigorous, was short-lived. With their arms firmly locked in hers, as though all the world, with Barnum and Bailey to boot, would be powerless to combat and separate them, old Harriet and her two albino sons pushed their way through the gathering crowd.

There were no cries of "Stop them!" from the show men. Everything seemed mighty quiet when they left. Across the lot they walked, arm in arm, out of the inclosures, out by the gaudy show cars and into the street. They were lost to view.

IN A LITTLE house in Ten-and-One-Half street that looks for all the world as though it would tumble down, two strange-looking men sit snugly beside a stove. They are no longer dressed in the finery of the Martian diplomatic corps. Except for the ever-watchful eye of their mother, few see them. The loneliness seems to sting deeply beneath their milk-white skins. They seem to miss the cries of "Right this way, ladies and gen-tle-men."

It wasn't so when they first came home. Callers swamped them then, and it might be mentioned that Willie and Georgie were geese that laid many golden eggs during their first hours home. Negroes swarmed through the house to glimpse their strange neighbors. They passed in an almost endless chain the first day, dropping coins into tin cups over which the former Ambassadors held stewardship, with old Harriet in the background.

So bountiful was the harvest that Cabell Muse didn't work the next day, it was reported by his employer. No place for him on a coal truck when coins were falling in his house like manna from heaven.

But at present someone has slain the generous golden goose. A large sign hangs on the door saying, "No Admittance." The law, cold and unfeeling, has wielded the ax. From city hall came the edict that Ten-and-One-Half street is very narrow and congregations on the sidewalk must be dispersed. The law looks on Eko and Iko with suspicion, anyway. One high-ranking official says: "Roanoke is in no need of any Ambassadors from Mars."

But with old Harriet they're everything. She doesn't care how the law feels about it. She knows, she says, that some medicine man carried them off when they were kids. He promised to educate them and to send her money regularly for their use. She knows that the show-world swallowed them up as a good thing. And she lays the blame at the door of "the greatest show on earth."

HER suit has been entered in Law and Equity Court in Richmond. Papers were served on the show immediately after it left Roanoke. The petition alleges that the two boys have been kept by the show without their consent and were paid "not a single penny." There is some conflict among the parties involved as to the ages of the albinos. The suit, in the form of a petition for an attachment, refers to Willie Muse as an infant under 21 years of age. The circus says he is older. Georgie is suing as an adult in his own behalf. Each wants $50,000.

The albinos themselves are not upset over the swirl of events so suddenly come upon them. They sit pensively beside the stove, thinking, perhaps, of the days of "Right this way, ladies and gen-tle-men. Are they, I ask you, Ambassadors from Mars?"

NOTES OF TELEPHONE TROUBLE

A Harmless Letter Started All This.

A PLAINTIVE letter comes from Frank Sullivan of 167 East 111th street:

"Very often I am called to the phone at University 8496 for calls intended for you, the caller evidently trying every Frank Sullivan in the book. If you wish to give me your number to give to these parties it may serve to expedite matters."

No, Frank. We sympathize with you. Our heart bleeds for you, but we do not wish to give you our telephone number to give to these parties. We do not wish matters expedited.

We wish the telephone as an institution were in Gehenna. The most blissfully perfect days we have experienced since the rosy, idle hours of childhood were the six days last spring when the telephone company cut off our service because the bill for the previous month had not been paid.

If our counsel had prevailed the bill would have gone unpaid. If the household had consisted of just ourself, the telephone company could have whistled for its dough. We should have written a letter to all the directors of the company, stating the amount due from us and asking them to name a day for the whistling. The triumph would have been ours, too, for the chances are that not one out of twenty-five telephone company directors can whistle worth a hoot. Granted that a larger proportion could, that could be fixed easily by parading up and down in front of the whistling ranks sucking a lemon. That would fix their whistles for a while.

Discussions took place in the household, the consensus being that the bill ought to be paid. As a minority of one we advocated the substitution of other means of communication with the few persons we wished to reach. We suggested the old Indian smoke signal. A fire of wet wood and damp leaves could easily be built on top of the apartment house, creating a column of smoke visible by day for miles. At night there would have been the Very lights used in the trenches during the war to make the world safe for democracy. We promised to brush up on our army semaphoring.

As the years pile on a person, the ring of the telephone bell becomes more and more a jangle. Age advances. With the advance of age disillusionment comes. The more disillusioned a man gets the fewer people he wants to see. The fewer people he wants to see the less use a telephone is to him. The more the telephone rings when a man is disillusioned the less he likes it and the more disillusioned he gets to be.

* * *

When a man's young and life is at the spring, each day means a new thrill and every ring of the telephone is a potential adventure. The telephone bell has a silvery tinkle. These are the salad days, when all the world is friendly and a youth believes that a woman means everything she says at 2 o'clock in the morning. He has a book full of telephone numbers. This is the book which, with a sardonic laugh, he casts into the furnace 10 or 15 years later.

After the salad days a man begins to lose his illusions. Ten or 15 disappointments in love and he takes to drink. Under the influence of drink he takes to love again, and has 10 or 15 more disappointments. He gives up drink. He then grows crotchety. Steaks which in earlier days he ate uncomplainingly he now sends back to the restaurant kitchen. He kicks if the bed is not made to suit him. He starts going to doctors. People who fail to hold their liquor annoy him. He couldn't hold his. In these days the telephone bell has a harsher sound. When he is called to the phone and someone says, "Guess who this is," his laugh is forced and not at all the buoyant, expectant peal it was in the earlier days. He doesn't half try to guess who it is. He doesn't give a damn.

He is none too secure himself, for, of course, the people he knows are undergoing the same process of disillusionment. Perhaps it is he who is pushed surreptitiously from the top of the Woolworth Building by some cynic tired of looking at his face, tired of hearing him tell the same stories, weary of hearing him talking about himself.

If he survives, however, telephone communication becomes less and less necessary to him as the years go by, because all those who might want to communicate with him have dropped away one by one. He reaches the point where he snarls if the telephone bell rings before noon, and has a terrible time of it being nice to the caller, if the caller is somebody he has to be nice to.

Finally he reaches the conclusion that there is only one worth while person in the world—himself. He lives with himself quietly and contentedly for a while, and of course has now no need at all for a telephone.

* * *

Then comes the final, inevitable, horrible discovery. He realizes that he is only a piece of cheese, too, like all the rest of them. He realizes that he has made a terrific error and should have pushed himself off the pier.

Sorrowfully, he invites himself to take a midnight walk along the river and at the first opportune pier he tries to give himself a push.

No, Mr. Sullivan of University 8496. When they telephone and ask for us, just tell them we'll have the money by the first of the month sure. Then hang up.

FRANK SULLIVAN.

SCENERY AND SIGNBOARDS

A Vision of Travel from New York to Washington.

PASSING through the tunnels and leaving behind us the surging metropolis of New York, we find ourselves traversing the flat, marshy land of Eastern New Jersey, where 100 rooms, each with a bath, can be had from $1.50 up. The scenery is not without its charm—the sunken valley of the Hackensack and the Passaic, the waving rushes and meandering streams suggest to the poetic mind, why not try Grip-Tight Garters?

The ground rises, a varied growth of elm and oak replaces the lowland flats, and we find ourselves in the rich farm land of New Jersey filled with fluid beef, which acts directly on the liver. Here Humpo may be had for breakfast, and mixed with a little Vitamingo, will probably prolong our life for 20 years.

Nor need we do anything further than—seated just where we are in our luxurious club car—merely remember the name Humpo, which in any case comes on every packet and without which the packet is not genuine. Indeed, a simple way is to ask the porter to be good enough to remember Humpo.

But stop—in our absorption in the view of Humpo, we have lost an opportunity to Build Our Own Home by merely paying a hundred dollars down.

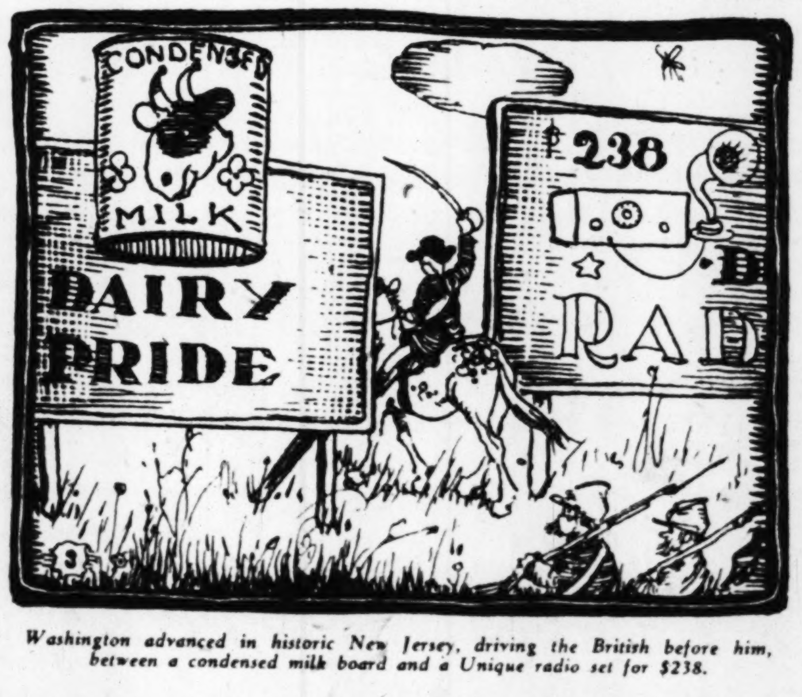
* * * * * *

We are passing now through historic country. We do not need our guidebook to tell us that it is through this beautiful farm district of New Jersey that Washington slowly advanced, driving the English before him. He made his way between a big condensed milk board and a Unique radio set for $238. He picked his steps with evident caution, avoiding coats and pants for men of all sizes, for his trained strategic eye detected an opening between Chow Chow pickles and Malted Extract of Codfish.

This gap had apparently been overlooked by General Howe, and Washington threw himself into it; a notice on a large board, erected evidently by some historical society, shows that he probably enabled himself to do this by taking exercises on the floor of his bedroom for not more than 10 minutes every morning with the new Musselbild Apparatus, which could have been sent to Washington by mail on receipt of a money order or which he could have obtained from his local dealer.

The interesting fact in this connection is that the British General Howe, had he known it, could also have secured a Musselbild from his local dealer, as they are handled in all parts of the country. Had Howe done this and had they both used the Slide-Easy Suspenders that are on each side of the line of the American advance, the struggle of the Revolution might have moved up and down without the slightest friction and with no sense of fatigue.

But look! Our train is moving into Trenton, one of the most historic spots in America, where we realize with a thrill by looking out of the window that if we need a slight tonic we can secure it from any local dealer for 19 cents. Our swiftly moving train is now rushing along the shores of the Delaware, and we can see the very spot where Washington and his men crossed in the rude December of 1777; we can shrewdly guess from the notices that have been reared to mark the spot that they used Skid-Non Chains, which prevented them from skidding or slipping, and that they had at least an opportunity to reserve rooms with or without baths, on the American plan.



Washington advanced in historic New Jersey, driving the British before him, between a condensed milk board and a Unique radio set for $238.

We realize as our train rushes forward that we are approaching Philadelphia; rooms with baths, breakfast foods, pills and non-skid garters multiply on every hand. If we decide to buy a Complete Nobby Suit, with an extra pair of pants, we are going to have an opportunity to get it. Or should we need, in order to view the historic spots of interest connected with America's first capital, a Sit-Soft Collar, there are men here, local dealers, who will be glad to sell it to us.

* * * * * *

We have rushed past the city of the great Franklin (inventor, no doubt, of the Franklin shoe, the Franklin underwear, and the Franklin adjustable monkey-wrench for stout women), and are now speeding through the open country again. Here for a short time the scenery becomes somewhat monotonous; there is nothing on either hand but deep green woods, open meadows filled with hay (of what brand and whether good for breakfast we are not informed), and the rolling hills and shaded valleys of the Appalachian slope.

Now and then in the distance we catch a glimpse of the sea—unadvertised, it appeared, and put to no use whatever. We cross on an endless bridge the broad flood of the Susquehanna, an unused river, so far as we can judge, lying in the gloomy sunshine, with no touch of color more brilliant than the mere blue of the sky or the poor green of the woods.

* * * * * *

The scene improves as we go forward. The notices of the boards are at a little distance now and we cannot read the words, but the pictures still appear. We are passing through a country of bulls. This, this must be —Washington! With our faces eagerly set to the window, we draw near to the national capital; the speed of the train somewhat confuses and blurs our vision and mixes the imagery of the scenery together.

But we infer even from our hurried view of the outskirts of the capital that if any bull wants silk hosiery that neither rips nor tears, he is exactly in the right place for it; and that Washington is exactly in the center of the yeast district, the canned soup area, that all the great modern medical inventions such as Humpo, Jumpo and Anti-Wheeze are sold there, and that we can get all the soap we want—in short, look about us—here are rooms with beds at $1.50! Meals a la carte, suspenders, garters, ice cream in the block, radios, gramophones, Elixir of Life, funeral directors open all night, real estate, bungalows, breakfast foods—

In truth—this is America indeed.

PARIS.

A PARTY of American Legion delegates were visiting the famous Chemin des Dames Battlefield the other day when they accidentally came across one of the most extraordinary sights in France. It was a farm, but such a super-modern one that few of them had ever seen anything even in the United States to compare with it.

Remembering the type of farm buildings they had seen so often in Northern France during the war—the old thatched cottage, the tumble-down barn and the manure pile in the front yard—the former members of the A. E. F. thought they were dreaming when they turned a corner about nine miles from Soissons and drove into the spacious and spotlessly clean courtyard of a group of fine new stone buildings which proved to be the headquarters of a 2000-acre farm, representing an investment of $200,000, employing 60 farmhands, using the most modern machinery and methods and containing every convenience imaginable.

The De la Royere property, which is in the very heart of the Red Zone of combat during the war, is a perfect symbol of the resurrection and reconstruction of Northern France.

When, after the armistice, the farmers returned to their homes on this bloody plateau called Chemin des Dames, the scene was almost indescribable. Infantry fighting and bombardment had been almost continuous over the ground for four years and there was not even enough left of villages or isolated farmhouses to identify them. The whole plateau was crisscrossed by deep trench systems and barbed wire barricades. There were huge craters caused by shells and mines. The fields were littered with shell fragments and unexploded shells, or "duds." Thousands of bodies had been buried under a few inches of earth, and the horses killed there had never been buried at all.

The trees were gone and the clover had been choked out by different kinds of rank weeds which had never been seen in that part of the country before. The wells stank and the air was heavy with the odor of decaying things. The soil was poisoned by the huge quantity of metal and poison gas. The roads had completely disappeared. The drainage systems were obliterated and in winter the trenches and shell holes were filled with water.

The only living things for mile after mile across the Chemin des Dames were crows—thousands and thousands of them. It was the abomination of desolation. It was sinister beyond words.

IN SPITE of the discouraging prospect a number of families returned to the district in the spring of 1919, taking their food and water with them, but they found the task of cleaning up almost insuperable.

The farmers were penniless, as the Government had not yet commenced to pay damage claims. It took months, sometimes, to clear away the barbed wire, and even longer to level off the trenches. The fields were full of unexploded shells and mines which blew many a plowman and his horses to pieces. The soil needed fertilizers, but the farmers could not afford to buy them. It was the same with fruit trees and grape vines. The farmers and their families had to live in caves or shanties, and in the end most of the older generation lost heart and died.

In 1920 this Red Zone across the Chemin des Dames, which was like a gaping wound in the side of France, was still in such a hopeless state the Government formally decided to expropriate it and let it remain as it was.

The decision caused a violent protest. The farmers were deeply attached to their soil, which in many cases had belonged to their families for hundreds of years, and they went right ahead with the reconstruction, clearing the ground yard by yard. The Government eventually paid out damages with a liberal hand, believing that Germany would reimburse it, and the little seventeenth and eighteenth century thatched farm buildings, with their miserable living quarters, crude machinery and lack of modern conveniences, were replaced by establishments which compare favorably with farms in America.

The crows disappeared and larks sang songs of victory for the resurrection. Life had triumphed over death.

An outstanding example of this resurrection is the Ferme de la Royere, which is on the very top of the bloody and strategic plateau.

The property was an excellent farm of 500 acres before the war, but when Monsieur Leduc, the owner, returned in 1919 the buildings, implements, cattle and roads had disappeared, and the fields were a desert of barbed wire, trenches, shell holes and the litter of war.

Monsieur Leduc broke his heart trying to clean up the place, and when he died Emile Morizet, a practical farmer, bought the farm with the aid of an agricultural loan society and added two adjoining places, making a total of about 2000 acres. The cultivated land in this region is now valued at about $50 an acre.

Monsieur Morizet decided to build the most up-to-date farm buildings possible and Joseph Gandelot, an architect of Soissons, drew up the plans after studying modern farm buildings in other countries.

THE buildings in the main group are all of stone and are arranged in the shape of a hollow square, with a large courtyard in the center. At the right of the entrance is the home of the farm manager, a two-story stone house of eight rooms with bath, telephone, electricity and other conveniences, and at the left is a similar building housing the canteen that supplies the provisions of all kinds for the 60 farmhands.

In the same square are the horse and cow stables, the sheepfold, pig pen and chicken house, as well as separate barns for hay, wheat and sugar beets. There is also a hospital for sick animals, a blacksmith shop and a dairy.

The buildings are several yards apart in order to lessen the fire danger. The floors of the stables are in concrete and are cleaned by flushing, the water running into a manure pit. The horses and cows are fed from the upper floor. All the buildings have rolling doors. The interior woodwork is of oak and fir. The roofs are slate. The buildings are lighted by electricity, as an electric power company's lines pass near the farm.

In the immense courtyard there is a cement water tower 39 feet high which provides drinking water and also supplies the fire protective system. The water is pumped there by a hydraulic ram in a nearby spring.

The feed is distributed to the different stables on a little narrow-gauge railway that runs the entire way around the courtyard, and manure is sometimes taken out in the same way. The railway also serves to transport heavy loads of all sorts from one building to another, and is extremely useful. The rails are sunken.

Besides the main group of buildings there is a kind of storehouse and machinery building on the east side, which is equipped with all the necessary machines for threshing wheat, crushing sugar beets, sawing wood and chopping feed for the animals, the power supplied by gasoline motors.

On the west side there is a group of three villas which are big enough for six married farmhands, or 12 in an emergency. The unmarried men sleep over the stables and have their own dining room.

Due to the labor shortage in France, nearly all the men employed on the Ferme de la Royere are Poles, and signs placed about the farm are in two languages—French and Polish. During the war, signs in French or in English could be seen on one side of the front, and signs in German on the other. Now the days of peace have brought still another tongue to the region which is beginning to smile again after the throes of war.

The manure pile is arranged in a new way. It is placed in a big concrete pit outside the courtyard and is covered with a roof, as the cattle are kept there and fed there when they are not out on the grass. In that country manure is valued almost like gold, and not a pound is ever lost.

The construction of this fine group of buildings cost 2,500,000 francs, which is $100,000 at the present rate of exchange, but the same establishment would probably cost twice as much in the United States.

With 2000 acres of land valued at 1200 francs an acre, this farm represents an investment today of almost 5,000,000 francs, without including the animals and machinery. The annual return only amounts to about 150,000 francs, or 3 per cent on the present value, but the farm is not in full production yet. The owner expects to earn 5 or 6 per cent eventually.

IN REALITY, the owner paid far less than the present value of the land, and he probably is earning a fair revenue on his original investment. On the other hand, it was very expensive to clear the land, and in the end it may have cost him almost as much as it is worth today. He also received big war damages, and all these complications make it difficult to figure out the financial side of the enterprise, but the owner is satisfied.

The principal crops are wheat and sugar beets, but the farm also produces a large quantity of potatoes and seed grain of all sorts.

At present, the sugar beets are crushed at the farm and the debris is fed to the cattle during the winter, but a railway is being built to a sugar factory a mile away, and in the future the beets will be sent there. The farm will get back the debris for the cattle.

The livestock consists of 20 horses, 30 cows, 200 sheep and from 100 to 200 pigs.

Watch For Them and Laugh With Them

"Well, look here, Kate," he said, "between you and me, that necklace is a fake."

PETER BRAGG picked up a letter from the heap by his side.

"A distinguished client is arriving within a few minutes," he announced to his friend and partner, the Hon. George Vincent Angus, "to consult us as to the loss of a diamond necklace."

"Who is the Johnny?" Angus demanded. "Do I know him?"

"It is possible that you may," his partner admitted. "It is the Duke of Cumberland."

"Good old Rattles!" Angus exclaimed. "So he's been stung. Any particulars?"

"None whatever," Peter Bragg replied, exhibiting the letter. "His secretary writes that his grace will call at 10:30 this morning to consult me as to the possible recovery of a missing diamond necklace."

"Half past ten already," Angus observed. "And here's the Duke."

The Duke was ushered in—a still youthful-looking man, a little tired about the eyes, but bearing his 42 years well enough. He shook hands stiffly with Peter Bragg and recognized Angus with surprise.

"Hullo, George!" he exclaimed. "What are you doing here?"

Peter Bragg coughed. He was flattered that his partner should be on such intimate terms with his distinguished client, but he thought it time to assert himself.

"Concerning this loss of your grace's," he began.

"It's an annoying business," the Duke confided. "I dare say Angus here will appreciate the situation more precisely even than you. These are the facts: Last Wednesday I gave a party at Cumberland House. It wasn't altogether a Bohemian party, but it was of that order. You follow me, Mr. Bragg?"

"Perfectly," Peter Bragg assented. "I gather that her grace was not present."

"Her grace," the Duke continued dryly, "is on her way home from India. She will arrive within 10 days. It is for that reason that the matter concerning which I have come to see you is somewhat urgent."

Peter Bragg nodded. The Duke accepted a cigarette from Angus' case and lit it.

"WE DANCED and played the usual jinks," the Duke continued. "Late in the evening I showed some of my guests the contents of my jewel chest. A lady who is a friend of mine persisted in trying on a certain diamond necklace, an heirloom, of which my wife is very fond. Rather foolishly, I let her keep it for a time. Twice during the evening I asked her to take it off, and each time she begged to be allowed to wear it a little longer. In the end she slipped away without saying good night to me, and when, as the last of my guests were leaving, I was called to the telephone, she spoke to me from her house in Hertford street. I need not detail the conversation. She told me that I owed her a birthday present, which was perfectly true, and that she had decided to keep the necklace. Then she rang off."

"Have you made any attempt to see her since?" Peter Bragg inquired.

"Naturally. I have been to see her twice—once with my lawyer. She simply treats the affair as a tremendous joke."

The Duke was ushered in—a still youthful-looking man, a little tired about the eyes, but bearing his 42 years well enough. He shook hands stiffly with Peter Bragg and recognized Angus with surprise.

"Hullo, George!" he exclaimed. "What are you doing here?"

Peter Bragg coughed. He was flattered that his partner should be on such intimate terms with his distinguished client, but he thought it time to assert himself.

"Concerning this loss of your grace's," he began.

"It's an annoying business," the Duke confided. "I dare say Angus here will appreciate the situation more precisely even than you. These are the facts: Last Wednesday I gave a party at Cumberland House. It wasn't altogether a Bohemian party, but it was of that order. You follow me, Mr. Bragg?"

"Perfectly," Peter Bragg assented. "I gather that her grace was not present."

"Her grace," the Duke continued dryly, "is on her way home from India. She will arrive within 10 days. It is for that reason that the matter concerning which I have come to see you is somewhat urgent."

Peter Bragg nodded. The Duke accepted a cigarette from Angus' case and lit it.

"WE DANCED and played the usual jinks," the Duke continued. "Late in the evening I showed some of my guests the contents of my jewel chest. A lady who is a friend of mine persisted in trying on a certain diamond necklace, an heirloom, of which my wife is very fond. Rather foolishly, I let her keep it for a time. Twice during the evening I asked her to take it off, and each time she begged to be allowed to wear it a little longer. In the end she slipped away without saying good night to me, and when, as the last of my guests were leaving, I was called to the telephone, she spoke to me from her house in Hertford street. I need not detail the conversation. She told me that I owed her a birthday present, which was perfectly true, and that she had decided to keep the necklace. Then she rang off."

"Have you made any attempt to see her since?" Peter Bragg inquired.

"Naturally. I have been to see her twice—once with my lawyer. She simply treats the affair as a tremendous joke."

"Are we," Peter Bragg ventured, "to know the lady's name?"

"I imagine that will be necessary. It is Lady Katherine Somerby. I admit that I'm a good bit to blame. I've flirted with Lady Katherine, and now she thinks I don't dare make a fuss."

"Are Lady Katherine's jewels insured?" Angus asked.

"Not to my knowledge," the Duke replied. "I have never heard her mention the fact."

"Has this little affair," Angus ventured, "interfered with your feeling for her?"

The Duke coughed. "I have not seen Lady Katherine for two days," he admitted. "She has rung up twice. Tonight I was to have dined with her."

"And are you going to?"

"I have not made up my mind."

"Go through with it," Angus begged. "I have the glimmering of an idea, Rattles, although, of course, it may not come to anything. Still, take my advice. It can do no harm. Dine with her and be, as far as you can, your old self. Affect to accept the situation."

LADY KATHERINE was an exceedingly good-natured person, but even she was a little ruffled when she swept into the morning room of her house in Hertford street at 12 o'clock on the following morning to receive her too-early caller. She held out her hand affably enough, but she indulged in a grimace of annoyance.

"My dear George," she protested, "what sort of a person do you think I am? Fancy sending up a card at 11 o'clock'——

"A quarter past," he interrupted.

"A quarter past 11, then—to say that you wished to see me on business. In the first place, what business could you have with me, or anyone else, and in the second place, if you had wanted to see me, why couldn't you have taken me out to lunch or tea and a dance?"

"My dear Kate," Angus explained, "when I sent word to say that I wished to see you on business, it was a perfectly honest statement of facts. We cannot possibly discuss business at lunch or at a tea dansant. Let us finish with the commercial side of the affair, and I am entirely at your disposition."

"Well, that's something," she admitted, with a complacent little sigh. "Now please explain yourself. The word business in connection with you intrigues me."

Angus coughed. "I don't know why it should," he complained. "I am not the eldest son, and, according to the governor, his taxes eat up all his income and a little bit around the corner. However, as you know, we're all doing something nowadays—selling automobiles, champagne or touting for bets. I'm in the insurance business."

Lady Katherine smiled. "The insurance business!" she murmured. "Any business at all for you, George! How sweet! Go on, please, and tell me where I come in."

Angus solemnly opened his pocketbook and produced a card printed that morning at red-hot speed. Lady Katherine read:

"The Honorable George Vincent Angus, Protective Insurance Company, 100 Cornhill, London, E. C."

"What on earth—what does this mean?" she asked. "And what do you protect?"

"You, my dear lady," he said earnestly—"you and your belongings. You from any evil that could possibly happen; your belongings from any possible loss that might accrue to you from their untimely disappearance. Honest, Kate, to cut the gabble, my job is to insure people, and I get a jolly fat commission out of it. I can insure you against death, measles, permanent disfigurement, railway accidents, house burnt over your head, loss of your jewelry, or any other of those trifling misfortunes likely to happen to the modern young woman."

She began to laugh, softly at first, but more heartily later.

"Any luck?"

Angus shook his head gloomily.

"The only thing I'm doing any good with," he confided, "is the jewelry insurance. That is really a good egg. You can wear all your priceless things down at Whitechapel, if you like, and all that happens, if you lose them, is you have the fun of replacing them. I think this insurance-of-jewelry stunt will break my people sooner or later.

"It is this jewelry insurance," Angus went on persuasively, "I should recommend to you, Kate, more particularly than anything. I don't want to bother you about the other things: I expect your agents look after that. Perhaps you have insurance on your jewelry?"

"I haven't—not a penny—never thought it worth while."

"Well, listen. All you have to do is to let me run through your little lot, and you tell me the values, or approximately what you gave for them."

"I didn't buy them all myself," she murmured, glancing reflectively at the ceiling.

"THAT doesn't matter. We can easily get at the values," he assured her. "After that, I lump the things up. Say you've got thirty thousand pounds' worth. I give you a policy. You pay me about a hundred pounds—no hurry about the premium—you can date the check a bit, if you want. And then you can go and lose the whole bally lot and get the boodle."

Lady Katherine was impressed.

"As a matter of fact, George," she confided, "my stock of jewels has been added to very considerably during the last few days."

"All the more reason for you to insure," he persisted, eagerly.

"You see, Rattles rather spread himself the other night," she went on. "He gave me the necklace I have been wanting all my life."

"You don't mean the Madras necklace!" he gasped.

"That's just what I do mean," she admitted triumphantly.

Angus' whistle was long and expressive.

"My dear Kate," he said emphatically, "if you wear that necklace without insuring it, you will commit a positive crime. Have you any idea of its value?"

Her eyes glistened.

"Tell me, George, dear!" she begged.

"I should value that necklace," he pronounced, "at something like twenty-five thousand pounds."

"It's upstairs now in my safe."

"I consider my visit," Angus declared, "to have been a dispensation of Providence. Let your maid bring down the lot. I'll run through them and give you a policy on the spot. Then you'll be safe."

"You're a dear, George," she said, "but the safe is in the wall. You'll have to come up to my room."

They marched up the stairs together. Her maid, who was busy in the room, fetched the keys and brought the cases into the adjacent boudoir. George produced his notebook and made careful note of the various contents. They came at last to the necklace. Lady Katherine took it out of its case almost reverently. She held it up to the light, then passed it over to her companion.

HE TOOK it in entirely the same spirit of veneration. Suddenly his look changed. He lowered the necklace to the table, brought it again to the light, hurried to the window, and stood there for several moments. When he came back a certain limpness in his manner intrigued her.

"What's the matter, George?" she asked.

"Nothing," he assured her. "Nothing at all."

"How much are you going to put the necklace down for in valuation?"

"I really don't know," he answered evasively. "Perhaps—well, why not leave the necklace out?"

She stared at him.

"Leave the necklace out? What do you mean?"

"I don't know," he repeated miserably. "You see, Kate, I'm a pal and all that, but this is a matter of business, isn't it?"

"Well, we're treating it as such, aren't we?" she demanded.

"You wish me to?" he asked wistfully.

"Of course I do."

He had the air of a man making great demands upon his courage.

"Well, look here, Kate," he said, "between you and me, that necklace is a fake."

"Don't be absurd," she scoffed.

"But I know it is a fake," he insisted. "It is a copy of what all the dealers know as the Madras necklace Rattles gave his wife when they were married. You know she's just been out to India?"

Lady Katherine nodded.

"She's on her way back."

"I ask you," George demanded, "would she be likely to have gone out to India, where everyone knows faked jewels from real ones, wearing the copy of the necklace? She took the real one and left this at home. A perfectly natural thing to do. I can't believe, Kate, that Rattles really gave you that as the real thing."

Lady Katherine thought hard for several moments. The softness in her eyes had departed. Her brain was busy. Involuntarily she gave an impression of what she would become in, say, a matter of half a dozen years.

"George," she said, "I can't believe you. Rattles was perfectly furious when I marched off with the necklace and insisted upon sticking to it. He owes me a present, so I helped myself, but he's offered me anything else I liked in its place."

"Perhaps he doesn't know himself," Angus suggested. "The Duchess is no fool, you know."

There was a brief silence. Lady Katherine, with the necklace in her hand, walked to the window and back again. She looked at the gems in the darkness and in the light.

"LOOK here, I'll tell you what!" Angus suddenly exclaimed. "Naturally, as we insure jewels, we've got an expert on the premises. Cleverest chap there ever was! He's never been deceived yet. Let me telephone to him. He knows nothing about the facts. He shall come here—I left him in the office—I should think he could be here in 10 minutes. We'll simply put it to him: Are these real gems or aren't they? That ought to be sufficient, oughtn't it? Personally, it doesn't make any difference to me, but, for your sake, I think it ought to be cleared up."

"For my sake, it shall be," Lady Katherine agreed. "Go into my room and ring up your friend."

"If I thought Rattles dared play me a trick like that!" Lady Katherine murmured, with gleaming eyes.

"My dear Kate," Angus protested earnestly, "don't get away with that idea. I tell you that honestly I don't believe Rattles knows. I'm not acquainted with the Duchess, but that's just the sort of trick she would play on him, and I don't believe, for a moment, she'd go to India without her necklace."

Peter Bragg arrived.

"Mr. Bragg," said Angus, "let me present you to Lady Katherine Somerby. Lady Katherine was on the point of concluding an insurance with me of her jewelry, but she wished me to include a necklace concerning which I feel that I ought to have a second opinion."

"In plain words, Mr. Bragg," Lady Katherine intervened, placing the necklace in his hands, "will you take that to the light or the dark, or wherever you please, and tell me whether those are real gems or imitations? I will tell you frankly that it is supposed to be the Madras necklace, belonging to the Duke of Cumberland."

Mr. Peter Bragg bowed gravely. He took the necklace to the window, stood there for the briefest possible period of time, and returned. He laid the necklace upon the table, with an almost contemptuous flick of the hand.

"This necklace, Lady Katherine," he announced, "consists of gems of artificial manufacture. I think I recognize the maker—a man named Arenfeldt, in Hounslow, who has, once or twice, deceived experts. He has a considerable connection with the aristocracy in duplicating their precious possessions."

Lady Katherine remained quite silent for several seconds. Then she closed the case with a snap.

"You see, Kate," Angus explained apologetically, "I couldn't very well insure that necklace in the policy at anything more than a hundred pounds or so, could I?"

"Naturally not," she admitted. "Send your friend away, please."

Mr. Bragg departed with a curt nod of thanks from Lady Katherine and a stealthy wink from Angus. She then crossed the room toward her writing table.

"Will you execute a little commission for me, George?" she begged.

"Glad to," he answered.

"What did you say the name of your insurance company was?" she inquired.

"The"—Angus made a desperate grab for the card upon the table—"Protective Insurance Company. First class, I can assure you. Never failed to pay a claim yet."

"Very well," she answered, "you can come around again tomorrow morning and bring me a policy. I may have something else to put in then. At present, if you'll be a dear, you'll take this note and the necklace—I'll do it up presently—around to Rattles."

"You won't get me into any trouble with Rattles?" Angus begged nervously. "I want him as a client."

"Certainly not," she assured him.

Lady Katherine dashed off her note, packed up the necklace very tidily, and dismissed her caller.

"If you would like to dance at Claridge's at 4:30"—she suggested.

"I should be delighted."

THE Duke of Cumberland emerged from his town house and paused disconsolately upon the steps, wondering where to lunch, just as Angus drove up in a taxi. He had a small brown paper parcel in his hand. The Duke's eyes were glued upon the packet.

"You haven't got it, George?" he exclaimed.

"Come and see for yourself."

The Duke pushed him into a morning room, tore off the brown paper, and opened the case. The gems of the famous Madras necklace flashed up at him.

"My word, you must be a magician!" the Duke exclaimed.

"Read the letter," Angus suggested.

The Duke opened the envelope and, for his friend's benefit, read the contents aloud:

"Dearest Rattles: Forgive me, please. I couldn't really do such a horrid thing. I think it must have been jealousy. The idea that Mona should always wear the necklace when I wanted it so much maddened me. But you were right. It belongs to her and I mustn't have it. You can give me what you like instead. Those emeralds you spoke of yesterday would be wonderful.

"We dine tonight, of course.

"KATHERINE."

The Duke breathed a huge sigh of relief.

"Tell me, George," he insisted, "how did you manage it?"

Then, for several moments, Angus thought very hard. Rattles was a pal and a good sort; Lady Katherine was an old friend whom he had treated badly. Atonement was due. He came to a great decision.

"Rattles," he confided, "I argued for nearly an hour. I prevailed upon her better nature."

There were tears in the Duke's eyes.

"Dash it all!" he exclaimed. "I'll buy her the emeralds this afternoon. And you—well, come and have lunch, old chap."

By Madame Jeannette de Cordet, Beauty Specialist

PERHAPS you have visited Dresden and know the charm of those amazing shops where row on row of Dresden China figures smile at you with pink cheeks, rosy lips and blue, blue eyes! Then you know what is meant by the Dresden China girl. She has golden hair, and skin like alabaster, with a lovely warmth to its whiteness.

But there are many kinds of blondes—and many kinds of brunettes—and American women are the result of infinite combinations of blondes and brunettes. Behind us is a pageantry of colorful races that have produced the inexhaustible variation of types we find among American girls.

So just to say "I'm a blonde" because your hair is more golden than raven will never answer the important question of your type! It is the coloring of your skin that proclaims your type. The delicate pigmentation that you see when you study your skin closely in the light—that is your real color note. Always accent this natural coloring—never disguise it. The selection of the right shade and tone of powder and rouge brings a surprising amount of added beauty.

Pompeian Beauty Powder and Pompeian Bloom are favored by modern women because they offer a complete range of natural powder shades and rouge tones. The Powder comes in five lovely primary shades—from which, by mixing various combinations, fifteen other beautiful shades can be created.

The five tones of Bloom blend with the Powder in perfect harmony.

Thus, among the shades of Pompeian Beauty Powder and the tones of Pompeian Bloom, you will find the exact complements for your skin. Use them to accent your type and achieve your utmost loveliness.

THE COQUETTE

Her skin is neither light nor dark but is smooth, and "takes on" different coloring depending on her mood and the clothes she wears. For her—the soft Nude shade of Pompeian Beauty Powder with the Medium tone of Pompeian Bloom.

THE ORIENTAL BRUNETTE

Her hair is black, and so are her eyes! Her skin is creamy, like the rich thick petal of a magnolia. Her lips should be rich in color, like a ripe pomegranate. For her—Rachel Pompeian Beauty Powder with the Dark tone of Pompeian Bloom.

Sound Sleep Instantly when you go to bed

Wide-awake Days

Now from Switzerland—a way to restful nights that bring you energetic days—see what 3 days will do

When you go to bed do your nerves stay up? Leaving you dragged out on the morrow—your mornings logy, your energies drained by afternoon?

If so, don't ever take drugs in order to sleep. For even nonhabit-forming narcotics fail to give you restful sleep. They always make you feel "logy" and dull the next day.

Today there is no need for using drugs. For you can now drink a pure food-beverage called Ovaltine that gives you instant, restful sleep. Doctors everywhere recommend it not only because it induces sleep in a natural way, but also because they value so highly its special concentrated food properties which build up and restore your tired mind and body as you sleep.

Hence, morning finds you a new man. You are fresh, clear-eyed, buoyant. You have the energy to carry you right through the day and into the evening.

We offer you here a 3-day test. To let you prove what we claim. Note how much better you sleep, how refreshed you feel when you awaken.

Why Ovaltine brings restoring sleep

Authorities agree that digestive unrest is the main cause of sleeplessness. Ovaltine overcomes this condition in two ways.

First—It digests very quickly itself. Even in cases of impaired digestion.

Second—It has the unusual power of digesting 4 to 5 times its own weight of other foods you eat. Hence, it aids your stomach. Digestion goes on speedily and efficiently. Frayed nerves are soothed. Sound sleep follows.

And as you sleep, the special food properties of Ovaltine also help to restore your tired mind and body. (One cup of Ovaltine has actually more food value than 12 cups of beef extract, 7 cups of cocoa, or 3 eggs.)

That is why, after drinking a cup of hot Ovaltine at night, you awaken in the morning so completely refreshed—abounding with new-found vitality and tireless energy. Note the unsolicited testimonials.

Hospitals and Doctors recommend it

Ovaltine has been in use in Switzerland for over 30 years. Now in universal use in England and her colonies. During the great war it was served as a standard ration to invalid soldiers.

A few years ago Ovaltine was introduced into this country. Today hundreds of hospitals use it. More than 20,000 doctors recommend it. Not only for sleeplessness, but because of its special dietetic properties, they also recommend it for nerve-strain, malnutrition, underweight and delicate children, nursing mothers and the aged.

Make this 3-day test

Just make a 3-day test of Ovaltine. Note the difference, not only in your sleep, but in your next day's energy. You tackle your work with greater vigor. You "carry through" for the whole day. You aren't too tired to go out for the evening. There's a new zest to your work; to all your daily activities. It's truly a "pick-up" drink—for any time of the day.

All druggists sell Ovaltine in 4 sizes for home use. Or they can mix it for you at the soda fountain. But to let you try it, we will send a 3-day introductory package for 10c to cover cost of packing and mailing. Just send in coupon with 10c.

OVALTINE
Builds Body Brain and Nerve

I TOOK "Ovaltine" because I had not been feeling very rested in the mornings. After taking it I felt well rested and the results were very satisfactory. My wife says it's the most pleasant drink she ever drank.
Mr. Chas. Williams
Sussex, N. J.

THE first two weeks use of Ovaltine I gained seven pounds and have never slept and felt better—lots of pep and go—but when I sleep I sure do sleep and feel like a new man when I waken in the mornings. A sure friend for life as long as I am able to pay for it and get so much good from it. Indigestion all gone too.
Earle H. Meyer, Chisholm, Minnesota

GRAY HAIR
when amazing, free test is made

RECENT discoveries have been made about gray hair. Now it's proved that original shade and lustre can be regained by a safe and scientific treatment called Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer. Gray streaks disappear. Faded hair regains youth's color and brilliance.

This clear, colorless liquid restores youthful shade in a way no crude dye could possibly do. No mess. No risk to hair. Nothing to wash or rub off. If hair is auburn it reverts to auburn. If black, black it will be.

Gray hair lacks color pigment. This way gives color that takes its place. 3,000,000 women have used it. This proves its safety. Takes only a few minutes.

We send you free a sample of Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer. You snip off a single lock of your hair and try it first on that. Thus take no chances.

Or go to the nearest drug store today. A few cents' worth restores original color perfectly. Your money returned if not delighted.

So Easy to Lose Fat

"A great number of slender women are telling this story to others. They have done so for two decades. Now you see the results in every circle. Note how slenderness prevails. Excess fat is nowhere near as common as it was.

The story is this: "I took Marmola prescription tablets—four a day. No abnormal exercise or diet was required. New beauty came, new health and vitality. I ceased them when my weight came down to normal. Now I take Marmola only when I start to gain again."

Marmola contains a scientific discovery, based on wide research and thousands of experiments. Men thus found a substance which in the body turns food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat.

Marmola supplies that substance, plus other helps. The complete prescription is in every box, also the reasons for results. Thus you may know just why the good comes, and have no fear of harm.

Marmola has for 20 years brought priceless benefits to people over-fat. Those people have told the results to others, and the use has spread. Millions of boxes have been used to contribute to the slender figures of today.

Go try it for a little time and watch how the fat disappears. Then tell others about it, in kindness to your friends. It means a great deal to many. Go order before you forget it.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

The Pleasant Way to Reduce

Good Fellows and their Wives quickly discovered

BUSCH PALE DRY

the finest mixer that ever came across

WITH amazing rapidity, Busch Pale Dry has become the most popular pal of the thirsty. Good fellows soon discovered that ordinary beverages are transformed into gay, festive delights when Busch Pale Dry nestles with them in the glass.

While their wives soon learned that even the simplest luncheon or dinner is lifted right out of the ordinary when Busch Pale Dry graces the table.

So rapidly has the fame of this wonderful ginger ale spread that today it is the favored drink of those whose good taste divines the most delightful spots in the realm of good things to eat and drink.

And no wonder! For Busch Pale Dry is far superior to any other ginger ale you have ever tasted. It is aged in wooden casks for three solid months! Genuine fruit juices are used in it instead of mere fruit essences. It is double-filtered thru especially constructed stone filters.

The result is a flavor as subtle and satisfying as that of a rare old wine. Color and bouquet like that of fine champagne. And real friendliness for other drinks!

Just for the joy of it, try Busch Pale Dry tonight. Your dealer has it—in single bottles, in splits, in the handy family package of 12 bottles and in cartons of 24. And will deliver. Phone him now.

and Mr. Hile's story of what followed

"A brakeman's out in all kinds of weather and during the heavy blizzard we had last February I got a pretty bad cough. That was some blizzard and boy, it was sure cold! That cough bothered me a lot. Then I saw a REM ad and thought I'd take a shot at it, so I got a bottle at my neighborhood druggist, Weiner's Drug Store at Washington Ave. & West St. It relieved my cough at once and since then I've used it whenever I needed it. My children Dolores and Robert have also used REM with good results. It's fine for a cough."

Grateful users recommend REM. It's different. It clings to your throat, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough. Pleasant to take and perfectly harmless. "Money back," if it doesn't help you.

Insist on REM! Remember, its effectiveness is largely due to a special ingredient, not in ordinary cough syrups.

Regular, but . . .

24 hours late!

"I DON'T know what's the matter with me. I'm certain I'm not constipated," people often say. "I am fortunate in being regular."

But medical science has made new discoveries which show that faulty elimination often exists even when habits are regular.

X-Ray laboratory tests have detected a condition of latent (hidden) constipation. They show that thousands of people though regular—are late. Twenty-four hours—forty-eight hours—even later in some cases.

Cathartics are not the solution, the medical profession says. The way back to perfect health is through the use of corrective food.

Fleischmann's Yeast is a food—as fresh as the growing vegetables in your own garden. It cleanses the entire intestinal canal, makes elimination easier, more complete, prompt.

Buy two or three days' supply at a time from your grocer and keep it in any cool, dry place. Eat three cakes regularly every day, one cake before each meal or between meals; plain, or dissolved in water, cold or hot (not scalding).

For stubborn cases of constipation physicians say to take one cake with a glass of hot water (not scalding) before each meal and at bedtime. Eat Yeast faithfully, regularly, for three months. You will be amazed at the way your system has been toned up. Send for our latest booklet on Yeast in the diet. Dept. N-943, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York City.

Minneapolis, Minn.

"My work as a plumbing and heating contractor makes physical fitness essential. But heretofore I felt run down and sluggish. I dreaded work. I was badly constipated. I had tried cathartics and other treatments. But everything had failed. Then, I discovered this wonderful fresh food, Fleischmann's Yeast. Now I feel like an entirely different person—thanks to that inexpensive and pleasant remedy. I can't give too much praise to Fleischmann's Yeast."

Another Step Forward in IMPROVED COLOR PRINTING

These Colors are used on all Comic pages in these Two Sections

THE Two Comic Sections of the Post-Dispatch are now printed in four colors on ALL pages instead of four colors on only the outside pages as formerly.

¶ This improvement is made possible by the recent installation of a press capable of printing sixteen pages at one time with four colors on each page—the last word in letter-press color printing machinery.

¶ This new press is the third to be installed by the Post-Dispatch as a means of improving the color printing of the Comic Sections.

¶ It is interesting to contrast this new press with the first newspaper color press west of the Mississippi—employed by the Post-Dispatch to print its comics—more than 30 years ago. That first color press was built to print a four-page section, of which the inside pages could be printed only in one color—and that was usually red.
